NEW MAIL.

In presenting our wheels for 1891, no introduction is necessary. New Mails have passed their experimental years and have gained a Reputation throughout the entire country for Strictly High Quality. No wheel in the market is its superior in Construction and Material. All parts are interchangeable, and every wheel passes the strictest inspection before shipment.

By this care in construction and nicety in every detail, New Mails have stood the severest tests and won many leading events in road and path competitions. Mr. Murphy rode a New Mail Ordinary 12,890 miles in two years and gave a splendid testimonial.

Beers rode a New Mail Safety 8368 miles in one season, winning the medal for long distance riding of that year, and also testified to its splendid qualities. Such performances and testimonials from such judges of wheels are convincing proofs of the worth of cycles.

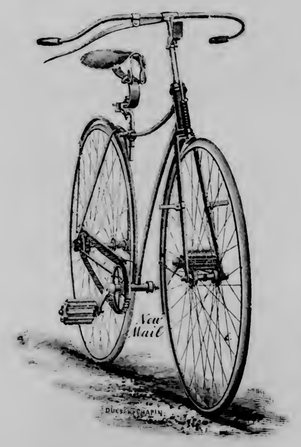
The New Mail has features which are found in NO OTHER MAKE and which we claim are IMPROVEMENTS, and these should be considered by a purchaser in deciding his mount.

Every point has been studied to obtain an EASY RUNNING and a TRUE RUNNING wheel, and we believe these qualities are accorded to the New Mail, while also we think it is conceded to be the HANDSOMEST SAFETY MADE We believe Cushion Tires are a great improvement for annulling jar and vibration, and they will be very popular. After long tests with many, we have adopted a cushion tire, 1 1-8 inch, which gives elasticity and life to the wheel, but does not flatten out as larger and softer tires are apt to do. Our cushion tires have been found right for road work by actual tests

Surely see a New Mail before deciding on your mount.

NEW MAIL

AT $135.00.



Spring Fork, very easy. A direct vertical Spring, allowing front wheel to run perfectly true, with no side swaying, no yielding of forks sideways; a coiled spring inside column. Straight Front Fork, causing front wheel to run steadier than a curved fork.

Rear Axle Band Brake, especially endorsed this year by English reports as the Best Brake for Cushion Tires. Cannot cut the tire nor spatter mud on the chain, which is always a care to keep clean. Very powerful, a splendid improvement. Only wheel with Trigwell Ball Bearing Head,—controlled by us. Our own shape Handle Bars, low and well back to rider, very popular and the most graceful bar in the market. Cushion or Solid tires, as preferred. Tangent Spokes, strongly tied and nickelled to intersections. Ball Bearing throughout. Favorite Garford Saddle, very easy.

THE KING

—FOR—

STRENGTH

EVERY rider who has an Eclipse bicycle will tell you that it is the best wheel he has ever ridden. He will also tell you that he can ride the Eclipse three times as long as any other wheel he knows of, without re-adjusting the bearings. The Eclipse is the only wheel on the market that has the cones so arranged as to revolve on the shaft and which are not screwed to the shaft by threads.

Do not make a mistake and buy until you have seen the Eclipse, with its elegant spring fork and the saddle that is unequalled

Strictly high grade and material and workmanship the best.

CYCLING

FOR

Health and Pleasure.

Chapter V.

The rapidly increasing number of competitors in athletic sports, and particularly in cycle racing, make the publication of competent advice on TRAINING very timely. The subject is gone into at length in this chapter, in which the principal writer on the subject is freely quoted. After a few preliminary remarks of explanation, Cortis, a physician and successful racing man, speaks for himself. In fact, all the principal parts of Cortis's little work on Training is quoted; so that this chapter alone is a complete guide to intending competitors in cycle racing. It expounds clearly the fundamental principles on which proper and perfect training must rest.

L. A W AND A. A. U. IN CONFERENCE.

James R. Dunn, Esq., Chairman L. A. W. Committee:

My Dear Sir—I send herewith for your approval and signature the report which I have prepared to the full committees of our organizations and which embodies, I think, the result of our several conferences upon the subject of amateur expenses and prizes.

Referring to the suspensions of certain bicyclists by the L. A. W., which subject was discussed at the first meeting of the committees, I think I may indulge the hope that with the rules which we have now formulated there can be no misunderstanding as to what expenses an athlete may and may not receive, and consequently no friction upon that score between the bodies of which we are representatives.

At the outset of the first conference of our committees I stated, in behalf of my organization, that the "expense" resolution, drawn about a year ago by the joint committees of the A. A. U. and L. A. W., although familiar to some of the A. A. U. clubs was, as investigation shows, never formally adopted, so far as the minutes of the Board of Managers of the A. A. U. record; that it never was sent out to the A. A. U. clubs, or otherwise officially promulgated; and that, as we were informed by those identified with the management of some of our most prominent clubs, the existence of such a rule of expenses as embodied in that resolution was totally unknown to them or their clubs.

In view of these facts and the resulting fact that the A. A. U. and its clubs were primarily responsible for the payment of the expenses which were the ground of these suspensions, and could not, therefore, look with indifference upon the disciplining of its athletes for accepting such expenses, my committee proposed to yours that in order that the conference might proceed to a discussion of the expense question to some purpose, your organization should take steps to remove the suspensions in question.

This was acceded to by your committee upon the condition of our ability to arrive at a uniform agreement regulating expenses allowable to cyclists of both organizations in the future; and in case of the acceptance by the A. A. U. of the rule of expenses laid down in the report, so far, at least, as they apply to cyclists, we shall of course expect your organization to take action accordingly.

I beg that you will indicate whether the above corresponds with your understanding of the matter, and return the report properly signed in case it meets your approval. Yours very truly,

CHARLES F. MATHEWSON,
Chairman A. A. U. Committee.

New York, January 29, 1891.

Charles F. Mathewson, Esq., Chairman of the A. A. U. Committee, city:

My Dear Sir—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of the 29th inst., with the accompanying report, embodying the terms of the proposed agreement between our respective organizations, and which contains, I believe, all the results of our joint labors. I have, therefore, appended my signature to the report, and am ready to submit it to the joint conference and to recommend its adoption by the League of American Wheelmen.

Upon the invitation of the Amateur Athletic Union our committee met yours for the purpose of formulating a joint expense rule for the future, and I cordially reciprocate the hope that with the adoption of these rules the possibility of any misunderstanding, such as has characterized the recent history of amateur athletic sports, may be at an end.

In your letter you refer at some length to the suspensions of certain bicyclists by the League of American Wheelmen for violations of the present rules. The suspensions you refer to having been made between the dates of your invitation and the meeting of the conference were not, strictly speaking, proper subjects for attention at that time, but, as you will remember, we consented to discuss them in the belief that the interests of all would be best subserved by the fullest and freest consideration of all matters having any bearing upon the real question before the conference.

The League of American Wheelmen, I beg to remind you, had every reason to suppose that the joint rule adopted about a year ago had been promulgated through the proper channels in your organization, and I was personally assured of its formal adoption by some members of your board at the time.

I must, therefore, state very distinctly for my organization that the suspensions made by the Racing Board under that rule had the full weight of official sanction and were considered as the legitimate result of the violations complained of.

Recognizing and respecting the good faith of your statement that the adoption of the former rule was not properly made known to some A. A. U. clubs, my committee authorizes me to recommend to the Racing Board, and other proper authorities of the League, that the suspensions above referred to be raised, such action to be predicated upon and in consideration of the adoption by your organization of the rule of expenses laid down by this report.

Very sincerely yours,
JAMES R. DUNN,
Chairman L. A. W. Committee.

To the Conference Committees of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States and the League of American Wheelmen:

Your sub-committee respectfully reports that pursuant to your direction it has formulated the following uniform rules as to amateur expenses and as to prizes, which rules it recommends for adoption by the organizations above named:

PRIZES.

No prizes shall be given by any club or organization, or received by any athlete, except properly inscribed medals, cups, badges, banners, or diplomas and wreaths.

In no meeting or contest held under the laws of the Amateur Athletic Union or League of American Wheelmen shall any prize be offered or awarded to or accepted by the club whose athletes make the highest aggregate score, and no team contests shall be allowed other than base ball, foot ball and other like team contests.

Not more than three prizes in all shall be given in any event or competition (counting a team prize allowed as above as one prize), and said prizes shall not exceed in cost:

1. In club games, open or closed: $20 for first prize, $10 for second and $5 for third

2. In Association championships: $35 for first, $20 for second and $10 for third.

3 In National Championships: $50 for first, $25 for second and $15 for third.

RULES AS TO AMATEUR EXPENSES.

CLUBS of the Amateur Athletic Union and the L. A. W., and of organizations approved by them and no other clubs, may pay, and any actual competitor, member of such clubs may receive the following expenses incurred in National and Association championships:

1. Actual necessary railroad fare (when paid) to place of competition and return to residence or club headquarters.

2 Actual fare (when paid) for one sleeping-car berth, when occupied, for each night's travelling in going to and from such competition.

3. Actual expense of board and lodging at place of such competition for a period embracing not more than one day before the date fixed for and one day after the termination of the events in which such competitor shall have competed, provided expressly that the amount of such expense of board and lodging shall have been actually paid and shall be evidenced by a voucher receipted by the party to whom such amount has been paid.

The above sections are intended to forbid all payment to and receipts of money or other consideration by athletes for any other expenses such as parlor car fare, extra or limited train fare, carriage or hack hire, transportation of apparatus (including cycles), entry fees and all expenses of training and training tables, to exclude the giving by any club or receipt by any athlete, directly or indirectly, of any meals, board, lodging or railroad fare (except as allowed above) without the usual and fair payment therefor, and to forbid payment or receipt of any expenses whatever in case of club games or contests, open or closed; but this shall not prevent clubs from paying directly for actual transportation of such apparatus (other than cycles) to the transportation company, and also of entry fees direct to the organization, association, district or division holding the games or contests.

Undergraduate students training for or competing at contests limited to collegians may, however, receive from their college associations such expenses as are customary with them and are sanctioned by the intercollegiate associations, and oarsmen competing in regattas under N. A. A. O. rules, such expenses in connection therewith as may be allowed by that association.

Every club and organization paying any expenses of, for, or to any athlete, or for transportation of apparatus or entrance fees, shall furnish a statement of the same when required to the Union or League (which ever has jurisdiction), or the Association of the former in which such club is located, and shall also keep a book showing such expenditures with the vouchers therefor, which book and vouchers shall be subject at any time to examination by the League or the Union or such Association.

Athletes violating any of the foregoing provisions as to prizes or expenses shall be liable to penalty or discipline in accordance with constitution, by-laws, rules and regulations of the L. A. W. or A. A. U. and the associations of the latter having jurisdiction.

Your committee deems it proper to say that the above rules were formulated only after a most exhaustive consideration of the general features heretofore agreed upon by the full conferences, and of the effect and scope of the language employed; and it is believed that the meaning of the rules reported is sufficiently clear to make any misunderstanding, either by the organizations themselves or their athletes, impossible.

To the subject of athletes' expenses while in training, your committee directed its most diligent attention, with the result of excluding entirely their allowance. While various arguments of more or less weight are advanced in favor of certain training expenses under certain conditions, it is sufficient to say that your committee was unable to fix any well defined limit if such expenses are to be allowed at all. The moment the line is passed there is no criterion to guide, and a definite ascertainment of whether an athlete is or is not obtaining pecuniary advantage from the receipt of such training expenses is almost impossible of determination. In short, it seems to your committee that such expenses must be wholly cut off, or our organizations must be launched upon a sea whose limits are not and never can be defined, and we may expect a repetition of the abuses and extravagancies of which the appointment of our committees is the result.

On the score of justice too, it has seemed to your committee that if clubs furnish commodious club houses, gymnasia, out-door and athletic grounds and apparatus and conveniences of every character to its athletes, coupled frequently with merely nominal dues, and send such athletes at their club's expense to national and association championships, such athletes should be willing to pay such slight expense for car fare, occasional meals, etc., as may be necessary to give them access to the property and conveniences above mentioned, provided for their use. Your committee is convinced that the little harshness, which in some cases may result from requiring athletes to pay such minor disbursements (to which indeed all other men are subject when in search of amusement or recreation) cannot be compared with the evil results which would accrue from opening or leaving open the way to the payment of board, lodging, etc., of athletes while in training, however faithful may be the attempt to define a limit of such payment when once they are authorized. Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES F. MATHEWSON.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.

"TREB."

AT this writing all interest is centred in the contest in the wheelmen's bowling league, which will be rolled on Thursday evening at Newark between the Atalanta Wheelmen and the New York Bicycle Club, as this game will, while not ending the tournament, virtually decide the winner. Both clubs are now tied for first place, and Thursday's game being in the Atalanta's alleys, will probably result in their favor, and again give to them the championship which they have held for two consecutive seasons.

AT the Brooklyn's home on last Monday evening there assembled a jolly crowd to participate in the euchre party given by the club. Handsome prizes were awarded the successful players, and dancing held full sway until an early hour in the morning.

THE Kings County Wheelmen, while not having yet finished their handicap billiard tournament which has been dragging since last winter, have commenced a handicap pool tournament There are eight entries, and from the interest at present manifested, there is a possible chance of the series of games being completed before next season.

THE three highest men in the progressive euchre party of the Long Island Wheelmen now under way at their club house, are R. Evans, with 95 games to his credit, and Carl C Alden and F. S. Bogart closely following.

IN spite of the present dismal outlook for the athletic clubs taking up bicycling to any large extent this season, it is learned that Jack Schoefer of the Brooklyn Bicycle Club, at one time a Berkeley man, intends representing the N. Y. A. C. on the path this season. For what reason he discards his old standby, the "Dragon," is unknown. Many other men profess that they will ride for athletic clubs, which does not indicate any abatement of last season's work.

THE Kings County Wheelmen will hold a reception at their club house Saturday evening.

THE Manhattan Bicycle Club has wisely determined to have their game with the Harlem Wheelmen on last Thursday investigated. Although the decision was, after much wrangling, given to the Harlem team, it was done so under protest, as it was almost impossible to conceive how the Manhattans lost. This is another case of the Harlem's tactics being disliked by their opposing clubs.

LADIES' RECEPTION ROOM.

SINCE I last wrote you I have been over the sea and among other things saw some of the famous cycling factories.

We were in Coventry, the birthplace of cycles and cycling, and I spent many an hour in the factory of James Starley, the inventor of the first spider wheel, the father of cycling, the first maker of ladies' wheels.

It is now Starley Bros., and very kind and cordial they were to me, listening to all my ideas and taking some of the conceit out of me, but at the same time admitting that we American girls lead the world for our riding and for the number of us who ride.

The Englishman and Englishwoman ride in a way radically opposed to our style. They put their saddles far back and lean far forward (in our racers' style) and scorch the entire time.

The Englishwoman does not coast, but she can climb hills and does, with her nose almost on her handle bar and her elbows at a very acute angle.

My own machine being only under way one of the Coventry riders was so good as to lend me his sister's machine, and after adjusting it I mounted as usual and found myself the centre of an admiring crowd asking me to do it again. Then when I rode off erect they all laughed at me, but gradually came round to saying that it looked much better, but I couldn't begin to keep up with the run.

After that of course I would have died rather than have acknowledged that I was beaten, and though I had not ridden for a couple of months I did manage to do well enough, as compared with the girls' performances, for the men to acknowledge that my position did not interfere with my "getting there."

Of course the machine I brought home with me is a cushion tire (tyre the Englishmen call it) and I liked it immensely the little I rode it there, as it was only ready for me a few days before we left. I shall not give an exposition of my views on the subject yet, though of course I know the cycling world is just waiting to hear them before it flops, as I have not had time or weather since I reached home to give it a good trial. I had a delicious spin over the road from Coventry to Warwick the only sunny day we had in England, and would give much if I could have so timed my visit as to escape the rainy season and have some runs, for the roads there are wonderful; one has to see to believe.

The smooth, level road, the beautiful trees and the quaint little villages we passed, with the enticing little "pubs," where we dropped in for tea, where in a low-roofed room the landlord's pretty daughter (they were always pretty wherever we stopped) brought us in such a mighty piece of beef as I never saw here, thinnest shavings of bread and butter, with the accompaniment of tea and celery, made excursions so delightful and unique that I want a whole season of it. We went for several drives to Kenilworth, Warwick Castle, and all about there, but though I enjoyed them immensely I yearned for sunshine and a wheel to see England properly and only look on the fun as postponed for a little.

Before I stop I want to acknowledge through these columns a very kind letter from Dr. Barker, in which he says he endorses my saddle views, has had one put on his wife's wheel and would not change it for a "carload of —— saddles." PSYCHE.

BICYCLE THIEVES CONVICTED.

Editor Bicycling World: On November 7th, 1890, two parties giving the names of Philip Ferris and Jno. Harcourt rented two bicycles from Geo. S. Atwater & Co., Washington, D. C. They failed to return the machines, and Mr. Atwater immediately wired the police of the surrounding towns to look out for them. The parties were arrested at Richmond, where they were trying to sell the machines, brought back to Washington, waived the examination in the Police Court, and were committed to jail. Harcourt succeeded in securing bail and was released. This morning the case was called in the Criminal Court, and Harcourt failed to put in an appearance. Ferris pleaded guilty to the indictment and was sentenced to eighteen months in the Albany Penitentiary.

Yours, etc., GEO. S ATWATER & Co.

THE annual banpuet of the Capital Bicycle Club of Washington, D. C., took place on Saturday evening, January 31. About eighty persons were present, the rooms were very prettily decorated, and the whole affair was pronounced by those present to have been one of the greatest social successes in the annals of the club.

THE Citizens Bicycle Club of New York City will hold its annual dinner the latter part of February.

A NUMBER of young ladies residing in New Bedford, Mass., devoted enthusiasts of the wheel, have organized themselves into a cycle club to be known as the Larks.

VICTOR CUSHION TIRES.

This tire is the summing up of our six years' experience with cushion tires. We began when the field was new, when we were the only ones who had faith in such devices.

We believe that this tire will meet all requirements and be found to be far better than any other device.

We have tried it for months on good and bad roads, under all kinds of conditions, and are prepared to say that it is a thorough success. It is guaranteed to be right; is past the experimental stage and will not disappoint the rider who pins his faith to it.

We congratulate ourselves and the riding public on the acquisition of this great improvement for the year 1891.

Victor Cushion Tires will be furnished by us to all wheels, except front wheels mounted in Victor spring forks. These tires will be in one and one-eighth inch, one and one-quarter inch and one and one-half inch, and will be furnished with Victor bicycles without extra charge.

We beg to call the attention of bicyclers to the fact that we have never made an extra charge for high grade devices on Victor bicycles and shall not begin now.

We have a large stock of solid tires on hand, and shall be pleased at all times to supply riders with these tires if through lack of confidence or information they are inclined to adopt them.

We will mail cabinet photographs of any of our five new model Victors for '91 on receipt of 15 cents each.

BOSTON, 13 FEBRUARY, 1891.

WE presume we make a mistake in paying any attention to the irresponsible yapping of Mr. Robbins of Chicago. This youngster's ravings please him and do not hurt us. He is enjoying a little brief prominence he could obtain in no other way. We would like above all things to see this windy spouter lead an assault upon the "Ring." It is a pity he cannot attend the National Assembly and be brought to a realization of his own insignificance. He cannot imagine the pleasure it would afford us to witness the spectacle of this great detective and discoverer rushing at the "Ring" only to go through it and find that it is hollow. He would be like the King of France in that nursery rhyme who "marched up the hill with forty thousand men and then marched down again."

MR. ROBBINS begs the question. He does not come up to the scratch. He injudiciously, boldly and recklessly asserted that a certain unsuspended rider was as guilty as those who have fallen under the ban of the Racing Board. He alleged with his characteristic verbosity and exuberance that the Racing Board was so dominated with Ring rule that it did not dare to suspend this man from Chicago. We called upon him to prove his assertion. Why didn't he do it? Why does he crawl under the cover of a two column article? Does he think like the ostrich that because his head is hidden his body is not seen?

MR. ROBBINS says he has discovered the "missing link." We can quite believe that he has. We too have lately had a suspicion that it had been found.

IT is always well to notice the source from which certain news and revelation of marvellous facts (?) emanate, and never was a case more marked than in this remarkable effusion of the aforesaid Mr. Robbins. We all know what the Good Book says about a prophet being without honor in his own country? A trip around Chicago would indicate the fitness and justice of the quotation as applied to the author of the article under discussion.

"AND now Mr. Secretary-Editor, do you candidly believe that I am intoxicated by the exuberance of my own verbosity." The Secretary-Editor refuses to answer this leading question, not because he is afraid of wounding the feelings of Mr. R., but because of a feeling of uncertainty as to the real cause of the intoxication.

"WHERE in the world are all the cycles which will be put on the market this year going to?" said a cycler to us the other day. Don't be worried about that my friend, the powers of absorption in this country for bicycles has not commenced to reach its limit yet. One might just as well wonder where all the pianos go to, or where is the market for sewing machines? Isn't the world supplied and glutted with these and hundreds of other goods? Not at all!! Piano factories thrive and sell instruments, while the sewing machine industry manages to exist on a very profitable basis, and when it is considered that pianos and sewing machines are practically good for a life time, which cycles are not, it can be discerned by the thoughtful that we have by no means reached the limit of demand. Not only that, but for many years to come the increased supply will stimulate the demand, and just now at any rate we need not lay awake nights worrying over the possibility of the present supply of cycles glutting the market.

AS compared with England the cycling manufacturing output of the United States is but small, and while the reason may be advanced that the splendid roads of England create a demand for cycles, we put against that theory the fact that our population is much larger and money among the "middle and laboring classes" of America much more plentiful. It is true we don't have the roads, but "we have the men and money too." The country is ready to receive and absorb the apparently enormous output for 1891. although to the uninitiated it does look big.

THE majority of votes will go on to Washington this week unpledged, so that it leaves the result as to the election of Mott or Burdette an open question. There will be some lively caucus work done next Sunday in the Capital and the delegates will have their ears filled with grievances and counter grievances ad infinitum. Mr. Dunn and Dr. Brown are pretty sure of election and the contest will come on the New Jersey and Connecticut representatives. From the fact that Mr. Burdette's friends have been quite active, while Mr. Mott's have been rather passive, the indications point to the gentleman from the "Nutmeg" State.

ONE of the most complete works on "Road Making and Maintenance and Road Laws" is that published by the committee of the Pennsylvania University. It is a compilation of essays on the above subject for which prizes were offered and awarded through the University of Pennsylvania by a committee of public spirited citizens of Philadelphia. As a hand-book of road making it will prove the standard. It should be in the hands of every road engineer and road builder. It really contains more solid information on this subject than any one work we have ever seen. The compilers, Messrs. Lewis M. Haupt, A. M., C. E., and Wm. H. Rhaum, chairman, have shown excellent work in the editorial work of the book.

THE National Committee on Rights and Privileges has settled the vexed question in Massachusetts politics. What promised to be a muddle and a snarl is now so clear and straight as to be almost uninteresting. It has been decided that neither the delegation elected in September nor that appointed by late Chief Consul Emery is entitled to credentials. Fortunately for Massachusetts it had a clear headed Division Committee, and acting on its advice elected new delegates at a meeting held in January. This latter delegation will be admitted, and the old Bay State will poll its full strength.

IT is is not generally known to our readers that the great Stanley show originated as a social affair. Wheeling says:

"In the early days of the Stanley it occurred to that club that in giving an evening soiree they might add a little interest to the proceedings by exhibiting some machines which had been manufactured by the makers of the day for the coming season. The success of the idea was so great that next year the show partook more of the nature of an exhibition and less of a convesazione, and in the third year the frivolous part of the performance was entirely given up, and since that date the Stanley Show has been a purely business and certainly well managed exhibition."

It's very evident that the original promoters never dreamed of the wonderful outcome of that first soiree.

The Stanley Show of 1891 is past and gone and has been remarkable for the absence of radical changes in construction. A feature of the show, if we may so refer to it, was that a vast number, if not all, of the largest and leading makers of England were conspicuous by their absence. The number of exhibitors was over 200, while the non exhibitors number about 150.

A careful perusal of the detailed description of the exhibit show a dreary monotony of similarity. The diamond frame seems to have still further grown in favor with the makers as well as the riders. The individual who so warmly asserted that the safety was doomed and the ordinary was again coming into popularity will find cold comfort in the object lesson taught by the Stanley Show. Practically, and almost literally, the ordinary "was not in it."

PHILADELPHIA is to have a pocket edition of the Stanley Show, commencing March 2 and ending March 7. The Quaker City is to be praised for its enterprise and Boston is to be criticised for its lack of same in not securing what we hope to see as a permanent annual event. The trade in this country has now reached a sufficent size as regards numbers to make a by no means discretitable showing. During the League meet in Boston in 1886 the Boston Bicycle Club managed a show of cycles and at that exhibition there were 15 exhibitors of cycles. It is safe to say that Philadelphia will have at least fifty or sixty exhibitors of cycles alone to say nothing of accessories and cycling sundries. There is no doubt but that it will be largely attended by cyclers from all over the country, and Philadelphia can be congratulated in advance for having scored a success.

OUR editorial last week on the aluminum question has created some comment and caused a few to write to us direct. One correspondent says:

"I could not resist the temptation to call your attention to the fact that aluminum is now being tempered so they are able to get a 'cutting edge' with it."

Another one remarks:

"The laugh would be more justifiable if you had stated—as you might have done with the utmost truth—that even weight for weight steel is somewhat more rigid than aluminum. But 'what I wish to remark' is that there is a good reason for supposing that a metallic compound, in which aluminum will play a principal part, and which, weight for weight, will show much more rigidity than steel, will yet be given to the world. When this result has been reached the 'laugh' will still be in order, but the laugh*er* will then become the laugh*ee*."

NOTES BY "HAWKSHAW."

"SEE HERE, Wheelwright, what do you call that lamp you sold me?" "Why, that's the 'Debutante' lamp, Mr. Greenboy. Surely you can't complain of it!" "Oh, no indeed, not since I know what its name is, because I know debutantes cost those to whom they belong a lot of money and that they are always wanting to go out, and that's exactly the way it is with that lamp."

THE Chinese believe that the devil always walks in a straight line and for that reason they make the streets of their cities crooked. Now we Americans believe that the devil only favors crooked ways, and for that reason we ought to always make our roads straight, but when I view the tortuous windings of the average country one I am inclined to think that either the Chinese had the planning of most of them or else the average American road builder is a great friend of the devil's, for certainly our thoroughfares are not very straight, nor is the use of them conducive to holy thoughts or prayerful thanks. The devil's best friends are the average country roads, as they in a year cause more profanity and furnish more recruits for sheol than anything else I know of.

IN New York's annual reports I find that much stress is laid upon the fact that it has 743,634 square yards of asphalt pavement, covering 34.21 miles of streets, which the commissioner boastfully notes is a "a larger area of asphalt pavement than London and and Paris possesses." Accepting this statement as a fact, since I have not the data convenient to disprove it if it is untrue, I don't see what there is to blow about in the matter. Suppose New York has more asphalt pavement than Paris and London, what of that? It is only one pattern of decent street surface, and yet it is all of any kind that New York has which is fit to drive or ride upon, while either of the other cities possess miles and miles of good first-class pavements of other patterns which afford excellent street surfaces. If New York really wants to make a boast about her streets let her do so in a way which she can be certain of having her supremacy undoubted and unchallenged; let her claim to spend more money upon them and get less in return therefor than any other city; let her proudly point to the fact that neither in civilization, nor in barbarianism is her equal for filthy, ill-paved and disreputable street pavements to be found, and in doing so she will make a claim that none will envy her and none can dispute her supremacy in.

I WAS in New Orleans once and I knew no one in the place. My mail I had ordered from my last stopping place to be sent to the general delivery department in New Orleans, and it was necessary that an important letter I expected to reach me there should be obtained at the earliest possible date. I went several times and inquired for it and was each time informed that it had not come; at last from other letters I knew it had arrived, but in some way it had become mislaid and I went again and asked that it be looked up, but it could not be found. Calling the next day for my mail, among that handed out to me was the BICYCLING WORLD. "Are you a member of the L. A. W.?" asked the clerk, and I informed him that I was and had been for ten years. "Some of your mail is missing, isn't it?" and I answered that it was. "Just wait a minute and I will see what I can do for you." He was absent about 20 minutes and returned with my long sought letter. I then learned he was an L. A. W. member and had been Secretary of the Louisiana State Division. What good does the League do, eh? Well if in the ten years I have belonged to it it had given me no other return for my money than the above favor I would be content, but besides this it has in hundreds of ways benefited me a thousand times more than the money it has cost me. To me the benefits that it has conferred are of the kind that to speak of their value in a monetary sense is to confess that in one's soul exists no sentiment higher than can be shown by placing a given number of numerals in front of the word dollars. To me each week the BICYCLING WORLD comes not only as a journal, but as a letter from each and all of the other thousands of League members, and when I meet, or am met, by an individual who brings to the establishing of our acquaintance no other credentials than those of being a member of the same great wheeling body that I am, while I can not explain the reason for so doing, I am always ready to meet his advances a trifle more than half way, and some of the pleasantest acquaintances I have ever formed had their foundation through nothing else but the bond of sympathy that seems to exist between those who acknowledge allegiance to the L. A. W.

DETROIT. "JUDGE."

JACK PRINCE, cape overcoat, English air "ye know," and all arrived in Detroit the evening of the fifth, and as a consequence, the people of Detroit will soon have a chance to witness (for 50 or 25 cents a head) a genuine fake bicycle race of the professional order. Jack will remain here about six weeks and go into training for the coming great race at Madison Square Garden, New York. The first race here will take place from March 2 to 8, eight hours a day. He also proposes to hold an amateur contest in connection with the professional, his plan being to select six fast riders, and each night let one on the track with the pro's, but not compete with them, the one scoring the most miles to have a gold medal. I warn all the boys not to do it. Here is what article five, section four of the L. A. W. says as to that. "A cyclist ceases to be an amateur by competing with or pace making for, or having the pace made (italics mine) by a professional in public or for a prize." Riding round on a track at the same time as a professional, a man could hardly help using his pace or giving the pro. one to pace by. We do not want any Denver racket worked on us.

A BEAUTIFUL plate glass mirror adorns the Western wall of our club house, a gift from the Overman Wheel Co., to whom we extend our thanks.

WILL HADGER spent a few days in town and reports business good.

MESSRS. HOLCOMBE AND ECKLIFF each wear one of the pretty small size L. A. W. pins as a prize for best playing in the billiard and pool tournament.

WE hear from Josephi quite often; Jim is nothing if not original, he recently addressed a letter to one of his friends in this city, and in one corner wrote, "Cycling and Art Promoter." It is hardly necessary to say "Griff" was the person who received the letter.

THIS is my last chance to say much about Detroit as the next meeting place of the L. A. W. We shall be ably represented at Washington by Chief Consul Richmond and our own Mr. Griffith. We know we ought to have this meet, and we know we are going to have it. Who was the first to bid for the meet in '91? Detroit at the Niagara Falls meet, and ever since we have let it (in every way we could think of) be known far and wide we wished to entertain the L. A. W. in '91. I have even written rhymes, a thing I never dreamed of, and my life has been threatened in consequence, and I don't blame the men who made the threats either. We have sent out greetings with more poetry on (thank goodness I can say "Not Guilty" to the charge of writing that.) "Mac" of the American Athlete also did good work, and now it will soon be settled; right is right, so

HIP HIP HURRAH FOR DETROIT IN '91.

CHICAGO. "WAYNE SCOTT."

THE last week the weather has been cold, but there has been no snow, so that riding is still good. H. A. Johnson, Captain of the Capital City Cycling Club, was in Chicago this week. He says that Springfield wheelmen will not ask for the State Division meet this year as they have no track, but in 1892 they will be prepared and will then ask for it. Mr. Johnson was formerly a member of the Oak Park Cycling Club.

FRANK FANNING Geo. A. Mason and Dr. J. C Wachter, the committee appointed to confer with Mr. Spalding in regard to his placing a track in his new West side ball park, have done so. Mr. Spalding's rental price was a little high, though not near the price the location is worth. The committee will report at the earliest possible moment.

AN interesting entertainment was given at the gymnasium of the Lincoln Cycling Club last Saturday night. Two hundred and fifty were in attendance, and the affair was very successful. The programme consisted of fencing by Captain Yates and pupil, high jumping by Prof. West and Mr. Luther. Mr. Luther cleared 4 feet 8 3-4 inches in a standing high jump, and Prof. West in a hitch and kick did 8 feet 8 inches. Several excellent sparring bouts followed.

A BURLESQUE on the game of indoor base ball was played by two teams of the Chicago Cycling Club at Rosalie Hall last Wednesday evening. The contestants rigged out in fanciful costumes, and kept the audience in a constant uproar, the game in itself being almost entirely out of the minds of the spectators. Dancing and a supper followed.

The Ladies Douglas Cycling Club is now being formed and will have all the privileges of the Douglas Club house one day each week. Mrs. Brockway at Twelfth and Leavitt streets is being assisted by Pres. Wachter and others of the Douglas Club in her efforts to form this organization.

RECRUITING for the membership in the L. A. W. is going along merrily in this Western city. F. H. Geer, Captain of the Englewood Cycling Club has alone twenty-five applications. At the Illinois Division's entertainment Saturday evening none but L. A. W. members were admitted to the collation, and a number of members were gained in this way. Those that applied for membership were admitted.

ILLINOIS CLUB ladies nights occur this month on the 9th and 23d. On the 13th the club give a reception and dance at Martine's West Side Hall, February 28th, the club give an athletic entertainment. The last one was attended by over three hundred, and was a highly successful entertainment. This they say will be away ahead of the last.

THE Oak Park Cycling Club have purchased a piece of land at the corner of Railroad boulevard and Prairie avenue, 175 feet on the former and 65 feet on the latter. Fifty feet on Prairie avenue will be added to this piece, and the entire lot will be covered with the club house and wheel rooms, two stories high and basement. A large hall will occupy the upper story.

THE Cook County Wheelmen at their meeting last Tuesday evening admitted nearly one hundred and twenty-five members, and held over about sixty applications at that. On Thursday evening the club gave their first formal ladies' night.

"WHAT'S the correct tire to use this season?" is a question now being debated by hundreds, aye thousands of cyclists, and at no place so much as in this "Windy Western City." One beauty of the cushion and pneumatic is that the jar is taken up and there is no side slipping on our down town granite block pavement. The cushion will be wanted by five out of six of our riders though, because of the liability to puncture in the other tire.

BROOKLYN, N. Y. "TREB."

CHARLES SCHWALBACH of the Kings County Wheelmen, who is one of the most prominent dealers in this city will, should all his plans for this season mature, do much for bicyclists and bicycling. "Charley" is at present actively engaged in working up a scheme which will eventually put a first class bicycle track upon the Eastern park ball grounds This much needed cinder path, if secured, should work wonders with our racers. Then again some of most poorly paved streets, namely the Sackett street boulevard now in a wretched condition, and which is the most convenient outlet to Long Island, will also receive attention, and if the continual persistence of prominent men can have it put in good shape Mr. C. will again have the wheelmen in his debt.

THERE is some talk of the Kings County Wheelmen's bowling team challenging the winners of the Wheelmen's League upon the completion of their series of games.

THE Brooklyn Bicycle Club will hold a stag reception on Feb. 18.

IN spite of all the arrangments made for the amalgamation of the Citizens Bicycle Club with the New York Athletic Club there is a strong possibility that the deal may not be consummated, as opinions upon the subject are about evenly divided.

THE Manhattan Athletic Club will pay special attention to bicycling this season; a large hall in their new house has been appropriated for the exclusive storage of wheels. The club will hold a fancy dress parade on bicycles in their gymnasium this month.

DAYTON, O. "EAGLE."

THE bicycle community is interested in building a track in the spring for the exclusive use of cyclists during the riding season. Our Fair Ground track is very poor, as it is made of the very soft red clay; besides the officials do not allow cyclists on it during horse racing season. Some talk of converting the large amphiteatre, that is the ground floor, into a cinder track about 12 to 15 feet wide, with a circumference of an eighth to a quarter of a mile.

THE Rambler Bicycle Club of this city contemplate giving a minstrel show in the near future. There is certainly talent enough in the club if it is brought out. This club has also given a couple of dances in the past six months. As the Dayton Club is not to be outdone they will in all probability give one of the finest minstrels that has ever visited the city (that is the intention). Some of the best talent in the city are members of the D. B. C., and with the help of Buckles, the Cincinnati Club's clown, and a few more of that sort, the show will be a grand success notwithstanding the fact that it is to be given by a cycle club.

The contemplated road race, which was to have taken place last season, will be run about the latter part of July or August. Some of the riders here are now in training for the great race and considerable is expected of them.

The council has just passed an ordinance prohibiting the posting up of indecent show bills and loafing on corners; now if they would go ahead and push the work on the streets and looking after the general driveways it would be appreciated much better by the general public.

A grand masquerade party was given the other evening by Miss McGee, sister of one of our fellow members. Miss McGee is an ardent cyclist and enjoys the cool mornings and evenings during the summer on her bicycle. She is probably the best lady rider in the city.

Great preparations are being made for the League meet in Detroit. A number of members have signified their willingness to go, and it is to be hoped that more will decide later.

There certainly is no chance of severe suffering on the part of a cycler who joins in our club runs as we have five or six doctors who are enthusiastic wheelmen, and who accompany us on every run. Dentists are also very plentiful, and should anyone have occasion to strike a snag, forcep and plyers are brought out in a hurry.

A smoker will soon be given by the club, but as yet other business has prevented, and the date has not been set.

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

"PALISADES."

The time is approaching when Road Commissioners are to be elected, and appropriations made for road purposes in this State. Every wheelman who has a vote should take a personal interest in this matter and see that proper men are chosen and large appropriations made for this most commendable object. If each League Club in our State would put their "shoulders to the wheel," they can, to a certain extent, increase the number of good roads in their several localities.

I hear that the Irvington Wheelmen are not in as prospering a condition as formerly, and that there is danger of collapse. It is hoped that when "balmy spring" appears, new life and vigor may be given them, and that they may, like their Captain's whiskers, flourish.

Charles H. Dalsh, Secretary of the Westfield Wheelmen, is in Montreal superintending some buildings in course of erection there.

Frank H. Church of the Bergen Co. Wheelmen has sent home for his bicycle. The natives of Korea will probably be considerably surprised at this new mode of locomotion, and we look forward to interesting articles from Frank after his first few rides.

MISSOURI.

"LINNEUS."

The boulevard legislation which is now before our Legislature is attracting widespread attention, and if it passes no class of citizens will be benefited more than the cyclists. The bill provides for 30 miles of boulevards and five years will see the completion of the finest boulevard system in any city in the country outside of Chicago. All expense of the system, except the roadway construction, will be borne by the taxpayers. Another provision of the bill is that the city may regulate the traffic upon the boulevards by excluding heavy wagons or any other kind of vehicle. This last sentence sounds peculiar and some cyclists are inclined to think that they "see the nigger in the woodpile," but I do not believe that cyclists are aimed at. The 24 5-8 miles of boulevard will cost $1,300,200.

D. Castleman Webb returned to this city from his European tour last Friday. He reports having had a fine time of it abroad. While at Glasgow he purchased a bicycle and travelled to all points of interest in Europe awheel. He visited Scotland, Wales and Ireland, and went from Liverpool to Brussels and from there to Antwerp. He made the trip down the Rhine, rode into Switzerland and climbed the Rugi, and then visited Vienna, Venice, Florence, Rome, Genoa and Naples.

Last Sunday the first of a series of five games for the local foot ball championship between the cycling clubs was played at Compton Avenue Park and resulted in a draw. The game was very close and exciting and the recently organized Missouri's team made a splendid showing against the well drilled Cycling Club's team. The game lasted 1 hour and 30 minutes and was well contested throughout. This morning the teams play their second game. Captain Percy Fletcher commands the Missouris and A. L. Jordan the Cycling Club.

It is about settled that our track at Compton Avenue Park will be lost to cycling next season as the Gun Club have decided to treble the present rent in spite of the fact that they promised to let us have the grounds as long as they were in their possession for the rent originally agreed upon. President Emery of the Track Association had rather a stormy interview with Secretary Coles of the Gun Club on this question, and told him plainly that his organization was acting in bad faith to the cyclists, who had expended over $800 in advertising and improving the grounds. Just what will be done no one can tell at this writing. The track at Brotherhood Park is being rapidly built and seems to be about the only available place. Two other tracks are spoken of both pushed by athletic clubs, but they will probably result in nothing.

The coming club elections on March 3 are causing much speculation among the Missouri's members. Mr. E. W. Pattison, who was the founder of the club and has long been connected with it, has positively declined to run for the presidency on account of lack of time. Mr. Robert Holm, who is mentioned for the position, has stood on the executive committee of the organization for two years and has done as much, if not more, than any member in pushing it to the front. Dr. Keith will receive the unanimous vote of the members, and his enthusiasm will do much to increase the growth of the club.

Messrs. Wilder & Laing offer a costly gold medal to any rider breaking the existing one mile Division championship record at the Carthage meet on July 4.

The Board of Officers of the Missouri Division held their semi-annual meeting at the Missouri's club house the other evening and transacted some important business. Chief Consul Holm presided. Reports were read from the Chief Consul, the Representatives and from the various committees, save the one on Highway Improvements, which seems to be decidedly non est. Secretary Kelly again failed to send in his report and was severely censured. The Road-Book Committee urged the appropriation of a sum of money to cover a new edition of the road-book, but no action was taken on the matter. A committee was also appointed to revise the Division's constitution and by-laws and to report at an early date.

BUFFALO NOTES.

"SETAGEC."

The Referee's local correspondent made a very cowardly attack on me in its last week's issue. I see between the lines the venom of the ex-President of the club to which this special friend belongs. If Dal Lewis, Lewis Bruch or any other Ramblers have any more "charges" to make, they should come over their own names instead of hiding behind "Buffalo Bill" and "Biff." Then I will accommodate them with all the proof they want, and a good deal that will not be to their credit, but they are too great cowards for that. "Buffalo Bill" is in bad form throwing mud for his armor is a regular seive.

The Press Cycling Club's ball at Music Hall last Thursday night was well attended and does that club great honor.

The bicycle track idea has turned up again. This time Lewis starts the subject and booms the East Genesee street ball grounds. There are lots of locations where a bicycle track could be built if these agitators would stop bluffing and produce the money.

The Women's Wheel Club is getting lots of health besides pleasure out of its walks, bowling and gymnasium exercise.

The Wanderers have done a wise thing. They have shown the union spirit which is uncommon for this city. They have outlined runs for the whole season, April to October inclusive, and have invited all wheelmen to take part in these runs! Here's success to you, Wanderers.

In the play off of the tie in the Ramblers pool tournament John Diehl was beaten by Macbeth.

Lots of remarks have been made about that 5-mile race between Dorntge and Crooks, but the most common was that Dorntge would not dare to race Crooks again. This is not so; while Dorntge does not make any bluffs about the matter, he is not a coward by any means, and will meet Crooks or any other Buffalo rider at any time, indoors or out.

Evidently the Referee's special friend goes heavy on the sensa-

KENTUCKY. "GX. EX. JX."

THE Independent Cyclers have moved from Main street to the ground floor of the Macauley building on Walnut street near Fourth avenue. They have elegant apartments, and they are convenient. Asphalt, connecting with the best streets in the city, is at their door, while just across the street is the palatial home of the Pendennis Club of Louisville, the wealthiest social club in the South now. The Independent Club has among its members some of the best fellows and best riders in Louisville, but it also has some drones and some wild harum-scarum boys who care for nothing but fun. The name of the club has in the past been a synonym for wild and reckless deeds and doings, and, not to mince words, these things have hurt the club. There is a suggestion to reorganize now and change the name, and the more conservative members favor this. There is room for two first class prosperous clubs in this city, and with careful guiding the Independent Cyclers should be successful socially and financially.

AN unexpected disappointment regarding the track for races will cause a postponement of the publication of the Division meet programme a few days. It will be out by the 1st of April anyhow.

A RECEPTION and supper for Dr. Charles G. Lucas is now talked of by the Louisville Cycle Club. Dr. Lucas leaves for a year's visit to Europe in a few weeks.

NEWS AND COMMENT.

THE Bay State Bicycle Club of Worcester, Mass., celebrated its fourth anniversary with a banquet on the evening of February 5. The affair was a huge success in every way. Many visiting wheelmen were present, and the affair was kept up till a late hour.

THE Palisade Wheelmen of West Hoboken, N. J., celebrated their anniversary on the evening of February 12th by a theatre party to Jacob's Theatre, and afterwards held a "stag" at their rooms.

THE members of the Memphis Cycle Club recently presented Capt. Deupree of that organization with an elegant silver service.

A SMOKING concert and athletic entertainment will be given by the Missouri Bicycle Club on the evening of February 14.

THE North End Wheelmen of Philadelphia will celebrate their yearly anniversary by a banquet and reception on the evening of April 9

THE Hudson Co. Wheelmen have all the stock subscribed for their new club house, and they will begin to build at once. The scheme has given considerable impetus to the club, and as a consequence applications for membership are rapidly pouring in.

"CYCLING FOR HEALTH AND PLEASURE," the best book of its kind in existence, can be obtained for 50 cents from the WHEELMEN CO., 12 Pearl street, Boston, Mass.

THE annual dinner of the Citizens Bicycle Club of New York will be given on the evening of February 21 at the Grand Union Hotel.

THE Buffalo Ramblers will celebrate their sixth anniversary by a dancing reception on the evening of February 16. The club is to be congratulated on the strong position into which it has intrenched itself, as at one time, and not many years ago, its chances of life were rather dubious.

DO you enjoy fun? If so, send 50 cents to the WHEELMEN CO., 12 Pearl street, Boston, and get a copy of "Cycleland," the best collection of comic cycling sketches published.

THE Memphis, Tenn., Cycle Club at their recent election had an exciting contest, eighteen ballots being necessary to decide a choice for First Lieutenant.

THE Capital City Bicycle Club of Washington, D. C., celebrated its twelfth anniversary on the evening of January 31. The invitations and menu for the occasion were of an elaborate description, and reflect much credit on the members having the matter entrusted to their care. After a thorough discussion of the splendid menu the company present turned their thoughts to the flow of wit and wisdom which followed. Mr. Chas. Richards Dodge officiating as toastmaster. a number of toasts, interspersed by vocal selections by a quartette, were responded to, and the festivities wound up with the song "Keep it away from the Cat" by the quartette and club members. This club was organized in January, '79, and has steadily gained in prosperity, and at present have a splendid club house of their own, and a large membership.

THE Centaur Club is making arrangements for a big smoker to be given on the 19th inst. in celebration of the fourth anniversary of the formation of the club. The affair promises to be the largest and finest of its kind in the history of the club. The Centaur Club started four years ago with eight members, six of whom are still on the roll, the other two, Charles Gasknis, the club's first President, and Charles R. Eisenbrandt, having died. The club now numbers 45 members, and its future is full of promise.

THE Whitinsville, Mass., Bicycle Club gave an anniversary entertainment on the evening of February 6, which was a pronounced success in every particular. The audience was the largest ever assembled in the hall, and the hearty applause given the different participators in the entertainment, showed that the audience were in full sympathy with their endeavors.

MUNCIE, IND., claims the distinction of having the heavy weight bicycle rider of the United States residing in her limits; Mr. Geo. P. Davis, the gentleman in question, weighs 253 pounds, and up to last year rode an ordinary. He made a tour of 482 miles through Indiana last year, and spins off 60 or 70 miles in a day occasionally at the present time. Mr. Davis joined the L. A. W. in '81, and has been a member ever since. Mr. Davis is a jolly good fellow, and is very popular with the boys.

MR. SAWYER, the father of John and Ralph of tandem fame, has been transferred from the Tennessee Division of the L. A. W., to that of Vermont, and has been appointed a Local Consul of that State. As Mr. Sawyer is a hustler we expect to see the membership increase in Vermont.

THE Harlem Wheelmen held their fifth annual reception on the evening of Feb. 5. Large delegations of wheelmen from neighboring clubs were present and also some of the leading officials of the L. A. W. The affair was a decided success in every particular.

THE pool tournament at the Missouri's club house is attracting large audiences, as the contestants are pretty evenly matched. This makes the contest all the more exciting. The final winner will probably not be known until the last evening of the tournament, Feb. 21.

THE Philadelphia Bicycle Club held their annual meeting on the evening of Feb. 10, at which time the presentation of the Captain's and President's cup and also the awarding of the "tin cup" for the smallest mileage record took place, the whole affair concluding with a supper. This club exhibits considerable enterprise in its manner of keeping the boys together through the winter months, which is worthy of emulation; printed reminders are sent in each monthly notice to the members, stating the various entertainments to take place during the month and the evenings on which the events occur. The club has amended its by-laws so that it now admits members, termed junior and senior, contributing at lower dues, who can have the use of the club house, but have no voice in the management of the club's affairs, the juniors paying $12 per annum and the seniors $20. No entrance fee.

"DO."

IT'S fashionable now for writers of the wheel press to set themselves up as Solomons and from the heights of their superior wisdom to tell their readers and other unfortunates what they should and should not do in cycling, so now I from my little throne am going to add my dose in the shape of ten 'do's" and four "don'ts" as follows:

First—Let the pressure of the feet upon the pedals be as even as possible, endeavoring to put the pressure upon one pedal as you take it from the other

Second—Practice and learn to ride in a straight line by keeping a steady, yet easy, hold upon the handles and using the weight of the body when possible.

Third—In ascending hills hold the handles firmly, get as much purchase or pressure from the loins as you can.

Four—Bear in mind that it often pays better to get off and walk than to struggle painfully to drive the wheel up very steep gradients, as the action of walking is a change and more natural for hard work.

Fifth—Always slacken speed in going round a corner or in making a sharp turn to avoid running into anything or taking a fall.

Sixth—Always lean or sit well over towards the centre of the circle made in turning; the sharper the angle and the greater the speed at which it is taken the more this is necessary.

Seventh—Take care and back-pedal, as well as use the brake, until the bottom of a hill is in sight.

Eighth—Always be courteous to wayfarers, both pedestrians and horsemen.

Ninth—Obey the rules of the road religiously, unless you see that the driver of any vehicle will not allow you to do so, when to avoid a charge of "contributory negligence" it is well to act as prudence and circumstances dictate.

Tenth—In encountering freshly laid stones get out and walk, as it saves the tires when the weight of the rider is not upon them.

"DON'T."

First—Drive too fast or cultivate a high rate of speed.

Second—Go too fast at the beginning of a hill, but reserve your power for the top.

Third—Take your feet off the pedals unless the wheel is provided with a powerful brake.

Fourth—Lend your machine to your friend or to anybody else's friend.

While the foregoing are neither new, nor original, I felt called upon to add my collection of wisdom to the general list and here it is. If the reader thinks there is too many things for him to do I have purposely made the number of ones for him not to do very small, and if he only obeys them he will be a good, safe rider, and will enjoy cycling in the rational way in which it is most beneficial.

"HAWKSHAW."

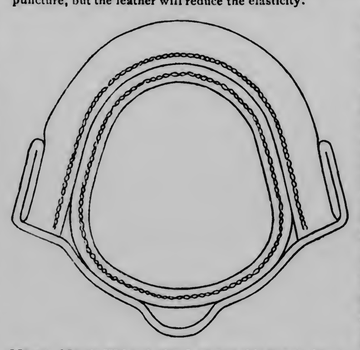
THE STANLEY SHOW.

BY T. A. EDGE.

No doubt the most interesting features of this year's show were the tires. It is the perfect tire for which every cyclist is looking. Had not the question of "shoeing" cycles being practically revolutionized during the past season I fancy there would have been but very little interest in this year's exhibition at the Crystal Palace. The regular attender of Stanley Shows missed the old firms and familiar faces of their representatives; but a visit to the London depots of the larger makers made the cyclists, who had already visited the show, familiar with the whole of the new features in cycles and their accessories for 1891.

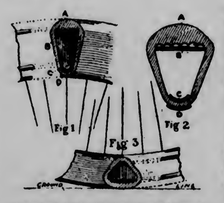
One saw beneath "Sydenham's glassy dome," as thetpoetical Swindley would say, the old monstrosities. The same pensive-looking gentleman who thought hand-driven machines would supersede those driven in the present fashion. There were quite as many faddists as in the days of yore. Saddles, especially of combination pattern, had apparently received considerable attention, and from what I could see English manufacturers are following the lead of Americans and paying attention to that of the hammock "species." Lamps, too, have been considerably improved, the "Regenerative Bell Rock," manufactured by Messrs. Miller & Co., and "Holophote," a new lamp introduced by Messrs. Lucas & Son, were the best things I came across. I shall have something to say about them later. There were a few spring frame safeties in the show. The "Collier Two-Speed Gear" again makes its appearance; it has been greatly improved since last season, having now ball bearings at both speeds. Mr. Pollitt, the maker of the gear just mentioned, also shows a ladies' safety fitted with his "ladies' safety starter," an arrangement by which the rider "can place one foot on the floor, the other on the pedal and start away without jumping into the saddle." The saddle and seat pillar are made so as to enable the former to be lowered at will. When the rider has started the saddle springs back to the correct height and is locked there. One ingenious gentleman geared his machine to 80-inch, and to make one able to drive such a high gear attached weights fitted to the centre of the heels and projecting about six inches on either side. These weights, he argued, would, when the machine was started, carry the machine along, overcome the dead centre and make an 80-inch gear as easy to drive as the 60-inch gear on an ordinary machine. With the exception of adding about 8 pounds to the weight of the machine, and making it considerably harder to drive, I could see nothing in the invention. No doubt it would be very good for riders possessed of strength above the average. The "Zimmer" gear, which enables one to use hands as well as legs, is the best of its kind I have seen, and in all probability there may be something in the idea, although without a trial one cannot speak with any degree of authority; theory in cycling has on too many occasions been proved radically wrong. An ounce of practice is worth a hundredweight of theory.

Frames have not received very much alteration since last season. There is a tendency to build diamond pattern with socket ball steering head. Some makers prefer one short ball socket; others think long centres are stronger if not quite so neat and consequently adopt them. The latest frame work—the Wenham—is a double tubular, starting from bottom and top of the socket steering, and running in a half semi-circular, half eliptical manner past the saddle pillar, round to the bearings of the driving wheel (these being joined to the tubes, one on either side), thence to the bottom bracket and to the bottom of the socket steering. The frame is thus made in one piece or two pieces and not in anyway brazed. It is claimed by the manufacturers to be much stronger. Another firm builds almost a similar frame, but it is made additionally rigid by means of spokes or thin wires forming stays, and screwing into a centre or hub. In fact made on the same lines as a wheel. This frame is made of a semi-section of tubes. It is very light and particularly strong. A feature of the show is the way in which several of the larger firms' machines have been exhibited. I refer to those who signed the bond not to exhibit. At Messrs. Goy & Co.'s stand are "The Whippet," "The Psycho," "The Humber," "The Rover" and others. And now a word about the various cycle exhibitors. Space forbids me dwelling at any length with a detailed description of any one exhibitor's wares and I shall confine myself to a few remarks only; firstly, tires; secondly, accessories.



Speaking of tires, I cannot say that I was particularly pleased with the show in this direction. I came prepared to have retailed for my especial benefit, and through me the benefit I hope of others (when I can be sufficiently lucid in my descriptions), but I really gained very little knowledge in this direction. Half of the firms who are making tires did not exhibit. I cannot but think they were ill-advised. The whole interest in the show was centred in the tires, and for several of the principal makers to be absent was extremely bad policy.

Although with the exception of being seen on many machines the Pneumatic Tire Company had no exhibit. No doubt some interest is attached to the movements of the firms and the progress of the tire, and I may here remark that for this season the tire has been considerably improved. The bursting of the tire was of common occurrence last year. This year the canvas covering the inner tube instead of being stuck together with a solution is sewn, and the inner tube will consequently not burst or bulge in the same manner which was so frequently seen during 1890. The inner tube has been somewhat strengthened, the valve has been greatly improved. Instead of laying inside the hollow portion of the tire, projecting through the rim considerably, it is now made in such a manner that it lays practically level with the rim itself. Freedom from puncture will be greater this year than last. I hear on good authority that this season if R. J. Mecredy races he will have a specially made tire. The canvas will be replaced by silk and other features introduced which will combine to make the tire faster even than it is at the present time. So much for Dunlop's patent, but there are many pneumatics at the present in the market. Boothroyd's, Hancock's, the North British Rubber Co.'s ("The Clincher"), Chas. MacIntosh & Co.'s, one made by Tupper & Redhill were all with the exception of MacIntosh's on exhibition. Boothroyd's was only exhibited on a "Geared Facile" on to which machines it was fitted. This safety was on Goy & Co.'s stand. The firm with whom Mr. Boothroyd is connected (Messrs. Ellis & Co., the makers of "Geared Facile") is amongst the bonded non-exhibitors, consequently there was no section of the Boothroyd on view.



No doubt to the curious, the one shown by Mr. J. L. Hancock afforded a certain amount of food for reflection. It had the appearance of a life buoy it was so large. Upon inquiry I found it was only built for exhibition. But the Hancock tire itself is extremely simple and has the appearance of being thoroughly reliable. In looks it is not unlike the ordinary cushion tire; there is an eccentric hole or air-chamber much larger than that in the ordinary cushion. The chamber is made with the rubber coming in contact with the road is thicker. The chamber is lined with canvas and the whole tire is vulcanized together. It is filled with air in the ordinary way by an inflator, which is screwed on the valve. When enough air has been pumped in, the valve is closed by a small screw. There can be no bursting; a puncture can be very easily repaired and it certainly is one of the simplest of pneumatics.

Leather for the inner tube covering takes the place of canvas in the Surrey Machinists' Co.'s tire. The other covering is attached to the rim by leather laces, instead of being solutionized on. It is very readily repaired, difficult to puncture, but the leather will reduce the elasticity.

If the "Clincher" pneumatic tire will only stick fast into the rim then it can be no other than successful. The inner tube of the "Clincher" pneumatic lays in the rim; over it a broad strip of rubber of uniform thickness is placed. This is tucked in under the rims, which are turned inwards, and when the inner tube is blown up the outside covering is jammed in such a manner as to be immovable. Though some people are afraid the outside covering may be forced out of the rim, especially when going round a corner a trial may prove this to be wrong. I need hardly remark that it is very easily repaired and not likely to get out of order. Messrs. Morris Wilson's tire I was unable to see; it was not exhibited, but I understand it will (should it prove satisfactory) be placed on the market after an extended trial.

The appearance of Humber's suspension tire has long been anxiously looked forward to. It consists of a rubber tube having two steel bands inside it. The one is bolted to the rim of the wheel, thus fastening the tire. The other stretches the tire and the weight of the rider is supported on the ground by the outer band or hoop. The recliency of the tire by those who have tried it is said to be quite equal to the pneumatic.

Of Cushions there are not very many show of the newn design. I am inclined to think of the simpler cushions, the one which has a chamber in shape between ∧ and ∩ running through it is the best. This chamber should not be placed in the centre, but allow more rubber where the tire comes in contact with the ground. The portion of the chamber fixed in the rim is almost immovable, hence not elastic. By this class of tire unnecessary weight is done away with; the rubber is thick where it is needed, whilst it is less liable to cut from the inside. The Bates cushion, which is grooved above the line of contact with the rim, so that when its queezes up through the weight of the rider it will not be cut by the rim, is well known. The North British Rubber Co.'s "Clincher" tire.

It is between ∧ and ∩ in shape, fits into a rim which is made to slope inwards, and which helps to hold the tire, which is also vulcanized to the rim.

The Ancoats Vale Company show a half circular section of rubber tire fitted to a T shaped rim. The Dunkley tire has a double chamber; the bottom chamber U or half circular shape, the top one being circular. These are the principal cushions shown. There were several important rubber firms absent from the show, hence no description is given of their tires.

In saddles of the combination pattern, I think a sample which attracted the most attention was the new hammock made by Messrs. Middlemore & Co. of Birmingham, for which firm W. H. Linford, the rider of the greatest number of miles in the twenty-four hours' North Road race on a solid tired safety, is the manager. He showed me the article under discussion. I have said it is of the hammock pattern, but in addition to this it is hung on springs of the Arab cradle pattern, the front portion working on a swivelled or hinged joint. The combination of spring and saddle is not very heavy, and it will, I understand, be made still lighter to suit the fast road rider or record breaker. It can be very easily adjusted. The weight of the roadster combination is but 2 1-2 pounds, so it will be seen that its weight is of no great disadvantage. The other combination is one made by Messrs. Lamplugh & Brown combines the qualities of perfect adjustment to the weight of the rider; all the excellencies of the hammock, whilst its formation does away with (to many) the objectionable quality the hammock saddle possesses of giving away too much in the centre. The front portion of Messrs. Lamplugh & Brown's "Tandem Spring Hammock" saddle is suspended by means of a coiled spring between the top part of which and the saddle is attached an adjustable piece of steel wire, the lengthening or shortening of which adjusts the spring of the saddle. Behind the coiled steel springs are used.

Of lamps Messrs. Miller & Co.'s specialty, "The Regenerator," is fitted with a regenerative chimney and most of the smoke is consumed, thus the light in the lamps shines much more brilliantly than in most lamps. The nuisance of the oil reservoir dropping out when the door of the lamp is opened has a so been obviated by a simple catch which prevents the reservoir moving and prevents rattle. Extra reflecting power is obtained by other specially designed reflectors, altogether it is a vast improvement on other lamps. Messrs. Miller & Co. make a spanner of box pattern at one end, the ordinary jaw at the other. Hence all nuts can be dealt with, the extra strength of the box pattern of spanner enabling great pressure to be used without fear of much strain.

Going back to lamps the "Holophote" of Messrs. Lucas & Sons gives a magnificent light. It is entirely unlike any other lamp on the market. The wick is fixed at the bottom of a deep, highly polished funnel, directly in front of an extraordinary strong reflector. The light given has the dazzling brightness of the electric or lime light. Though an expensive lamp, those who require a strong light to show the road "in darkest England" will doubtless not be within paying the price for it.

There were many specialties, but few of any real service. In cyclometers one of Messrs. Lucas & Sons' should prove a boon to those riders who care to know the number of miles they cycle during their season's work. The cyclometer is attached to the handle bar and is constructed differently to any cyclometer I have seen. A new home trainer finds room at one stand by which your own machine can be ridden and consequently no deviation from your actual action is necessary. You pedal identically as you would on the road.

To many the exhibition of "old crocks" was no doubt interesting, but I am afraid very many persons who visited the show the first two days would be dreadfully disappointed by the fact that they were not labelled, and they presented the hopeless jumble of rib-and stock at a broker's shop. When they were labelled the history of cycling from its infancy could be traced and the ancient relics of wheeldom were the subject of much comment and kindly criticism.

A pneumatic saddle was one of the novelties shown. It was an inflated covering of rubber made to fit over the saddle.

There were over 200 exhibitors at the exhibition this year.

I heard of an invention which, if it prove feasible and practical, will be a great improvement on machines using pneumatics. It is an automatic air pump, which so soon as the tire reaches a certain degree of softness proceeds to re-inflate the tire slowly and by very minute volumes of air.

There is no doubt but that the pneumatic wheel of the future will use a drum brake, the action of the ordinary plunger brake is a bit too drastic for use on the air tire.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE HARTFORD, CONN, WHEEL CLUB ON THE LIMITATION OF THE VALUE OF PRIZES

At a regular meeting of this club the following preamble and resolution was unanimously adopted. Preamble:

Whereas, It being the unanimous opinion of the members of this club that the adoption by the League of American Wheelmen of rules forbidding team races, and the award of various articles of intrinsic value and use as prizes in amateur cycling events, as recommended for adoption by the joint committee of the League of American Wheelmen and the Amateur Athletic Union would be so highly prejudicial to the interests of American amateur cycle racing as to make the creation of a new and independent authority for the government of such racing a matter of necessity, therefore,

Resolved, That justice towards those clubs whose desire it is to continue in the future the large and attractive race meetings of the past, fairness toward racing men, and the best interests of the League itself, demand that the present rules regulating races and the award of prizes remain unchanged, and that it is the duty of the League's officers to avert the unfortunate results which we are certain would follow the adoption of the changes proposed by the the Committee by rejecting them. Attest,

F. E. HASTINGS, Secretary.

February 10th, 1891.

SENATOR RICHARDSON on January 6th presented a bill to the Senate for the purpose of Roads Improvement in New York State, and for the building of State roads. The act proposes a loan to the State of ten millions to be issued for this purpose, and a special tax is provided for so that the loan and interest can be paid up in eighteen years. The act also provides that it shall be submitted to the people of the State at the next annual election for their action before it becomes a law.

A SUCCESSFUL LIFE.

"If you don't succeed at first, try, try again" is a trite proverb, and one that is too often regarded, we fear, as childish and outworn, and yet many of America's most successful men owe their high places to a faithful observance of its conditions. Perhaps in no instance has this fact been more vividly illustrated than in the career of the subject of the present sketch.

There has just been celebrated in Boston the golden anniversary, so called, of the J. P. Lovell Arms Company, in recognition of the completion of the fifty years existence of the business under the management of its founder, John P. Lovell. And this is the man who has literally struggled his way to triumph.

Born July 25, 1820, when the opportunities for a poor boy to acquire a good education were not nearly so plentiful as they are now, he was still further handicapped by the loss of his father. He must work to live. But at what? Well, young John was ready for anything, for we see him first in a cotton factory, later in a gunsmith's store, next as a grocer's boy, and then—strange transition—at work with legs crossed at a tailor's table. But these three changes by no means complete the list of them. Back to the cotton factory went young Lovell, stayed three months, and then—lo and behold we find him on a cattle ranch as a drover's boy. Still this is scarcely more surprising than the occupation which next claims his attention—that of an auctioneer.

What a school of experience did all these employments form for the young man! All sides of his character were submitted to friction, and polished and hardened to resist fresh shocks of fortune.

And undoubtedly with it all he had to endure the gibes and insinuations of those who affirmed that such a rolling stone would gather no moss. Yet he kept pegging away, not at work pure and simple alone, but at the problem of the sort of work for which he was best suited.

And thus at last he found his true vocation—rendered all the more worthy to fill it by the rude buffetings to which he had hitherto been subjected.

He was but sixteen when he returned to the gun shop and laid there the foundation of that career which is now in the zenith of its brilliancy and power. For three years he worked faithfully at the tasks accorded him—so faithfully that when only nineteen he was made foreman of the shop, and twelve months later became a member of the firm.

And now one would imagine that young Lovell's trials were over and he was smoothly embarked on that sea of prosperity which was to bring his ship, amply treasure laden, to the port whither he would go. But not so. Scarcely had he assumed management when his partner died.

Everything now depended on this mere boy. Money was needed and immediately. Where was it to be had? Would any be found to instrust their capital to so young an investor? This was the task set for young Lovell to accomplish, a harder one to bring to a good finish than work that required merely indomitable plodding, untiring toil. For not the baser metals, but men's minds were to be subdued, and tact and generalship as well as courage and persistence, are necessary qualities for the subduer to possess.

And Lovell had them all; otherwise he would not be the subject of this paper. He had them and knew how to use them. The John P. Lovell Arms Company was founded and stands to-day, one of the most important of Boston's business enterprises, and with a name and fame reaching to the West across the continent and to the East across the sea. One man's pluck, energy and industry has brought all this to pass, and now the object, tended with such care in its infancy, has grown to giant's stature and rewards its guardian with golden fruits.

But this, we fancy, is one of the least of the joys that the man of seventy has in the work of his brain and hands. It is the sense of difficulties conquered, obstacles overcome, assured success wrung from threatening failure—these are the satisfying musings of the self made merchant, all these, and the realization that his career is a comforting example to the struggling lad whose youth is as barren and unpromising as was his own.—Argosy.

The first annual reception of the Outing Wheelmen of Philadelphia took place on the evening of Feb. 6 and was a very pleasant and successful affair. Much credit is due to the members who had the matter in charge.

ELWELL EUROPEAN TOUR NOTES.

Messrs. Elwell and Higgins have now ready full printed information as to what to ride, what to carry, how to carry it, and other matters in connection with their tours this summer. As the number is limited, and names are coming in rapidly, all interested should communicate with them at once. See advertisement on page 406 of this paper.

TRADE NOTES.

We have a mass of interesting trade notes which have been crowded out this week, notably Messrs. Sweeting, Strong & Green, Bretz & Curtis, Geo. R. Bidwell & Co. and others.

We desire to state that the Pope Mfg. Co. have deposited with the Wheelmen Co. a check to their order for $1000 subject to disposal, as per terms which appear on their advertising page.

THE GORMULLY & JEFFERY MANUFACTURING CO.

It was certainly a bold move on the part of this sterling company to send out over 1000 circular letters to the most prominent riders, agents and dealers, calling for criticisms on their machines. It was a move that showed they were open to honest criticism and suggestions. The questions were:

What defective features, if any, have you observed in our machines?

In what manner could parts, although not defective, be further improved?

What merits have competing machines which are absent in ours?

Certainly these questions hit from the shoulder and invited exhaustive criticism. The results were more than satisfactory.

In every case where suggestions showed merit and were practicable they have been adopted by the Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co., but as these suggestions nearly all related to the minor details, it was found that the principal features of the Rambler were almost unimously endorsed by the correspondents. Therefore the Rambler of 1891 is practically the same as that sold in 1890.

It was our pleasure to visit the home and birthplace (if we may use the term) of the Rambler, and what we saw there impressed us much with the size of the business of the Gormully & Jeffery Manufacturing Company, the system of detail and the care shown in the manufacture of their machines. We were three or four hours passing through the factory, and every courtesy and facility was offered us to delve into the methods and judge of the material used in the manufacture of their wheels. The "inspection" proved most satisfactory, and nothing could be asked for more than is done by the company in using the latest and most approved methods and the best of material. In fact in some cases the regular "best" stock of steel was not good enough, and they have a special brand made for them. The total number of hands employed is something like 350, and every available space in their already large five-story factory is utilized. The company, with its usual foresight, seeing that the time was near at hand when they would have to increase their factory, have purchased a large estate on the opposite corner. The land is at present covered by buildings, which are used by Messrs. Gormully & Jeffery as storehouses for their material and completed stock. The day is not far distant when it will become absolutely necessary to put up a factory fully as large if not larger than the one they at present occupy. The present factory consists of five stories and basement. The basement is of course used for boiler, engine and blacksmith shop, where the drop forging is done, and the brazing. Crude oil is the fuel used for forging, brazing and steam. Four stories above this are the different machine rooms, placed in such order that the machines will pass through them in the natural sequence of manufacture and completion. The lamp department occupies a portion of the fourth floor. Here all the well-known lamps are manufactured. We were especially pleased with the line of lamps they make, and their full nickelled Ramblers No. 1 and No. 2, with the latest improved anti-vibration spring and adjustable socket for the bracket are perfect gems. The chief beauty of this lamp is that it will fit any lamp bracket, whether it be solid or of the bent wire pattern. All the other lamps made by G. & J. are equally meritorious, however. Of course these anti-vibration lamps have to work on joints; so to limber these joints up an ingenious arrangement has been attached to a broad endless belt, to which the lamps are fastened and set in rapid motion, so that the joints get a good working and limbering up before they are passed on by the inspector. Messrs. G. & J. are making a drive on the lamp business, and are constantly placing large orders from manufacturers and jobbers for this most excellent line of goods. It would be well for the manufacturers and dealers to make a note of that fact.

On the top floor is the leather department, and here not only all the tool bags and saddles necesaary for use in their own business are made, but they are doing a very large business with the trade in furnishing leather goods. When we were up there they were at work on several large orders from manufacturers as well as on their own particular line.

Before leaving the subject we cannot but help noticing a special feature in the construction of the Ramblers and that is the use of bent and formed tubing where it is usual to use solid metal; for instance, at the point on the frame where the crank sprocket is hung, and the upright portion of the frame that takes in the saddle post meets the loop frame by a most ingenious bending of steel tubing, all that portion which, as we said, is usually solid is made hollow—a very expensive mode of construction. This form of construction is also used at the point where the neck of the loop frame is attached to the steering head and other points. To write up such a thoroughly first-class cycle factory in detail would be a job that would take pages of this paper and the technical description of the hundreds of machines necessary to turn out a first-class wheel would be tedious and understood by few. In this brief, but imperfect sketch of the Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co.'s factory, we have tried to give at least an impression of the excellence of method and material and thoroughness used in the manufacture of the American wheels, and if we have done this we have achieved our purpose.

As to the brains that run this vast-growing business we have to come down to the first story. Mr. Gormully looks after the general business and financial interests of the company, while Mr. Jeffery is the head of the manufacturing end of the business, and that these two branches are well looked after the past prosperity and future outlook of the company's business speaks more eloquently than mere words. The clerical force of the office is naturally large and is divided up into departments, the chief of which are agencies, cashier's and advertising. Having thus briefly disposed of the factory we now will drop down to No. 85 Madison street, at which place is situated. Situated in the very heart of the cream of the retail portion of the city, and made attractive by a brilliant display of nickeled wheels and sundries in the fine plate glass windows, together with the beauty and fine taste of the interior we do not know of a cycle store that equals it in attractivenees, even though it be excelled in size. The window at night is the most attractive on the street and is made brilliant until every midnight by groupings of incandescent lights. The interior finish of the store is rich in its inlaid hardwood floor and cherry desks, counters, cases, partitions and furniture. Each piece was built so as to form a harmonious whole, and the fittings all show the very highest quality of the cabinet-maker's skill.

The basement was being fitted up as a riding school, with dressing and toilet rooms for ladies and gentlemen, The sides of the walls and posts will be richly upholstered and the finish will be in keeping with the elegance of the up-stairs salesroom. Mr. John O. Blake, formerly with Messrs. A. G. Spalding & Bros., has charge of the down town house of the Gormully & Jeffery Co., and he is assisted by a corps of salesmen and instructors. Not only do they carry the full line of American machines, but they also carry a line of other makes. While we were in Chicago the company closed an arrangement to open a at No. 1325 Fourteenth street, N.W., to be under the management of Mr. L. B. Graves (formerly of L. B. Graves & Co.) This branch will include the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia and will be the distributing depot of the American Cycle for that territory. Mr. E. B. Parker, formerly of Terre Haute, Ind., will be with Mr. Graves. The store and basement measure 70x25 each; the basement will be used as a repair shop. Next to this store is a large vacant lot 70x100, which will be prepared for and used as a riding school by Mr. Graves. The company is gradually spreading out in the branch idea, as by this method it is found to facilitate and simplify the business very much, so necessary in a growing business.

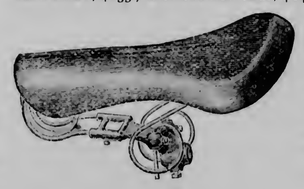
MESSRS. WM. READ & SONS.

Whatever Wm. Read & Sons do they do well, and this fact has been further exemplified by the manner they have handled their cycle business. Last week we published a cut and specifications of the New Mail for 1891, and in the advertising columns they present two new wheels for which there will no doubt be a big market. The $100 cushion New Mail is a beauty and will take at sight. In general lines it is very like the $135 New Mail, though of course it does not have the spring fork and the drum brake. It is a very handsome and fetching bicycle. The Ladies' New Mail is a little beauty and will at once jump into popularity with the fair sex. Unlike the two patterns of the Men's New Mail the front forks have a curve. This machine is fitted with cushion tires and a very neat looking chain and wheel guard. They also have a New Mail Boys' Safety listed at $35, and they also handle the Little Giant Boys' Safety, fitted with the Bolte spring, listed at $35. Messrs. Read & Sons are always in the field for live agents and those who desire to handle their line of wheels should at once put in an application. Of course it is understood that all the New Mail parts are thoroughly interchangeable, and the material and workmanship is on a par with the reputation of the firm, "right on the top shelf." Agents write for terms and keep your eye on their announcements.

M. V. LIVINGSTON CYCLE CO.



The friends of the M. V. Livingston Cycle Co. will be pleased to hear that work at the factory at Westboro was resumed Monday last and here this week has elapsed the full complement of hands will be hard at work engaged in the completion of the Broncho cycles. The workmen have been paid in full for wages past due to all those who presented themselves at the office of the company, and all other employes who were not on hand will be paid wages in full on their applying for same. Certain papers have alluded to the Livingston Co. during their embarrassment in a way that the company very rightly resents. The charge of "fraudulent transactions" are entirely without foundation and the authors of the charge will no doubt hear of that matter later. We sincerely hope that the cloud has rolled by permanently and that the M. V. Livingston Co. will now proceed on the even tenor of their way towards success and prosperity.

THE OVERMAN CUSHION TIRE.

We present this week a cut of the Overman Wheel Co.'s cushion tire. We have before this printed cuts of the tire as it appeared on the specifications presented to the Patent Office, but the cut herewith gives a much better idea of the tire as it is. This tire has been put to hard test by the company on the road with the most satisfactory results. We were shown a Victor wheel on which the solid tire of the front wheel showed several bad cuts from use on the road, while the cushion tire on the rear wheel was absolutely unscratched. This certainly is a most satisfactory "object lesson." By the way, the enlarged quarters of the Overman Co.'s Boston branch are most beautifully furnished and the formal opening of same will take place before the end of this month.

WRIGHT & DITSON, the largest outfitters of ladies and gentlemen's sports in the world, have gone into the cycle trade with that indomitable energy and push that up to the present time has caused all of their many departments to stand first and foremost in the trade. They have bought the lease of 578 Washington street, and yesterday began the work of connecting the stores. One week will probably be occupied in making alterations. This will increase their floor space one-fourth. They will be the Eastern depot of supply for A. Featherstone's complete line, and will use the entire Hayward place side of their store for their display of cycles. Their specialty will be the Pneumatic tired safety, both diamond and drop frame, at $135. These machines will be fully warranted. They will also carry a complete line graded from $125 down to $15 Their sundry list will be complete. This firm make a specialty of cycle clothing, both flannel and worsted. They are now running two large factories, both worked to their full capacity turning out these goods. Mr. G. Minturn Worden, so well and favorably known to the cycle trade all over the country, has charge of the cycle department. Mr. Worden is one of the best posted and most successful salesman on the road and in the office, and Messrs. Wright & Ditson have "hit the gold" in securing his services.

THE Pope Manufacturing Company have secured the well-known Winslow's Skating Rink for a riding school, and it is now open. There is a large clear area for riding and a splendid floor. Competent instructors are in attendance at all times, the school being open from 9 until 6. One feature that will interest the ladies is that a special time will be set apart for their use. The entrance to the rink is on Clarendon street, near Copley Square, and there are no stairs to climb, the rink being on the first floor. Appointments for lessons should be made at the company's store, 77 Franklin street.

THE Warwick catalogue is out, and a very neat, comprehensive catalogue it is. It shows details of construction, especially of the hubs, bearings and chain adjustment. The method they employ to make their bearings absolutely dust proof is illustrated in a way that any one can understand. The cushion tire and the method of attaching the spoke to the rim are also made plain. Send for the catalogue and see for yourself.

MR. H. D. HUTCHINS, the well-known safety rider of Malden, Mass., has been engaged as salesman in the Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co.'s depot at Boston, Mass.

MR. J. J. FECITT, Secretary of the Roxbury (Mass.) Club has accepted a position with Singer & Co. in their Boston store. Mr. Fecitt is one of the best known and most popular cyclists in Boston. He is a veteran rider, having ridden the velocipede for sixteen years. He is just as enthusiastic as ever, and he rides every day when it is possible, having covered over 5000 miles in 1890 He will be happy to have his friends call in and see him at Nos. 6 and 8 Berkeley street, Boston.

MESSRS. A. G. SPAULDING & BROS have occupied their new store at the Southeast corner 11th and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia, and report that they are already beginning to feel the increased retail trade consequent upon their removal to Chestnut street from their old store, 1022 Market street. The main store is devoted to the general line of base ball, tennis and general athletic goods, including the uniform department, while in the L, opening on 11th street, the bicycle department is located. Here will be shown samples of the various lines of Victor and other wheels handled by the firm, a large stock of which, together with a line of parts and sundries, will be carried in order to supply the wholesale demand from Victor agents in Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, who now draw their supplies directly from the Philadelphia House. The office and accounting department is located on the second floor, while the two upper stories will be devoted to manufacturing purposes. The wholesale and shipping departments are in the basement, and a thoroughly equipped bicycle repair shop in charge of competent men will also be established.

H. D. HEDGER of 473 Tremont street, Boston, is agent for the Eclipse Safety Bicycle for that city and vicinity. By all means call up and see the Eclipse.

HOWARD A. SMITH & Co., Newark, inform us that their new edition of the "Encyclopedia of Cyclers' Wants" will be ready for mailing in about two weeks. League members not receiving a copy will do well to drop them a postal card. This edition will far eclipse any former one published, and shows great enterprise upon the part of this pioneer bicycle house of New Jersey who have taken the lead from the first in supplying bicycle sundries. Mr. W. H. Kirkpatrick, Captain of the Business Men's Cycling League of Newark, N. J., has connected himself with Messrs. Howard A. Smith & Co. as Manager of the Wholesale Department and general road agent. This firm has secured the King Patent Bicycle support and brake lock, advertisement of which appears in another column.

THAT there are incipient Longfellows, Whittiers and Tennysons in this great and grand country of ours, we think none will dispute, after reading the following from the pen and brain of a boy in the employ of the Steel Pulley and Machine Works of Indianapolis, Ind. The rhythm and measure are especially worthy of notice. It is safe to say the lines are beyond criticism.

"Have you seen the Eclipse Bicycle?
It is of the latest make,
You can ride over stones and bridges,
And you'll find it will never break.
When on the street you see it,
How pretty it does glide;
It is the safest safety that ever you did ride.

This bicycle is made
Of the very best of steel,
It has the latest improved ball bearing wheel,
It never gets loose or rattles,
And you'll find it never jerks,
For these bicycles are made at
The Steel Pulley and Machine Works."

The best men of a town are usually found in its graveyard. This is the way one of the latter day wags has put it. But we think he has drawn it too fine. Were we certain that he was acquainted in the cycling world, we should feel sure of it.

Sickly sentiment in connection with the sale of bicycles in some quarters prevails to a truly nauseating extent. The talking up of wheels, the exhibiting of their good points and such legitimate advertising has given way to an oily and seemingly endless rehash of ancient history,—history, the facts of which are so polished as to give the crust an appetizing look, notwithstanding an indigestible and badly overdone interior; legitimate advertising has been succeeded by a constant and "modest" parading of the virtues, the "gratuitous" efforts, the "unselfish" devotion and a pot-pourri of other such sickly sentiment as relating to individuals—sickly, because, when simmered down and divested of all its flavorings, the underlying basis of it all was not "for love and good of the cause," as would seem from the exterior of the oily rehash, but in plain words, for the money that there is in the manufacture of bicycles. There may be other reasons, but it will not be dealt with here, even though it be no more unselfish. If, in connection with our advertising, were we to constantly remind you of the fact that R. Phillip Gormully or Thomas B. Jeffery contributed to the support of a hospital or other public institution, or constantly kept before you every little crook of the finger and expenditure of cash we had made in the interests of cycling, you would at once set it down as out of place and purely a display of uncalled for sentiment—and you would be right, too. Yet do you suppose that it could not be done?

FOSTERING THE INFANT INDUSTRY.—This is one of the favorite strings on the Harp of Sickly Sentimentality. We have never twanged the string ourselves, though often interested listeners. But we will twang it just this once. Foster! Humph! Do you know, dear reader, that if this now-paraded "unselfish, fostering policy" had attained that, cycling in America in all likelihood would today still be in its infancy, that its growth would have been stunted and its proportions limited,—very limited; it would have resulted in a monopoly, a trust, to which a constant paying of let-me-live money would have stared every new comer in the face. How was it averted? Permit us to twang that string real loud. The firm of Gormully & Jeffery thought a bit, opened its purse, spent many thousands in the courts, fought the incipient monopoly at every turn and finally snapped to pieces the chain that it sought to weld on the infant industry. G. & J. threw open the gates, as it were. Cycling and the cycle industry began to flourish, has flourished and will continue to flourish. Yet we will not constantly remind you of our part in the matter. It was not entirely unselfish.

FIGHTING POPULAR PREJUDICE.—Another string in the same harp. Pioneers in any line must needs encounter and overcome many obstacles and much prejudice; needless to say the pioneers in the cycle line found no exception. Public prejudice was a common foe. Competitive prejudice or grasping was another. G. & J. fought both. They helped fight the common foe, they had to brave the other one, successfully rolling away the barriers of the latter in the courts. If, indeed, there is any unselfish credit, to whom is credit due?

FAITH IN THE FUTURE OF CYCLING.—One more string on same instrument. Will it, or will it? This was a policy pursued at first by most of the pioneers. Wheels made by contract and a slow, cautious and gradual feeling of the way was the result. G. & J. considered the matter very carefully, then up went the first factory in America, built and equipped for the making of bicycles. Pretty strong evidence of faith, wasn't it?

WHICH IS THE BEST BICYCLE FACTORY IN THIS COUNTRY?—This is a matter which has been discussed very recently, and very naturally there is more than one claimant, and we are not a bit backward in laying claim to possessing a bicycle factory equal to any. It was designed, built and equipped for bicycle making, and has been used for no other purpose. It has been constantly improved and added to, and kept abreast, if indeed, not a little ahead of the times, and a factory the value of which is not represented by unmarketable patents or the like. We have shown many visitors through, both before and after the 1st of July; they have found the machinery moving merrily and have always gone away with a good impression of our factory and methods. But we haven't made much fuss about it.

THE PRICE OF BICYCLES.—This is another matter of recent discussion, which carries one back to early days and ancient history. Do you know who it was who first materially reduced the price of bicycles? Well, it was the Gormully & Jeffery Manufacturing Company, and no one else. Doubtless, the "old timers" will remember how, when that "Wicked Western Concern" (G. & J.) dared to set a lower price than that existing, what a cry went up from the others, how they feared demoralization of prices and ruination of trade and how they sought safety in combining, how G. & J. held out against that "Board of Trade," how that combination died of its own weight and collapsed like a punctured toy balloon, and how (although no "parading" was ever made of the fact) how some of the others came quietly down to the G. & J. prices.

To the Members of the Massachusetts Division L. A. W.:

An order asking for the "appointment of a commissioner or commissioners of highways and bridges for the inspection and supervision of the roads and bridges in the Commonwealth, and whose duty shall be to furnish information and advice to the cities and towns in relation to highways and bridges," has been presented to the Massachusetts Legislature, and the Committee on Roads and Bridges will be asked to recommend a bill similar to the one which was defeated in the last session.

To recite to you the many advantages that will accrue from improved highways, or to state the many reasons why this bill should pass, appears unnecessary, for I have yet to find a wheelman who does not realize the necessity, and heartily favor this reform.

It is a measure that will be of benefit to all who use the roads, whether for business or pleasure, and I therefore appeal to you one and all for your energetic support, and ask each one of you to make a personal effort to secure the approval and co operation of your prominent townsmen, and thus influence your Senators and Representatives.

The prospects for success this year are excellent, and if a united effort is made throughout the State, victory will surely be ours.

Petitions, Road Improvement literature, etc., etc., will be furnished with pleasure.

The time is short. Commence work to day.

Fraternally ARTHUR W. ROBINSON, C. C.

Rhode Island.

I have appointek as Committee on Improvement of Highways: Nathan W. Littlefield, Chairman (87 Weybosset street, Providence), Charles C. Mumford and Harry N. Francis.

I have appointed as Chairman of Committee on Rights and Privileges (in place of Mr. Littlefield, transferred as above) Charles B. Mason (Warren), and as third member of said committee, Joseph C. Ely.

A. C. Barker having resigned from the Division Board as one of the Rhode Island Wheelmen's Representatives, I have, upon nomination by said club, appointed Albert F. Titus to fill the vacancy.

GEO. L. COOKE, Chief Consul.

500--Missouri Division--500

To Consuls and Membes:

It is said that Koch's Lymph is a cure for consumption. At least that is what has been claimed for it. There may be some doubt about the effectiveness of the new Berlin remedy, but there is none whatever about the particular kind of "Lymph" to which the undersigned desires to call your attention.

HUSTLING LYMPH

is a cause of consumption—consumption of recruits I mean. But in order to produce proper results it should be immediately applied, so as to keep our Division well up in the front ranks. Many a League member complains of stagnation in recruiting at this season of the year, and if an officer or hustler falls into the habit of "letting up" during this time he makes, or helps to make his own recruiting stagnation. Improvement in Divisions comes from individual resumption of hustling activity. It is wise to start at once; it is wise never to stop; for "Keeping everlastingly at it brings success."

Stir yourself,
Stir your Local Consul,
Stir your wheelman friends.

To stir things generally and keep them stirred is your duty and business as a League member. Try the remedy named above in liberal doses, and note the reaction. Fraternally yours, ROBT. HOLM,
St. Louis, Feb. 2, 1891. Chief Consul.

P. S. January, 1890—10 applications—total membership 341. January, 1891—only 4 applications—total membership 461.

California.

My attention is called to a number of absurd and ridiculous letters to the BICYCLING WORLD signed by anonymous names. We, the officers of this Division, at first were inclined to take no notice of these comments, but it is repeated so often that a word or two may not be out of place.

The letter in the BICYCLING WORLD a week or two ago says that the officers of the Division designed a century run, and that only 23 finished. Now if this gentleman, whoever he is, knows anything of the L. A. W. affairs in California, he must know that this much talked of century run was proposed at a called and stated meeting of the whole Division, and was brought to the knowledge of the officers in that way. It was most thoroughly talked over and planned that evening, and the meeting as a whole authorized the chairman of the Touring Board to draw on the treasury for the expenses connected with it. The touring master, W. W. Maker, arranged the time and place for holding it, sent notices and invitations North and South three weeks in advance, and successfully brought 53 men to the finish. It is false to hint or say that a ring of men is running this Division for its own profit.

Now a word about the circular calling for $1.00 from each member. Upon coming into his office, the newly elected treasurer found himself wholly without funds (cause hereafter), and so we thought it best to have a general meeting and explain matters and see what was best to be done at this meeting. After considerable discussion Mr. Phillips rose and moved that the Secretary be instructed to ask $1.00 of each member as a means of replenishing our funds. It was seconded, I think by Thos. Knox, and upon the question being put, not a dissenting vote was recorded, so you see, gentlemen, that the officers had nothing to do with either of these three things that seem to trouble our anonymous friends.

Then again some one says that the L. A. W. as a Division is "practically dead in California." Pray what does this gentleman mean? Is it expected that the Chief Consul will visit each and every one of our 538 members and spend an hour or so with him? Must the officers travel from one end of our big State to the other and salute the N. Y. Z.s and the No. 1698, and other disagreeable and anonymous sorcheads that love to throw mud at the men elected to office? No, gentlemen, I am unfortunately so situated that I must spend a little time to gain the where-with-all to exist and be comfortable. If any member of this Division, with a name or otherwise, can show me how to escape the visits of the butcher, baker, landlord, etc., I will be most happy to give all my time to my Division affairs, but until such a way appears I must necessarily give some attention to the affairs of our every day humdrum world.

But as it is, I think that we have no cause to complain. We grow every week. Our local consuls are efficient men. We have our hand and road book published. We have an hotel list. By dint of hard work and energy of our Secretary-Treasurer, we are at last on the right side of the ledger. We have our Touring, Racing and other boars. Gentlemen, what more do you want? What more does any State Division do? We are always ready for suggestions and opinions, and instead of sitting in your lonesome little room and bemoaning, just try and put your little shoulder to the wheel and see what good you can do. To our Southern members I must say that I regret sincerely that it is impossible for me not to know you personally, and I can readily understand the feeling you have at being, as it were, so far from the seat of government, but believe me I am as anxious for the welfare of the Divisions in your section as in my own, and am always ready to entertain any propositions you may think me worthy of receiving.

And now a closing word in regard to the money that was spent during the last term. As a member of that Board of Officers I can honestly say that not one penny was expended but with the cause of the whole Division at heart, and if we were unfortunate enough to lose over $600 at the San Jose meet and to spend nearly $400 on a hand book and something like $130 on a century run, believe me it was with the idea of benefit to the Division for which we have used so much time. I before hinted we are not infallable, and if any one can show us a way to become more useful, we are only too glad to listen to them.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant, and would like to sign myself, Yours fraternally,

THOMAS L. HILL, C. C.

CYCLING FOR Health and Pleasure.

Chapter V.

The rapidly increasing number of competitors in athletic sports, and particularly in cycle racing, make the publication of competent advice on TRAINING very timely. The subject is gone into at length in this chapter, in which the principal writer on the subject is freely quoted. After a few preliminary remarks of explanation, Cortis, a physician and successful racing man, speaks for himself. In fact, all the principal parts of Cortis's little work on Training is quoted; so that this chapter alone is a complete guide to intending competitors in cycle racing. It expounds clearly the fundamental principles on which proper and perfect training must rest.

OUR $1000 IS UP.

BOSTON, Feb. 10th, 1891.

To Whom It May Concern:—

We have this day deposited with the editor of the BICYCLING WORLD, the sum of $1000, to be held by him subject to the conditions and provisions of the following challenge:

FIRST: An advertiser has published three times in the BICYCLING WORLD AND L. A. W. BULLETIN the following statement, to wit:

What maker in America made the first high grade bicycles with tangent spokes, hollow rims, dropped handle bars, etc.?
Who first reduced prices on bicycles in America?
Who made the first Rover type safety bicycle in America?
Who made the first square rubber pedals in America?
Who established the price of $135 for Rover type safety in America?
Who originated the term cushion tires?
Who made the first cushion tires?
Who has the largest and finest bicycle plant in America, devoted exclusively to the production of high grade bicycles?
We have the documents in hand to prove that there is one answer which fits each of the above questions, and that answer is, THE OVERMAN WHEEL CO.

SECOND: The Pope Manufacturing Company hereby challenges the writer of the above quoted statement, or any other person, firm or corporation who is ready to say and maintain that that statement is true, to deposit a like sum of $1000 with the editor of the above paper, subject to the terms hereof, and let the truth be proved.

THIRD: Upon the deposit of this second thousand dollars, the accepter shall select one referee, the challenger shall select one referee, and the two so chosen shall select a third to act with them, neither of said referees to be in the bicycle trade or in the service or employ of either the challenger or the accepter. The referees are to examine the "documents" or other evidence that either the challenger or accepter, or both may offer, and to read or hear any statement or presentation of facts, or refutation of facts that may be made by either, or by any one in their behalf, and upon fair consideration by a majority vote decide in a written finding, a copy of which shall be given to either party, and to the holder of the challenge money, whether said statement is true and correct or not. This decision to be rendered within 30 days from the date hereof.

FOURTH: If the decision of the referees be that said statement is tru and correct, then the $1000 deposited by the challenger shall be paid to the treasurer of the League of American Wheelmen, for the use of the L. A. W. committee on improvement of highways, and the $1000 deposited by the accepter returned. If the decision be that said statement is not true and correct, then the $1000 deposited by the accepter shall be paid to said treasurer for said purpose, and the $1000 deposited by the challenger returned. The expenses of the referees to be paid by each party, in proportion to the time and costs he may incur with them.

FIFTH: In case of no acceptance of this challenge, or in case of non-compliance herewith of the accepter or referees within 30 days from date hereof, then this first deposit shall be returned to the challenger.

Signed:

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF CYCLING.

Volume XXII. Number 17. BOSTON, 20 FEBRUARY, 1891 $1.00 a Year. 5 cents a copy

(New Series—First Paper.)

IT CONCERNS US.

We regret that the continued use of our name by the Pope Mfg. Co. compels us to use theirs. We prefer to avoid personal mention of competitors. It always shows weakness, and we feel quite healthy ourselves.

We have many live problems which occupy us, and we dislike to waste a single minute on such stuff.

We have had the cushion tire problem in hand for several years, and that has kept us busy. The Pope Mfg. Co. will sympathize with us in this after two or three years, when they will begin slowly to find out that the cushion tire question is a live one, and one which bicyclers demand a solution of.

Bicyclers have learned to expect that we will lead in all great improvements, and we do not intend to disappoint them in this one.

We really are sorry that our plain statement of facts has caused the Pope Mfg. Co. to lose its temper. Of course we know it will be a great advertisement for us, but we don't need it. We always have more orders for Victor Bicycles than we can fill.

Another reason why we regret to see this inclination to get mad is because the Pope Mfg. Co. have done some good things and we should dislike to see any ill happen to them. You know, "Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad."

If there was any way in which we could get out of this and let them down easy we would, but the facts! the facts!! "There's the rub."

Of course every boy in the land knows that we really were the first in America to make high grade bicycles; that is, to really make them for the market—to put in good forged steel throughout, when the Pope Mfg. Co. were using malleable iron castings in their best bicycle;

To put in hollow rims when they were using solid rims;

To use tangent spokes when they were using direct spokes;

To use hollow dropped handle bars when they were using solid straight bars;

To make machines lighter than theirs, etc., etc.

To give all these high grade improvements without extra charge when they were charging extras like the following:

Columbia Ball Bicycle Pedals, $6 00.

Expert Bent Handle Bars, $2 50

(Probably bending solid bars came high that year).

Of course we know that even referring to these matters in a delicate way, as we did in our "eight questions" must be very discouraging to the Pope Mfg. Co., but they have compelled us to do this in order to explain our position.

Gentle reader, don't be deceived by the smoke! The trouble is not with the "eight questions" which have been so beautifully emphasized by our kind competitors. The "eight questions" are all right. Of course there is an explanation of all this rumpus. The "explanation" has been gradually growing for the past six years. The "explanation" is found in these words, VICTOR CUSHION TIRES. This is at the bottom of all this "green-eyed" trouble.

We "tried the experiment"—but then we ought not to blame the Pope Mfg. Co. They frankly admitted their position June 24th, 1887, when they headed their ad. in BICYCLING WORLD, "LET OTHERS TRY THE EXPERIMENT."

However, we almost forgot the "satisfaction" part of the Pope Mfg. Co.'s challenge. We have used up our space, and shall have to ask the indulgence of readers until next week, when we will in this space undertake to give the Pope Mfg. Co. all the satisfaction they want.

In the meantime, please bear in mind that Victor Bicycles Lead—that the Victor Cushion Tire is all right, that it is the result of years of experiment, and that if you want to ride a '91 model Victor Safety you will have to get your order on the books promptly; take your place in the line and wait your turn. The line has been formed for some months.

OUR $1000 IS UP (the spout.)

Truth is Stranger than Friction,

Especially in the cycle business, where the one is so often sacrificed to the other.

What maker in the world (all others barred) made the first Hickory Bicycles?

Who first fixed a price for Hickory Bicycles?

Who first reduced the price on Hickory Bicycles?

Who first raised the price on Hickory Bicycles?

Who made the first Rover type Hickory Bicycle?

Who "first originated" the term Hickory Bicycle? (Those who "originate it" later don't count.)

Who has the largest plant in the world devoted to the manufacture of Hickory Bicycles?

We have the documents in hand to prove that there is one answer which fits each of the above questions, and that is,

Nobody Knows,

and it might also be true that nobody cares. The only question having any possible contemporaneous interest is, who makes Hickory Bicycles now? And also this: How do those bicycles compare intrinsically with others, and with the price asked for them.

A bicycle, like any other mortal production, depends for its ultimate success on something beside talk.

Next to a good lubricating oil, the cycle trade needs a reliable blood purifier.

SWEET REPOSE

"ONLY THE TIRED MAN KNOWS THE SWEETNESS OF REPOSE."—Handford.

Very true, but the average cycler does not care to ride a hard running cycle. If that is the condition on which sweet repose may be had, he is willing to go without "sugar in his'n." Give him a "Sylph" cycle that rides like a "couch of down" or a "load of hay," and he is willing to labor along under the delusion that his repose is sweet enough. If you don't believe it, try it. We've tried it. We don't ask you to believe it, nor us. We would not believe a total stranger ourselves. We do ask you to try the "Sylph." Our agents will be glad to show it to you, and you can decide for yourself. Correspondence solicited. Address,

U·N·I·O·N

WISE JONES.

Said Jones, when in a cycle store,
"I want a Cushion wheel, that's sure."

But first he told his wish to Brown,
The fastest rider in the town.

B. said the cushion would not go,
The blessed thing was dead as dough.

So on he went to Smith, a friend,
On whose advice he could depend.

Was the pneumatic worth his trust?
"Well, yes," said Smith, "if it don't bust."

"The one may bust, the other's dead,"
Sighed Jones, and mopped his sweating head.

Just then a UNION passed him by.
Such easy riding caught his eye.

He slapped his hand upon his knee,
And yelled, "That's just the wheel for me."

He did not wait for more advice,
But placed his order in a trice.

And now,

No rider hustles o'er the stones,
With greater ease than brother Jones.

Everything comes to him who waits--even old age--if he waits long enough. But NOW is the time to order your UNION.

UNION CYCLE MFG. CO., HIGHLANDVILLE, MASS.

Mr. Stokes, of Chicago, attends to our Western business.

"FEATHERSTONE'S PNEUMATICS."

For the convenience of our Eastern trade we have established distributing depots for our Pneumatic Tyres in the following cities, to which all correspondence for the respective districts should be addressed: Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Newark. The New England trade will be supplied through WRIGHT & DITSON of Boston; New York City, Brooklyn, Eastern and Southern New York State through Messrs. SCHOVERLING, DALY & GALES of New York City; Central and Eastern Pennsylvania and Maryland, with the exception of Baltimore City, through the SWEETING CYCLE CO. of Philadelphia; the State of New Jersey through Messrs. HOWARD A. SMITH & CO. of Newark, N. J.; Baltimore City through Messrs. CLINE BROS. of Baltimore.

These distributing depots will carry in stock a large supply of Pneumatic Wheels from which the Eastern trade in their respective territories will be promptly supplied. By drawing your supply from these depots near at hand you will at all times be able to get them promptly as you may need them instead of waiting until they could be shipped from here.

You will recognize it was late in the season when these Pneumatic patents were transferred to us, and it has been impossible to get out a supply of these Pneumatic Machines before, as great skill and care is required to make these machines, second to none in the market in point of grade and finish.

The cycle trade have too much intelligence to believe that the mechanical skill and capital of this country can be controlled by any two or three bicycle makers, and any one whose ignorance or personal interest may persuade them to say that our bicycles will not be strictly high grade and equal to any now made, had better wait until they see them. It is impossible to know what they are talking about until they have.

We now have about 1200 men working on these Pneumatics, having made a contract with the Ames Mfg. Co., the well known bicycle makers of Chicopee, Mass., to run nearly their entire plant on a part of our work.

We shall be able to deliver 500 finished Pneumatic Bicycles a week, both for men and women, beginning March 15th, and can increase this ouput if the trade should demand it.

All manufacturers will tell you their particular machine is the best; we say nothing about ours, it will speak for itself. We simply refer you to the record of the Pneumatic and to the riders of it.

You may put it down that the Pneumatic Tyre has passed through all its stages of experiment and is now a success, that it is the tyre of the future, and that some riders already know, and all others will find that they will not be in it without the Pneumatic.

C. W. FOURDRINIER. J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 20 FEBRUARY, 1891.

NATIONAL MEET at Detroit, July 16, 17 and 18.

THE election is over and the result cannot fail to be most satisfactory to the League at large. President James R. Dunn needs no introduction and no words of ours can add to his reputation as an enthusiastic League worker. His past record speaks louder than words. We congratulate the League on Mr. Dunn's re-election.

Major C. L. Burdett. the First Vice-President, is one of the strongest League men in Connecticut, by profession a lawyer, and a civil engineer by training, a man of parts, a man who will bring strength and dignity to the League. He is an enthusiast on the subject of Road Improvements. The selection is a wise one, as will be verified and proven as time progresses and Major Burdett's work and influence begin to show.

Dr. G. Carleton Brown, the Second Vice-President, is already well known to most League men and has made a record in his own State for himself as a worker and a safe man to follow. This record insured him the support of the convention and was a flattering but deserved acknowledgement of his worth.

MR. PRIAL is not a great success as a political prophet. He does not seem to be able to grasp the situation, and draw conclusions from facts as they are, but wanders off into the uncertainties of speculation. Our friend is a success only when wholly in the realm of fancy, and then he wields a very pretty pen.

THE shades of Longfellow were observed to flit uneasily about the Convention room in Willards Hotel, Washington, during the reading of Secretary Bassett's report, and on conclusion of same a delegate with a proper sense of the fitness of things, moved a vote of thanks and gratitude be passed to the memory of the dead poet for the inspiration evidently controlling the talented Secretary-Editor.

THE thanks (?) of the convention ought to have been tendered Mr. Perkins of Massachusetts, who showed marvellous presence of mind in closing and bolting the door of the room in which the convention sat on the occasion of Mr. Potter being called on to read his report as Chairman of the Roads Improvement Committee. It was observed, however, that Mr. Brewster performed a flank movement and in a fainting condition escaped through a window in the rear during the second hour of the reading. The report was excellent nevertheless, and was a most exhaustive essay on the question of Roads Improvement in all its bearings. Whether the report will be printed in full the Executive Committee will decide later on.

AS soon as affairs began to shape themselves in Washington so that the result of the election was pretty well forecast it was edifying to note what a scurrying there was among the minority to "get under cover."

THE ethereal looking colored gentleman whose duty is to announce in the rotunda of Willards the departure of trains from Washington, was requested last Monday to give information to an excited delegate who happened to be on the wrong side of the question, as to "when the first train for Salt River would leave."

ONE of the strange features of the caucus work was that in the general wire pulling the Western men refused to name any man to go on the ticket other than Mr. Dunn. They could not be switched off by any proposed deal. They all said that they were satisfied with Mr. Dunn as being a representative from the West.

CONNECTICUT has furnished the League with a most excellent presiding officer. His clear grasp of all points of order and his ready decision and fairness were very gratifying. We are exceedingly pleased that there is a lawyer on the Executive Committee. Whatever opinions many laymen may have of the profession, their training cannot but prove of value in any matter the committee may be called to act upon.

IN the report of the Roads Improvement Committee, it was suggested that the League of American Wheelmen and the Farmers' Alliance join forces in the interest of good roads. This would be going into politics with a vengeance! And we doubt very much whether the League members would consent for one moment to make pledges to support any particular political party through thick and thin. The argument used by the friends of the scheme is that nothing can be done unless concerted action be taken by the League with some political party which is pledged to the advancement of road improvement legislation. While the argument is feasible—nay, perhaps based on the broadest grounds of common sense—we do not believe that it would be possible to make any pledges which would be worth the paper they were written on. It may be that the League, single-handed, will make slow progress in the matter of road improvement, but it is very sure that the members at large of the League will never consent to an alliance with any political party. It might be easy to make the "pledge," but it would be another thing to make the pledge hold. The theory may be good, but the actual fulfillment would be practically impossible.

SPEAKING of alliances: If we understand the matter aright a proposition is to be made by the A. A. U. to the L. A. W. on the basis of allowing a representative of the L. A. W. a place and a voice in the meetings of the A. A. U. On the face of it this seems to be a pretty fair proposition for the L. A. W. to entertain, especially as in the pleasant talk by Mr. Matthewson before the L. A. W. Assembly at Washington there was no indication that any return was expected other than that of good fellowship and concerted action for the general good of the amateur cause. We shall be pleased to see the terms of proposed alliance in writing, and then we can judge as to its advisability. In the meantime we view it in the light of an "Olive branch," which we hope is the harbinger of peace and harmony.

A GOOD deal of disappointment was evinced in Washington among the L. A. W. delegates when the news reached them that the A. A. U., at the meeting in Boston, had failed to take any action on the questions of expense and prizes as agreed upon by the Joint Committee. It seems to us that the A. A. U. ought to have taken some definite action in regard to the matter. They have had ample time to informally discuss the matter, and it is nothing but right to the athletic public that the matter under discussion should receive prompt action. We hope, however, that the meeting which is to be held at New York tomorrow will bring about something definite on the subject. Possibly it may be the intention of the A. A. U. to defer action on the expense and prize matter until the matter of the proposed alliance is settled.

THE manufacturers and importers are making great preparations to be well represented at the cycle show in Philadelphia, commencing March 2 and ending March 7. Every effort should be made by all wheelmen to make this show a permanent affair, and it is only by evincing interest and practical support that it can be made a success. We want to see Philadelphia's enterprise rewarded, so that the promoters can feel encouraged to make the show an annual fixture.

MR. GOLDER, who is now in this country, is better known as a cycling press man than as one in the trade. For a long time he has been connected with the Cyclist, and has done much good work. He is an exceedingly quiet gentlemen and impresses one as being thoughtful. He is lacking entirely in that habit of "bouncing" so many Englishmen are addicted to. Mr. Golder will write his impressions on America for Wheeling, and we are informed that he is already at work upon an article on the cycling press men of the United States. We have had our little shy at him first.

VERILY, mighty is the power of the press, and great is the learning of those who uphold its powers by the pens they wield! How neat and appropriate is the newly designed badge of the Buffalo Press Cycling Club? "Formed of a bar, a wheel, a chain and a sword." Could any combination more perfectly denote the power and purpose of the club whose emblem it is? Yes, alas! indeed, even the "bar" becomes an important part of the artistic whole, when one stops to consider how many inspirations have come to the weary quill-driver across the polished or dingy top of a bar.

LOUISVILLE thinks that perhaps it might introduce a winning novelty in racing by electric light. Our advice to them is not to do it. It has been tried and it has failed, at least as far as outdoor racing is concerned. Racing, never free from an element of danger, has that danger greatly and unnecessarily increased, and when it is attempted under the deceptive lights and shadows of a glistening electric light, and those who love either the sport or its racing men will not encourage any such foolhardy performance as after-dark race meets out of doors.

THE wheelmen or anybody else intereted in Roads Improvement will find in Washington and vicinity the most instructive object lessons. Let the visitor compare the magnificent streets paved with asphalt and the sloughs of liquid mud yclept roads which surround the Capital during the rainy season. In the District one can find the two extremes, the finest system of paved streets in the world on one hand, and the most miserable of country highways on the other. We saw a wagon drawn by six horses in Washington the other day. The spaces between the spokes were solid mud, while the horses and the driver were literally plastered with red mud up to the ears. It required six horses to draw a load over the vile roads, which two horses could have easily drawn at a much greater rate of speed, had its highways been in even decent condition. Isn't it strange that with such a contrast of things existing under their very nose, the granger absolutely refuses to see the false economy of his opposition to the cost of making and maintaining good roads?

WE are unavoidably late with our paper this week on account of the delay in receiving the proceedings of the National Assembly.

L. A W. NATIONAL ASSEMBLY,

AT WASHINGTON, D. C.,

February 16, 1891.

UNLIKE many of the meetings in the immediate past, the results of the election of the officers of the L. A. W., were up to the last moment very unsettled.

When the representative of the WORLD returned from the West about two weeks ago, he was aware that there was a certain amount of breeze which might develop into quite a gale before the time of election arrived. On arriving in Washington on Saturday night he found that things were decidedly mixed, and in fact, the friends of Mr. Dunn were rather blue in contemplating the outlook. The reasons given for the upheaval were, first the fact that the friends of Mr. Mott claimed that Mr. Dunn had not treated him in a fair manner. The other fact which strengthened opposition, was the supposed friction between Mr. Dunn and the members of the Racing Board and other committees.

While the delegates were not here in full force Saturday evening, sufficient numbers of them were present to indicate somewhat the way they were thinking. It was, however, agreed that the caucus to the different divisions should be postponed until such time as Mr. Dunn would be present in Washington to make any explanations that he chose in regard to his side of the question. This policy was followed out, and it was a noticeable fact that by Sunday evening a revulsion of feeling had set in in favor of Mr. Dunn, and while there was nothing absolutely settled, it was very evident that he had strengthened his position very materially.

Another feature which rather complicated matters was the fact that the officers of the A. A. U., at their meeting in Boston Saturday, did not take any action in regard to the adoption of the Racing rules as adopted by the joint committee in New York City. The Washington papers and also the New York papers were closely scanned for some news as to the results, but not a word could be found in any of those journals. The delegates from Boston, who left that city late Saturday night, were also utterly in the dark as to what was done there, if anything. The editor of the WORLD, however, through the courtesy of the manager of the Boston Herald, was enabled to place himself in communication with Boston, and it was found that the A. A. U. had been apparently shrewd enough to defer action until after the meeting of the L. A. W.

This was a circumstance which the Racing Board had not contemplated, as they supposed they would be able to go before the National Meeting with a report and suggestions based on the action of the A. A. U. In fact, the Racing Board had appointed a meeting for Sunday afternoon expecting that the results of the Boston meeting would be known to them by that time. The lack of action was a great disappointment to the members of the Racing Board as well as to the members of the National Assembly.

The name placed prominently as being in opposition to Mr. Dunn was Maj. Burdett of Connecticut for President. The name also of Mr. Geo. R. Bidwell of New York had been brought forward by the New York delegation in connection with the office of President. Mr. Prial of New York had put forward his name editorially, and in connection had also named for First and Second Vice President, Mr. Dean of Massachusetts and Mr. Mott of Maryland. A curious omission on the part of Mr. Prial being that of Dr. Brown, whom it was acknowledged by all of the delegates was sure of a place on the ticket. It must be confessed that it did look very much like Maj. Burdett for a time, but after a careful canvassing of the pros and cons, and Mr. Dunn had made certain explanations, it was seen that that combination could not be made to work.

The Massachusetts delegation were the last ones to arrive, and, in fact, they deferred their caucus until half past nine Monday morning, at which they expected certain members who had not arrived before would be present. A good deal of interest was evinced by the friends of the different candidates as to the position Massachusetts would take.

Just before the convention assembled a new combination was suggested, and it was worked for all it was worth. The combination was Dunn, A. Mott and A. W. Robinson of Massachusetts, it being understood in the meantime that Mr. Bidwell would have his name withdrawn, and that New York would throw its vote for Mr. Dunn. This condition of affairs assured Mr. Dunn for the first position on the ticket.

The friends of the candidates for First Vice and Second Vice were both confident that they would be able to elect their several tickets. It was most evident, however, to the casual observer that Dr. Brown was altogether too strong to be thrown over.

THE MEETING.

The convention assembled at 10:30. The first order of business was the report of the credentials committee, Sanford Lawton, chairman. This committee reported that there were seventy-nine votes personally represented, and votes represented by proxy, fifty-eight, making a total of one hundred and thirty-seven, out of a possible one hundred and fifty-five.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT.

The report of the President, through a misunderstanding, had not reached us up to the time of going to press; it will therefore be published in our next issue.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY.

SHOULD you ask me why this preface? Why this gratulating preface? with its plaudits and its praises, with its cry of "jubilate," song of triumph for the record, record made of thrice six thousand, I should answer, I should tell you, tell you that I stand before you to exhibit the largest enrolment of members that our organization has ever put upon its books. Last year I peeped a feeble note of triumph over the enrollment of 12,500 members, but that record takes off its hat with humility to the record of 1891, and retires to a remote second place; while the proud record of '91 sees the crest-fallen record of 90 and goes it better by nearly fifty per cent. The fact that we have done better in the total enrolment naturally carries with it the fact that we renewed more members and added more new names than ever before. I exhibit a table showing the membership totals for last year, and the totals to date of the present year.

And if we shall heed the bidding, work with will as ne'er before, we shall each a greater triumph and press onward evermore.

REPORT OF THE MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE, L. A. W.

Mr. James R. Dunn, President L. A. W.:

Dear Sir—After receiving your valued appointment as Chairman of the Membership Committee we deemed it prudent to take counsel with the sage Secretary-Editor that we might form some conception of the duties and requirements of the office before accepting the responsibilities of the same. The emphatic manner in which our friend assured us that any appointment to that committee was a compliment, and that there was literally nothing to do—citing the experience of the committee just dismissed, who had had not a single case and had not even rendered a report—decided us, and we entered upon the onerous duties of the office, full of brave determination to sit with folded hands, work just as hard as our predecessors had been called upon to do, and retain our vote in the National Assembly thereby. As a result of our labors it becomes our privilege to report that the affairs in this department of the League machinery are in good working order Throughout the year the members of our committee have worked in entire unanimity, and with an ardor born only of a desire to do well whatever the hand finds to do, and with a wisdom and discretion that withholds from the left hand a knowledge of what the right may be doing. Fourteen cases, as per the attached list, have demanded our sober judgment: six of the protests were sustained, three of the charges being for professionalism, and three expulsions from League Clubs for non-payment of dues. Six of the cases were dismissed, and no action was necessary for the other two.

Plainly it does not come within the scope of this committee to criticise or utter futile complaint, yet we wish the average protestant had a more dignified conception of a protest and its mission. A casual perusal of the budget accompanying our report will convince the most disinterested reader of the small motives, petty jealousies, club wranglings, etc., etc., that enter very largely into what is deemed sufficient cause for a protest. Wipe out the element of personal spite and animosity, and you do away with the cause of one half the protests. Respectfully submitted,

Sanford Lawton, Chairman,
George C. Pennell,
George C. Arbuckle,
Membership Committee.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENTS COMMITTEE.

This report was very long and exhaustive and is still in the hands of the committee.

HOTELS.

To the L. A. W. National Assembly:

Gentlemen—This committee have no especial report to make at this time, as, under the present rules, the committee are utterly unable to do any practical work, beyond the distribution of hotel application blanks and certificates of appointment.

We have the following recommendation to offer, which, if adopted, we believe will make the hotel committee one of the most important committees of the organization. We recommend that this committee be changed from a special to a national committee, and that the chairman be given power to appoint all hotels, upon the recommendation of the local consuls. By the adoption of this plan, the committee will be in possession of a complete list of hotels, rates, etc., and will then be enabled to furnish much valuable information to the members of the organization.

Notwithstanding the fact that earnest efforts have been made to secure a complete list of hotels, the committee, through the indifference or neglect of some of the Division officers, have utterly failed, and we are therefore unable to furnish information when called upon.

We further recommend that, unless some such plan is adopted, the hotel committee be abandoned.

Respectfully submitted,
Geo. S. Atwater, Chairman.

After the reports of the different committees had been submitted, read and accepted, the convention adjourned to reconvene at half-past one, at which time the important business of electing the officers would take place. During the adjournment a splendid picture of the delegation was taken on the steps of Willard Hall.

The delegates reassembled at 2, and at once began business. Mr. Geo. A. Perkins of Massachusetts nominated Mr. Dunn in a well-made speech, while Mr. Shriver of New York seconded the nomination, and Mr. Potter in a most eloquent speech, moved that the secretary be instructed to cast one ballot for James R. Dunn. This change of front by the New York men was the cause of the wildest enthusiasm. The fun then commenced, and Mr. Kirkpatrick of Ohio nominated for first vice-president Maj. C. L. Burdett of Connecticut; Mr. Cooke of Rhode Island seconded the nomination. Mr. Luscomb of New York then made an able appeal on behalf of Mr. A. Mott. His speech was a good one, and he was well seconded by Mr. Willison of Maryland. The convention then proceeded to ballot. Mr. Van Nort of Pennsylvania and Mr. Randall of Illinois were appointed a committee to receive and count the ballots, and on reporting the result of the ballot for first vice-president, announced that C. L. Burdett of Connecticut received seventy-eight votes and Albert Mott fifty-nine votes. The chair then declared Maj. Burdette elected to the office of first vice-president. This caused somewhat of a panic in the Massachusetts ranks, as they feared that certain votes which had been pledged to Robinson would go over to the other candidate, and the result indicated that this was so. Mr. A. A. Dean of Connecticut nominated G. Carleton Brown; Mr. Crowther of Pennsylvania nominated Mr. Robinson. It was rather a forlorn hope for the Robinson men, but they stuck to their candidate loyally. Returns, as reported by the committee, showed that G. C. Brown of New Jersey had received eighty-three votes, while A. W. Robinson polled forty-nine.

There was no opposition to the nomination of Mr. W. M.

Brewster of Illinois to re-election to the post of Treasurer, and the Secretary was instructed to cast one vote for that gentleman. Mr. Potter of New York, in complimentary terms, and, we trust, in a manner satisfactory to Mr. Brewster, did the honors in nominating Mr. Brewster, and, as there was no opposition, he was re-elected unanimously. After the smoke had cleared away from a rather short, sharp and decisive battle, the amendments to the by-laws presented by Mr. Bassett were taken up, and were all passed except the amendment to Article III., providing for the appointment of delegates on failure of a Division to elect. This brought out much discussion, and, although the amendment was killed on a point of order, the sentiment of the meeting was clearly against the amendment. During the discussion many points of order were raised. Vice-President Burdett was in the chair, and proved himself to be a most excellent presiding officer.

President Dunn here read a letter from the committee of the A. A. U. as follows:

To the President of the League of American Wheelmen, Willard's:

Dear Sir—We beg to inform you that we have been appointed by the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, a committee to lay before your organization a proposition for an alliance which, if affected, would conduce to the permanent good feeling and harmonious action which both bodies interestood would, we feel sure, view with gratification.

Awaiting your pleasure we remain, Yours, etc.,
H. McMILLAN, President,
CHAS. F. MATTHEWSON,
Committee.

The Arlington.

It was voted that the gentlemen be invited to address the meeting, and President Dunn and Chairman Davol were appointed a committee to escort Messrs. McMillan and Matthewson to the meeting. While the committee was absent, Mr. Wells of Massachusetts moved that the assembly accept the invitation of the Columbia Cycle Club to the banquet and a vote of thanks to the club and Mr. Atwater for the invitation and other courtesies. This having been passed unanimously, "Griff," in his usual mellifluous tones, addressed the meeting and extended to the League an invitation to meet in Detroit. The City of the Straits, he said, was waiting for the League and that the members would have such a good time that they would wish they had to do it over again. President Dunn spoke of the advantages Detroit had to offer and it was voted that the League meet for 1891 be held at Detroit on July 16, 17 and 18.

Mr. Matthewson of the A. A. U. here addressed the meeting. He suggested that the League form an alliance with the A. A. U. similar to that existing between the A. A. U. and the North American Turnerbund. He thought such an alliance was one that other athletic associations would adopt. One that would control every branch of athletics. While he recognized that the League was the great controlling power in wheeling, his association had an interest in the sport and the best results would be obtained by co-operation. They had a plan of reorganization of the A. A. U. The consititution favors the forming of alliances and they had power to make an alliance. The plan was to have each division represented. The League would have a representative who could vote on all questions. If an alliance was made it could be terminated at any time by either party on thirty days' notice. They would agree to no rules affecting cycling without the consent of the League. He suggested that a committee of the League confer with the A. A. U. and be given power to draft an agreement of alliance. President McMillan also made a brief address of the same general terms. Mr. Potter said there was an unanimous feeling of appreciation for the acts of the managers of the A. A. U., as to the subject matter it could be considered better by a committee. Mr. Post of Connecticut moved that the matter be referred to the Executive Committee, with the Racing Board, with full powers. Passed.

The recommendations of officers and committees were referred to the Executive Committee with power to act.

Adjourned.

THE BANQUET.

The Columbia Cycle Club of Washington did itself proud in the matter of its generous hospitality tendered the visitors on Monday evening. A long table stretched from the door of Fleischmann's restaurant to the rear, at which point another table was placed at right angles. Over 150 sat down at 9 o'clock to discuss the collation, which was most delicious and varied in its make-up. Salads, cold meats, confections and fruit, enough in quantity to satisfy the appetites of twice 150 hungry cyclists was placedbefore the guests, and we were pleased to notice that ample justice was done the viands. At about 11 o'clock the men had evidently eaten their fill, and were in a happy frame of mind to enjoy the speeches. Mr. Atwater opened the post-prandial exercises by welcoming the guests, and then he introduced Mr. Hay as the toastmaster of the evening, which duty he performed in the most satisfactory manner. The principal speakers of the evening were President Dunn, Vice-President Burdett, Col. Pope, ex-President Luscomb, Secretary Bassett, W. H. DeGraaf. Much enthusiasm was awakened by the speeches of these gentlemen, and it was not until after midnight that the guests left, filled with good cheer and sweet memories of the generous hospitality of the Columbia Cycle Club.

BOSTON NOTES.

"TONEY."

THE members of the Somerville Cycle Club are now interested in solving the problem of where and when to hold their annual dinner to which all will turn out and attend. It is thought, however, that the dinner will be eaten at either Young's Hotel or the Parker House, which are the only hotels in this vicinity having dining-room sufficiently large enough to accommodate the half-hundred members of that organization.

DURING the next half-dozen weeks the whist players of the Rovers' Cycle Club of Charlestown will endeavor to outdo each other at the whist table in order to gain an opportunity to receive first or second prize in the tournament. The battle has been going on for several weeks, and at the conclusion of the game last Saturday evening "Little Tot" headed the list with a score of 48 points to the good, with Henry Martin second and Fergurson and Allen fighting for the booby prize.

THE Rhode Island Wheelmen made a bold stroke when they invited the commissioners of parks to join them in the festivities attendant upon their annual banquet. The commissioners received the invitation in the manner intended and showed their appreciation of the kindness by attending the dinner. They were delighted to hear that the wheelmen would be their staunch allies in the carrying out of the commissioners' plans for the improvement of Roger Williams' Park.

CHIEF CONSUL ARTHUR W. ROBINSON and Vice-Consul George H. Perkins have entered upon the discharge of the duties of their new offices with a spirit that augurs most promising for the future welfare of the Division. They have already issued blank petitions addressed to the Massachusetts Legislature asking for the enactment of a law permitting the appointment of a highway and bridge commission. Not only are they circulating these petitions among the general wheelmen, but they have also placed a number of them in the hands of Secretary Jewett of the New England Trotting Horse Breeders' Association, who has promised to do all in his power to assist the gentlemen in reaching the goal of their ambition—the passage of such a law.

CHICAGO NOTES.

"WAYNE SCOTT."

WEATHER! well, Chicago weather can't be beat, two snow storms this winter and to-day the air is as balmy as spring; the roads are good and touring parties are being formed to-day for Aurora, Evanston and Highland Park. At this rate Chicago will be the greatest winter resort in the world.

ROCKFORD will make a strong bid for the Illinois Division meet. The 200 wheelmen are now hard at work, thanks to the good work of R. C. Lennie of the Illinois Cycling Club, who personally saw the wheelmen of the town. It has a fine system of paved streets, a number of very fine runs, two good race tracks and picnic grounds all along the river. Rockford is booming, and its people recognize the fact that there is no better way of advertising their city and will try to eclipse anything the Illinois Division has ever had before.

AT the annual meeting of the Associated Cycling Clubs held last Thursday night, officers were elected for '91; the former officers were continued in office by unanimous vote. R. G. Betts, G. K. Barrett and E. J. Roberts, the committee appointed to select suitable courses for road records, reported upon nearly all the neighboring towns. The records made over these courses will be passed upon by competent judges and upon being approved by the committee will be entered upon a book of records.

DOUGLAS Cycling Club members feel highly elated over the huge success achieved at their annual masquerade ball last Friday evening; 175 couples were present. Apollo Hall was gayly decorated and with handsome costumes presented a gay and pretty sight.

RECEPTIONS and dances have been given and will be given, but never has one been given to equal the fourth dance of this winter's series given by the Illinois Cycling Club last Friday night; 75 couples were in attendance and not one but was strictly in full dress. Music was furnished by Fitzgerald's orchestra, while nimble feet wandered through a programme of 14 numbers. A light lunch was served during the evening by French.

TWO HUNDRED dollars was cleared and a piano purchased with the proceeds at the smoker of the Columbia Wheelmen at their club house last Saturday evening. The prize was a music cabinet. Entertainment was provided and lunch and cigars followed.

A SPLENDID meeting was held by the Cook County Wheelmen this last week and passed an amendment to the constitution making applicants for membership under 21 ineligible. The club's road book is now well under way, the committee being hard at work on it. It will be a neat 100-page book (pocket size. 5 1-2 by 3 1-2), containing some 30 tours, with maps and other useful information to wheelmen. This book will be mailed to all League members in the State.

AND now, Connecticut, where are you? Illinois is tie with you and nearly 100 more to come. The meeting held in this city last Saturday evening of the Illinois Division, L. A. W., was attended by nearly 450 wheelmen. A mandolin orchestra provided the music and some rattling good speeches were made. An elegant little lunch followed. R. D. Garden, R. G. Betts and Dr. C. B. Gibson, the committee, can be thanked for the great success of the enterprise.

SYRACUSE. "SALINA."

IT is unfortunate that the Onondaga Cycle Club again seems to be in trouble, and, if rumor can be relied upon, its life is of short duration. At the last meeting, President Lancaster offered a resolution to disband the club. The motion was lost, however, though a number of resignations were handed in. It is said that charges were to be preferred against the president, but this would hardly seem probable, as he was most active in the club's welfare. It is too bad that discord has arisen, as it was for the second time on its feet, with splendid chances of success, there being plenty of room for two organizations in the city.

THE third stag progressive euchre party was held at the home of the Syracuse Cycling Club on Feb. 9, and an enjoyable time was spent in which the honors were divided as follows: First royal, Theodore Rattenberg; second royal, G. Howard Avery; first booby, Geo. Westfall; second booby, Clarence Decker.

THE Thursday afternoon and evening ladies' receptions at the club house are a grand success and are becoming more popular every week. Music is furnished by the club orchestra and many other pleasant features are introduced. Every one enjoys themselves except Mac. By the way, Mac, be careful what you do, our late president is after you.

MY friend, the correspondent to the Wheel, seems to be a little hasty in his remarks regarding Mr. Bassett and the L. A. W., and also lacks knowledge as to the location of the Membership Committee, as a matter of fact every member of the S. C. C. does not wish to see "the four" expelled from the League. Editor Prial's advice is good and it is much better to go slow.

SINCE my last letter the Syracuse Cycling Club has had another important meeting, when the "expulsion" matter of October last came up again. It seems that, although Mr. Bassett was officialy notified of the expulsion, he failed to acknowledge its receipt and no action has up to date been taken by the League, for which the members, or at least some, feel the club has been slighted. Upon resolution, so the rumor goes, the secretary was instructed to draw up a letter calling the Chief Consul to account. What the outcome of the matter will be no one seems to know.

ONE thing seems clear, however, and that is that Vice-Consul Wood seems to be in pretty good standing with the Division if not the S. C. C., as he presided at the meeting of the Board of Officers of the New York Division on Feb. 9 in the presence of the Chief Consul. At this meeting Syracuse put in application for a date in the proposed racing circuit.

CHAIRMAN JOHNSON of the house committee is a hustler. He is now superintending the placing of electric lights all through the house. He has also placed a splendid oak roller-top desk in the committee room for the convenience of the officers.

BUFFALO NOTES. "SETAGEC."

BUFFALO always has the latest in bicycle clubs, and besides our Doctors Bicycle, Press Cycling, Ladies Wheel and Athletic, Roamers, Ramblers, Mystics, Wanderers, Iroquois, Mohawks, Koaxes, Zig Zags, Travelers and a score of others, we now have a Faternity Cycling Club, composed of high degree Masons, and they hold their meetings on the plan of a Fortnight Literary Club, meeting around at the members' homes, where almost every thing but cycling is discussed. Good luck to you brothers, may you reach the mystic shrine of cycling!

"WHAT NEXT!" Well, let's get ready for the 1891 annual League meet.

A WESTERN cycle paper says "Hawkshaw" is bald-headed.

RALPH TEMPLE was in town this week.

ON the evening of the 28th at the Arsenal games there will be some more indoor cycle races, but the riders will be mostly dark horses.

ROBINSON of the Standard Cycle Company says: "These newspaper correspondents that get up these controversies ought to be locked in a room where they can fight it out without bothering the public." That is a sensible idea, and I agree with him, but it is hard to put into practice.

AT the joint athletic games of the Buffalo Athletic Club and the Athletic Association of the 74th Regiment, held in the Virginia Street Armory last night (the 19th), quite a number of wheelmen took part. Schmidt and Macbeth with Brunner, Kiipfel, Moore, Smith, Johnson and Crooker represented the Ramblers. The Press Cycling Club entered Rhodes and Sampman, while the Roamers were represented by Dayton, Rick and Blanchard.

THE Zig Zags are having a little boom in membership, and the Zs will be in it this year sure.

THE Ramblers celebrated their sixth anniversary this week with a jollification and dancing.

BILLY HUGHSON and John Wirtner have gone again to 'Frisco, and Billy says he expects to have dust enough next time he comes back to build his club the best club house in town. Forty of their fellow club mates farewelled them at the depot.

I SAID only Daniels went to Bermuda; I was wrong, three others of the Buffalos went with him, and they intended to make a longer stay than he did.

CHIEF CONSUL BULL and W. S. Jenkins attended the League meeting at Washington this week.

THE Zig Zags and Roamers hold their annual election in April; the Press Cyclers were to do so too, but instead will hold their election earlier, I am told.

JOE KANE, the popular captain of the Ramblers lost his father last week. His father had been sick but a short time and his death was very sudden; it will be sad news to the friends of Captain Kane.

THE Buffalos' whist tournament is still in progress.

LARGE numbers of wheelmen were out for a ride last Sunday, and the Park seemed like old times.

NEWS AND COMMENT.

OUR surprise at hearing of the return to the United States of Mr. H. G. Priest of the Quadrant Co. was only excelled by our pleasure at seeing that gentleman for a few moments at Philadelphia last Tuesday. Mr. Priest's stay in this country will be very short this time, as he will probably be on his way back to England before this reaches many of our readers.

THE Peoria, Ill., Cycling Club are to be congratulated on their new club house which they have recently occupied. No expense was spared in remodelling and fitting up the interior, and the result is that they have one of the handsomest club homes in that section of the country. The club is made up of the best young men in the city, and they have hosts of well wishes for their future prosperity.

THE Second Ladies' night of the Somerville, Mass., Cycle Club was held on the evening of February 12. About fifty persons were in attendance, and a short entertainment, refreshments and dancing were provided for the enjoyment of those present.

WILL some member of the L. A. W. confer a favor on a victim of the bicycle craze, by informing him of the best riding road (no hurry for a lazy man) between New York and Washington, D. C. The aforesaid victim is not partial to sand, though an admirer of "Grit."

THE Long Island Wheelmen will hold a stag reception at their club house on February 28.

WE extend our heartiest congratulations to Mr. Troy of the well known house of A. B. Rich & Co. of New York on the birth of a daughter.

MISS MAGGIE KIRKWOOD is one of the best lady riders of New England. Miss Kirkwood is engaged during the day, so that her riding has been done evenings after eight o'clock, and on Sundays and holidays. Her record, therefore, of 2281 miles for the year 1890 is quite remarkable. In eight rides she covered between 50 and 60 miles, and the best single ride she covered a distance of 117 miles.

IN a late issue we spoke of Mr. H. G. Sawyer as having been appointed a local consul in Vermont. We should have said New Hampshire, and our apologies are duly made.

MR. MARRATT of the Coventry Machinists' Co. is now in this country for a short space of time. Mr. Hill, the American manager for the same company also returned to this country about two weeks ago.

MESSRS. Plunkett, Glessom and Joslyn of the Francis Wilson Opera Co. were the guests of the Victor Cycle Club of Washington, D. C., on a highly enjoyable run to "Cabin John Bridge" on February 6th. The members of this club are all enthusiastic wheelmen, and with the present outlook will double their membership the coming season.

ON the evening of February 13th, the Binghamton, N. Y., Wheel Club made a departure from their usual "Stag," and enjoyed a Ladies' night with progressive euchre, music and dancing—light refreshments were served. The affair was a great success in every particular, and much credit is due the committee who had the matter entrusted to their care.

MR. HERMAN SERODINO, a prominent member of the Wanderers' Cycle Club (of Cincinnati) entertained the members of that club at his residence on the evening of the 13th inst. A jolly time was had, and plans for the coming season discussed.

THAT it is not altogether safe to coast a steep hill with worn out tires, even on a safety, was demonstrated by a member of the Wanderers' Cycle Club of Cincinnati on the occasion of a club run a few days ago. The tire on the front wheel gave way, choked up the fork, and rider and wheel immediately begun to turn somersaults. Both were slightly disfigured, but they are still in the ring.

THE Washington Club of Chicago, Ill., will celebrate Washington's birthday tomorrow evening at the clubhouse, 653 West Adams street.

"JACK" SEWARD of the "Rovers" of Charlestown, Mass., met with a serious accident Tuesday while coasting down the Capitol Hill at Washington. He lost control of his machine, and was thrown so heavily as to be rendered unconscious. Luckily, no bones were broken, though Mr. Seward was very lame and sore, and had injured his hand somewhat.

IT is rumored that R. J. Mecredy of the Dublin Bicycle Club and W. C. Jones of the London Polytechnic will visit this country and take part in the cycling tournaments during the summer.

The Pennsylvania Bicycle Club (Philadelphia) held their second annual musicale on the evening of Feb. 12 at their clubrooms, Twenty-Ninth street and Girard avenue. The rooms were prettily decorated, and the attendance of members and lady friends was large.

The Rhode Island Wheelmen (Providence) held their annual banquet on the evening of Feb. 13. About 70 persons, with invited guests, were present.

AN exchange says: "Some of the champions of velocipede days, now turned gray, in many instances, are giving their attention to the new wheel, in hopes, like Ponce de Leon, to find the spring of perpetual youth—not in the wilds of Florida, however, but in the best quality of steel."

THE friends of Mr. T. E. Lambert of Boston will learn with sorrow of his death after a brief illness. Mr. Lambert was an enthusiastic wheelman, a member of the Boston Bi. Club, and one of the most popular of men among his associates. In the death of Mr. Lambert the editor of this paper feels that he has lost a dear personal friend.

THE Apollo Cycle Club of Taunton, Mass., will hold their first grand social in Davol's Block Friday evening, February 27th.

JACK PRINCE, the well known old time professional is on his way East. He sent in a letter for publication, which shall have space in our next issue, refuting charges made by our Detroit correspondent "Judge."

W. W. STALL announces that he will give the ninth annual spring opening next Monday, February 23; hours from nine A. M. to four P. M. He will show a full line of 1891 model machines; Psychos, Rivals, Eagles, Stars, and "the mysterious $150 Elliott Hickory." Mr. Stall's place at 509 Tremont street has been refitted, remodelled and much improved, and all wheelmen are specially and cordially invited to call up and see him on the 23d.

"SPECIAL APOLLO" SAFETY.

THIS safety is recommended as one that has been tried and proved on all sorts and conditions of roads. It has a staunch diamond frame, ball bearings to all running parts, including pedals, Singer improved long socket ball steering and Singer steering lock—a most important addition to a safety bicycle,—seamless steel tubing (cold drawn), hardened steel rollerchain, and its rubber-cushion tires have the unquestioned advantage of being fastened on "to stay," by the well known spring-wire attachment, to which Singer & Co. have the exclusive right, and which have been used on their wheels for a number of years past, to the mutual satisfaction of the manufacturer and the rider of Singer cycles.

SPECIFICATION—30-inch wheels, speeded to 57-inch; spring-wired cushion tires; ball bearings to all running parts, including pedals; Singer ball steering; Singer steering lock; roller chain; weldless steel tube frame, handle-bar and forks; guard to both wheels and to chain; brake; foot-rests; lampholder; best combined saddle and spring; spanner; a most popular safety, enamelled and lined. Price (30-inch wheel), $130.

LOVELL DIAMOND CYCLES.

THESE wheels are manufactured by the John P. Lovell Arms Co. of Boston, Mass. Their No. 1 Diamond has now passed through its first season of use before the riding public, and to see that it was a success all you will have to do is to ask any of the riders who are now using these wheels. The demand for these machines last season was five times as great as the supply; they had inquiries from all parts of the country for them, but were unable to do anything, as they could hardly get enough machines to supply their home trade. Wherever introduced the machine met with the most flattering success, and inquiries for the agency poured in on the company, and in some cities and towns the applications numbered from two to seven from a single place. The increased demand is eloquent evidence as to how the Lovell Diamond is viewed by riders. They have made arrangements to turn out this season three times the quantity of last season, and will try in every way to supply all the wheels necessary. There will be few radical changes made in the wheel from last season, as it was satisfactory in every way then, but, however, they have improved it by putting on a little longer handle bar, with more curve, a new hammock spring saddle, with springs on both front and back, and with an entirely new idea of adjusting, which is very simple and neat. The saddle has been pronounced, by those who have tried it, to be one of the easiest that has been placed on the market. They have also put on a new step, which is dropped a little lower down. With these improvements their machine is bound to make a still further favorable impression. In finish it is most attractive. The Lovell Diamond No. 2 is the same as the No. 1, with the exception of cushion tires. As there will be a certain demand for these wheels, they propose to furnish them when they are wanted, and shall use the best tires that can be found. The Lovell Diamond No. 3, for ladies, has been turned out to meet the demand for a high grade ladies' safety at a medium price, and in this machine will be found all the improvements of the modern safety. It has a loop frame, which gives plenty of room for a lady to mount and dismount from the wheel, and also plenty of room for the dress. In other ways this machine is built on the same lines as the No. 1 Diamond, and we are free to say that in this machine the purchaser will find all the improvements of the modern safety. The Lovell Diamond No. 4, convertible, is built on the same lines as the No. 3, with the exception of a cross-bar. This is manufactured to fill the bill for a family wheel. This cross bar can be removed by a moment's work, so that a lady can ride. The dress guard is the same as is used on the ladies', and is made entirely out of sheet steel, and, by a very simple device, can be removed by a moment's work. This is the only dress guard in the market that will not rattle. This machine is fitted with 28-inch wheels, as is also the ladies' safety In the construction of the Lovell Diamond Cycles is used Credenda cold drawn, weldless steel tubing and drop steel forgings only. The ball bearings are of the well known Bown pattern, the same used by all the leading manufacturers. It will pay the purchaser to examine the Lovell Cycles, as all their machines are warranted to be built of strictly the best material in every respect. Their sundry department contains everything to supply the cycler's wants. They will be pleased to receive a call from any of the cycling fraternity, or will be pleased to correspond with parties desiring any information in their line. The John P. Lovell Arms Co. is one of the oldest and best known houses in the United States, and their integrity is beyond question. In their new '91 catalogue will be found a full description of their different wheels. Mailed free on application.

HUMBER & CO.

SOME time ago this paper wondered editorially why it was that the Beeston Humber people did not have representation in this country, as there was an undoubted demand for the machines of that company in the United States. The reason has been lately made plain to us from the fact that it is one of the principles of the Beeston Humber people not to extend their business beyond the limit of prompt supply, and until within the last twelve months the output of that company at their original works in Beeston had been only equal to demand for these machines in England.

Within the last 12 months this company has enlarged their capacity threefold, and in addition to their large and spendid plant at Beeston they are now operating under efficient and skillful management large factories at Coventry and Wolverhampton. This was done with the feeling that every machine which this world-wide known firm could make would have a ready market in other parts of the world other than the "Tight Little Isle" and especially in the United States.

These new factories have been pushed to their utmost capacity of production during the past six months, so that now the company is in a position to furnish any demand that may be made upon them, and which they certainly expect will be made when these facts are known. Having equipped themselves and made arrangements for this largely increasing production, the Humber people made arrangements with Mr. Stephen Golder to take a trip around the world and establish agencies—with the United States as a starter.

Mr. Golder arrived in this country about a week ago, and will for a brief period make his headquarters in New York city, at which place he can be reached by those desiring to make arrangements to represent the Beeston Humbers in different parts of the country. This annoucement will be sufficient to insure Mr. Golder a large number of applications, and we should advise those who desire to handle these famous machines to put in their application quickly or they are likely to get forestalled. Mr. Golder has already received a number of applications.

This company presents to the cycling public 35 different patterns of wheels, of which 23 are safeties, which of course include patterns for ladies, the balance being ordinaries, tricycles and tandems. A novelty which will be shown on the Humber machines, in this country at least, is the use of a band brake on the line of the front wheel, a feature which experiment and experience has shown to this country to be an improvement over the ordinary plunger brake. The safeties embrace patterns from the heavy roadsters to the light racing machine. The racing machines being identical in pattern as that on which the wonderful world records have been established by Mecredy and Dr. Turner; Osmond on the ordinary also having made his famous world's records on a Beeston Humber.

It will be seen that the company is prepared to meet the tastes and wants of every class of riders, from the tourist to the road and racing track scorcher. The company proposes to put upon the market a suspension tire, illustrations of which appeared in last week's issue of this paper. This tire has been carefully tested by the Humber people, and they do not hesitate to say that it contains all the strong points of the pneumatic tire, with none of its possible disadvantages. Mr. Golder expects to have a sample of this wheel in the course of a few weeks, and its advent in this country will be awaited with a good deal of interest by both the trade and riding public. Mr. Golder also brings over with him a Signal Cyclometer invented by Mr. Rucker. The cyclometer is of the hub form, and as each mile is completed a bell is rung.

There is no doubt that the Humber people will open a branch office either in Boston, New York or Philadelphia, just at which point Mr. Golder has not yet decided. In the meantime all letters addressed to him at Post Office Box 2225, New York city, will receive prompt attention.

GEO. R. BIDWELL.

G. R. BIDWELL is to open up one of the finest, if not the finest, bicycle store in the country, located on 270 and 272 Wabash avenue, Chicago. Associated with Mr. Bidwell will be Mr. Arthur A. Taylor, who is so well and favorably known, not only in the Western States, which has been his special territory, but also in the Eastern. The store proper, which of course is on the street floor, is 43x70 feet. On entering we find placed at the right the private office of Mr. Taylor and Mr. Bidwell, next comes the cashiers and book-keepers' department, and still further back are the counters, shelves, drawers, etc., which are to contain the cycling sundries. The partition is to be placed across the end of the store, making a room which will be used for storing bicycles and a shipping room. The fittings of the store are of the highest quality of the cabinet makers' work. The walls and ceilings are beautifully finished and when completed it will certainly be a "cycling palace." The part of the basement which extends under the sidewalk will be used as a repair shop; this will be neatly partitioned off, and the basement proper under the store floor will be made into a riding school, giving a clear space of 40x60. The walls to a certain height will be nicely padded, so that in case of a collision or fall the pupil or machine will not be hurt. This room will be brilliantly lighted by electric lights, and the toilet rooms for both gentlemen and ladies will be fitted up luxuriously with every appointment for comfort. The feature of Mr. Bidwell's business will be the renting of bicycles, and as his store is within one block of the boulevard it will be seen that they are right in the centre of the riding district. None but the very best machines will be used for renting purposes, so that if a man or lady hires a wheel they will be sure of having a first-class mount. The machines which will be handled principally are the Warwick, Kenwood, Victor, Psycho, Eagle and a full line of the St. Nicholas Toy Co.'s goods. The territory covered by Mr. Bidwell for the Warwick is Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and North and South Dakota. It is expected that in the course of three or four weeks this magnificent store will be ready for occupancy, so that by the time the riding season begins it will be in full fledged trim for active business. While the repairs are going on Mr. Taylor is occupying the store recently vacated by the St. Nicholas people on Wabash avenue.

VICTORS FOR 1891.

THE two engravings, here shown (See next page), represent the advance guard of the Overman Wheel Co.'s line of high grade bicycle for the year 1891. Their new models comprise five Victor Safeties, one Victoria Ladies' Safety and their Victor Rational Light Roadster. All of these machines have been tried and proved by a season of hard service.

Some ten years ago this company began to manufacture high grade cycles upon the American plan of interchangeable parts made by special and expensive machinery. The results of succeeding years of experience, based upon a correct system of manufacture, are here shown. These machines will bear close and critical examination, and are models of skilled workmanship.

In the Victor list some old features will be found modified and some entirely new ones adopted. In regard to these, every modification and every new feature has had the test of actual use. They have been tried and tested in comparison with kindred devices offered, and their superiority proved by actual practical test.

The Company's full list includes also the Credenda and Ladies' Credenda Safeties, listed at $90 each, and two grades of the Nonpareil Safety for youths, listed at $40 and $50. These machines, as well as the Victors, are sold with the company's usual guarantee.

VICTOR SAFETY, MODEL A.

This model is substantially the same as the Victor of 1890. It has, however, several improvements in matters of detail. It is retained in the 1891 list, as it has been in constant demand, and has been found to be too good a machine to abandon.

The spring fork is essentially the same as before, but is constructed for greater convenience in use.

Brief: 30 inch wheels geared to 54 inch; Victor hollow rims; 3-4 inch solid tire to front and 1 1-8 inch cushion tire to rear wheel; detachable cranks of new design, 6 inch and 6 3-4 inch throw; single adjustment ball bearings; removable hardened bushings; improved Victor spring fork; Victor pedals with square rubbers; hollow bar and spade handles; Victor saddle, all forged steel, nickeled; guards to chain and wheels; adjustable foot rests; spring-tension brake to rear wheel. Finished in Victor enamel, all bright parts heavy nickel plate on copper. Price $135. (See page 424.)

VICTOR SAFETY, MODEL B.

This is the first Safety having a rigid front fork, which the Overman Wheel Company have felt justified in offering to American riders. They have, however, so perfected the Victor Cushion Tires that they are satisfied that this machine will be a favorite with riders where roads are comparatively smooth.

The frame is of the most approved construction of the diamond type. Though quite light, it is remarkably strong and rigid.

Brief: 30 inch wheels geared to 54 inch; Victor hollow rims of new design; 1 1-2 inch Victor Cushion Tires to both wheels; single adjustment ball bearings all around; removable hardened bushings; detachable cranks of new design, 6 inch and 6 3-4 inch throw; Victor pedals, with square rubbers; hollow bowed handle bar; Victor saddle, all forged steel, nickeled; guards to both wheels; adjustable foot rests; spring-tension brake to rear wheel. Finished in Victor enamel; all bright parts heavy nickel plate on copper. Price $135. (See page 424.)

THE FEATHERSTONE PNEUMATIC.

SOME few weeks ago we alluded at length to the arrangement recently made by Mr. A. Featherstone and the manufacturers of the Dunlop patent pneumatic tire for the United States, and the details are no doubt fresh in the minds of our readers. We think it would, however, be of interest to repeat the facts in regard to the improved construction of the 1891 pattern of the Dunlop pneumatic. The inner envelope of the rubber has been enlarged so that the distention will not be so great, under pressure of the air, in order to bring it in firm contact with the canvas covering. The quality of the rubber used for this inner skin has also been improved. The canvas covering has also been greatly changed and improved. In the old pattern cement was entirely depended upon to resist the strain, and it was found that the cement would give way, form a larger or smaller aperture through which the inner rubber tube would be forced, thus forming a blister and causing almost sure liability to bursting. This canvas envelope is now securely sewed on each side so that the full strenth of this specially woven fabric is utilized and liability to bursting and puncture is reduced to the lowest minimum, so slight indeed as not to be considered. This canvas is of special weave and is tremendously strong, made to resist the utmost requirements. The outer envelope of rubber and a peculiarly woven flax fabric, also of great strength. This flax fabric is vulcanized to the inner surface of the rubber, and is so woven that it resists lateral stretch entirely, while it is perfectly stretchable in the longitudinal way. This outer covering is made so that the edges are thin and the "tread" or wearing surface is much thicker. While it is believed by the inventors that the improvements made on the tire this year will preclude the possibility of rupture, still an improvement will be made in the rim, the edges will be carefully rounded and formed so that "nipping" will be impossible.

Mr. Featherstone has sent out a letter to the trade setting forth the price of pneumatic tires, which price includes the fitting to wheels of 26 to 30 inches. Mr. Featherstone has placed orders for 7000 tires to be delivered in this country at an early date, and feeling that everything depends on having skilled labor to fit these tires he has under contract for three years the services of Mr. Robertson, who is the foreman of the Pneumatic Co. of Dublin. This is a wise move, as now there can from the word go be no "experiments" in the matter of fitting tires. Mr. Robertson will be in this country by the time this article appears in print.

Orders are coming in very fast not only for tires and fittings alone, but for the "Featherstone Pneumatic" Safety also. Ralph Temple has been East for several weeks and has placed good orders. A. G. Spalding & Bros. of Chicago are "No. 1" on the order book for the tires and others come in quick succession in quantity of all the way from 12 to 500.

Mr. Featherstone has spent much money and thought on the design of a gentleman's machine which he will put on the market, and after much deliberation, and on the advice of Mr. DuCros himself, he has adopted a frame similar in every way to the Humber. This is a straight diamond frame, long steering socket, 30-inch wheel. Balls all round, including head. Improved Fish saddle. Humber pattern chain. The material used will be the best Credenda steel tubing and drop steel forgings. Rear adjustment for chain. Weight, all on, 45 pounds.

In the matter of the ladies' wheel he has also spent a lot of thought and money in determining the form he would use. He purchased quite a number of high grade ladies' wheels and by actual observation and experiment, by having some of his female employes ride them, he has endeavored to embody the best points of the different machines into the one he proposes to place on the market. The ladies' will have 28-inch wheels, balls all round, including head. Will be made of the same first-class material as the gentlemen's machine. Weight about 40 pounds all on. (See page 411.)

SWEETING CYCLE CO.

WHEN in Philadelphia we called on the Sweeting Cycle Co. and at their down town store found Mr. Sweeting himself. He showed us a new machine, the construction of which is certainly a novelty and showed some most excellent points, both as to strength and lightness. The frame proper was made of double tubing, and the neck instead of being a single piece of tubing was made so as to continue the forks separately in the form of tubing up to the point where the handle bar is usually brazed on, then each piece of tubing was bent over and made to form the handle bars. These pieces of tubing were bridged at two points, and in the upper and lower bridge the steering head was inserted. Mr. Sweeting is going to order a number of these machines with certain minor improvements, which he says will be necessary to meet the demands of this country. Of course the leader and particular machines which will be handled by the Sweeting Co. will be the Rivals, a full line of which are expected at an early date. These machines have given universal satisfaction during the past year and the demand for them is increasing very rapidly. Mr. Sweeting will also handle the Featherstone Pneumatic for Eastern Pennsylvania, and he has placed a large order, anticipating a good trade. This concern also handles the Irwell and the well-known R. & P. safeties. We saw for the first time one of the Sweeting Combination Racing and Training machines. This is an excellent device. Two home trainers are placed side by side and these by means of rod, chain and gear are connected with a large board on the face of which protrude two long hands like a clock, one painted red and the other blue. A big dial about four feet in diameter is painted on the face of the board and is divided, however, into space representing feet. There are so many laps to a mile. The hands are placed one over the other, the word "go" is given and the men start, whichever man is riding faster the hand of the dial will show the lead and exactly how far he is in advance. It is a first-rate thing and should be in every cycling club room and gymnasium in the country.

Under the guidance of Mr. Sweeting we then took a horse car up to 2125 and 2145 Broad street, which is the up town store, riding school and gymnasium of this enterprising firm. The house itself has been entirely renovated and fitted up into reading rooms, dressing rooms and locker rooms. There is a splendid piazza on the second story, which will be an excellent place on a summer evening for those who are inclined to lounge and smoke. A piano is in position on the main floor, the walls are covered by beautiful pictures, a fine carpet is on the floor, luxuriant furniture is placed round the room; the rest of the house, which is quite large, is fitted up with private offices, store rooms, and of course the salesroom on the first floor. A repair shop has been added to the rear of the house. A great feature of this up town store is the splendid out-door riding school; a track has been laid out on a lot, the centre of which is to be sodded and will be used for lawn tennis. An outside gymnasium is being fitted up with flying rings, ladders, climbing ropes, and in fact everything that a good gymnasium could contain. This will be covered over with a roofing to protect one from the sun and rain, but the sides will be open so that the air can pass through uninterrupted. This up town establishment of the Sweeting Cycle Co. should be seen to be appreciated; situated in a part of the city, in the very centre of the riding district, and covering as it does all the points of a first-class club house, we doubt if the establishment can be duplicated in the whole world. It is the intention of Mr. Sweeting during the non-riding season to have hops, musicals, etc. He intends to make the place popular, and that he will do so none who have seen the establishment will doubt.

Mr. Sweeting showed us a Safety Securer, one of the most perfect locks for securing a safety or tricycle that we have ever seen. It weighs about two ounces, can be easily carried in the tool bag or rider's pocket, and is as neat in its appearance as it is useful in active use. It is one of the best inventions in the sundry line that we have seen in a long time.

STRONG & GREEN MFG. CO.

THE newly organized firm of Strong & Green Mfg. Co. of Philadelphia is the successor to the Strong & Green Cycle Co. The officers of the new company are: John C. Sullivan, president; L. Woodhorn, secretary, and John A. Wells, treasurer. The output of the Quadrant Cycle Co. is to be the special feature of this company, and in speaking of the lasting qualities of the Quadrant cushion tires Mr. Wells pointed out the fact that four postmen at Atlantic City, New Jersey, had each one ridden a Quadrant Safety fitted with their cushion tires a distance of over 6000 miles each, and the tire was practically intact to-day. This certainly shows that the guarantee of the Quadrant people is based on the results of actual test. We were disappointed in not seeing a full line of the '91 patterns of the Quadrant safeties, but it will be our good fortune to view a full line of these machines at the coming show next month. At their up town store and riding school we were shown a Quadrant Safety, which we think is one of the best advertisements in showing the strong material and workmanship used in these machines. The safety under discussion was about four or five weeks ago being ridden on the pavements of the street between the lines of the cable road, the rider seeing a car approaching started to turn out to the left, but before he could do so a warning bell from the rear told him that a cable car was approaching from the other direction, he immediately started back to the orignal path and tried to ride between the two approaching cars; the space, however, was too narrow and the machine was caught between the two cars and the result was that the machine was twisted into an almost inconceivable shape. The excellence of the material was shown, however, in the fact that not a crack appeared in the tubing or forgings and neither was there a single spoke broken; the machine will undoubtedly be on exhibition at the show in Philadelphia. The riding school of Messrs. Strong & Green's up town store is in the second story, is very large, roomy and light; straight round the room about one foot from the wall are ropes, and by actual test we found that it was impossible for a machine or person to fall against the wall; in fact by riding head on at a very rapid pace the ropes act as a cushion and the result to the rider

AQUILA B RICH & CO.

WHEN in New York we called upon the firm of A. B. Rich & Co. in their new store at 1790 Broadway. The quarters of this new and enterprising firm are fitted up in the most æsthetic manner, rich carpets covered the floor, and the furniture and fittings are of the highest quality. The well known Ormonde is of course the machine that this firm is handling. This machine was only introduced into the United States and pushed to any extent last summer, and with such an excellent record both on road and track as the Ormonde established, the demand for them this year will test the capacity of the exporters to furnish their representatives with machines in this country. The Ormonde for '91 is the same practically as the machine placed on the market in '90, the only radical change being the fitting of cushion tires, the changes in detail are so small as not to be worth mentioning. As an indication of the excellence and strength of the Ormonde, a Mr. Horton toured over 3000 miles of rough American roads on one of these machines weighing only 28 pounds. This certainly was a most severe test, the results of which reflected in a most complimentary manner on the methods of manufacture and the material used in the Ormonde. Their full roadster with cushion tires weighs 40 pounds, the light roadster with cushion tires, 34 pounds, and the Ormonde road racer, 28 pounds, while the Ormonde racer from 20 to 26 pounds. This concern also shows a beautiful machine which they call "Our Diamond;" it has a straight diamond frame, fitted with cushion tires which they list at $100.

This machine is one that will undoubtedly meet with a great sale as it is very taking in appearance, and certainly is a staunch all round wheel. They also show a very fine Boy's Ormonde which they list at $65; this machine is ball bearing all round excepting the head. It is geared to 48 inches and weighs 38 pounds. The Ormondes are all interchangeable, and the material and workmanship of every machine is guaranteed by the makers and importers.

BRETZ, CURTIS & CO.

WE called at the headquarters of the Referee Cycles in Philadelphia and found the members of this firm in excellent spirits from the results of the past season and the prospects of the future. The Referee Roadster has been pushed into deserved prosperity and notoriety by the United States representatives. Agencies have been established at 46 Columbus avenue, Boston; 611 Main street, Buffalo; 308 W. 59th street, New York; 599 Madison street, Chicago; 258 Walnut street, Cincinnati; 1724 Olive street, St. Louis; 1325 Fourteenth street, Washington, D. C.; 116 N. Pennsylvania street, Indianapolis; 1315 Dodge street, Omaha; 33 Page street, Providence, and one in Detroit, Orange, N. J., and Springfield, Mass. The only change in the '91 machine will be a 30-inch front wheel. So successful has the wheel been that the makers were of the opinion that no changes were necessary with the exception of the one mentioned. The wheels will be fitted with Webb's cushion tire, and listed at $140, $35 extra for pneumatic tires. In the retail department of this concern may be found a full line of the Warwick, Western Wheel Work's new line and Stokes' line of cheap wheels.

The ladies' pattern of the Safety is very strong and graceful in appearance, the triple backbone making this wheel especially rigid and competent to carry a heavy weight. Their track machine is a little beauty, and in weight it only scales 19 pounds. The price of this machine with solid tires is $140, and the ladies' safety is also listed at the same price.

HOWARD B. SMITH has opened up his cycling store at 605 Main street, two doors below Sweet's and opposite Doll's, and there is a good natured rivalry between Smith, Doll and the Standard people to get the handsomest and neatest show room and store, at present Thomas has the lead.

WE are in receipt of a catalogue from the Calumet Wheel Co. of St. Louis, Mo. This Company is a new one in the business. They are building high grade wheels and medium grade, ranging in price from $100 to $135.

MESSRS. BROWN BROTHERS MFG. Co. of Chicago, manufacturers of the Greyhound Safeties, have issued their catalogue showing their wheels and the prices thereon. These wheels are listed at from $90 up to $115, according to finish and tire used.

SORRY when we called in at Banker, Campbell & Co. to find that they did not have any machine to show. They expect to have a large line at Philadelphia next month, at which time we shall be pleased to examine, report on same and give full description.

WE notice that the Indian on the cover of the Gormully & Jeffery '91 catalogue has abandoned the high machine and has taken to riding the safety. Now that the red man has concluded to follow in the lead of his more enlightened white skinned brethren we trust that the trouble with the Indians in the future will be obviated. Probably the example of Gen. Miles, whom we reported as a safety rider, had some influence on the redskin. The catalogue of the Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co. is now ready. The little frontispiece of the lady on a wheel is a most attractive little bit of engraving. We expect that this and the other good qualities of the catalogue will insure for it a large demand.

THE Gormully & Jeffery Manufacturing Co. have leased the store 174 Columbus avenue, Boston, adjoining their present quarters, which will be used exclusively for the retail sale of wheels of other makes than their own—principally medium and low-priced machines. Their present quarters will be used wholly for the sale of their own high-grade machines, the Ramblers and Champions. This concern will also have a line of low-price wheels shortly, which they will job. These are not of their own make, however. They will also handle the Lovell Diamond for that end of the city.

THE uptown agency for the sale of Columbia bicycles in New York city has been transferred from Mr. George R. Bidwell to A. B. Rich & Co., who have opened a very attractive store at the corner of Broadway and Fifty-Seventh streets. A line of '91 Columbias will be found there at all times. Their rental department will be an important feature of the establishment, and will be equipped entirely with new Columbias.

MR. A. M. SCHEFFY, representing R L. Coleman & Co., Eastern agents for the Western Wheel Works, who has been pretty much all over New York and Pennsylvania during the last five weeks, was in Baltimore the other day. He says the trade appreciate the great improvement made in his line of wheels for 1891, and that business is simply screaming.

PAUL L. HASSENFORDER of Taunton, Mass., agent for the Swift and Eagle, has purchased a 28 pound pneumatic Swift racing safety which he intends to use on the road.

MR. C. S. MERRILL, representing Jno. Wilkinson & Co. of Chicago, has placed the Rover agency in Detroit with Huber & Metzger, and in Grand Rapids with A. B. Richmond Co. The Hartford will also be sold by Huber & Metzger.

MESSRS. HOWARD A. SMITH & Co. of Newark, N. J., are the sole New Jersey agents for the Featherstone pneumatic tires, and it is with pride that we mention this pioneer firm as "leading the van" in New Jersey. This firm has also achieved a wide reputation in the manufacture of bicycle sundries, and their trade extends even beyond the limits of New Jersey. Their new salesroom at 518 Broad street, Newark, is fitted up with the many conveniences that facilitate in handling their increasing business.

MR. WORDEN informs us that Messrs. Wright & Ditson are having numerous applications for agencies for the Featherstone pneumatics. The applications are pouring in from all over New England, and the members of the concern are much elated over the outlook. Any parties who may contemplate writing in regard to agencies for above machines we would advise to take time by the forelock.

THE Coventry Machinists' Co. will list their celebrated "Swift" Safety with Cushion Tires at $140. Their Cushion is so constructed that it is impossible for the rim to cut the tire.

THE Michigan Cycle Co. will continue to push the Rambler, also the Eagle.

Who has not seen or heard him? The bicycle salesman or travelling man whose chief stock in trade is his ability to blackguard and misrepresent competitive goods; the man who is, as a general thing, but little posted on the merits of his wheel, and whose possibly legitimate capital is composed of brag, bluster, sentiment, ancient history, glittering generalities and bland like ways and converse and who, when these fail, calls on his reserve fund—blackguardry and misreprentation. "Anything to sell wheels" is his motto, for but let a competitive wheel be mentioned, and his bland way is succeeded by a flood of condemnation and downright blackguardry. Proof and logic are secondary considerations, and still this sweet scented chap believes such business (!) tactics are strictly honorable. He is a character, is this man.

"Some men stand on principle, others trample on it. The latter perforce make the most noise" He comes under the latter head. Occasionally his methods attain, more frequently not. There is little to be gained by such tactics, and it is usually but a question of time before his day is run.

We are led to this little homily by the contents of a letter from one of our agents, whom one of the ilk recently happened across. Rambler men—those who have taken the trouble to post themselves—have no need for such assistance (!) for, as our correspondent put it: "I have no time for such talk. It takes every moment to explain the good points of the Rambler—there are so many of them." The Rambler has enough substantial "talking points" to render resort to blackguardry unnecessary, and if any of our representatives are detected in blackguarding competitive wares, we cannot be notified too quickly. They represent a line of wheels which requires no such prop and will be made to understand it in short order.

☞ Our catalogue, which deals extensively with most of these "talking points," can be had for the asking.

500—Missouri Division—500

To Consuls and Members:

It should be remembered that there has been a number of valuable prizes offered for the persons getting us the most members as follows: A gold L. A. W. pin valued at $5 to the local consul securing the most new members by May 1; a gold L. A. W. pin to the Local Consul securing the second highest number of new members. Only consuls residing outside of St. Louis or Kansas City can compete for these prizes. A $5 L. A. W. pin is further offered to each member securing us twenty members by December 1, 1891. Experience and natural ability in obtaining recruits, combined with persistent and earnest efforts are certain to boom our Division like it never has before, and will cause an extraordinary rush for membership in our organization. Far seeing people are mostly successful. Their perception of opportunities, where others see nothing, is the secret of their success. A bright, wide-awake organization like the League, ably managed and with an influence as far reaching as it is powerful, cannot fail to become an attraction for far-seeing wheelmen, provided you call their attention to it. Have you done this to date? If not, it is now the time to begin, and incidentally you may make a double effort to secure one of the prizes offered. It will be a genuine reward of merit. "We offer the prizes, you do the rest."

CYCLING

FOR

Health and Pleasure.

Chapter V.

The rapidly increasing number of competitors in athletic sports, and particularly in cycle racing, make the publication of competent advice on TRAINING very timely. The subject is gone into at length in this chapter, in which the principal writer on the subject is freely quoted. After a few preliminary remarks of explanation, Cortis, a physician and successful racing man, speaks for himself. In fact, all the principal parts of Cortis's little work on Training is quoted; so that this chapter alone is a complete guide to intending competitors in cycle racing. It expounds clearly the fundamental principles on which proper and perfect training must rest.

New Features Worth Studying.

DOUBLE DIAMOND FRAME.

Strong and inflexible, will permit no twisting, ensures even and true steering, which is also contributed to by the increased length of the steering head. Light and handsome in appearance.

WHEEL CONSTRUCTION.

Light, drop-forged hubs, with detachable rear gear wheel. Double butt-ended spokes, drawn tangent without tying, elastic, noiseless and easily cleaned. "These seem to possess all the good elements of direct and tangent systems. There is elasticity promised in these, and more strength than in any direct spoke."

SEAT ROD AND ADJUSTMENT.

Tubular straight rod, or tubular and solid loop rod if desired. Ample vertical and horizontal adjustment permitted by the new bridge carried on the parallel upper frame tubes.

SELF-OILING CHAIN.

A very quiet, smooth running and strong chain, packed with an absorbent carrying sufficient oil for a thousand miles, ensuring complete lubrication, and freedom from grit.

PEDAL DUST-CAP.

A small point but an important one; it prevents the entrance of dust and sand into the pedal bearing, a contingency to which any safety pedal is particularly liable.

SPRING FORK JOINTS.

A new joint shaft and cones afford a positive take-up for wear, positive action, and cannot work loose.

ALL STEEL FORGINGS.

The 1891 Columbia Light Roadster Safety contains no castings, but steel drop-forgings throughout.

CHAPTER II.

APOLOGY.—WE know that all this personal mention of competitors is in very bad taste.

WE know that it is unbusinesslike, but are simply compelled to adopt such methods by the continued and unwarranted use of our name by the Pope Mfg. Co.

FIRST—VICTOR BICYCLES LEAD.

SECOND—If this fact were not so apparent a fact, if it were not getting to be a fact acknowledged the broad land over, our esteemed competitors would not have paid us this delicate attention.

NOTE.—These "delicate attentions" have gradually increased since the superiority of the Victor Cushion Tire became known.

But the "satisfaction"—(It is hard for us to bear this in mind; being occupied with other things, we continually lose sight of it.)—Under this head it is remarked by all who have noted this "Pope Challenge":

First, that the scope is small. (Needs to be broadened).

Second, that the amount of money is small. (Needs to be increased).

Third, that the ONLY LARGE THING in this "Pope Challenge" is the LARGE AMOUNT OF TEMPER displayed by the Pope Mfg. Co. (Needs to be turned off).

The question raised in this so-called "challenge" is a question of advertising veracity between the Pope Mfg. Co. and the Overman Wheel Co.

Now, the question suits us exactly, except that we should like, as suggested, to broaden it in several particulars. We like broad things. Like to have everything done in the best possible way.

We will arrange this matter so that, while it shall give the Pope Mfg. Co. all the satisfaction they want it will be far more comprehensive than the plan originally suggested by them, at the same time not omitting to cover the small patch of ground they have outlined.

(Before we forget it, we want to say the VICTOR CUSHION TIRES are all right; that they are fully warranted, and will be found in every way better than solid tires.)

AS TO SCOPE.

The question shall involve any and all matters found in print coming from either Company. This should be broad enough to include, for example, such matters as:

Advertising highest grade only, and at the same time making in the factory low grade work;

Advertising that a plant covers five acres of floorage at a time when it does not cover such an amount;

Advertising business of over a million dollars, when the facts cannot be substantiated, etc., etc., etc.

(In fact, we have a large, juicy scrap-book, which we have been keeping for several years, which is now about ripe enough to pick, and we hail with joy this invitation to gather it in.)

AS TO AMOUNT OF MONEY.

The Company found to have taken the most liberty with truth in statements of fact, in advertising, shall contribute $5000 to the League of American Wheelmen.

Each Company to submit in writing a statement of the facts to the BICYCLING WORLD, who shall have charge of appointing a committee of arbitration to render a final decision.

The finding of this committee, together with all facts presented by both Companies, to be published at joint expense, and each Company to be allowed to distribute 50,000 copies.

Each Company to allow every opportunity to ascertain the facts in the case, furnishing statements under oath when desired to do so.

Expenses incurred shall be divided equally between the two Companies. (To be continued in our next.)

"COME LET US REASON TOGETHER."

Webster tells us that reason is that "faculty or capacity of the human mind by which it is distinguished from the inferior animals."

Among the inferior animals we might mention the grasshopper. Now the grasshopper has a "spring frame," but has very little reasoning capacity: still more springs and still less reason is found in the flea.

It was once a popular delusion that a fly had pneumatic feet, which accounted for his great speed while walking on the ceiling. If you are not already convinced just see if you can get a fly to walk on the under side of a piece of clean smooth glass. The great success of the fly depends on his getting a more tangible hold of things than he was at first credited with. There were flies on Noah's Ark, and so far as I can learn they held on with the same kind of feet now generally used by the American fly.

But mankind wondered how he did it for over a thousand years, until finally a learned (?) "scientist" discovered that he had "valves" and "flaps" and "cavities" in his feet, which held him on to the ceiling by "suction," and straightway Grandpa had a new story with which to illustrate to the children the "wonders of nature," until another imaginative "investigator" discovered that from the fly's foot there was "exuded" at every step a minute particle of "gumstickum," and the necessity of this supply accounted for his fondness for "sweetnin." Notwithstanding all these wonderful points man has never lost an opportunity to "swipe" the fly, and has within a comparatively short time discovered that flies hang on very much as the rest of us do, viz., by the strength of their grip, though while man cannot get more than a "double grip" the fly has ——.

I had intended to state here the exact number, but the Hickory Bicycle works seem to afford just at present a very poor field in which to study the personal habits and make up of the fly.

The bicycle business contains many similar delusions. One of the most interesting diversions is to read the latest catalogue along with those of years recently passed. Crow seems to be the favorite diet with the bicycle maker.

Emerson said, "Speak what you think now in hard words, and to-morrow speak what to-morrow thinks in hard words again though it contradict everything you said to-day."

For a man who was not in the cycle trade Emerson came close on to being a prophetic expert.

For the manufacturer who comes up and takes his medicine like a little man we shed tears of joy only equalled in copiousness by our sympathy for those who are not built that way. If you hear a maker advocating as the best anything that he denounced last year don't say mean things to him; he may have enough trouble on his mind without that.

Just ask him if he knows what will be au fait n xt year.

Verses on Springs.

The cycles that bloom in the Spring, tra la,
Are certain of making a hit;
That anti vibration's the thing, tra la,
We never have doubted a bit.
And that's what we mean when we say that the thing
Is not in the swim, when devoid of a spring.

The cycle that booms with THE springs, tra la,
Has somewhat to do with the case,
So of course while the Union Co. sings, tra la,
Our friends will be making a face.
And that's what we mean when we pass the remark
That the future of rigid framed cycles is dark.

For the convenience of our Eastern trade we have established distributing depots for our Pneumatic Tyres in the following cities, to which all correspondence for the respective districts should be addressed: Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Newark. The New England trade will be supplied through WRIGHT & DITSON of Boston; New York City, Brooklyn, Eastern and Southern New York State through Messrs. SCHOVERLING, DALY & GALES of New York City; Central and Eastern Pennsylvania and Maryland, with the exception of Baltimore City, through the SWEETING CYCLE CO. of Philadelphia; the State of New Jersey through Messrs. HOWARD A. SMITH & CO. of Newark, N. J.; Baltimore City through Messrs. CLINE BROS. of Baltimore.

These distributing depots will carry in stock a large supply of Pneumatic Wheels from which the Eastern trade in their respective territories will be promptly supplied. By drawing your supply from these depots near at hand you will at all times be able to get them promptly as you may need them instead of waiting until they could be shipped from here.

You will recognize it was late in the season when these Pneumatic patents were transferred to us, and it has been impossible to get out a supply of these Pneumatic Machines before, as great skill and care is required to make these machines, second to none in the market in point of grade and finish.

The cycle trade have too much intelligence to believe that the mechanical skill and capital of this country can be controlled by any two or three bicycle makers, and any one whose ignorance or personal interest may persuade them to say that our bicycles will not be strictly high grade and equal to any now made, had better wait until they see them. It is impossible to know what they are talking about until they have.

We now have about 1200 men working on these Pneumatics, having made a contract with the Ames Mfg. Co., the well known bicycle makers of Chicopee, Mass., to run nearly their entire plant on a part of our work.

We shall be able to deliver 500 finished Pneumatic Bicycles a week, both for men and women, beginning March 15th, and can increase this ouput if the trade should demand it.

All manufacturers will tell you their particular machine is the best; we say nothing about ours, it will speak for itself. We simply refer you to the record of the Pneumatic and to the riders of it.

You may put it down that the Pneumatic Tyre has passed through all its stages of experiment and is now a success, that it is the tyre of the future, and that some riders already know, and all others will find that they will not be in it without the Pneumatic.

BOSTON, 27 FEBRUARY, 1891.

DETROIT wheelmen are happy over the acceptance of their invitation to the L. A. W. to hold the annual meet July 16, 17 and 18. Make your arrangements so that you can enjoy Detroit's hopitality.

IT seems to us a crying shame that the city of Boston cannot boast of a single active cycle club. True it is that the shadows of two clubs still exist; but they are mere shadows of their former greatness, and the comparison of now and the good old days brings sad thoughts to the veteran who was active in days of the "Bossachusetts" Club.

IT is now ten years since those halcyon days when the Boston Bicycle Club and the Massachusetts Bicycle Club had a national, yes, an international, reputation. But who ever hears of these two clubs now? Occasionally a few of the faithful gather together and discuss sadly the days agone. The old Boston Club (the first cycle club in America) still retains its name and organization, and the Massachusetts Club, reorganized some few years ago, also retains the mere shell of its original form. From being the leading clubs of America they have sunk into practical oblivion, and it is a burning shame that it is so.

THERE must be some reasons for this great change in, and obliteration of, two of the strongest clubs in America, and in the case of the Bostons we think we discern the cause of the sapping of its vitality as a cycle club by the introduction of the social element. At first the results of this departure were, apparently most satisfactory; temporary success hid the real danger, and for a time things went swimmingly. The riders and the non-riders had a common interest, that of the welfare of the club.

AFTER awhile the social element, far outnumbering the riding contingent, demanded and were accorded representation in the club's management. From that time the cycling interest declined, and, though the most cordial relations existed between the riders and non-riders, the Boston Club as an active riding club died for want of interest. It was simply smothered by the social influences.

THERE is a moral to this brief history, and we think that all of our readers can see it without our pointing it out. To be forewarned is to be forearmed, and in the fate of the old Boston Club we have an object lesson that cannot be ignored. Here was a club, not destroyed by dissentions, but simply overwhelmed by the preponderance of an element not riders, but by no means hostile to cycling and cycling interests Under the joint condition of affairs the club was prosperous for some five years, and then the crisis came

WE have dwelt somewhat at length on this matter, as it is not only one of general interest historically, but as a sort of warning, that it may impress those who think there is no danger in the tail outgrowing the wagging powers of the dog.

THE reason of the Massachusetts Club's falling into innocuous desuetude was not the same as the Boston Club. It came, however, through more natural though none the less unpleasant cause. Still the fact remains that Boston to-day is without a single active bicycle club, and we blush when we record it.

WE do not exactly blame the suspended men for getting a bit impatient because of the lack of action on behalf of the Racing Board. Yet there is reason, and very good reason, for the delay. No action can be taken until the A. A. U. formally and finally defines its position on all the questions discussed, and apparently agreed upon, at the joint meeting of the L. A. W. and A. A. U. Committees in New York last December. It is to be hoped, however, that March will not pass without something definite being arrived at.

THERE is no doubt at all but that the personnel of the Racing Board will be almost if not entirely changed, and it is with sincere regret we learn that Mr. Davol has positively refused to accept the chairmanship for another year. Mr. Davol's retirement will be regretted by all who have followed his work and noted the honest, conscientious manner in which he has discharged his duties. It was hoped up to the last that Mr. Davol would reconsider his oft repeated assurance that he would not accept a reappointment, but his characteristic firmness showed itself here, as in all his actions. He had made up his mind, and his decision was final. The League loses a most efficient worker and the Racing Board an invaluable head.

AS to who the successor of Mr. Davol may be, of course, nothing has been given officially. Still we cannot ignore the fact that the name of Mr. Randall of Chicago has been prominently named in connection with the place. Mr. Atwater of Washington has also been mentioned. While we have no knowledge as to the intention of the executive as to who will lead the Racing Board during the coming season, we think that Mr. Randall stands a most excellent chance of accepting or declining the office.

WHOEVER takes the Chairmanship of the Racing Board will not find it a path of roses during the next season. The knotty questions now vexing the governing bodies of the A. A. U.

and L. A. W. will have to be unravelled, and much will depend on the make-up of this important committee as to whether we are to have peace or war, harmony or discord. Let us hope that peace and harmony will take the trick.

PRESIDENT DUNN'S report, omitted from last week's issue through it's not reaching us in time, will be read with great interest,as it is able, exhaustive and right to the point. It is the epitomized history of the League during the past year, and the history thus recorded is such as to cause all League members to congratulate themselves that the good work of the L. A. W. in all its branches is on the move forward.

FIRST on the list of important work is, of course, the question of "Highway Reform," and the motto of the League officials has been "Educate, Agitate, Legislate." That is the pathway marked out—it is the only pathway by which we can hope to attain our end. The methods employed on those lines are fully set forth in the President's report.

THE recommendations of the President show a live interest in the welfare of the League, and the adoption of same will do much towards bringing the organization nearer that desideratum, "perfection."

IN our last week's editorials we alluded to the report of the Highways Committee as recommending an alliance with the Farmers' Alliance. Our attention has been called to the fact that we have not put the case in the correct light, a condition of things brought about by the fact that we heard the report read only, and that we did not see the report, and, in fact, have not seen it up to the present writing, it being still in the hands of the committee. We are pleased to make the correction sent in, by stating that the part of the report referring to the matter reads: The Farmers' Alliance "is courting the co-operation of the L. A. W. in inducing the general government to undertake the construction of national roads," and specially states that "aid be invoked."

OUR correspondent who calls our attention to the above correction, says: "This does not involve alliance, politics, votes, pledges, or anything more than simply that General Roy Stone and a committee from the Farmers' Alliance and our President and Highway Committee go together before the Congressional Committee on Roads and Canals, and tell them that they represent the Farmers' Alliance and the L. A. W., and ask that preliminary surveys be made for the construction of certain roads. This 'co-operation' would undoubtedly prove influential, and very probably the surveys would be ordered—simply that, and nothing more. These surveys by government engineers are the 'entering wedges,' and appropriations for the construction of the roads based on these reports of surveys would flow as naturally as water."

GIRD up your loins, put money in thy purse and make tracks for Philadelphia. There, from March 2d to 9th, you will see all that is to be seen in the cycle and cycle sundry line than can be seen in the United States. Don't miss it; it will be the finest and most complete exhibition of cycles ever held in this country. It is the precursor of a permanent affair and Philadelphia draws the prize.

AN English contemporary says that in case of a civil suit for damages where a cycler is a party it is "heads I win, tails you lose." This may be so in England, though we would suppose that where cycles are so much in use a wheelman would stand a fair show of obtaining a just verdict. Our experience here has been very favorable, and we have found that the cyclers are quite as favorably regarded as the drivers of horse flesh. We could enumerate several cases where cyclers have recovered damages for injuries due to the negligence of jehus.

WE have long since believed that parades have outlived their usefulness, and we think so still except under certain conditions. We would like, for instance, to see at the time of the World's Fair, if the League meets there, a monster cycle parade that would by its proportions be somewhat typical of the extent of the sport. If such a parade were had, it should be treated as an event that every cycle rider in the United States would like to say he participated in. A parade of a thousand wheels would not be worth while, but if we could muster in line ten times that number, it would be an event worth recording.

THE town of Gloucester, Mass., has voted to borrow the sum of fifty thousand dollars for Highway Improvement. Such an amount is not much, but shows a little enterprise, and is an indication that the good work is progressing slowly.

PRESIDENT DUNN'S REPORT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 16, 1891.

To the National Assembly, League of American Wheelmen:

I beg to report, as briefly as may be, upon the principal features of the work of the year just ended.

The Executive Committee first organized on Feb. 17th last by electing Dr. W. H. Emery Secretary.

A conference with Dr. Charles S. Butler, the chairman of the Committee on Improvement of the Highways, developed the fact that a contract had been made with the publishers of the Book on Improvement of the Highways for 20,000 copies, at a cost of $425 or more, for which he had received contributions to the amount of $185. After much negotiation I was able to order certain necessary alterations in this book and to settle with the publishers at a cost to the League of about $200.

The committee found it expedient to make a new contract, for the term of five years, with the Wheelman Co., for additional space in the League organ upon terms most advantageous to the League.

The unfortunate legacy of strife and discord, in connection with legislation for highways improvement in New York State, which was one of the unpleasant features of the early history of the administration, was amicably settled by the agreement of Mr. Cossum, the New York Division and the New York State Highway Improvement Association to agree upon and work for the passage of but one of the bills then pending before the State Legislature.

The President has been thrice in Albany and once in Boston in the interest of proposed legislation during the past year.

The former contract with the League outfitters was continued for the year 1890.

The proposed policy of the President, for the work of the League in the direction of highway reform, which was heartily indorsed by the Executive Committee, may be epitomized as follows:

First—The Committee on Rights and Privileges was to be given the charge of all matters of legislation, with oversight of and care for the work of the Division officers when desired, and with power to act in any Division wherein the local officers were unable to undertake the work of highway legislation.

Second—To the Committee on Improvement of the Highways was apportioned the labor of preparing, editing and circulating educational and literary matter of every description pertaining to the subject of highway improvement and legislation; of compiling statistics relating to the cost of building and maintaining highways in every part of the country, etc.; of the publication of correct data as to the effect upon local taxation of any proposed legislation, and of equipping and employing able speakers and lecturers to address meetings of various organizations throughout the United States.

Third—To enlist the indorsement of organizations and individuals upon some plan of association which would bring to the League's great work of highway reform the co-operation (if not the membership) of all users of the highways.

In this work of highway reform our motto has been "first educate, then agitate, and, when the time is ripe, legislate." Your committee therefore agreed that the year's work should be devoted especially to educating and enlightening the public mind upon this subject.

In this work the Committee on Improvements of the Highways has done most excellent, painstaking and efficient service, and as the result is apparent in the increasing public interest evident throughout the land the League is to be congratulated as the recognized pioneer in this great movement.

From all sources come indications of deep and widespread attention to and study of the literary matter promulgated by the League. In this work the officers of many of the Divisions have contributed most valuable assistance, and within their own jurisdictions have taught the new gospel of true economy in land transit. Especial mention of most intelligent, ingenious and faithful work is due to the efficient officers of the League in Kansas, Illinois, Ohio, New York, Massachusetts Rhode Island, Connecticut and Pennsylvania.

Various eminent men, who are most competent to judge of its value, are interesting themselves in the League's work, and offer an endorsement which should be taken advantage of. Conferences held with prominent New York men lead me to the belief that success may attend a concentrated effort soon to be made, for legislation by Congress, which will provide for a National Highways Commission. We believe that the plans already laid will result in the creation of this commission with large powers, and in the ultimate reorganization of the various National mail routes and post roads long since established but neglected by the Federal Government.

Great credit to the League and its mission may accrue from the movement now under way for the rehabilitation of one of these historical Government highways. The old "Post Road" of Revolutionary times, between New York and Boston, passes through portions of four of those States where tradition and sentiment influence most deeply the public mind. I believe that for a practical initial step in the line of definite agitation no highway on this Continent offers the same opportunity for success in our work.

That this movement will result in the re-establishment of a grand thoroughfare, with many ramifications to and through the most important cities and towns in historic New England, is already assured. I trust the effort to secure for the League the prestige, honor and credit of this undertaking will be continued. The far-reaching effect of the success of this specific movement would soon be apparent in like undertakings in all of the more settled portions of the country.

While the League has been devoting its more serious efforts to the securing of highway reform, the athletic portion of our mission has not been neglected. A year of remarkable activity in bicycling sport seems but a precursor of brighter days yet to come.

The perfection of mechanical construction not alone, but the genuine spirit of amateur athletic sport also, inspires the belief that cycle racing will continue to grow in popular favor. About a year ago the Racing Board adopted, in conjunction with the Amateur Athletic Union, certain rules in relation to proper expenses to be received by cyclists, within the amateur definition. Under these rules certain suspensions were made by the Racing Board, for alleged infractions. These suspensions were undoubtedly proper and fully warranted.

Upon the request of the Amateur Athletic Union, as communicated to me long before these suspensions were made, I appointed, with the concurrence of the Executive Committee and Chairman Davol of the Racing Board, a committee to confer and act with the Amateur Athletic Union in formulating an expense rule for the future.

At the time of the meeting of this conference (the suspensions having been announced, meanwhile), we were asked to take into consideration the request of the Amateur Athletic Union for the removal of these suspensions. Upon the strength of their statement that through some fault of their officers the present rule had never been promulgated, and some of their clubs were, consequently, in ignorance of it, we consented to recommend to the Racing Board the removal of the suspensions complained of, in consideration of the adoption by the Amateur Athletic Union of an expense rule for the future, sufficiently stringent to be in keeping with our ideas of pure amateurism.

Upon this basis the report recently published was adopted by the joint conference and recommended for adoption by the A. A. U. and the L. A. W. Racing Board. I have recommended that no action be taken by the Racing Board until said rules are acted upon by the Amateur Athletic Union.

In this connection I wish to express my sense of gratitude to the members of the Racing Board for their valuable, patriotic and unselfish attention to a task as thankless as it is attractive.

Few, except those occupying official position, have any accurate idea of the vast amonnt of detail and tiresome and unselfish effort required in the work of the League. The amount of correspondence handled by the executive of the League and many of the committees is so great as to interfere with the private interests and private business of any such official to an extent such as is hardly warranted by the lack of appreciation on the part of the general membership. Much faithful and efficient work has been performed during the year just closing, upon the line of policy adopted at its beginning, and with results greater than could have been anticipated.

I feel that too much praise cannot be bestowed upon the Committee on the Improvement of the Highways and the Racing Board especially, and, since I have become officially well acquainted with the duties of our Secretary Editor, I feel it but just to express formally my appreciation of his tireless devotion to the duties of his office.

For the detailed work of the League during the coming year, I have the following suggestions to offer, some of which are ably endorsed by various Chief Consuls and others who are qualified to judge of the needs of the League. I feel that the scope of the work of the Hotel Committee should be increased, and that if possible, its duties, together with the general work of keeping records pertaining to the best touring routes, etc., should be, in a measure, centralized in the office of the Secretary.

I recommend the employment by the League of one or more agents whose duty it shall be to make a complete census of the wheelmen of the country, and to canvass the whole field thoroughly under the direction of the executive and with the advice and consent of the Division officers.

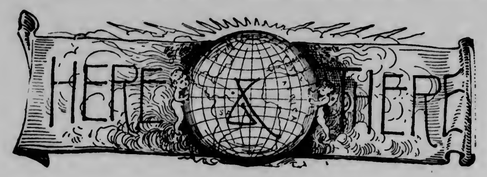
I suggest the publication in the near future of the new book upon Highways' Reform, for which the matter is almost ready, in the hands of the present Chairman of the Committee on the Improvement of the Highways. I recommend that a hand book in some measure similar to the one published last year, be published in the interest of the League. I recommend that the duties of the Committee on the Improvement of the Highways and of the Committee on Rights and Privileges be somewhat changed, also that a special Committee on Legislation be created, whose duty it shall be to give attention to legislative work for the League throughout the Divisions wherever the work may be desired, and that the work of the Committee on Improvement of the Highways be continued upon its present most admirable policy, to the end that a constantly increasing mass of educational and literary matter shall be published and promulgated by its instrumentality.

I recommend, in the case of smaller Divisions at least, a more thorough oversight of their finances by the National officers. I am an advocate of giving to League clubs some additional privileges beyond those now enjoyed.

I recommend such official action in conjunction with the Canadian cyclists as will result in a less complicated, expensive and annoying means of exporting and importing wheels when accompanied by their riders between the United States and Canada.

In conclusion, I have much pleasure in congratulating the League on its enormous growth and its splendid financial condition, and beg to acknowledge thus formally my personal appreciation of the efforts of the various officers of the League, in so far as they have rendered my share of the League's work productive of results.

Respectfully submitted, JAMES R. DUNN, President.



MR "JONES" IS CORRECTED.

Editor Bicycling World: I note an article in a late issue of the BICYCLING WORLD signed "Jones." Who "Jones" is I don't know, but I do know that he has been either misinformed or else his upper works are liberally sprinkled with 'Gum" of a soft quality, thus allowing considerable stretching. If there is one thing I am down on it is these fellows, who, to boom a thing, sit down, write a lot of truck, inserting names of parties, and putting them down as doing things of which they never dreamed. This they consider smart. I believe a newspaper or journal should contain facts and truth. Its well enough to pad and draw on imagination when writing a story, but when you give news give the plain truth.

Now I am in a position to know what I say, when I state that the Harlem Wheelmen have not given a thought about putting up a new house at the expiration of the present lease. On the question of track racing I can safely say that Messrs. Osborn and Bellmer have no idea of going on the track, although they will probably take part in the club races just for fun. As for Putney, he was never yet known to race.

Now a word as regards to the election. Our ex captain, Frank Lord, was put up on the regular ticket for vice-president, and he would have been elected by a very large majority had he not withdrawn, and I hold a letter in which he distinctly states that he positively would not accept any office whatever. His name for the captaincy was not even mentioned, and the letter above mentioned I read to the club at the meeting. Talk about rot! Captain Morrison's majority was something like 5 or 6, Mr. Litchhult coming in a close second. "Jones" says a large majority. I think, all told, "Jones" would do well to let the sun shine on his head. Heat is a great thing and cures many ills.

If Powers is to ride under H. W. colors this coming season it is certainly news, but I doubt it very much.

BUFFALO NOTES.

"SETAGEC."

THE Buffalo Athletic Club will hold regular field days this year at Olympic Park; path and bicycle races will probably be a prominent feature. They have a cinder running path there, and I expect they will widen it and make it a quarter mile track for cycling events.

THE Iroquois A. C. have a strong cycling branch, and, with several other good men like Dorntge, will be able to carry off their share of cycling prizes, as they have done in all classes of athletics.

THE Y. M. C. A. Outing Park seven-lap cinder track will be put in shape for cycling races if enough of the members desire it.

THE owner of one of the East Side ball grounds on Genesee street will lay a four lap track if some of the cycling clubs will guarantee enough returns to pay for laying it.

WISHING to know what the dealers thought about a half-mile track for bicycle races, I made a round of them, and will quote them:

J. H. Isham—"The only way to do is to buy the land and build your own track. Then many will take stock, knowing that the land will increase in value if the races fail to pay expenses. Those who put up the money must get some value for it. I am not in favor of paying Hamlin a big price for the use of that track at the Fair Grounds."

J. M. Thomas of Standard Cycle Co.—"I'd like to see one mighty well. I think a joint association, with shares at a low price, would be best. If the track at the Fair Grounds can be hired for fifteen hundred dollars a year, as you say, it would be easy to get two hundred or two hundred and fifty men at ten dollars each to organize and control it without jealousy between clubs. We could then turn out some racing men."

J. F. Doll—"I think a joint company would be the best plan; then you could get everybody interested. I wish I had a fortune; then I'd build a track myself and let the boys use it. I wouldn't like any better pleasure."

Howard B Smith—"I think it would be a rattling good thing. It must come sooner or later, and I am willing to do my part. Buffalo is behind other places in this matter."

B. D. Harris of Buffalo Cycling Works—"There is no reason why there should not be a bicycle track in Buffalo. It would help the sale of wheels, besides advancing the sport."

E. N. Bowen—"I don't think a weekly tournament would pay in Buffalo—the past show it. I think three or four tournaments a year would at least pay expenses, and we ought to have them."

W. C. Boak—"I haven't given the subject a moment's thought, but it would be a good thing. By hiring the half-milf track we could have fine sport. We should have it."

J. B. Sweet—"I have no objection to it. No doubt it would be a great benefit to the trade."

W. G. Schaak—"I am going to do all I can to get a permanent bicycle track for Buffalo. There is no place as convenient as the driving park, and fifteen hundred a year is not such a big price for the best track in the country, when you think it over. We could make that clear on the first big tournament. Regular tournaments right through the season is what we must have. Two thousand raised by guarantee fund would do the business, and before the season was over we could pay a big dividend. Why, it would pay as an investment."

Geo. S. Castle—"No reason why this should not be the best local cycle market in the country as it is the largest cycling centre. Of course we should have a permanent cycle track and frequent tournaments."

H. C. Pease of Comet Cycle Co.—"We should have it. The first thing that I looked for when I came to Buffalo was a bicycle track, and I have been surprised ever since. A good way would be to have the three leading bicycle clubs and the Iroquois and Buffalo Athletic Clubs, that would be five, club together and either hire the Hamlin track, Olympic Park, or buy a tract of land and build a track; then conduct a field day or cycling and athletic tourney every Saturday afternoon; then each club's turn would come about once a month, and the pleasant rivalry between the various clubs to get the most points will make these tourneys as popular as base ball. I am in favor of thoroughly agitating the track idea till public opinion demands it and we get it."

HARRISBURG NOTES.

"W. H. EEL."

THE Harrisburg Operatic Company will on the 4th of March render the "Chimes of Normandy," under the auspices of the Harrisburg Wheel Club. The opera will be put on the boards of the Grand Opera House, and as the same company acquitted themselves so well in a previous performance, the boys are sure to draw a house full of people anxious to repeat the vision.

ON Friday night, Feb. 20, our monthly reception was held in the "Grand ball room and parlors" of the H. W. C. quarters. A splendid programme was presented, in the rendering of which the following participants distinguished themselves: H. Van Horn, Messrs. Oyster and Fahnestock, Miss Koons, Miss Elder, Miss Wooley, Mr. Kepner, the Royal Italian Orchestra and the Cynthia Club. Following this refreshments were partaken of, and finally dancing wound up a most pleasant evening's entertainment.

I REGRET to announce that Myrtle, the little daughter of L. O. Glover, who attracted so much attention by her perfect control of the bicycle, lies at her home seriously ill. Mr. Glover is a member of the H. W. C., and his wife is president of the Lady's Cycle Club of this city. Much sympathy is extended, and sincerest hopes for Myrtle's speedy recovery are the sentiments I voice for the entire community.

C. P. LUSK covered himself with glory at the reception, officiating in the absence of the president, Mr. Keeker.

BY THE WAY, is it not customary for presidents to be present on such occasions? I think so. Well, our's rarely is. He is quite fond of reaping the glory of the office (in one or two ways), but is not there when work is to be done. Really, I should like to see our president manifest more interest in the club in return for the confidence reposed in him by the members, they having elected him for a second term recently.

CLUB house news is scarce. Look out in the near future for several more remarks upon this subject, which I trust will prove interesting to all wheelmen.

NEW ORLEANS.

"LA. DODGE."

SOME few days ago I had occasion to go into a store in a part of the city where the pavements are not of the kind that contribute to the joys of cycling, and consequently the wheel and its different appurtenances are looked upon with interest. It was rather windy, and I had left my wheel outside, where it was hid from view from the inside, and I had failed to remove my trouser guards. The proprietor looked curiously at me a few minutes and then innocently inquired if I used those springs to keep the wind out. I replied, not to keep the wind out, but to keep my trousers out—of the safety chain, and then showed him my wheel. I further informed him that I wore them wind or no wind.

THE New Orleans Cycling Club are still working on their club house proposition, and in a short while another cycling home will ornament this city.

MR. G. STEVENSON, the good-natured Secretary of the New Orleans Bicycle Club, has entered the ranks of the happy married men, he having captured the fair daughter of one of our prominent business men.

FOR some time past a young wheelman of my acquaintance has been annoyed by a gang of young toughs who amused themselves by throwing sticks and bricks into his wheel as he passed, but he has given one a lesson which, though it may be a trifle severe, will not be forgotten. He observed one of this gang just as he was about to throw a brick into his wheel, and, with aim good and true, squirted the contents of a dog paralyzer into his face. It had been loaded for dogs with a strong solution of carbolic acid. The boy uttered a howl of surprise and clasped his hands to his face. It was aimed so as not to injure his eyes, and this specie of dog will have something to remind him that it is a dangerous practice to endeavor to cripple a passing wheelman. He will also have a delicious perfume about his person that will bring forth inquiries that may aid in making the shot effective as a warning to others.

"The philosophy of trade forces prices to correspond with quality. No man can buy for a dollar that which is worth two dollars, nor can one man make for a dollar what another and older man cannot produce for twice as much money. There are prices and prices, and qualities and qualities, and every time they correspond. * * * It is worth something to know what you are going to get."—See Bicycling World, p. 128, Dec. 6th, 1889.

SINGER & CO., 6 and 8 BERKELEY STREET and 2 WARREN AVENUE, BOSTON, MASS.

We have heard numerous inquiries on all sides, both from wheelmen and others, as to when the L. C. C. will give another entertainment. The previous ones were so successful that the boys are longing for another. Surely some amusement should be provided to remind the boys that there is a cosy and comfortable club house at Octavia and St. Charles streets.

The L. C. C. are certainly progressing. The new constitution and by-laws recently adopted have some good provisions and also some others. One of the good features is a clause prohibing gambling for money. One of the "others" is providing a sergeant-at-arms, whose duty it shall be to sit at the right hand of the president to help to preserve order. The members will look upon the frowning countenance of the sergeant and remember that there are neighbors in the vicinity. The sergeant might also help the worthy president in numerous ways. For instance, he might remind him that some one else is entitled to the floor, and also might occasionally whisper a few lines of Cushing's Gospel in his ear. Boys, be sure to select a big man and a fire-eater for your sergeant, for if anything goes wrong at a meeting something might happen. Our former president often felt the need of something sharp or heavy to keep the boys quiet, but this new officer may require a personal arsenal. Perhaps some of the kickers are kicking too hard, and it may be necessary to have the awful presence of this functionary to prevent severe loss.

Another one of the "others." The secretary-treasurer has been bonded to the extent of $100; but we presume this is for the one that will be elected next April, as the present treasurer has never taken a prize in any race, though often in it, and they certainly are not worried about his running capacities.

PORKOPOLIS NOTES.

"STAR."

Being anxious to see the intellectual giants who control the destiny of the L. A. W., I crept into the baggage car of the train which took our high and mighty Chief Consul to Washington. On our arrival I noticed that our Chief Consul was very indignant that President Harrison had not met him at the depot. His wrath was appeased, however, when he learned that the President was out of the city, but had left a letter expressing his regrets.

When I gazed on the ponderous Chief Consul of New York, when I saw the winsome smile on the face of "Griff," the only wheelman in Detroit, and listened to the voice of Luscomb, and saw the raven locks which adorned the head of the scholastic Potter I could not help exclaiming: "Great is the L. A. W. and long may she live!

The proposition of the A. A. U. to form an alliance with the L. A. W. in which they offered to permit the L. A. W. to elect one whole delegate to act with the ten delegates from their organization seemed rather in the nature of an attempt on their part to gobble us. As the matter has been referred to the Executive Committee it will no doubt be done up brown.

I had also the pleasure of inspecting Atwater's pneumatic which I think is an infringement on the invention of Mr. A. B. Norton of this city, which is automatic as well as pneumatic.

I also read in the Wheel an editorial stating that Bidwell and Mott would in all probability be the successful candidates, and I would like to suggest to the editor of that paper that he would do well hereafter to inquire of the delegation from Ohio before making any more such rash statements.

The next day High, Merg., Probst and myself climbed to the top of the dome of the capitol. We would have paid our respects to the Goddess of Liberty had not the stairway leading up to her reception room been barricaded, probably, as Merg suggested, on account of the presence in Washington of the National Assembly.

We next ascended the Washington Monument and were squeezed into the elevator between pretty girls and fragrant Africans. When we reached the top and were drinking in the magnificent views, our pleasure was somewhat marred by the laments of High and Merg at their neglect to bring their cameras.

On leaving the monument Merg favored us with a lengthy dissertation on the benefits of the bicycle in general, and the movement cure in particular, and ere he had concluded we had reached the Smithsonian Institute. Here, bewildered by the myriads of stuffed birds of all sizes, shapes and colors bearing heathen and unpronounceable names, we wandered aimlessly about till we came across a case of owls, which started High on the subject of owlology and talking owls.

From here we went to the National Museum where we saw a case containing Washington's knee breeches. "Why" said Probst, "I didn't know he was a cyclist." "You didn't?" exclaimed High, "Why he's an honorary member of the 'Porkopolis Wheelmen,' and that is what made him so famous!"

From this we passed to a case containing what we at first supposed were dog paralyzers, but which proved to our disappointment to be only harpoons used in whale fishing. We saw these and many other objects, and agreed with Crane in the "Senator," when he said a man can get a liberal education in Washington within 24 hours.

Chief Consul High has decided to call the State meet for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, July 13, 14 and 15, that is, on the three days immediately preceding the National meet at Detroit. This will give those who can get but one vacation a year an opportunity to take in both meets. This applies not only to residents of Ohio, but to wheelmen to the south and east of us who intend to go to the National meet.

The Columbus boys are making preparations to make this meet one of the most successful ever held in the United States, and outsiders will miss the event of their lives if they fail to attend.

The Columbus boys do not take kindly to the restriction in the value and character of prizes, as recommended by the conference between the L. A. W. and A. A. U., as they have several hundred dollars worth of prizes already secured, among which are a number of high-grade wheels, and they believe it would be quite a hardship to prevent their use as prizes.

John Petty writes that the Cleveland Athletic Club has secured grounds on Euclid avenue on which it intends to build a bicycle track. It is a pitty that Euclid avenne could not be paved with asphalt, instead of that soft and friable Medina stone, for then it would be a wheelman's paradise, and a valuable object lesson to the citizens of that otherwise beautiful city.

CHICAGO.

"WAYNE SCOTT."

Last Thursday evening the Oak Park Cycling Club gave a literary and musical entertaiment. Miss Knowlton, the elocutionist, entertained the members. Mr. Thomas Gale gave a reading, with piano accompaniment, entitled "The Story of a Waltz." A guessing contest on the number of beans in a jar was followed by the reading of a paper by Ed L. Bevington, secretary of the club, entitled "A Few Happenings." This dealt with the past and the future of the club, with those responsible, and was witty throughout. Forty couples were in attendance.

Chicago club members made merry at a progressive combination party last Wednesday evening. In a progressive combination party cards, bean-bag, tiddle de-wink and like games are played, and the players progress from one game to the other as in progressive euchre.

A gold wheel weather-vane was presented to the Æolus Club this last week by Mr. Featherstone. This the club had mounted last Wednesday. Their new club house is now finished outside and the workmen are pushing matters inside. The club placed an order this week for over $1200 of apparatus for their billiard and pool room and bowling alleys. The house will be ready for occupany April 1.

Western wheelmen and Western manufacturers will be well represented at the Philadelphia cycle exhibit.

There are 15 lady members (perhaps more) of the L. A. W. in Chicago.

Masonic Hall at Englewood was comfortably filled last Tuesday evening with a merry crowd. The occasion was the fourth dance of the winter series of the Englewood Cycling Club. F. H. Geer and Miss Carrie Underwood led the grand march, followed by nearly 50 couples. Forest supplied the music. Twelve numbers and four extras were danced. Many of the ladies present were members of the Ladies' Englewood Cycling Club.

The Chicago Club handicap billiard tournament closed last week. Tobey was the winner, with 5 games won and and none lost; Cameron won 4, Sage won 3, Lumsden won 2, Cruttenden won 1 and Sinclair lost 5 straight.

J. Foster Bacon, ex-member of the Lincoln Cycling Club, was joined in the holy bonds of wedlock this last week with Miss Mamie Page of Austin.

F. Howard Tuttle mourns the death of his father. Mr. Tuttle was 42 years of age, an active rider of the wheel and a member of the Illinois Cycling Club. His death was sudden, being sick but a week with pneumonia. The loss of his father is a hard blow for Howard, as he was his constant companion. Howard and his father have been taken again and again for brothers. The sympathies of his many friends are with Howard in his affliction.

Twenty-five employes of the Consolidated Copying Co. in this city are riders of the wheel and have formed themselves into a cycling club.

The new club house of the Victor Cycling Club is located at Ashland avenue and Fifteenth street.

Two pool tournaments started at the Englewood Cycling Club last Friday night, both handicaps. The E. C. C. boys are rehearsing twice a week for a minstrel show to be given in the near future.

A masquerade was given by the Æolus Cycling Clnb last Friday night. A burlesque game of indoor base ball was played previous to the game between the "Neversweats" and "Afraid of the Umpires." This was comical in the extreme. The ball was a foot in diameter and the players in fancy costumes and masks presented a most comical appearance. The dance, as all Æolus dances are, was a sucess.

A musical and literary entertainment will be given at Central Turner Hall, Wednesday evening, March 18, for the benefit of the library fund. An excellent programme has been prepared. A reception and dance will take place after the entertainment.

Chas. Wittenberg has withdrawn from the race for captaincy of the Æolus Club. Frank Bodach will probably gain the election.

Saturday evening, Feb. 21, the Washington Club celebrated Washington's birthday.

The Cook County Wheelmen feel elated over the way their membership has increased since their formation, and rightly too; 165 members now on the roll and 75 applications on the board.

Forty-five couples were present at the Lake View's reception and dance at the Lincoln Park refectory last Friday night.

'LINNEUS."

The event of the local cycling social season was the smoking, concert, and athletic entertainment given by the Missouris last Saturday evening. For the first time in, perhaps, a year fully 75 per cent. of the entire members were present, and invited guests swelled the total number to nearly 200. The affair was a big success, and the many new features introduced held the attention of the audience to the last. The programme opened with an address by the popular Dr. Keith, the club's next vice-president, who made a decided impression, and was loudly applauded. Percy Fletcher next gave splendidly two piano solos. The balance of the evening's musical entertainment consisted of banjo and guitar selections by the Y. M. C. A. Banjo and Guitar Club, vocal solos by Vincent P. Ring, recitation by D. W. Robert, harmonica recital by Walter Berry. The atheletic part was then introduced by three 3-minute rounds of sparring between Fogarty and Bean. This was followed by a unique and most excellent exhibition of fancy and trick riding by M. L. Johnson. The recently acquired gymnasium team, consisting of Messrs. Bearce, Williams, Wagely and Matson, now made their initial bow by a most remarkable and skilful exhibition on the parallel bars, the horse and tumbling. A. L. Gill then gave a finished exhibition of club-swinging. The club team gave an exhibition of wrestling, which was won by Bearce. Refreshments were here served, and a stag dance, in which all participated, wound up the evening's joys. Pipes and tobacco were furnished in profusion, and the affair will long linger in the minds of the participants as being the most enjoyable one yet held here.

There has been some talk of holding a meeting of all the cyclists of this city at some convenient hall under the auspices of the Division, at which only League members and such riders as apply for membership before the date of the meeting will be admitted on presentation of their membership card. A first-class entertainment could be easily arranged, and some good speaking could be listened to in regard to the advantages of League membership. This plan was recently tried in Chicago with good results, and there is no reason why it should not result in a large gain in members in this city.

After May 1 the wheelmen of this city will be without a track for cycling racing, as the Gun Club has positively refused to sublet grounds. It is to be hoped that some new arrangements will shortly be made with the Brotherhood park people to enable the holding of the annual tournment in August.

Street Commissioner Murphy is very emphatic in stating that the asphaltum will be kept in rideable shape the day round this year, and, as a consequence, down-town riding to business will be resumed, and bids fair to be more popular than ever before.

General Sherman's funeral took place today, and it was the grandest military pageant that St. Louis has ever seen. The cyclists were out in full force, and among the militia many familiar faces were noticed. For once the asphaltum street presented a clean appearance, and as the experiment of washing it has proven itself such a big success it will be continued hereafter.

St. Louis is to have a road race which will be confined to Forest Park during May, and President Emery of the Track Association is hard at work arranging the details. The course will be laid out with the assistance of Park Commissioner Klemm, who not only has given permission to run the race, but will encourage it in every way. It is about settled that the distance will be 20 miles, and that the race will be a handicap, and run under the auspices of the Track Association.

The Missouri's pool tournament was concluded on Feb. 21, and the closing games were the most exciting of the entire series. E. C. Platt won the contest, Otto Ludwig being second and W. Saunders third. The prizes were two elegant cues. Total number of games played, 153, of which Platt won 16.

A billiard tournament will shortly be arranged, and in the meantime a euchre or whist tournament, to be arranged by W. R. Wright, will claim the members' attention.

Fun flows fast and furious at the interclub foot-ball contest between the Missouris and Cycling clubs. The games are played on the grounds of the Track Association, and have caused a great deal of friendly rivalry between the members of the respective teams. To date the record stands one game tied and two games won by the Cycling Club. Both games were lost or won by playing outsiders on account of the non-appearance of the regular teams. The deciding game for the championship will be played next Sunday, and both clubs will place their strongest teams in the field. Taken as a whole, the cyclists make a first-class lot of kickers, and, with the practice and experience which these games bring, they will be in shape to tackle the stronger clubs later in the season.

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

"PALISADES."

The B. M. C. L. of Newark at their regular February meeting gave their room committee full power to secure rooms and furnish them with all club comforts and necessaries. Their new quarters will be ready some time next month. They raised their dues to $12 per annum.

Rumor has it that two of the sisters of one of the prominent racing men of the Orange Wheelmen will take to the wheel this season.

The election of Chief-Consul Brown as Second Vice-President of the L. A. W. gives general satisfaction to all League members. We feel elated that New Jersey has at last obtained recognition in the National Assembly and are positive she will never prove unworthy.

It is rumored that the B. M. C. L. of Newark have challenged any cycle club in Essex county for a 25-mile team scratch race to take place on Decoration Day. Medals and banner to be given to winning club.

Englewood, Vineland or Elizabeth—which will get the State meet for '91? All are working hard for it. We understand Englewood will present a joint application from the Bergen County Wheelmen and Englewood Wheelmen. The vexing question will be settled at the regular quarterly board meeting in March.

NEWS AND COMMENT.

One of the few fatal accidents from riding a bicycle occurred on Monday last at Canton, Ohio. Mr. A. L. Keller, a foreman in the Hampden Watch Works, was riding with a party of friends on Cleveland avenue, and in endeavoring to cross the street car track was thrown from his safety and striking on his head was instantly killed. Mr. Keller was 25 years of age and leaves a wife and one child, as well as a large circle of friends to mourn his loss.

THE Centaur Cycle Club of Baltimore, Md., celebrated its fourth anniversary on the evening of Feb. 19 in royal style. The commodious club house was crowded all the evening, there being besides numerous representatives of other wheeling organizations a very large number of non-club members. The best possible evidence that the visitors enjoyed themselves is found in the fact that it was only possible to clear the house at 3 A. M. the following morning by turning off the lights. By all odds the affair must go on record as the biggest event in the history of the club.

THE theatre party of the Pennsylvania Bicycle Club will be given at the Chestnut Street Opera House on the evening of March 9. W. H. Crane in the "Senator" will be the attraction.

THE Harlem Wheelmen will hold a ladies' reception on the evening of March 3.

THE Springfield (Mass.) Bicycle Club will shortly move into their temporary quarters pending a settlement on some permanent place. Although many good and practical propositions have been advanced in solution of the question, the club deem it best to consider the matter fully, and when a decision is arrived at the organization hopes to have a club house of its own or handsome rooms in some block.

THE following is from a member of the medical fraternity: "I have met with cyclists in almost every part of the globe and have invariably found them poor patrons of the medical profession, proof positive that bicycling is conducive to health, but, like anything else, it can be abused."

THE Milwaukee, Wis,, Wheelmen are now located in their new quarters in the Loan and Trust Building, Second street and Grand avenue in that city, and they are very comfortably as well as conveniently situated. The rooms are nicely furnished throughout, and such as should make glad the heart of any organization. The club is composed of many of the well known society people of Milwaukee, and it has hosts of friends who wish it future success and prosperity.

THE Brooklyn, N. Y., Bicycle Club held a "stag" on the evening of February 18, 1891, and like all other entertainments given by this club was a huge success in every particular.

THE Newburgh (N. Y.)Wheelmen have recently moved into their new quarters and are furnishing them up neatly. The club has at present a membership of forty, and is enjoying a prosperous career.

THE second annual race meet of the Harvard University Cycling Association will be held about the end of May. All the cracks will be in training by this time, and it is expected that the meet will surpass last year's success both in the speed of the racers and the size of the meet.

MASSACHUSETTS CLUB DINNER.

LAST Tuesday the Massachusetts Bicycle Club held its annnal dinner at the Thorndike. Between 30 and 40 members were present, among them being a few of the old timers, the "Forty-niners" of cycling. Among the guests were Chief Consul Robinson, Vice Consul Perkins, Secy. Bassett, J. C. Kerrison of the Herald, C. S. Howard of the Globe and the editor of the WORLD. The dinner was an elegant affair, and was enlivened by excellent music by Daggett's orchestra. After dinner President Amory called upon the following gentlemen to make speeches: Chief Consul Robinson, Vice Consul Perkins, Col. Pope and the editor os the WORLD. The keynote of the speeches was sounded by Mr. Robinson, who bewailed the fact that Boston had not a single live cycling club, and urged the Massachusetts Club to step in, reorganize and revivify the dead interest in cycling clubs.

All the speakers dwelt on this theme, and it seemed to be one that went home to the spot in every one of the hearers, so much so that we should not be surprised to hear of action being taken to put the club on active footing once again. We would like to see it done, and hope the affair will not end in mere talk. The evening's enjoyment was much added to by the vocal selections of Messrs. Ryder, Joy and others.

THE PHILADELPHIA SHOW.

THE coming cycle show is the prevailing topic of conversation just now—In fact, you hear nothing else. All the cycling world and his wife will be there, and indications point to a success even greater than was looked for by the most sanguine among the promoters. At the last meeting of the executive committee, on Friday evening, it was announced that over one thousand season tickets had already been disposed of in the clubs alone, and that applications were pouring in for more. The Entertainment Committee, consisting of Messrs Bunnell. Kain and Crouther, reported that the following programme had been decided on for the evening entertainments throughout the week, Maltby being the rider secured to give exhibitions of fancy riding:

Monday—Opening Night: W. R. Tucker, President of the A. C. C., President Dunn, Col. McClure and Col. Pope will address the audience.

Tuesday—Musical Night: Glee Club and fancy riding; cornet soloist, Clarence Worrell, pupil of Levy, 13 years old, chief bug'er 3d Regt.

Wednesday—Athletic Night: Fencing, sparring, wrestling, etc.

Thursday—Cycling Night: Fancy riding and music

Friday—Military Night: Exhibition drill by Silver Spring Post No. 8, Cadets; and gatling gun, Co. B of Camden, N. J.

Saturday—Closing Night: Finals of home trainer contests, which will be run every evening, and for which gold and silver medals will be provided. A band of music will be in attendance during the exhibition.

Not the least among the attractions will be the collection of fossils in the way of ancient specimens of wheels of all ages and kinds, from one of the two-wheeled hobby-horses to the more modern velocipede and bone-shaker, and so on down the line until the full-fledged pneumatic is shown. A "Press Box" is to be located in the hall during the exhibition, at which will be represented the BICYCLING WORLD and the Sporting Life, and here will be found a League bureau of information and application, at which the wheelman who should be, and is not, a member of the L. A. W. can turn over his cash, receiving therefor the membership card bearing the magic autograph of Bassett.

We have the documents in hand to prove that there is one answer which fits each of the above questions, and that answer is, THE OVERMAN WHEEL CO.

FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF THE PHILADELPHIA CYCLE AND FIELD CLUB.

ILLUSTRATED above is the first of America's—or the world's, for that matter—cycling club's country houses, which, just a year old, celebrated its first anniversary on Monday evening, the 23d instant, by a reception and dance at the cosy and homelike structure at Ardmore. Some of the youngsters are wont to inquire, with an inflection of sarcasm, whether the Philadelphia Club can do any riding; but, bless their dear innocent hearts, Philadelphia's members are the veterans of cycling—men who had toured all over the country when the aforesaid questioners were yet in pantalettes. So at this reception it was a sincere pleasure to meet so many of the old faces and greet so many of the old friends, albeit some have gone over to the great majority. There were Blakiston and Blair, two of the original members—the former the oldest cycling club secretary in the country, and still in harness; W. R. Tucker, President of the A. C. C. and Secretary of the Board of Trade; G. N. Osborne—Philadelphia's "Gus"—most genial of house committees; newly-elected President Burt, wearing his honors gravely; Uhler, Smith, Watt, Morris, Carpenter, Hare and Collins of Century, and many others were present, while the ladies, in bright gowns and pretty bonnets, varied the sombre hues of the gentlemen's garb.

The supper was a triumph of gastronomical excellence on the part of the janitor, and he was the immediate recipient of a number of offers from the members of other clubs. (Mem.: If any one appreciates a good meal it is a wheelman.) Claret cup and coffee were provided for the liquid part of the menu, and both were well patronized during the conversaziones which whiled away the half-hour after luncheon until dancing began. The party tripped the mazy waltz and quieter quadrille until near midnight, when a majority of the guests where whirled into Broad street by steam, while a few braved the terrors of the moonlit pike on their bicycles—for what were cycles made for if not to ride?

It is the intention of the club to repeat last autumn's successful Field Day before the June roses bloom in the summer air, and they will make the affair quite an event in the young history of the organization.

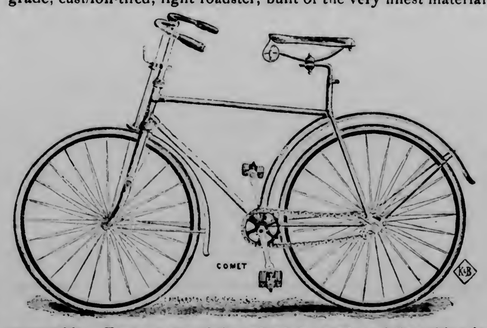
ELWELL EUROPEAN TOUR NOTES.

PROF. AUGUST GEISSER of Regensburg, Germany, will meet the party at Strasburg and accompany them as far as Cologne. Prof. Geisser is a member of the Allgemeinen Radfahrer-Union, and a prominent German cyclist. That the tour will be a grand success is now an assured fact. Full information can now be obtained by addressing F. A. Elwell, 152 Pearl street, Portland, Me.

TRADE NOTES.

MR. P. H. SERCOMBE of Milwaukee, Wis., writes us the report circulated in certain sections that he had made a contract with the Ames Mfg. Co. of Chicopee, Mass., for 1000 high grade bicycles to be known as the "Sercombe Spring Fork Safety" is a bit premature. Mr. Sercombe desires to correct this statement. He will not get out any wheels this season, but in all probability will be on the market with a high grade wheel for 1892.



STOVER'S catalogue was issued this week. The cover is printed in ten different colors, the front showing a moonlight scene in the hills, the moon looks down with a smile upon a number of Brownies who are running away with a Paragon safety. The back cover shows the factory surrounded with four views; spring at Niagara Falls, summer at Naragansett Pier, fall in New England, and winter in Florida, all in colors. The whole is an excellent piece of work, both inside and out.

PRESIDENT L. H. JOHNSON of the Premier Cycle Co. expects to reach Philadelphia in time to attend the opening of the Cycle Show, where an exhibit of Premier Wheels and Lucas's Cyclealities will be made by the Philadelphia agents, McDaniel & Merrihew. Mr. Johnson has been making an extended trip through the West, and reports the most encouraging success in placing Premier wheels, and large prospects of an extraordinary demand this season.

KEEFE & BECANNON, 1891.,

The two engravings shown herewith represent the Comet and K. & B. Diamond, two new wheels manufactured by Messrs. Keefe & Becannon, 157 Broadway, New York. The Comet is a full high-grade, cushion-tired, light roadster, built of the very finest material procurable. Every part of the wheel is steel and the tubing is weldless. A novel spoke arrangement is a feature. The spokes

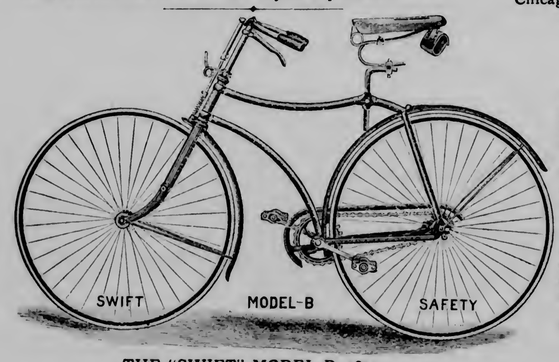
THE AMERICAN CYCLES.
Chicago, Boston, Washington.

The editor of this paper came Westward recently, of course he stopped in Chicago, and of course he "did" the Gormully & Jeffery factory before he departed. In the WORLD of February 13th he has recorded some of his impressions. Amongst other things (and please bear in mind, by the way, that the write-up was voluntary) he "could not help noticing a special feature in the construction of the Ramblers, and that is, the use of bent and formed tubing where it is usual to use solid metal; for instance, at the point on the frame where the crank sprocket is hung, and the upright portion of the frame that takes in the saddle post meets the loop frame by a most ingenious bending of steel tubing, all that portion which, as we said, is usually solid is made hollow—a very expensive mode of construction. This form of construction is also used at the point where the neck of the loop frame is attached to the steering head and other points."

It is hardly to be wondered that this feature impressed the editor so strongly, as those who are in position to know recall what a fine large malleable iron casting it was and is customary for certain high grade (!) manufacturers to use at certain points in their wheel. But the editor isn't the only man who has been impressed with the construction and features of the Rambler; in fact we only ask the careful study of anyone who is not slaved by preference or prejudiced to establish superiority, for we have little fear but that the verdict of such a well-known and capable rider as Dr. Geo. E. Blackham of Dunkirk, N. Y.: "That after a season's use I desire to express my continued satisfaction with the Light Rambler and the confirmation of my opinion that it is the best designed wheel I have ever seen," will be substantially verified, or that the attention to details which has so "taken" others will be found up to the mark—from the felt washers used to protect those bearings, and which have brought more than one enconium by the admirable manner in which they keep the bearings free from "that scratching and grinding so common in other wheels," as one letter puts it, and the clever trouser guard for protecting the rider's trousers from sprocket wheel and chain, which was such a feature as to excite remark and (now keep your eye open) imitation, to the larger particulars and details.



As a still further endorsement of the Rambler we reproduce from a recently published "review of the foreign trade (to which most American makers look for their ideas and patterns) for 1891" the following, which practically represents the sum of this year's improvement:

The firms have almost universally adopted the ball socket head system of steering; that in many cases the absurdly short heads which were introduced last season are now replaced by heads of some eight inches in length. Another feature is the almost universal adoption of either a swing crank bracket or a screw arrangement in the back fork ends for the chain adjustment. This latter method appears to be the most general, several very neat specialties in design having been introduced in connection with it. There is also a marked tendency to flatten the forked sides of the back portion of the frame, and adjustable foot-rests are also now very largely used.

In general design a large number of firms are building their machines so that the line of the seat pillar tube and steering-post are parellel, thus adding to the beauty of the wheel, and also insuring the saddle and handles, being always in the same relation to each other as regards distance apart."

It is a fact that every one of these features: Long (11 inches) ball socket steering heads, a screw arrangement at the rear fork end for chain adjustment, flattened rear forks, adjustable foot rests and the building of seat pillar tube and steering head on a parallel line, have been distinctive points of the Rambler for years past, and that they are all embodied in the '91 pattern which, by the by, can be recognized when placed alongside of last year's Rambler—which is more than can be said of some other "high grade bests" and "simply perfects" of 1890. To the thoughtful and discriminating such facts as these will carry conviction where bluster, ancient and sentimental history and boyish who-was-the-first-man and I'll-bet yer-a-quarter-I'm right advertisements would fall flat.

run parallel instead of on a tangent or alternately. The advantages claimed for this arrangement is the increased strength, 48 spokes being used in each wheel, instead of 36 to 42 as ordinarily. The chain adjustment is exceedingly simple and effective. The lines of the wheel are very handsome, the frame being of the latest and handsomest form of the Diamond. The wheels are 28-inch, geared to 54 or 57, as desired, fitted with Bolte saddle, C. & D. oiler, B & S. wrench. Price, standard finish, $115; lined in gold and colors, $120; fitted to order only with the Dunlop-Featherstone pneumatic tire at $135. The K. & B. Diamond, price $100, is a 30 inch light roadster, solid tired safety, with direct spokes. The frame is also of the Diamond type, and of weldless steel tubing throughout. Both these wheels are full ball bearing and fully guaranteed. Messrs. Keefe & Becannon, though in the wheel trade but one year, have rapidly come to the front, and are today one of the leading houses in the country. Their other specialties are the Raglan Safeties, manufactured by Messrs. Taylor, Cooper & Bedwell (Lt'd.) of Coventry, England, for whom the firm are U. S. importers. Keefe & Becannon have also been appointed exclusive controllers of the Giant, Giantess and Little Giant safetles for Eastern and Southern New York. In addition many prominent wheels are handled locally. Mr. George Macdonald, who entered the employ of the firm a year ago to organize the Cycling Department, will continue to direct the Bicycle Department.

THE "SWIFT" MODEL B, 1891.

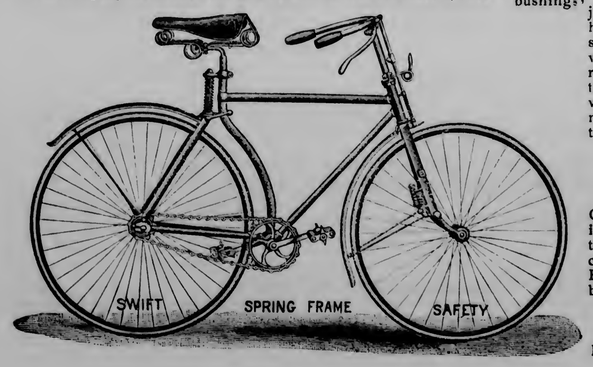
THE full Roadster of the "Swift" line of Safeties shown in the above cut has the reputation of being a thoroughly reliable machine for heavy weights and rough roads.

The frame for 1891 is built on the same lines as last year; the improvements being the extension of the head and the inclination of the handle bars.

The Coventry Machinists' Co. are one of the few firms who have maintained throughout that a direct spoke properly made is the best spoke for hard wear and tear.

The company claim that soft wire cannot be used for these spokes as they develop constantly a tendency to break.

The "Swift" spokes are in two pieces, the wire being of the finest steel, while the butt at the hub is of a softer grade of steel. The average number of spokes the Coventry Machinists' Co. supply from their sundry department is twelve spokes for every 100 machines sold.



The Model B "Swift" is fitted with 1 1-4 Cushion Tires at $5.00 extra, which are so constructed that the rim cannot cut into them.

A NEW SPRING FRAME.

WE expect to find the Coventry Machinists' Co. with something new every season, and this year we are not to be disappointed. The "Swift" spring-frame, as shown in the above cut. is a model of simplicity in design and construction. By reason of a hinge joint at the back of the crank shaft, the rear part of the frame compresses the spiral spring near the seat pillar tube. This spring is adjustable by means of a nut, so allowing the rider to increase or decrease the tension of the spring as he so desires.

The makers confidently say that "We believe it is without equal at the present time for ease and comfort in riding, and if fitted with a small cushion tire, is simply perfection."

We are just advised that Mr. Marratt of the Coventry Machinists' Co. will remain in this country permanently to take charge of a branch office to be opened in Chicago. The exact location of the Chicago branch has not yet been decided on but will be given later.

VICTOR SAFETY, MODEL D.

THIS combination of a rigid frame, with Victor cushion tires to both wheels, is intended for riders of about 140 pounds weight. Like model B it has a stiff front fork, and depends upon the tires to resist vibration. These are 1 1-4 inches in diameter. It is already a favorite mount.

Brief: 28 inch wheels, geared to 53 inches; 1 1-4-inch Victor cushion tires to both wheels; butt end tangent spokes; Victor hollow rims of new design; single adjustment ball bearings all around; removable hardened bushings; detachable cranks of new design, 5 3-4-inch throw; hollow bowed handle bar, with hard-rubber grips; Victor saddle, all forged steel nickled; guards to chain and both wheels; spring-tension brake to rear wheel; tool bag, Victor wrench, spring top oiler, screw-driver and nipple wrench. Finished in Victor enamel; all bright parts nickel.

To order, without extra charge, gearing to 50 1-2 or 56 inches.

VICTORIA.

This popular ladies' cycle came into the market late in the season of 1890. It was so well received, however, that the supply was quickly exhausted. It is now better than ever, as together with improvements in details, it has a 1 1-4-inch Victoria cushion to the driving wheel.

Brief: 28-inch wheels, geared to 50 1-2 inches, 5-8-inch solid tire front; 1 1-4-inch Victor cushion tire rear; Victor hollow rims; butt end tangent spokes; detachable cranks of new design, 5 3-4-inch throw; single adjustment ball bearings; removable hardened bushings; improved Victor spring fork; balls to every friction joint, 176 in all; Victoria pedals with square rubbers; hollow bowed handle bar, with hard rubber grips; Victor saddle, all forged steel nickeled; guards to chain and both wheels; dress guards of perforated metal; adjustable foot rests; spring-tension brake to rear wheel; tool bag, Victor wrench, spring-top oiler, screw-driver and nipple wrench. Finished in Victor enamel, all bright parts nickel. To order, without extra charge, 1 1-4-inch Victor cushion tire and rim to front wheel.

Maine.

The following correspondence which is appended below explains itself. It shows what your Secretary is doing to advance the interests of the League in direction of better roads. Every individual member of the Maine Division should feel it incumbent upon himself to do all possible to help Division officers in this respect. Bring to the notice of Road Commissioners and town officers the literature of the League on this subject.

Agitate the subject through the press and in whatever quarters it may seem wise to do so. Good roads benefit every man in the community, and are the basis on which the future growth of the League rests. The League needs money to carry on the work of educating the public up to where they can see the real economy of a first class highway. Scattered throughout Maine are hundreds of wheelmen who are non-League members. It is the duty of every present member to try and induce these riders to ally themselves to the L. A. W. in order that this result may be more quickly brought about.

It does not seem possible that any rider of a wheel, after he realizes the manifest benefits the League has already conferred upon him, and the many it is still laboring to, can refuse to contribute his mite towards the ends in view.

No other organization in the country has within its ranks so many representative young men, and it should be looked upon as a matter of pride, also that one is eligible to become a member of the League of American Wheelmen.

We trust members will lose no opportunities to enroll new members or further the movement for good roads. Application blanks and literature may be secured from Secretary Torrey. Very fraternally,

H. M. BREEN, Chief Consul.

Portland, Me., February 23, 1891.

To Governor E. S. Burleigh, Augusta, Me.:

Dear Sir—Enclosed please find a little book which the League of American Wheelmen is distributing throughout the country, with a view of making converts to their views regarding road building. The L. A. W. has grown in 1880 to 1890, 10 years, to over twenty thousand members, and has become quite an influence in various directions, generally speaking for good.

It is a notable fact that in any community, the bicycling fraternity comprises the best young men of the town, persons of culture, industry and enterprise. Therefore it is not unreasonable to affirm and to believe, that whatever the L. A. W. strives to promote is not only for the good of its members, but for the community at large; and the object of this writing is to commend to your attention the influence of the L. A. W., particularly in the direction of Road Improvement. In this special connection there are over two hundred L. A. W. representatives in the State of Maine; but a unit as compared with the large number all over the country, but the Maine members have, nevertheless, a co-equal interest with the whole organization in this matter of improvement of highways, and truly in our State the chance for improvement is very great.

At this writing we hardly know what action is best in the matter, and we have little faith that much interest can be awakened in the State, but these books will be distributed freely among the Legislature and town officers everywhere, and if it comes within your way to make official recommendation for better highways, we sincerely trust you will do so. It being obvious that good roads will inure more to the benefit of the people in general, than to the petty two hundred wheelmen I have referred to, you will readily see that the L. A. W. is not wholly selfish in this movement it has inaugurated.

Trusting you will find time and be disposed to give this matter a little attention, I have the honor to remain

Yours respectfully, BATES TORREY,
Secretary Maine Division L. A. W.

Dear Sir—I am directed by Governor Burleigh to acknowledge your letter of the 26th instant, enclosing pamphlet issued by the League of American Wheelmen concerning the improvement of highways; and to say in reply that he is very favorably impressed with the suggestions and recommendations contained in your letter, and that it will give him great pleasure to aid you whenever he has an opportunity to do so.

The papers have been placed upon his personal file for future reference. Very respectfully,

Missouri to be McKinleyed.

To Consuls and Members:

McKinleyed, past participle of the transitive McKinley—to raise, to advance, to increase. This word will probably be found in forthcoming dictionaries, with the participle "ed," denoting that which is gone—especially up. Hustling local consuls and members are said to have McKinleyed their Divisions. Their memberships increase and profits grow. Don't your friends want to know what we have to offer? High value at a low price, and protection of the right sort which no one but League members can obtain. See them about it.

Do you know there are signs in the air which point to a membership in the L. A. W. as the best paying investment in the cycling world? Riders who are up to the times know this to be true. Those of your friends who have not as yet tested the League's merits should be glad to have the following facts brought to their notice.

In the first place the League is beyond the peradventure of a doubt the leading athletic organization of America. It is head and shoulders above all, and is the only organization which fosters cycling and has done so for the past ten years with ever increasing popularity. Its influence is not confined to any particular locality, but is found everywhere where wheelmen abound. With hundreds of riders in the hustling, growing towns of this State, not to mention St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph and Springfield, it should be an easy matter for live members to rapidly recruit our membership. Taking this fact into consideration don't you think that it is your duty to aid in the work? If you only secure one new member you will have the satisfaction of knowing that you have done your duty nobly. Fraternally yours, ROHT. HOLM, C. C.

Missouri Division Board of Officers.

A meeting of the Missouri Division Board of Officers, L. A. W., was held at the Missouri Bicycle Club house, St. Louis, Feb. 7, 1891. Chief Consul Robert Holm presided, and in the absence of Secretary-Treasurer Joe Kelly, Representative W. P. Laing was appointed secretary pro tem. The other members of the Board present were Chairman of Racing Board Geo. M. Wilder, Representatives Gilbert and Woodruff. Local Consul Wainwright was present by invitation. There were proxies from Secretary-Treasurer Joe Kelly, Chairman Touring Board, H. G. Wolzendorf, Representatives Jaccard, Seibel and Garner and Chairman H. Pope of Rights and Privileges Committee. The report of the Chief Consul, a quite lengthy and comprehensive article, was read and adopted.

REPORT OF CHIEF CONSUL.

Gentlemen of the Board:

Since our September meeting our Division has been in a fairly prosperous condition, and with your kind indulgence I will call attention to such matters as I think should be brought before this body.

At the date of my last report our Division had 424 members; we now have 462—a gain of only 38 in four months. This is not as it should be, and I earnestly request that each of you will do all in his power to help increase the membership.

I am very sorry to be obliged to report that the famous Canfield case, which was the outcome of an outrageous assault upon one of our members, resulted in being thrown out of court because plaintiff could not, or would not, testify to the ownership of the vehicle. Mr. Pope is personally present, and as he conducted the case for the Division he will doubtless be able to give us full particulars. The case cost us some $34, which has practically been thrown away, and will cause us to be exceedingly careful in conducting future cases for members in which question of the right of the use of the road is not involved. I have written Mr. Canfield to give me his side of the story or his reason for the case being non-suited, but to date have not been able to obtain a reply.

Our Racing Committee has kept a careful watch over the path events in the State and are working on on racing circuit which will embrace several cities in this vicinity. Chairman Wilder is personally present and will refer to this matter in his report.

Last July we had printed 500 copies of our Road Book at a cost of $377. The supply is very nearly exhausted and it is for you to say if a new and improved edition shall be gotten out next season. The book involves a good deal of labor, and I wish to say here that the expected large increase in membership, which it was to bring about, has not materialized. As a great many changes will be made in forthcoming editions it was deemed inexpedient to have the pages electrotyped. In spite of the fact the book is hardly ever used by residents of the larger cities, as their riding districts are well known, it has proved itself a valuable reference for parties going on tours of discovery and a guide to tourists across the State it stands second to none.

Our State meets are growing in importance as well as in attendance, and as Carthage was awarded the meet for this year I trust to see at least three-quarters of our entire membership present. An attractive programme is already being arranged and everything will be done to make the meet a huge success.

Our Highways Improvement Committee, of which Mr. H. A. Scott of Moberly is chairman, has been very inactive, and to date I have been unable to obtain a reply to the many letters I have written asking for information, etc. Gov. Francis is, I believe, one of the few Missouri Governors who have referred to the need of better road legislation in his annual message to the Legislature, and I am privately informed that a good road bill, which will partly do away with the old fogy system of building and repairing our roads, will be introduced at this session. One hundred and fifty road improvement books have been sent to Jefferson City and were distributed among the members last Monday. There can be no question that if a good live man were placed at the head of this very important committee some good work would be done. The country press could be gotten to take the matter up and their influence would educate the great mass of people, who are now indifferent, to the great need of better transportation facilities. The Governor's message reads as follows:

"I know of nothing that would be more beneficial to the State than a comprehensive system of rock roads. The wagon road is the farmer's railroad, the avenue through which all of his products are carried to market, and upon its maintenance and use depends the prosperity of the town. I am convinced that the welfare of our people would be greatly enhanced and the general prosperity of the State would be materially accelerated if some plan could be devised whereby the construction of rock roads would be made obligatory upon every county in the State. There is one feature of the present road law which could be amended to avantage, and that is the payment of road tax by individual labor. If it were supplanted by a system of private contracts much better roads would result without any increased expenditure of money. It is sincerely to be hoped that, during the present session of our Legislature, some comprehensive plan may be devised whereby these desirable ends can be accomplished.

If material aid could be extended from the State treasury within the limits of the constitution, I believe the expenditure would be a wise one, and that cities and sections which have already at their own expense made great advancement in this direction would cheerfully bear their portion of the burden. The aid should be extended only, however, on condition that the county and the property owners in the districts where the roads are located would contribute sufficient additional means to insure their construction.

During December I mailed all of the Local Consuls, residing outside of St. Louis or Kansas City, a circular letter in which I notified them that prizes consisting of a $5 and $3 L. A. W. pin would be given to the Local Consul securing the most members by May 1. With the exception of two applications received from Local Consul Sansom of Kahoka this scheme has been barren of results thus far, but I have promises from nearly all of the 36 officers that recruiting will have their best attention just as soon as the riding season opens up. Locally I find that the apathy among dealers in regard to recruiting still continues with but one or two exceptions, and something should be done which will cause them to give this subject more attention. While here recently, Chief Consul Post of Connecticut informed me that the recent immense increase in their membership was mainly caused by offering a $5 L. A. W. pin to each person securing 25 new members and it might be advisable to adopt it for our Division.

The State has been districted and each Representative has been placed in charge of a certain number of counties. To date I have no reports as to the progress of their work and would very much like to know just what is being done.

I have appointed Messrs. H. C. Woodruff and M. J. Gilbert to fill vacancies on our board caused by the resignation of Mr. F. W. Wrieden and our increase in membership.

During November I sent out circular letters to the postmasters of every town in the State which had 1000 inhabitants or over in which we were not represented. I have received numerous replies, and strange as it may seem each city has from 3 to 5 cyclists eligible to L. A. W. membership. I have written to wheelmen in 32 towns, inclosing circulars and application blanks, and in spite of the fact that a stamped addressed envelope was enclosed not a single reply has reached me to date. This is very disappointing, but I will keep at them just the same and in course of a few months secure a number of them as new members.

Last year I got out a recruiting pamphlet, the cost of which was borne by the advertisements it contained; 2000 copies were printed and distributed among the non-League wheelmen of our State with good results, and I think it would be a wise plan to again issue a similar work this year. The circulars issued by the national body give only the advantages of League membership in a general way and do not refer to what has been accomplished in our State as the pamphlet does

A great deal of work, which should be borne by our Representatives and Local Consuls, has been thrown on my shoulders, and while I do not complain I would like to see the officers named assume at least a part of it in the way of securing additional members. We must pull together, and by calling at the agencies secure the names of new riders who can easily be gotten to join if you will only approach them.

Our finances are in good shape and the balance is increasing. A year ago the balance was $378 84, while it is now—

[There being no report from the Secretary-Treasurer, he was reprimanded, as the absence of a report from him left the Board in ignorance as to the condition of the Division treasury.]

In concluding this report I wish to thank all the hustling members for their support in the past and beg to assure you that with a resumption of the good work of recruiting we shall soon place our Division among the largest in point of membership. We had hoped to pass a number of States in this respect last season, but the immense loss of non-renewals has dicapped us too heavily just when success was almost within our grasp. The duties of my office for the coming eleven months will be more arduous than ever before, and as the renewal season will soon be upon us I ask the cordial support of all the officers and members to induce each and every member now on our rolls to renew his or her membership. Had it not been for the continued and heavy losses in this respect our Division would now number 600 members.

The office of Chief Consul if properly administered is not a sinecure, and the only remuneration is in the sense of doing some general good in which all participate and to do it well; in fact, to extract from the situation all its possibilities.

The new By-Law which was adopted at Niagara Falls changes the date of the annual election of officers from July 15 to between the 15th day of October and November and the annual meeting of the Board of Officers to the month of December.

Our Constitution is sadly in need of overhauling and revision as it has to be changed to conform with the national one, and I would like to see the matter fully discussed. Respectfully submitted,

ROHT. HOLM, Chief Consul.

The report of Geo. M. Wilder, Chairman Racing Board, was adopted as read, as also were the reports of Horton Pope, Chairman Rights and Privileges Committee, H. G. Wolzendorf, Chairman Touring Board, and Representative Robt. W. Garner in regard to Division meet at Carthage, Mo., July 3 and 4. The matter of a lantern parade at a that time was brought up, but no action was taken.

The resignation of H. G. Wolzenderf as Chairman of the Touring Board was again brought up and discussed and again laid over, the Board being loth to accept it.

A letter was read from Chief Consul Davis of Kansas declining to hold a joint meet of the Missouri and Kansas Divisions.

Report of Representative Seibel of Kansas City was read and adopted.

The matter of revising the Division Constitution to agree with the National Constitution was discussed at length and upon motion a Revision Committee was appointed to consist of Messrs. Holm, Pope and Gilbert. The authority for this committee being found in Art. 8 of Division Constitution. Mr. Pope not being present the Secretary was instructed to notify him of his appointment.

In order to induce the active recruiting of new members it was decided to offer an L. A. W. pin, valued at $5, to the Local Consul securing the most new members, and a like pin, valued at $3, to the Local Consul securing the second largest number of members. This offer not to include St. Louis and Kansas City and time to be limited to May 1, 1891. A further offer of a League pin, valued at $5, to any League officer getting 20 new members was indorsed.

There being no further business a motion to adjourn was made and carried. W. P. LAING, Sec. pro tem.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to date, and published in accordance with Article III. of the Constitution, which is as follows:

"Any amateur wheelman, in good standing, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the indorsement of two League members in good standing, or of three reputable citizens of the United States or Canada, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an initiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League, the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at 10 A. M. on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

A STUDY.

Webster defines the word Study in one place as any "object of attentive consideration." We present a study in the above illustration.

It has already been the object of attentive consideration. The inventors have carefully studied it in every part and detail to see if any change could be made for the better. The skilled mechanics have carefully studied how best each part could be made light yet strong, graceful, yet capable of performing the best work. Practical wheelmen have made an object lesson of it, and experimented with it as well, to thoroughly test its every quality. It has had the careful attention of the Company, President, officers and attaches, and has met with unqualified approval.

It is presented as a study for every wheelman. Make it the object of your careful consideration. Note its graceful contour, suggestive of lightness and strength. Mark the absence of superfluities. Examine its detail.

Would you make a further study of it? The Catalogue, a "study" in itself, will tell you all about it. And the machine itself is now on exhibition at our stores and agencies.

IT WILL BEAR THE CLOSEST EXAMINATION AND SATISFY THE EXAMINER.

VIBRATION.

There are in every large city, places where suffering mankind may be cured (so it is claimed) of various diseases by the use of vibration. If rheumatism in the foot or leg they (i. e. the leg, foot and rheumatism) are strapped to a machine (made of metal of course) and violently shaken. This is supplemented by pounding, rubbing, etc., and there can be no question that there are cases where such treatment is beneficial. I met on a train recently a man who had expended considerable time and money, he told me, in getting a severe case of rheumatism broken up by the "movement cure."

Seeing one from the window, turned the conversation onto bicycles. I found that he was an enthusiastic rider, and had sold his machine, as he did every Fall, so as to get the "latest thing" in the Spring. On learning this I felt that it would be entirely proper to reveal my identity. I extracted from my elegant russia leather case what I consider something rather fine in the way of an embossed business card (sample by mail on receipt of 10 cents "to pay for packing and crate.") He looked admiringly at the card but seemed to think there was some mistake about it. I found it necessary to urge him considerably to explain his evident surprise. He said, "In talking with you I have detected symptoms of a budding intelligence which could not exist in the man I had pictured as being responsible for the wooden bicycle," and then he asked "seriously now will those wheels stand as much as a steel wheel?"

Dear reader (and you have cost me so much that you are very dear) if it has occurred to you to ask the same question please don't do it, life is too limited. If you are really so uninformed as to think that it is a question you have our sympathy, but please don't also take our time. There are open questions in the bicycle business, but that hasn't been one of them for several years, nor is the question longer raised as to which is the best drive chain, the evidence is all in, and the verdict rendered in favor of the "Elliott."

(It is called the "Elliott" for the same reason that Rip Van Winkle called his dog "Snyder.")

After this chain was fully established as "the best on Earth" the Pope Mfg. Co. arranged with us for its use. We have had numerous inquiries from other cycle manufacturers, who would like to adopt this chain, and would say that a little later we expect to greatly increase our facilities for its manufacture and furnish it to all who want it, which, unless something better is made, means all who pretend to build high class work.

A great many inquiries come to us about "that new $150.00 Hickory" We expect to begin to fill orders for the new machine about the last of April. The cuts will be ready somewhat earlier.

Many interesting and pointed questions are asked about this new machine, all of which will be answered in this space. The price has been announced by Mr. Stall (my accomplice in Boston) to be $150.00, but it is not definitely settled yet whether it will not be fixed at $160.00. It has been suggested (usually by people who have not seen the machine) that this price is too high. Of course if this should turn out to be true it is a crime which will insure its own punishment. Although any price charged for a bicycle is usually considered too high by prospective buyers, there is always a demand for something still better than any machine yet offered, and the new Hickory is intended to meet that demand.

The $135.00 Hickory we are still selling at $100.00.

NOW READY! 1891 "ORMONDE" CATALOGUE.

(MAILED FREE ON APPLICATION.)

A full and complete description of the best English Safety Bicycle in this or any other market to-day. Sold on merit only. The "Ormonde" (highest grade) is our choice, after looking over the entire field of English makes, for a good and reliable wheel for American roads. Strictly high grade, fully warranted, and built on the American interchangeable plan. A full line of parts constantly in stock, so the objection heretofore made that "duplicate parts cannot be had for repairs," is entirely removed. No part is made solid that can possibly be made hollow. Seven different styles, for either lady or gentleman rider, in different weights—light, lighter, lightest. The latter designed more for racers, while the former are adapted to general riding over all kinds of roads. Solid or cushion tires, as desired. Via, the "Ormonde" cushion tires are no experiment, while American manufacturers are placing them on the market this season for the first time. Make no mistake, but buy the wheel that has stood the test. Good Agents Wanted. Just the machine for dealers to handle.

"Come, Gentle Spring! Etherial Mildness! Come."—Thomson.

It is quite evident the poet had been riding a bone-shaker. About two inches of his spinal column had been driven up into his cranium and was crowding the contents out, hence the above.

But he knew what was wanted and called for it, and that the public might make no mistake by supposing a spring to be a spring, he further described what he wanted as "etherial mildness," and he hit it. He could not have described the "Sylph" spring frame more completely or concisely. Being jointed where the load is carried, no jar can reach the load except through the springs, and they are as far from the wheels as it is possible to get them, so they transmit almost none of the shock. There are springs and springs, but if you seek "etherial mildness" try the "Sylph."

MAUDE MULLER.

Maude Muller on a summer day
Rode through the meadows sweet with hay.

She felt the cheering power of spring,
It made her whistle, it made her sing.

With neither sign nor sound of shock,
She glided o'er mound or rut and rock;

And the Judge rode slowly down the lane,
His face bore traces of rage and pain.

His wheels jumped over the lumps and stones,
While the merry click of the judge's bones

Rang out in the gladsome sunny air,
And made the cows in the pasture stare.

He envied Maude and her UNION wheel,
And said, as he watched her steed of steel:

"A woman's judgement is sometimes lame,
But I notice she gets there just the same."

Our ladies' wheel is a little beauty; runs as easily as it is possible to make a cycle run; it is fitted with exquisitely made chain and dress guards, which effectually keep the garments from coming in contact with any of the revolving parts of the machine.

We claim that it is the most perfect and attractive ladies' bicycle ever made, and ask ladies to see and try it before purchasing their wheels for 1891

"As now manufactured, the pneumatic tire gives us no more anxiety than the solid one, while the increase in comfort and the luxurious riding is simply indescribable. The tires upon this, our latest machine, do not require re-inflating more than once a week under normal conditions, and the labor required is too trifling to be worthy of consideration."

EDITORS:

C. W. FOURDRINIER. J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 6 MARCH, 1891.

WE were compelled some time ago by the stress of circumstances to take a stand against what we considered to be objectionable advertising. We felt it to be our duty to our customers to prevent our columns from being used for the purpose of decrying other people's products. With this laudable object in view we had set up and kept standing at the head of our editorial column the following notice:

"The management of this paper refuse to print in the advertising columns of this paper any matter that is disparaging of a rival or which in its estimation is objectionable in any way."

INSPIRED with the ardor born of the belief that our position was the correct one, we entered into the task of censorship with the utmost sincerity and faith that our action would be upheld and our endeavors to confine our advertisers to the ordinary lines would be cordially seconded. We did not count on the work, the dissipation of the "gray matter", which the carrying out of our heaven-born plan would incur; but, alas! experience showed us and proved to us the ruggedness of the path we had marked out for ourselves.

DURING the past few weeks a controversy has been started between two prominent manufacturers in the advertising pages of this paper. It started innocently enough; nay, never was a sucking dove more harmless in outward appearance than this same "starter." It was an avalanche in disguise, a flood masquerading as a rain drop; the reply came sharp and to the point and the end we cannot foresee nor the consequences count on; neither can we hold ourselves responsible for "the end" whate'er it may be or the "consequences" thereof.

BUT, seriously, we cannot see our way clear to interfere. It is a matter that has got beyond our control, and having thus broken the rule in spirit, though perhaps not in the letter, we must treat all our advertisers alike as we cannot lay ourselves liable to the accusation of "favoritism." We cannot discriminate as to who shall or shall not have his fling. We therefore have printed the above notice, which has appeared at the heading of our paper for so long, for the last time. Our attempt to control has become irksome, though attempted with the best of motives. Life is short, and though we shall exercise the right to refuse to print matter which is maliciously libellous on its face we cannot in the future split hairs or discover mares' nests in every advertisement that is offered.

WE prefer peace any day to war. Contentions and discussion are distasteful to us; hence we tried to simmer them down into the ordinary hum-drum methods of advertising. We may have been wrong and we hope we have been. In the meantime, as we said before, life is too short, and as the flood gates have been opened we suppose we must let the flood "flood away," and may the best swimmer get ashore, is our earnest prayer.

NOW as to our opinion of the style of advertising which makes claims and charges, counter claims and counter charges, which contain direct and indirect questioning of veracity or pleasant and airy insinuation. We think the trade will bear us out in that we have deplored the tendency to depart from the simple lines of advertising their own goods. Every merchant has the right to claim par excellence for his goods and all his belongings, but the drift things have taken is not to our taste, and the peculiar part of it is we are not aware of a single other trade than that of the cycle trade where the advertising methods have followed these unfortunate lines. Have we said enough to show that we do most heartily deplore and respectfully protest against a condition of things which we have tried to correct but seem powerless to do so?

GEORGE ALFRED TOWNSEND has been up to the White House with pencil and note book to interview the President. With most that he is reported to have said we are not concerned, but what he says on the matter of road building is worth recording as cumulative testimony for the cause. The only way we can get good roads is to create in every man, be he of high or low degree, a desire for something better than he now has.

IT is something to know that the ruler of our nation appreciates the fact that our roads are unscientifically and poorly constructed. He says in answer to the query as to the necessity of better roads leading out of Washington:

"There would be no trouble about making roads within the lines of the District of Columbia. The difficulty would be to extend them over the line. This subject of roads I suppose every man is familiar with himself who lived in the country as I did in my youth. I have worked myself on the roads among my neighbors. It was the custom to give a certain amount of our time or work to the road in place of taxes; the farm people generally worked out their road tax. I have been among them, and we have shovelled the dirt as the supervisors ordered from the sides of the road in the middle, where it would stay till the next rain. Then it would wash down again, and the road would be about as bad as before. In that way we have probably spent enough money during a long period of years to have covered this whole land with first rate roads. Had we commenced at one end of the road and put in our time there until we had a good, sound piece of road, well drained and stoned or gravelled, it would have stood the test of time, and at the next road making lark or spree we should have put another piece upon it, and, in course of time, we should have finished roads in the nature of turnpike or macadamized roads. Every person on the road, however, wants some work done before his property, and consequently it is scattered along the line, and our roads are hardly better than they were fifty years ago, except in particular place where there has been some scientific method."

LET us hope that the District of Columbia will set a good example and construct highways outside of Washington itself that will be a credit to it. The only road in the District other than the asphalt streets of the capital we travelled over was that leading to the National Cemetery, and it was without exception the worst road we ever saw. It was one complete stretch of quagmire and was a disgrace to the nation and the District. So important a thoroughfare might at least be made reasonably "safe and convenient."

THE Gospel of Good Roads is spreading and every time we read or hear of a city, county, town or village making appropriations for the purpose of roads improvement we feel like heralding the fact with blare of trumpet and beat of drum. The following item sent us by Mr. A. J. Wellington of Boston shows what is being done in this direction in one of Massachusetts' most enterprising sections:

"There is now good reason to hope for the roads of Worcester county. The enterprising citizens of Spencer have voted to purchase a stone-crusher and steam road roller, and the road commissioners, following the example of Melrose, have selected a complete macadam plant of the "Gates" manufacture and have employed an expert road builder to start them right. The other towns and cities in the county will please take notice."

THE second annual meeting of the New York State Roads Improvement Association was held last Tuesday week at Syracuse, N. Y. The affair was most satisfactory, and the earnestness of the members of the association portends the most satisfactory results. The New York papers notice the meeting at length, and the consensus of opinion seems to be that the question of Roads Improvements and State aid is one quickened with the imperative demands of the time. Speaking of the cause of the decline of the manufacturing interests in the interior of the State, the New York Recorder says: "* * * The neglect of common highways has been responsible for the check to our manufacturers in almost equal degree with the preference given to long-haul railway freightage. * * *."

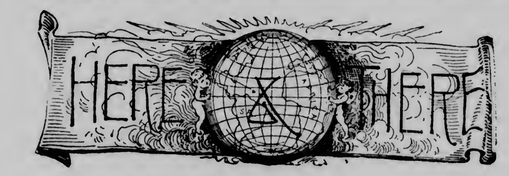
PHOTOGRAPHS were shown of the condition of an ordinary French country road after a heavy rain, and as a companion piece, a photograph was shown of one of the best roads in Pennsylvania also after a storm. Pictures of the vehicles that traveled over those highways under like conditions were also shown, and the lessons that these series conveyed were such as to prove to the most obtuse the value of good roads.

WHAT with the annual road improvement bill, presented by the wheelmen of the State, the prospective bill asking for appropriations sufficient to reopen the old post road, or "King's Highway," between Boston and New York, and that to be presented by the rural member, the Massachusetts Legislature is sure to have its fill of road improvement bills. It will also see that the wheelmen are by no means the only advocates of the bills, as prominent horse owners throughout the State will appear before the honorable committees appointed to pass upon the benefits of the bills. Indeed, the road improvement agitation was never so great in this State as it is at the present day. But before going further would it not be well for the interested parties to stop and consider whether by this happy-go-lucky independent action they are not about to "chop off their noses to spite their faces." Why not decide on one form of bill and join forces to push it?

WHEN Ericsson built the Monitor he astonished the world and revolutionized all naval warfare. Prior to the Monitor a ship had to turn in any direction which she might want to point or use the cannons on her sides, but Ericsson obviated this by making the turrets in which the Monitor's guns were placed revolve, while the ship itself remained at rest. In the days when the Monitor was built cycling had not come upon its mission of instruction, health and happiness to this world, and Ericsson laboring under this disadvantage did the best he could and made his turrets revolve upon a spindle just the same as the first pedals and wheels of a bicycle were constructed to do. But when cycling showed the advantage of ball-bearing to the world the naval constructor was not slow to appreciate its advantages, and now the new monitor which is to guard the harbor of New York has her turrets revolve upon thirty-six steel balls, each one of which is larger than an ordinary derby hat. Great is thy power, O, bicycle, be it shown upon the roadways of earth or upon the waves of old ocean.

DARK threats in the form of the usual "skull and cross bone" type have from time to time reached us that unless we expunge the word "pants" from this paper hereafter, "deth" of the most sudden and horrible shape will be our fate.

WE appreciate the fact that we are too young and too wicked to be able to face the prospect of an early and violent "deth" with anything approaching equanimity. We therefore solemnly promise that hereafter that obnoxious monosyllable shall never again appear in our columns so long as the present editors have charge of the paper. We trust this solemn pledge will reach the eyes of our gentle friends before they "set off" the deadly bomb, sharpen and use the searching dagger or administer the cold, cold "pizen."



"PANTS" is not a pretty word, it smacketh of vulgarism and hath the flavor of the "gent." It has a possible excuse for existence only in the fact that the Venetians of long ago used it to describe a garment in which "the breeches and the stockings were all of one piece," exactly after the style of the garment we call "tights." The word was also applied in derision to the ancient Venetians, and is to-day used as describing the character of a fool in pantomimes. Shakespeare himself uses the word in describing his "Seven Ages" as the man in the last stages of decrepitude "Sans everything."

ON the contrary the word "breeches" has an honest old time ring to it. Our forefathers "wore "breeches and hose," but we will wager they never wore pants. Breeches are described as a garment which covers the lower part of the body and the thighs, a much more correct description of the real garment which is so often and incorrectly called "knee pants." We expect we shall get ourselves most horribly disliked for thus coming out so boldly against the word pants, but with the horror of a possible sudden and violent death before our eyes, backed up with a sneaking dislike for the word ourselves, we could not do otherwise than to promise to expunge the word from our columns from this time forth forever more.

WHILE on the subject of words we dislike, we might as well make a clean breast of it and enter a mild protest against the constant use of the "boys" by correspondents as applied to cyclists generally. We have always felt that we were as a class viewed somewhat by the non-riding public as a lot of "boys" indulging in a "boyish" pastime, and it has been our aim to disabuse the minds of these non-riders of the wrong impression that cycling is nothing but a useless and childish sport. The constant use of the word "boys" in the cycling press (this paper included) is not likely to impress the casual reader with the fact that cycling and cyclers have outgrown the swaddling clothes period, and assumed the dignity of full grown manhood. Therefore we rather dislike to see our correspondents allude to a party of riders as "the boys." We are not "boys," and the average years of the cyclers of the present day is far above that of the legal age. We may be captious, but we confess we do not like to see anything in print, especially in the cycle press, which is likely to give the impression that cycling is still "child's play," a passing fad beneath the consideration or notice of able bodied, intelligent, full grown MEN.

NOTICE TO MASSACHUSETT'S WHEELMEN.

THERE will be a hearing on the proposed Road Bill at the State House on Tuesday morning, March 17, at ten o'clock. If you are interested in good roads do not fail to be present.

BOSTON NOTES.

"TONEY."

OFTEN have the members of the Board of Officers of the Massachusetts Division, L. A. W., privately considered the benefits to be derived by the opening of the old post road between Boston and Fairfield, but knowing that the work required much more attention and energy than could be given it by that little body of progressive wheelmen they have done nothing openly. But now, when this little band is assiduously at work endeavoring to secure the passage of the road improvement bill through the Massachusetts Legislature, another band of as equally as hardy and energetic persons has sprung up in the States of Massachusetts, New York and Connecticutt, composed not only of wheelmen, but also of learned lawyers and lovers of horseflesh. This band has for its object the opening of the old "King's Highway" from Boston to Fairfield and thence to New York city. The Committee on Highways of the national body of the L. A. W. recommended such a proceeding in its annual report to the mother body at the last meeting, which report might well be circulated in pamphlet form among the officials of the L. A. W. and all other persons interested in the subject of highway improvements. But to return to the subject. A party of New York gentlemen were recently in Fairfield looking over the ground and expressed the opinion that in the near future the road would be opened so that we should have a highway from Boston to New York. The road the gentlemen have in view is the main highway running from New York to Fairfield. At the road house in the latter city a new road will be cut through, striking into North avenue and continuing along the "King's Highway" or old post road to Boston. At an early date delegates from each of the cities through which the proposed road will run will be requested to meet in New York and appoint committees from the three interested States to place the matter in a proper light before the Legislatures of their respective States.

THERE is nothing like striking while the iron is hot, and if the present members of the Massachusetts Bicycle Club go to work at once to reorganize their old and honored organization it can be readily accomplished, and by the opening of another riding season wheelmen wearing its uniform and badge will be one of the conspicuous figures at the Chestnut Hill rendezvous and other cycling resorts. But if they linger by the way side another story will have to be told, which I am inclined to think will make the general wheelmen of Boston exceedingly sorry that the original plan was not carried out forthwith. Again and again it has been said that Boston can easily maintain a cycling organization, and I should like to impress it upon the minds of the gentlemen interested that it practically rests with them whether or not Boston once more has the honor of having a cycling organization within her borders. Gentlemen, bear in mind the fact that by reorganizing your old club and admitting one hundred active members you will be doing a good thing for cycling throughout the country, and especially in Boston, if for no other reason than that the wheelmen of the country can point with pride to Boston, and say, see how things are in the city of the birth of American cycling.

THE Somerville Cycle Club, or rather the club of one hundred members, as Secretary Cartwright is anxious to have me know, is now considering whether its members shall wear a uniform of blue, black, grey or yellow material. The members will probably decide in favor of the new League color, or something similar thereto.

THE Norombega Wheel Club of Newtonville has adopted the new League uniform, and will appear in its new garb on Fast Day.

"TREB."

THE Kings County Wheelmen have been unusually attentive to their social element during the past two weeks. On Thursday last they held a ladies' reception at their club house which attracted a number of merry maidens and their club members. On Tuesday evening, Avon Hall on Bedford avenue was the scene of their festivities, their tenth annual reception being held. This affair was largely attended by the City Wheelmen, and the attendance of the club members exceeded that seen at any of the previous affairs given by this organization.

THE Wheelmen's Bowling League has at last drawn to a close after a series of successful and exciting games. The New York Bicycle Club have secured the championship with the Atalanta Wheelmen in second place, the Harlem and Brooklyn clubs coming third and fourth respectively. The prize for the highest individual average, a diamond pin, has been won by Hornfick of the Atalanta Wheelmen.

THE Long Island Wheelmen gave a very successful stag entertainment at their club house on last Saturday evening. There were many noted artists engaged who kept the company entertained from early in the evening until late at night.

A HANDSOME silver cup has been put as the pool trophy, to be awarded the winners of the series between the Kings County Wheelmen and Brooklyn Bicycle Club. Each club will be represented by their most expert players, so that some good contests are sure to ensue.

THE racing men, while rather certain of reinstatement, are at present in a quandary, in consequence of the tardiness of the officials in acting upon their suspensions. A number of them would like to commence their training, but until something definite is heard in their cases will not commence the arduous task of ridding themselves of superfluous flesh.

THE movement of the Brooklyn Bicycle Club to abolish their road officers and substitute a road committee in their stead is causing no end of gossip among the club's members, some favoring its adoption and others not approving of it. The movement will probably be adopted.

THE ORANGES.

"ESSEX."

WELL! well! well! Who'd have thought it? Snow, rain, mud, slush, cold, hot; rain and snow again. This is the way it has gone for the last week or two. On Saturday, the 21st, it rained torrents, but Sunday it was clear, and Monday those wonderful roads in and about The Oranges were in good condition and the boys were out in full force.

CAPT. GODFREY appeared on the 23d ult. in a brand new uniform, trimmed with gold lace and a handsome pair of epaulettes It is rumored that he is to be presented with a patent leather kicking strap with silver plated trimmings.

THE Roseville Whoopers are out in force every Sunday. Last Sunday this interesting body of wheelmen visited a celebrated retreat for the insane near The Oranges, where they received very courteous treatment at the hands of the doctors in charge. One of the patients took Al Collier for her long lost son, and another thought Chas. Porter, who had on a pair of abbreviated bicycle "breeks," was George Washington. Llewellen Park is one of the favorite destinations of this contingent, and at a certain mansion on the hill the supply of milk and Henry Clay cigars has been perceptibly lessened several times.

THE Orange Wheelmen give a reception at Music Hall on Wednesday evening, March 4th. Handsomely engraved notices have been sent out and it is their intention to make this event worthy of the Orange "400." Dancing will begin at 9 and at 11 an elaborate collation will be served. A large attendance is expected and no doubt the club treasury will receive a substantial addition.

THUS early in the season several cushion tires in this vicinity have given out at critical times. The question arises is the fault in the style of tire or in the manner in which it is made.

LAST year the E. O. C.s took a run to Philadelphia in which nine members participated The boys reported a splendid time and told how easily they had taken the ride of 100 miles; felt a little uneasy at first, but the more they rode the fresher they became, and when they reach Philadelphia they were all in the best of condition, etc. It has lately leaked out that several of the members who were on that run did not have such a splendid time as they tried to make the stay-at-homes believe. It is even stated that one or two of them had to be carried into farm houses by the way and doctored before they could proceed. When they reached Philadelphia one of the boys, who drinks his beer regularly in New Jersey, walked up to the hotel bar and called for "beer." He nearly died when the professor of mixed drinks replied, "Beer? Well, I guess not; young man, you are not of age."

ON Washington's Birthday the Wheelmen indulged in a run to Paterson. The boys turned out in good shape and presented a fine appearance in their natty blue uniforms. The E. O. C.s had 22 men out, 6 of whom took part in a scorch. Harry Wheeler came in first and Brock second. Sinch Clark took revenge on Frank Fieger for his defeat earlier in the season by coming in ahead, Fieger's cushion tire notwithstanding. At Bellville sides were chosen and some fine bowling took place, several of the boys scoring as high as seventy-five. If they continue to do as well in the future they will make good competitors for the Orange Athletic team who frequently score as high as eighty.

SUBSCRIPTIONS to the new club house of the E O. C.s continue to come in and it looks as though work might be begun soon. At the next meeting a resolution will be voted upon to admit associate members, and it is thought that the full amount necessary will be easily raised.

THE E. O. C.s on their run of the 23d ult. fell in with one of the worst cases of "road hog" that has come to my notice. They were on their way to Bellville when the brute in question was heard driving up from behind. Particular care was taken to let him pass on his right side of the road, but the contemptible sneak drove along until he was even with the leading man, when he raised his whip and delivered him a nasty cut over the body and legs. As would be expected, he then tried to run away, but the boys easily overtook him, and although he was a man of the "bull-dog" type several of the boys dared him to get down and take his punishment from any one of them. He declined, however, and sneaked off at the first cross road. He is known, and the next time he tries any of his cowardly tricks it will go hard with him.

PORKOPOLIS NOTES.

"STAR."

THE Crescents evidently believe in getting a good ready, for they have a home trainer at their club house which is kept in almost constant use. In fact they use it so vigorously that one of them is kept busy pouring cold water on the bearings to keep the apparatus from taking fire. If this fact should become generally known I am very much afraid that their chances for winning races the coming season will be exceedingly slim, as they will not find anyone foolhardy enough to compete with them, so please don't tell anybody.

CINCINNATI is not be behind other cities in cycling matters. Our police sergeants and lieutenants are to be mounted on bicycles so that they can be more expeditious in making the rounds of their districts. If the police department could only secure the valuable services of Dr. Green it would be complete. For in addition to mending cracked heads and broken legs he could deliver to the patrolmen his series of edifying and instructive lectures on the art of riding a wheel.

THE Cincinnati Bicycle Club are to have a new club house, at least so I have been told by a member of the committee having the matter in charge and who were given power to act. The same individual who proposed three years ago to build them a house now proposes to build one for them, with three stories and a basement, which he will rent to them for $1200 a year. They expect by subletting parts of the building to reduce their rent to $35 a month—what they are now paying. Pending the erection of this building they are seeking temporary quarters, as their club house has been or is to be sold and they are daily expecting a notice to vacate. If they do not succeed in getting suitable rooms they will probably store their paraphernalia and hold their meetings in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A., of which organization most of them are members.

IN a recent edition of the Cincinnati Times-Star, so I am told, there appeared an article on cycling which contained a statement that it required 12 lessons of an hour each to teach a lady to ride a bicycle. Any outsider reading such a statement would naturally conclude that our women were either very stupid or that our instructors were exceedingly incompetent. This statement is about as near the truth of the matter as a statement in another paper in regard to the pneumatic tire to the effect that only persons with strong and healthy lungs could inflate one to the proper tention. Just imagine Charley Allen down on all fours on a dusty pike trying to inflate a pneumatic tire.

IN a recent conversation with Mr. Max Kleeman, the mascot of the Athletic Cycle Club, he grew eloquent in enumerating the many advantages the clubs of Cincinnati might enjoy if they would only unite into one organization and get a fine club house. He lamented the fact, however, that owing to the feeling existing between the different clubs such an event could never transpire. Whilst all will agree with him that such a club would offer inducements to outsiders which none of the clubs can now offer, yet I believe no one will claim that this tendency to split up into smaller organization is a condition peculiar to bicycle clubs. Look at our political clubs! We have a half-dozen Republican and as many Democratic clubs. Why do not all the clubs of one party consolidate into one strong club? Why do we have so many churches that can barely afford to pay a pastor, when by uniting their forces they could afford to employ the ablest ministerial talent? In a smaller club the members become better acquainted with each other than they would in a larger one. Then again the larger the club the greater the tendency to the formation of cliques and factions.

THERE is considerable of a kick in certain quarters against the proposition to limit the character and value of prizes to be offered in amateur events. The Columbus managers who have several high grade wheels and other valuable prizes to offer for the races to be held at the meet do not take at all kindly to the innovation. Then in our own village Mr. Poorman intends to offer some valuable prizes in addition to high grade wheels in his Fourth of July tournament, and he would rather that rule was not adopted. He intends to make the prizes of sufficient value to tempt fast riders from all parts of the country and assure a large attendance at the tournament. [We doubt if the rule will apply to road racing.—ED]

THE Porkopolis Wheelmen in addition to making arrangements for celebrating their anniversary with due pomp and ceremony are already making their plans for a big time at the State meet. If their membership continues to increase at the present ratio a special train, instead of a special car, will be required to transport them.

MEMPHIS, TENN.

"ANCHOR."

THE streets and roads in and around our city have been unrideable for the past four weeks on account of the heavy rains. Nevertheless, Captain Deupree of the Memphis Cycle Club was seen out several times on his pneumatic tire wheel; he has only had it two weeks and he says he is in love with it; he runs up and down Main street, as rough as it is, as if it were a smooth plank walk.

MR. JAKE HAMMER is getting up a club of six to club together and buy six wheels. Get along, Jake, spring is soon here.

IN my last letter I stated a little mistake which I wish corrected, viz: Mr. Sawyer instead of being appointed Local Consul of Vermont is a resident and Local Consul of New Hampshire.

THERE is some talk of Mr. Julius Seelig getting up a 25-mile road race for the championship of Tennessee to be run in Memphis, for which he will offer a handsome medal.

"DOC" SCHERER, Chief Consul of Tennessee Division, thinks the Tennessee Division meet most likely to come off this spring in Jackson, Tenn. We think the idea a good one, as Jackson has a good hard quarter-mile track.

MR. JULIUS WOOD has not as yet received that medal.

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

"PALISADES."

OUT of 150 wheelmen in Montclair the local club claims only 15 of them, which is not as good as might be expected from so flourishing a town. We understand that they have one real live man however, their Secretary, Philip Young, who claims a riding record for 1890 of 5085 1-2 miles and also that he rode every one of the 365 days of the year.

THE room committee of the B. M. C. L. have reported the annexed building to the Park House Hotel as their selection for headquarters and the club has authorized them to lease the same. Capt. W. H. Kirkpatrick is very popular with the members of his club, providing plenty of runs and using excellent judgment. The club members are always sure of a good time when "old reliable Kirk." is with them.

THE Palisade Wheelmen celebrated their first anniversary last month by giving a theatre party, followed by a stag smoker at their club rooms. Their annual report shows an unusually good stand-

INDIANAPOLIS IS ON DECK.

What some of her riders think of

THE EAGLE.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 24th, 1891.

The Eagle Bicycle Mfg. Co., Stamford, Conn.:

Gentlemen—I have ridden the Eagle for six months and I find it the best wheel for road riding that I have ever ridden. I can ride faster than I ever could on the Ordinary. The steering is very firm, and the workmanship on the wheel is undoubtedly of the highest order, as my weight is 180 pounds and the Eagle has carried me over all kinds of roads. The Eagle is without doubt the best wheel for young men that desire a wheel for all-round use. Wishing you continued success, I am yours respectfully, E. V. MINOR.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 4th, 1891.

The Eagle Bicycle Mfg. Co., Stamford, Conn.:

Gentlemen—After a season's use I desire to express my entire satisfaction with the Eagle. I purchased a wheel from your catalogue, and am the oldest Eagle rider in the State. For a road wheel it is generally considered to be the "wheel." I was surprised at the ease with which I learned to master it, and I found no "sensitive" steering or liability to "tip" up as some suppose. I consider the Eagle the safest, easiest running and handsomest wheel on the market. Wishing you a very prosperous year, I remain yours respectfully, CARL C. KOEMER, JR.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 20th, 1891.

Eagle Bicycle Co.:

Gents—I purchased one of your wheels last season giving in trade my Safety, and am well pleased with the "Bird." I found the steering and mount very easy and for a road wheel it has no equal. The quality of the nickel I find to be very fine and it is no trouble to keep clean. To all that want an easy running, safe and durable road wheel I advise them to get the "Eagle." Yours respectfully, MALOTT FLETCHER.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 16th, 1891.

To the Eagle Bicycle Mfg. Co., Stamford, Conn.:

Dear Sirs—I have ridden the Eagle since the middle of June, 1890, and my experience with it as a collector has enabled me to give it a thorough test of its usefulness in the city. The Eagle is everything that you claim it to be, and I have proven to my satisfaction the merit of every advantage you claim. Am much pleased with the machine and shall continue to ride it through the coming season.

Yours with respect, HERBERT S. MCNEELY.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 25th, 1891.

The Eagle Bicycle Mfg. Co., Stamford, Conn.:

Gentlemen—Since purchasing an Eagle I have enjoyed cycling as much as any sport I ever entered in. It is without a doubt the best hill climber on the market. I have ridden the Eagle over ground that Ordinaries would not attempt, and to any one wishing to purchase a wheel I would recommend the Eagle as the safest and easiest running machine on the market. I remain yours sincerely, MILES W. BURFORD.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 17th, 1891.

Eagle Bicycle Mfg. Co., Stamford, Conn.:

Dear Sirs—I have proven by a season's experience that all you claim for the Eagle is theoretically and practically correct. There is not a point that I would have changed. Very respectfully, T. ELLIN HUNTER.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Jan. 19th, 1891.

Eagle Bicycle Mfg. Co., Stamford, Conn.:

Sirs—I have had my Eagle bicycle six months now, and have made several trips on it of from fifty (50) to eighty (80) miles besides steady city riding.

I have found it very satisfactory for speed and comfort, and believe it is the best wheel in the market for road riding. Yours respectfully, FRED J. HENSDALE.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Feb. 7th, 1891.

Eagle Mfg. Co., Stamford, Conn.:

Sirs—The Eagle in my estimation is the greatest of all machines. It is becoming very popular in Indianapolis. Yours truly, LOU. W. JONES.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Feb. 25th, 1891.

The Eagle Bicycle Mfg. Co., Stamford, Conn.:

Gentlemen—I have now ridden the Eagle for about seven months. I take great pleasure in recommending it as the safest, easiest running bicycle that I have ever ridden. For roads good or bad it has no equal. Yours respectfully, V. B. WILLITS.

ing for so young an organization. The club has some racing talent and expect to get out a racing team this year—to quote from one of their members, "There'll be no flies on them and they'll pay their own way every time."

THE cycle has at last gained admission into the postal service in Newark. Some of the mail collectors are making their trips on safeties and the saving in time is noticeable. It is probable that most of them will follow suit before the close of this year.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

"EYETALIAN."

OUR former correspondent "X-Bones" seems to have dropped out of sight as it were. When his first article appeared I expressed the hope that we should have a permanent representative in the official organ, for surely there are riders enough in Washington alone, to furnish material for a letter twice a month at least. I have come to the conclusion, however, that "X-Bones" is in love. If he isn't why did he get that brand new tandem. Isn't it that "she" may in time find out that she cannot get along without "Bones and his tandem," and agree to keep them for good? I fear that the drafts upon his literary powers for material for daily love letters are such as to preclude all possibility of his descending to the level of the plebian who can find any interest in that old bicycle news. Be that as it may, I am the last one to find fault with an old friend, merely trusting that his love making may be of greater constancy and duration than were his letters to the BICYCLING WORLD.

WASHINGTON boys are very much interested in the cushion tire. We have but a few samples, and no thorough tests have been made as yet on the road. I cannot help noticing that many of those riders who expect to use cushions are impressed only with the fact that the tire being larger and softer, will, of necessity, avert a large portion of the vibration and produce more comfort; the question of durability being, apparently, something not to be considered at all.

THE race track fostered by the Arlington Wheelmen is almost an assured reality. It will, in all probability, be built in the new base ball grounds on 7th street, and a proposition has, I understand, been made to the managers of the Park, which is expected to be favorably received, and work will be pushed as soon as the terms are made. The Arlingtons, though a recently organized club, are acknowledged to contain the best material in this locality and frequently show what they are made of. There is no doubt of the success of the track when pushed by them.

W. E. CRIST, Washington's famous racer, will go on the track this summer, and will make it hot for some of the flyers. He will probably ride a pneumatic machine.

THE banquet given by the Columbia Cycle Club to the visiting delegates was voted to be a huge success, and the Columbias are to be congratulated on the completeness of their arrangements and the smoothness with which the affair passed off.

CHICAGO.

"WAYNE SCOTT."

THE Washington Cycling Club are racking their brains and holding divers conferences with a wealthy man who will build them a club house. They placed recently a little matter in a lawyer's hands in regard to the dues of some of the recently receded members. The dues which had been guaranteed were paid and the matter straightened up.

SATURDAY EVENING, March 7, a meeting will be held at the Illinois Cycling Club house to further consider the subject of a West Side race track. Such information will no doubt be at hand on this evening as to enable the committee to go ahead and push the work rapidly. The grounds at Kimball and Fullerton avenues, seven acres in extent and bordering on a mineral water pond, will no doubt be accepted. Subscription papers are being circulated and a considerable amount has already been subscribed. Ten dollars per year will probably be the dues.

MR. JNO. PALMER and Miss Porter of Riverside were married last Monday evening at the home of the bride's parents. John is well known to cyclists all over the States, and is one of the oldest and most popular members of the Illinois Cycling Club.

COOK COUNTY WHEELMEN never do anything by halves. Their club has boomed from the first, and it would not be surprising if the combined membership of the Jackson Club and C. C. W. (practically one club) would not reach 300 before spring. Last Saturday evening they gave a smoker. Two hundred and more were present. The programme prepared was excellent. A supper was served. Elghty applications are already posted on the bulletin board.

Thirteen members of the Victor Cycling Club made a run of 30 miles last Sunday. Captain Roberts took 14 of the Illinois members to Pullman the same day. The roads were muddy.

There are 10 entries in each of the two handicap pool tournaments now in progress at the Englewood Cycling Club.

DAYTON, O.

"EAGLE."

OUR genial Captain, Carl Bauman, just thinking that Wednesday was his birthday invited a number of the club members down to his rooms in the evening. After enjoying themselves at the various games a dainty repast fit for a king was served at a late hour in the morning.

THE club members, with a number of their lady friends, enjoyed one of Rhea's grand plays at the Soldiers' Memorial Home last Tuesday. After spending a most delightful evening they returned at a late hour.

LOVE has stolen into the ranks of the Rambler Club and taken away its President, Arthur Rieger, who has been with the club ever since its organization.

A COMMITTEE on race track improvement will be appointed, probably at the next meeting of the Board. It is to be hoped that immediate steps in the right direction will be taken at once.

THE Y. M. C. A. of this city contemplate erecting a large building for gymnasts on the outer edge of town and also a cinder track. A number of the D. B. C. members already belong to that association.

IT is certainly very interesting to note the different styles of wheels now on the market. A good many have made their appearance in this city. Wheels, however, are in great demand at the present time. The firms here have increased their facilities very much.

NOTES BY "HAWKSHAW."

I HAVE a friend who is a racing man, and who has been reading "Cycling for Health and Pleasure," and the excellence of the work has so captivated him that he informs me he intends writing a sequel to it treating of the sport from a racer's point of view. He has not yet chosen a title for his forthcoming work, but under the circumstances I can think of no more appropriate one than "Cycling for Wealth and Leisure." That ought to fill the bill I think.

THE wheelmen of New Orleans are blessed with roads and a climate that makes wheeling an all year round pastime. Almost tropical in climate, the intensity of its heat at all times tempered by the winds that blow across the waters of the Gulf of Mexico, I know of no place a man who enjoys easy wheeling under perfect climatic conditions would sooner go than to the Crescent City of the South. In fact to us of a colder and less favored clime, the riding is actually too good, no hills and no rough country roads to master, makes us sometimes long for these old enemies of our comfort. In the whole city of New Orleans there is not a hill, at least none but what are a pleasure to wheelmen who may land in that city, and the hill whose acquaintance he will first make is one who signs himself A. M. Hill; once this is made all other things are made easy for him. Taken in hand by this gentleman and the genial ex Consul Harry H. Hodgson, life takes on a rosy view, and the pilgrim wonders why he never knew before just what a nice place New Orleans was. Among other curiosities I viewed there at the last carnival was the largest diamond in America, which belongs to Mr. Hill, and which in honor of himself and State, has been named the "Hilliana." It is somewhat smaller than an egg, but not much, and the only blot upon Mr. Hill's hospitality that I can mention, was his refusal to lend me the stone for a few months while I came home and exhibited as part of the profits of the profession of journalism. I even offered to prepay the freight charges upon it when I returned it to him, but even that would not induce him to alter his original refusal, but aside from this peculiarity of his, I know of no place that I would sooner spend a winter in riding than in New Orleans under the guidance of Messrs. Hill and Hodgson.

WHO that has ever ridden a wheel has not been blessed with that abomination of abominations, a lamp which burned like a natural gas well and gave a light like a locomotive headlight when it was being prepared to take out on the road, but when put to a practical test of being used to light one's way at night, did not gradually dim and fail in its light giving properties, until at last its feeble flicker died out entirely, leaving the rider really better off without its confusing, flickering help? The experience is not a new one, and in the many improvements that the last few years have added to the conveniences and comforts of cycling, lamp manufacture does not seem to have kept pace with the procession. The perfect and ideal lamp, which, with a minimum of consumption of oil will give a maximum of light, which will not go out every time an inequality in the road is ridden over, which will not smoke and leak and rattle, is as yet seemingly as far in the future as is the successful solution of aerial navigation. Not long since I went to an old friend of mine who sells machines, and against my better judgement was induced to purchase a new patterned lamp which he assured me was the long expected one which combined all of the good qualities of the many failures of the past with none of their faults. Why tell the sequel, it was the same old story; as a manufactory of lamp black, or as a flash light it was a success, but otherwise it was as bad as any I had ever had before, and that is saying a great deal for its poorness, and to-day I returned it with a look which I hope will, in a delicate way, hint to my friend, the dealer, just what I think of that lamp. The book was Rudyard Kipling's—"Light That Failed."

MRS. MCWHEEL—"So your husband was suspended by the Racing Board, was he Mrs. Race?"

Mrs. Race—"Yes he was, and I told him he would be, just as soon as he told me he was going to ride one of those suspension-saddles, but manlike he wouldn't listen to me, because he said I did not understand anything about wheeling."

MR. FEARON GILL, Vanderbuilt's brother-in-law, placed an order with Mr. Stephen Golder of Humber & Co. for a set of spider rubber tired wheels to be used on his brougham. Mr. Gill's valet, Bastin, is a bit of a scorcher himself, and will no doubt appear on the race track this season.

THE Bay State Bicycle Club of Worcester, Mass., has arranged a programme of races for Decoration Day, and although no official invitation has as yet been extended to the Division, it is confidently expected that the annual spring meet of the wheelmen of this State will be held under the auspices of that noted and growing organization on that day.

CYCLING seems to be on the decline at Harvard College and there is slight prospect of there being any race meeting under the auspices of the college cycling organization this spring. Only Taylor, the winner of the B. A. A. road race, Davis brothers, and one or two other Harvard riders are taking any practice on the wheel, and, indeed, it cannot be definitely stated that even they have yet gone into active training for the approaching racing season.

THE Westchester County (N. Y.) Wheelmen have taken possession of their new rooms in the Bank Block, New Rochelle, N. Y., and are very cosily situated.

THE PHILADELPHIA SHOW.

THE A. C. C. Cycle Show opened Monday evening in Horticultural Hall with a large attendance and a nearly complete line of exhibits of the various manufacturers and importers, although some of the goods have not yet been fully placed in position. The Franklin Band was in attendance during the evening discoursing popular airs, and at quarter before 9, when the hall had become fairly filled, Mr. W. R. Tucker, Secretary of the Board of Trade and President of the Associated Cycling Club, mounted the platform in company with Colonel Pope, Chairman Hare and various members of the committee. In a well chosen and forcible introductory address Mr. Tucker declared the exhibition open, and after touching upon the important features of cycling in this city and country at large—in the conrse of which he paid a well deserved tribute to the League of American Wheelmen and the Associated Cycling Clubs—he introduced to the audience Colonel Pope, who was received with flattering applause. The colonel then gave a short, but extremely interesting, address on the history of cycle manufacture and trade in the United States from the time when the first bicycle was introduced into the country, and later when he became interested in the idea himself, down to the present time; punctuating his remarks with statistics as to the rise and fall of the many venturers in the new industry. Of course it would not have been the colonel if he had not added his well-known advocacy of road improvements, reviewing that most important question, and the audience showed that the wheeling spirit predominated by taking up his points with enthusiasm. With a few closing remarks President Tucker declared the opening exercises at an end and stated that President Dunn and City Solicitor Warwick, who had both been expected to address the meeting, were unable to fulfill the appointment owing to prior engagements.

The first view of the main hall on entering is a very effective one, the ceiling and galleries and chandeliers having been handsomely decorated, while the various exhibitors all have stages, which are carpeted and showing many pretty signs and decorative features.

Undoubtedly one of the most interesting features of the exhibit is the collection in the shape of old wheels, which is in the foyer, the Strong & Green Cycle Co., the Overman Wheel Co., the Pope Mfg Co. and many others having loaned specimens of the early velocipedes, while the Philadelphia Bicycle Club show the first bicycle ridden in Philadelphia and Fairmount Park, being in fact one of the first imported to the United States. This was the property of Mr. Longstreth, the first President of the club, now deceased Among these antiques is Lallement's original machine; the first bicycle in Boston, improved by A. B. Chandler; the first Eagle; Karl Kron's old reliable No. 243; Tom Stevens' circumnavigator, and all shapes, descriptions and sizes of the velocipedes which raged from '65 down to '69.

The entertainment committee, of which Mr. O. S Brunell is chairman, have also succeeded in obtaining a collection of medals of Taxis, Draper, Hazleton, Kelly and others, together with numerous club cups, these being exhibited in a glass case (securely locked by way of preventing the delicate attention of the burglariously inclined) which shows up very prettily, as does also the silverware of the well-known jewellers Simons & Bro., who have a case of their goods in the main hall.

The various attractions during the week will appear in the next issue of the BICYCLING WORLD

SPALDING-OVERMAN. Entering the door of the main hall we find the exhibit arranged on either side under the galleries and a middle tier through the centre of the hall. This first space of this middle tier, passing up the right, Nos. B and 20, is occupied by A. G. Spalding & Bros. and the Overman Wheel Co., showing the Victor line.

There are shown the A Model, being the usual Victor spring fork fitted to the diamond frame with which the Victor riders have become familiar during three years' use, and with direct spokes and cushion tires on the rear wheels, in which the company claim that with their spring fork the inflated tire is not necessary on the front wheel.

Next comes the B Model. This new diamond frame will unquestionably be a leader in Victor wheels during the coming season. It is splendidly braced from the head by double tubes to crank hanger, thence to rear axle with the usual rear side forks to the top tube. The D and E Models shown are, at first glance, a reflection of the '87 Victor Safety with cross frame, and are fitted respectively with stiff and spring forks. The Ladies' Victoria is shown with the regular spring forks, cushion tires, solid to front wheel, although cushion tires can be had to the front wheels at the option of the purchaser. The cushion tires fitted to these wheels are the patent Overman cushions with which the company have been experimenting with so successfully during the past season.

The Credenda is a cheaper grade listing at $90. The men's machine being a diamond frame and the ladies the usual drop tube; both of these machines are fitted with cushion tires without extra cost. These machines are fitted with ball bearings throughout, including the head, and are of a very taking appearance.

The younger element have not been neglected. The Nonpareils which A. G. Spalding & Bros. put on the market last season, and which attained such a sale, are being shown in two grades this year. One with the comb bearing at $40; the other with ball bearings at $50 These machines have 26 inch wheels, tangent spokes and suspension saddles, and are built to ride.

This exhibit includes a line of sundries and parts with the well-known legend displayed. 'You all know Victors are best."

Mr. I. R. Weld, Jr., is in charge of this exhibit assisted by Mr. Geo A. Parkinson.

UNION CYCLE MFG. CO. AND KIRK BROWN CYCLE CO. The Unions are making a very handsome display, nickel having been used more liberally on their exhibit and that of the Columbia wheels than on any others in the show. The spring frame of which they are making a specialty is shown in the No. 11, No. 12, No. 13 wheels; the No. 13 is a little beauty being a ladies' wheel, full nickel with tangent spokes and colored silk laced dress guards; No. 11 and No. 12 are spring frame, tangent spokes men's wheels. No. 10 spring frame convertible for either lady or gentlemen, full nickel with silk dress guards; No. 9 is a rigid frame, diamond bars, full nickeled No. 9 and No. 10 are shown with both cushion and solid tires, and in addition to the line of wheels exhibited they have a full show case of parts showing the forging in the rough and also finished, as illustrating the different parts of manufacture. The company claim that the spring which was designed last summer has been under the most severe tests and usage until the present time, and they broadly state that it is the acme of perfection on the road. Messrs. C. H Metz and J. McDowell represent this company.

LOVELL ARMS CO. AND WM. READ & SONS, represented by E. K. Tryon, Jr., & Co., have a very handsome display in charge of F. G. Silvers. Mr. Read being on from Boston. They show the New Mail Safety, new patent diamond frame, spring forks and band brake, in both enamel and nickel, the latter being a very handsome wheel. They also have $100 pattern of ladies' safety; they also show a New Mail, a boy's safety 26 inch wheel and straight forks at $35. The New Mail claim as a speciality the steady steering of their machines, a novice being able to ride with hands off with very little practice. Of the Lovell wheels there is shown the diamond frame $85 machine, and the boy's safety, $35; the former having ball bearings and steel tubing and 30-inch wheels. They also show the spring handle bar, which is a speciality at an additional cost of $10, which they claim reduces the vibration of the handle bars.

COLUMBIA CYCLES. Turning to the left at the top of the middle tier adjoining the New Mails are found the Columbia wheels, and as usual, they maintain their reputation by what is one of the finest, if not the finest displays in the exhibit. They show the '91 pattern of Columbia Safety with diamond frame in full nickel, and enamel finish, solid tire, cushions to rear wheels and cushions to both wheels. The Ladies' Columbias are also shown in nickel and enamel and with cushion and solid tires, and one of these in full nickel, beautifully decorated, is a gem.

THE HARTFORD CYCLE CO., in connection with the Hart Cycle Co. and the Pope Mfg. Co. in these three stands, C, 27 and 25 The Hartfords are showing in their wheel the well known cross frame diamond braced pattern, in nickel and enamel, and with solid and cushion tires The Hart safety, a 24-inch wheel, is a very taking little piece of mechanism, while the Standard, a 26 inch wheel, at $45, should prove a selling one. The three spaces, which have been combined as one, also display a line of suitings for cyclers' wear, and sundries, which are very prettily arranged so as to add to the attractiveness of the exhibit. Mr. S. H. Crawford has charge of the space, although Mr. Hart is of course constantly on hand and the well-known faces of Colonel Pope and Mr. Day are to be seen with their wheels.

H. A. LOZIER & CO are occupying space 23, represented by the Smith & Watson Cycle Co., their local agents. They have the Giant No 4 at $85 and the Giantess at $75; the Little Giant, with ball bearings and cone bearings, at $45; the "Bolte spring fork" being supplied when desired. They also have a diamond frame cushion tire Giant at $135, but their principal card is a Giant fitted with the Dunlop pneumatic tire as improved. Both Messrs. Smith & Watson are constantly on hand to explain the various points of their machines. This firm is showing the Queen tricycle, which they are agents for and have a very pretty exhibit.

BANKER & CAMPBELL CO. (Limited). Space 21. (Exhibit not yet arranged.) Will show complete line Meteors and Rovers (and have on show a special Rover, with pnuematic tires, ridden by 500 people and over 1200 miles, which is still in perfect condition, demonstrating the quality of the tires).

STRONG & GREEN CYCLE MFG. CO. Spaces 19 and A of this company is enclosed in the fence made of cushion tires and is used to show their famous Quadrant safeties. A prominent feature of their exhibit is a Quadrant which was caught between two cable cars on Columbia avenue. This machine is bent and twisted in every direction, but not a thing about it is broken, showing conclusively that there is no cast metal used in this construction. On a frame in the centre of their space is tastily arranged an assortment of sporting goods and cycling sundries of every description; they also make a good display of their pneumatic machines with the Thomas inflatable tire, which is the only pneumatic tire that is guaranteed. They guarantee to keep all their pneumatic machines in repair for one year without charge. They make the same guarantee about their celebrated cushion tires and also exhibit some cushion tires which have been ridden 7000 miles, and from all appearances are good for as many miles more. They also have one of the new spring frame Quadrants about which so much has been said.

The main tier now being completed, we now swing to the right again up the aisle. Space No. 2 being the "Press Box"—here are we confronted by a sign, BICYCLING WORLD, Sporting Life, Referee, Wheel and the Bearings, who have pooled their issues and lain down in peaceful quiet together in this corner, which has been established as headquarters for the stray and weary journalist who may happen in. Copies of the various papers are piled upon the tables for distribution, together with the many publications issued by the Wheelman Co. Fourdrinier of the BICYCLING WORLD, Prial of the Wheel, Barrett of Bearings, Miles of Referee and Crowther of Sporting Life may be seen dropping in and out from time to time, the "box" being in charge of Mr. H. Lindley Crowther. An urgent invitation to join the League is hung upon the front of the "box" and applications are received here.

REFEREE—WARWICK. Space 4-6. Bretz & Curtis Mfg. Co. are at home in this corner, showing a full line of Referees and Warwicks. One of the most taking features in business-like appearance was that made by the Bretz & Curtis Mfg. Co. exhibiting their world renowned Referee and Warwick "Perfections." The exhibit, though smaller than some, covered the whole line and gave visitors to the exhibition opportunity to carefully inspect and have courteously explained to them the details of each machine. One of the most attractive features of this exhibit was the first appearance here of the long looked for American Referee. The machine was critically inspected by the road scorchers and the general verdict was in the main perfectly satisfactory. The Referee was shown with pneumatic, solid and cushion tires and in various weights. The Warwick Co.'s exhibit consisted of four machines, two of them being full nickel plated. In the opinion of critical judges these latter machines took the very highest mark as special exhibit. Naturally the cycling public are much interested in the product of the bicycling concern whose machines have been fortunate enough to obtain the favor of the United States government. They showed in the rough and finished state the finest forgings of steel from which these machines are constructed. All were of the opinion that the title and trade term—"Built on Honor"—is one that is honestly adopted by the Warwick Cycle Mfg. Co. Among their specialties is the Referee on which Jones made the world's record of 2.20 3-5, and it is the cynosure of all the aspirants after racing honors.

FEATHERSTONE—HUMBER'S—STOVER'S, etc., are shown in spaces 8-10-12, which are occupied by the Sweeting Cycle Co., who have the agency for all these machines. While comparisons are "odorous" it is none the less true that the Featherstone pneumatic is the centre of attraction. These wheels are, as is known to all our readers, made by Mr. Featherstone of Chicago, the frame being of Humber type, with the improved Dunlop pneumatic tires. Mr. Sweeting shows the popular Coventry Rival as a $75 leader, and the Sweeting diamond frame, new this season, at $110. Then comes the Irwell, the famous R. & P., and the Minnehaha, which is a double tubular frame, wonderfully light and strong and which should prove a finished mount, fitted with cushion or pneumatic tires for racing purposes both on track and road. A full line of the Humbers has not yet been received, but full catalogues are furnished on application. There are samples of the Paragon wheels on exhibition in this space, together with Sterling Elliott's Hickory safeties. Mr. Sweeting also shows the Sunbeam, a diamond frame, at $100, and a fine collection of juvenile safeties, together with a complete line of sundries.

THE PIECE DE RESISTANCE of the entire show is undoubtedly the mounted skeleton which Mr. Sweeting has fitted to the safety while the latter is being run by a motor. The effect of this being relieved by a black back ground is somewhat startling to the average bystander, but as I believe it has been on exhibition in Boston the cyclists there are of course familiar with its details. It certainly is a novel ad. and attracts a deal of attention.

This skeleton is that of a man whose body was found floating in the river Seine just below the city of Paris. It was thought to be a case of suicide, and as the body was not identified after lying in the morgue for some time, it was turned over to a skeletologist who prepared the bones and shipped them to Boston. It was mounted in its present form on a Hickory Bicycle by Mr. Elliott, the object being to show the correct height of saddle so as to give proper amount of ankle motion. It also illustrates the position in which a rider should sit in relation to the different parts of a safety.

MESSRS. PETTIT CO. have space 14, where they have on exhibition their new Common Sense Hickory Bicycle. It is a pattern something after the Sterling Elliott design with new features of their own of course, and lists at a very reasonable price; $75 with solid tires, and $85 with 1 1-4 inch cushion tires. The old time and well known Philadelphia racer, Mr. A. G. Powell, is in charge of it, as it is to Mr. Powell's ideas that this wheel is due.

SINGER & CO., spaces 16-18, show the Singer wheels, represented by their local agents, Messrs. Wall and Bauer. They show a complete sample of the Singer line of Special Singer at $145, with cushion tires as an extra at $20. The Climax safety is their own make and listing at $20, with 24-inch wheels, has become quite a favorite among the little folk.

EAGLE, SWIFT, ROVER, PREMIER AND SYLPH, spaces 9, 11, 13, 15, are occupied jointly by the McDaniel & Merrihew Cycle Co. and C. W. Dalsen, who are Philadelphia agents for the above firms.

THE EAGLE BICYCLE MFG. CO., show the only high wheels in the Show with one exception. These Eagles are very much alive, as they think they will show during the present year. Six Eagles, three nickeled roadsters, two light roadsters, weight 37 pounds (on which Van Wagoner and Seeds won their road races) and one racer; latter weighs 22 pounds, very light (32 spokes in big wheel), but very strong. They attract a great deal of attention among the sea of low wheels. There is a fine lithograph of Van Wagoner on his Eagle.

THE COVENTRY MACHINISTS' CO. show seven of their celebrated wheels; Model A, pneumatic; Model A, cushion; spring frame, cushion; all with 28-inch wheels. Two Model A's with cushions, both 30-inch, one of which has been ridden 2000 miles and does not show a scratch; and a Model B with cushion, and a Model D with solid. The spring frame shown by this company attracted the greatest attention and much favorable comment. The appearance of the Coventry Machinists' Co.'s exhibit was fully up to the high standard they always maintain.

McDANIEL & MERRIREW CYCLE CO., besides having the Eagles, Swifts and Rovers under their eyes, show a very graceful Ladies' wheel which they import, viz: the Buckingham & Adams Ladies' Special; a Sylph, a real spring frame safety in which both saddle and pedals move together and are always the same distance apart. They also have a generous array of Premiers, solids, pneumatics and cushions.

WM. TRAFFORD is in space 17, showing the Vulcan, Moorgate and Coventry Rivals. Mr. Trafford is one of the old-time repairers of Philadelphia and makes a specialty of that class of work.

WESTERN WHEEL WORKS are in space 7, which was in charge of Mr. A. M. Scheffy. The show is of their complete line, including the Rush, Crescent, Rob Roy, Juno, Junior Drop Frame, Junior and Pet. An array of wheels from which all persons with different size pocketbooks can be suited. The diamond frame Crescent and Rush are improved this season and are taking mounts, showing the finest improvements and finest points of these machines; also this fact applies to the entire line.

R. L. Coleman & Co., the general Eastern agents of the Western Wheel Works, are making the exhibit, and Mr. Coleman will be here later in the week.

A. B. RICH & CO., space 5. (Exhibition not yet in.) They will show the famous Ormondes, fitted with cushion and pneumatic tires (their samples are detained in Custom House at New York), and also expect to have two 53-inch Ormonde Racers fitted with pneumatics. Mr. Rich is in charge.

KEEFE & BECANNON (space 3, exhibition not yet in,) will show the Keefe & Becannon Diamond, listing at $100, with ball bearings all round, and their Comets, with cushion tires, at $115 plain finish, and $120 striped, while with pneumatics they cost $135, which ought to make them sellers. Mr. MacDonald is in charge of their lines.

GORMULLY & JEFFERY MFG. CO., space 1. To the extreme left on entering the door may be seen the well known line of American cycles. The G. & J. Co. show samples of all their cycle making, among them being the American Light Rambler in standard finish and full nickel, the same kind for ladies, the American Rambler, at $125, and the American Cushion Rambler at $145. The American Ladies' Rambler and Light Champion and American Champion in high wheels. They also have their Ideal Rambler for boys and greatly improved for this season. Although they place cushion tires on their machines when ordered, they do not recommend them at present, as the advent of the cushion tire in this country being of so recent a date and its trial being so limited. Mr. Bridgman is in charge of their space.

The H. B. Smith Machine Co. are exhibiting the Stars in the foyer, their novelty being the new Star safety, with 30 by 39 wheels. It is in fact a diminutive Star, and with the friends of the old levers ought to take. They also show the well known Star line, familiar to all American wheelmen.

Our old friend, S G. Whittaker, is showing his new wheel—The Ajax—made by the United States Cycle Co., of which he is manager. It is a very handsome machine, of the Referee diamond type, and is a model of lightness and strength, which will no doubt take with the trade in general and Philadelphia in particular.

W. A. Richwine, writing from Liverpool, England, announces the fact that he will have an exhibition during the show of a line of machines which he calls "Puritans." At the time of writing the sample machines had not been placed on exhibition. ARIEL.

THE BOSTON OPENINGS.

All the cycle trade in Boston held openings in a more or less formal manner on February 23d, but two of them made a specialty of this form of introducing their new patterns of wheels on the holiday, and judging from the shoals of visitors the idea was, to say the least of it, a good one. Our first call on those who had issued invitations was at the store of

W. W. STALL.

Here is an instance of what perseverance and pluck will do with small beginnings. Those who can date back their recollections of the cycle trade in Boston can compare the original opening of Stall, April, 1883, with the ninth annual opening of last Monday! In 1883 Mr. Stall, who was best known as a skillful racing man, started in the business, and at his opening showed about half a dozen wheels. In 1891 the half dozen has grown to dozens of examples of every grade and priced wheel that a man could possibly want—from the highest to medium. The original firm was Stall & Burt, and they occupied the same premises that Mr. Stall now occupies alone. This combination existed until 1885, at which time Mr. Stall took entire control of the business. Gradually space has been added, and from being a store of 22x60, it now embraces show rooms and offices covering a floor space of 105x30. The basement, used for store rooms, repair shop, etc., is about 120x30. The first floor proper is used for private offices, bookkeeper's room, stenographer's room, waiting room, toilet room and salesroom. The different departments, both up and down stairs, are connected by means of electric bells and speaking tubes. The clerical departments show a bustle and life that are characteristic of the ruling genius. Passing rearwards towards the Warren avenue entrance, we find the show and salesroom, a space containing nearly 1500 square feet. On the left of this room is a raised platform covered with dark green cloth, and on the platform rest the various samples of wheels Mr. Stall represents. Here we find the elegant Psychos, the great aldermanic-looking Pneumatic, the Rivals, the Hickories, and a host of other patterns of which Mr. Stall makes a specialty. Many of these machines are fitted with cushion tires, and the several makes show grades from the most expensive to the least costly. On the other side of the store may be seen a double row of Safeties, Stars, Eagles and Ordinaries, both new and second hand. Among other things we noticed a Safety of new design constructed by Mr. Stall, which to us looked all right in every respect. Down stairs we found a space 22x75 devoted to repairing and constructing. Mr. Stall uses a ten horse power steam engine and an auxillary two horse power electric motor. During the not weather this electric motor is substituted, and it is found sufficient to meet the wants of the repairing department. Forge and anvil on one side, and a tremendous gas blow-pipe is noticed which is used for brazing. Mr. Stall's equipment of machinery and tools is most complete. The walls and ceilings are festooned with portions of machines ready to be used when occasion requires. Mr. Stall has probably the duplicate of almost every part of all the machines made, and his work is too well known to require further commendation on our part. The basement under the Warren avenue store is fitted with store rooms, in which can be found thousands of parts of machines, rubber tires, cement, and all the accessories necessary to manufacture or repair. Mr. Stall has recently rented 166 and 168 Columbus avenue, which will be utilized for store rooms and shipping headquarters, while a complete line of samples will be shown. Thus Mr. Stall soon will be seen in "Bicycle Acre," in company with the other good people. He is also establishing agencies in two adjacent cities, and preparations are being made to open others. The business of Mr. Stall has grown from the sale of a few hundred machines up to that of thousands, and he is a living example of a young man who has risen from a railroad clerkship with $36.00 per month through his unfailing efforts and push. In the language of our old friend "Rip," "may he live long and prosper." Among the cycles shown by Mr. Stall is one which seems to attract the greatest amount of attention, and that is the new $150 Hickory Bicycle, ball bearing all round, chain and spocket wheels, with the dust-proof covering. With its exquisite finishing of nickel and rich natural wood color, this latest product of Mr. Elliott exceeds anything in appearance that we had expected to see in the shape of a Hickory bicycle. It should be seen to be appreciated, and to see it is to be convinced that there is something in Hickory. We shall have more to say on this matter in a later edition. From Mr. Stall's we went over to the quarters of the

OVERMAN WHEEL CO.

Here we find a concourse of people decidedly emphatic in their approval of the line of wheels shown by this company and put on the market this season. The reliable spring fork, patern A, is, as last year, their leader, with a few changes made, which already have been recorded in these columns. The pattern B, cushion tires and stiff fork and frame were most favorably commented upon, while the Credenda Diamond frame, also with cushion tires, listed at $90, seemed to take the eye and taste of those who examined it and passed judgment thereon. The Victoria ladies' machine also came in for its share of praise. The changes on this machine, as on model A, have been very trivial, and the machine practically stands the same as it did last year, having met the requirements demanded of it. The Overman cushion tire came in for its share of critical examination and commendation. This was shown on a complete wheel on the rim and cut up into sections, so that the visitors could judge of it and see it in its different forms of construction. They show a machine with a 28-inch wheel, cushion tired, which is just the thing for light and small riders. It is a perfect little gem in appearance, and there was no machine on exhibition that seemed to attract more attention. It is bound to become a favorite. This company shows six patterns of machines, the high-grade of which are made in their own factory, and the others are made outside for them. After each visitor had satisfied his curiosity on the line of wheels sold by the Overman Wheel Co. they were escorted into a rear office and provided with a delicious repast, consisting of hot scolloped oysters, rolls, sandwiches, ice cream, cake and coffee. The consequence was that the visitors were not only pleased with what they saw, but their pleasure was increased by having the inner man satisfied, and each and every one left feeling that they had enjoyed a feast, not only of "material" kind but also of the "intellectual." Mr. W. C. Overman did the duty of host, ably seconded by Mr. Rothe and others. The store had been entire renovated and redecorated, and showed a most attractive appearance This company also has an excellent repair shop in the rear, and they are ready to do this kind of work at the shortest possible notice, and in the best style.

WESTERN WHEEL WORKS.

When in Chicago lately it was our good fortune to call up and see the Western Wheel Works, and after a pleasant chat with Mr. L. A. Schoeninger, secretary, he very politely asked us if we would not like to go over the works. We accepted his very kind invitation, stating that we had about one hour at our disposal, and we were rather amused at the time at his reply, that we would have to "hustle" in order to get through. Taking this statement with a grain of salt, we followed Mr. Schoeninger into the factory, and what we saw there in our helter-skelter race through the establishment proved to us that we did not quite "know it all" even yet. We doubt if we ever saw so many wheels in course of construction before. The factory was especially noticeable for its cleanliness, order and apparent system. It seemed to us as though every available space was piled high with machines in every stage of construction. To describe the factory with any degree of detail would be simply impossible, from the fact that though we went through at a good walking pace, without stopping to examine scarcely anything, we were very nearly an hour in making the circuit. The only pauses made were at the request of Mr. S., who would pick up a portion of some machine and show us the material, and prove to us that their claims of the use of forgings are not based on mere fiction. We would be afraid to say how many hands are employed in their shops, and we would also be afraid to state the actual output of this factory; but the hasty trip that we made over the mill convinced us that the output must be enormous. Mr. S. was very modest in his claims, but we could not but sympathize with the evident pride with which he showed us the magnificent factory of this company. Our surprise was great, from the fact that we had always looked upon the Western Wheel Works as being rather a small concern, and we were not prepared to see such vastness.

The company employs 800 hands, and they had booked last October orders for 25 000 safeties of all kinds. They however hope to be able to turn out 35,000 machines all told. These figures may appear Brobdingnagian in proportions, but a trip through their factory would do much toward convincing the most skeptical as to their correctness.

The company is not satisfied with this factory, but they expect in the near future to build on the ground which they now own, and which will almost double their capacity. On our way back through New York city we stopped at the office of R. L. Coleman & Co., agents for the Eastern, Middle and Southern States, situated at 35 Barclay street, and there we found the same business spirit and push. This is also a concern which has been quietly laying a foundation for a big business—a concern which, we are ashamed to say, we did not know of until our trip out West. That they are "in it," that they appreciate that they have gotten a good thing, and that they propose to have the public know it, is very evident to any one who will talk with Mr. Coleman. They are drivers to the backbone; men who say very little, but when they say it, it hits the gold. They not only send goods to the territory for which they are agents, but they export ordinaries made by the Western Wheel Works in large quantities to South America. With such a factory and such excellent medium-priced goods, and with such representatives as Coleman & Co,, the Western Wheel Works are bound to score hard through the coming season.

TO LADY RIDERS

A EUROPEAN TOUR.

HAVING received many inquiries from lady riders anent the Elwell European Tours, I would be pleased to communicate with those who would consider such a tour, planned expressly for lady riders, limited as to number, and with day's run adapted to the strength of the ladies. To all sending their address I will forward outline of a tour that I am prepared to carry out the coming summer if sufficient enconragement is given. Very truly yours, F. A. ELWELL, Portland, Me.

What maker in America made the first high grade bicycles with tangent spokes, hollow rims, dropped handle bars, etc.?

Who first reduced prices on bicycles in America?

Who made the first Rover type safety bicycle in America?

Who made the first square rubber pedals in America?

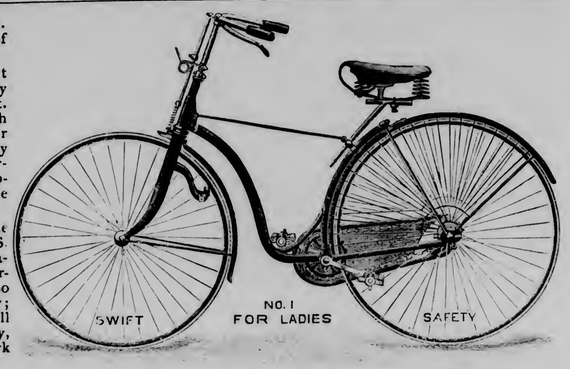
Who established the price of $135 for Rover type safety in America?

Who originated the term cushion tires?

Who made the first cushion tires?

Who has the largest and finest bicycle plant in America, devoted exclusively to the production of high grade bicycles?

We have the documents in hand to prove that there is one answer which fits each of the above questions, and that answer is, THE OVERMAN WHEEL CO.



THE Rockland County Wheelmen of Spring Valley, N. Y., gave an entertainment and dance on the evening of February 25.

THE Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Bicycle Club gave a pleasant reception and entertainment on the evening of February 26, upwards of one hundred invited guests being present. A musical programme of much merit, comprising both vocal and instrumental selections, was rendered, after which a fine collation was served. The affair was a very pleasing one throughout and reflects much credit on the organization; it is the intention of the club to give a reception to the lady riders, and the club will endeavor to make this one of the choicest of the season.

MR. STEPHEN GOLDER has made arrangements with the following firms to represent the Humber machines: Phil S. Brown, Washington, D. C.; Sweeting Cycle Co. of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and New Jersey; Schoverling, Daly & Gales, New York State and also New York City; Amos Shirley, New York, New York City; Wright & Ditson, New England States. Mr. Golder will continue to entertain propositions for unoccupied territory, and all letters should be addressed to Box 2225 New York P. O.

MR. J. S. CARTWRIGHT, honorable Secretary of the Somerville Cycle Club, is now in the employ of the Coventry Machinists' Co. as salesman. He always has been known as a "Swift" man.

A NEW house in the high-grade cycle trade is that of White & Mills, 224 State street, Chicago, who will handle Premier cycles exclusively in Chicago and adjoining territory. Their store is one of the best located in the city, on the corner of State and Quincy streets, and they will show a full line of 1891 Premiers March 1st.

LADIES' "SWIFT."

THE Ladies "Swift" Safety has been to the front ever since the safety came into popularity with the fair sex. It is noted for its specially low frame, allowing ease in mounting and dismounting, neat and effective dress guard, and natural curved handle bar which allows a natural grip without strain to the wrist and arms of the rider. The 1891 pattern has two 28-inch wheels geared to 53 inches. Weight, 40 pounds. The grooved cushion tire, one inch in diameter, adds two pounds to the weight, but greatly decreases the vibration.

"METEOR" SAFETY BICYCLE.

Manufactured by Banker & Campbell Co., Ltd., New York.

THIS safety, which was presented to the public for the first time at the Associated Cycling Clubs' Cycle Show, is the first and only American Roadster with cushion tires and weighing but 40 pounds. Specifications: "Weldless" steel tubing throughout the entire frame. All possible joints are made by lapping and brazing the tubes, thus doing away with considerable solid material and reducing the weight. Ball socket steering head, 28-inch rear and 30-inch front wheels, with 48 and 40 direct turn-spokes butt ended at both ends. Banker & Campbell web-cushion tires in spiral rolled beaded and beaded edge rims, chain wheel placed between the bearings which are immediately inside of the cranks. Perry-Humber Pen-Steel Bushed chain, etc., etc.

WE have to acknowledge receipt of a most beautiful little Russian lesther card case and memoranda book from the Pope Mfg. Co. We congratulate the other lucky fellows who received one of these beautiful little presents.

HUNT'S TOE CLIP.

WE present this week an advertisement and cut (see page 500) of a new toe clip manufactured by J. A. Hunt & Co. of Westboro, Mass. We have not had an opportunity to practically test the clip, but from an examination we should think that the device was a most excellent one. The points claimed are: It is secured to pedal so that it does not depend on the rubber for support; it prevents foot from slipping off sidewise; it is made so that it does not pinch the foot, and yet the foot in case of need can be disengaged at once; with the "balance" attached it will always be found "right side up"; can be applied to any pedal in less than half a minute; it can be used without the balance if so desired. The clips are made of the best spring steel wire neatly nickeled, and when desired the upper part of clip is covered with rubber to prevent the marking or wearing of shoes. There is a future for toe clips and we opine that Hunt's will take its place at once in favor with the riders. It certainly contains all the qualifications necessary to make up a first class clip. Send to Hunt & Co. for catalogue and trade discounts.

THE AMERICAN CYCLES.

CHICAGO. BOSTON. WASHINGTON.

ADMITTEDLY in the design and construction of ladies' safeties, it is sought to embody every feature and principle that will in any manner tend to comfort and ease. If then, a large steering wheel is of advantage to the male persuasion, why should manufacturers who follow the larger steerer-than-driver principle in their men's safeties reduce the diameter of the front wheel and not correspondingly that of the rear one in their ladies' machines, and still others who live up to the equi sized principle in their men's wheels, use a small steerer in their ladies' safeties?

If the large steerer is of such mooted advantage to men, why should it not be just so much more to ladies', or if, as one is bound to infer from the above, that the large front wheel is a disadvantage to ladies, by what process of reasoning can it be shown that it is an advantage to men?

It is hardly necessary to add that all these things were considered in the design of the American Ramblers, and that in consequence, they are all built with small front wheels and in actual, every-day use practically proving the correctness of the principle.

Vermont.

I have this day appointed W. W. Jennison Local Consul for St. Albans.

F. A. HUBBARD,
Chief Consul.

Brattleboro, Vt., February 28th, 1891.

From the Foreign Marshal.

I should like to give as Foreign Marshal of the L. A. W. the following hints to L. A. W. members who intend touring in Europe:

First, join the Cyclists Touring Club by applying to F. W. Weston, 8avin Hill, Boston, Mass., some two months before leaving the United States. From the C. T. C. you can obtain route, information, maps, road books, etc., and a special tariff in England, Scotland, Ireland and some parts of France, etc. If already a member of the L. A. W., and you have not on your arrival in England obtained your ticket of membership, it will be furnished you for a slight extra fee by the Secretary at the Chief Office, London—no mileages granted or reductions in tariff made or information given save on production of ticket or membership number.

Second, reduced rates are given, I believe, to C. T. C. members on certain Atlantic Steamship lines.

Third, On the Continent much better terms can be made with hotel proprietors by those acquainted with foreign languages and customs. Your hotel and general expenses should not exceed two dollars a day.

Fourth, The roads of England are fair, Scotland good, Ireland generally poor—though all average much better than the United States.

Fifth, French roads are the best in the world; then Swiss, German, Italian, Spanish in the order named.

Sixth, Norway contains grand scenery, but is almost too hilly for enjoyable cycling.

Seventh, Belgium is virtually unrideable save in the East; the Ardennes region, which is excellent. Holland is good, brick paving.

Eighth, Duties are frequently levied on crossing frontiers; the C. T. C. furnishes full information on this subject.

Ninth, Ride a safety or tricycle.

Tenth, Cushion tires for the continent, pneumatics by all means in Great Britain where they can be readily repaired in case of puncture.

Eleventh, You can express your baggage, but it is much easier to carry what one wants on the machine.

Twelfth, Owing to the abuse of the customs regulations by returning tourists, the United States Custom House has lately put some very stringent rules in practice.

Join a party if you wish, I mean a regularly organized one, like Mr. Elwell's which, though almost perfectly managed, possesses none of the attractions of individual touring—one being continually compelled to keep up with the party, no matter what the weather or the state of one's health and disposition—and by a reasonable study of guide books, Baedekers, one may travel alone just as cheaply and much more comfortably.

Fourteenth, Two or four is about the number for an ideal, independent touring party.

Fifteenth, With this number you will find accommodations everywhere.

Sixteenth, Any further information will be given by the Foreign Marshal whose address will be found in the Official List of L. A. W. officers. Yours,

JOSEPH PENNELL, L. A. W. C. T. C.

Iowa.

The officers of the Iowa Division L. A. W. held a meeting in Des Moines Monday, February 23, to decide upon the place of holding the annual meet. As the result of careful consideration it was decided to hold the meet in Newton, and the date was fixed for June 16 and 17. Let every League member in the State endeavor to make this year's meet a great success. This can be accomplished by booming the Iowa Division through the addition of new members.

Newton has many things to attract the meet, among which is a very fine half-mile track, and the people are noted for their hospitality, two things very essential to a successful meet. Yours fraternally,

CHAS. H. CURLEY, Sec.-Treas.

H. M. BREEN, Chief Consul.

Portland, Me., March 1, 1891.

Attention, Maine Division.

In order to make the proposed Maine Road Book a tangible reality, it is necessary that the members cooperate with the undersigned. Requests for facts have already been made, but more are needed; and the response must be prompt as the State is large and time is flying.

Refresh your memory regarding roads in your vicinity. Look about for information that may be useful for wheelmen. Make a rough drawing of bothersome turns or x-roads—a zigzag line if nothing more, with the villages marked, and an L (left) or R to denote direction of turn. Write for explanation if the blanks received are not understood; but by all that is good and true make some acknowledgement to my letters and circulars.

We want a Road Book, we need a Road Book, and we are going to have one if by any stress of exertion the wheelmen of the Pine Tree State can be aroused.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20, 1891.

GENTLEMEN:

On the 18th day of February I took the handle bar from the machine Mr. Reh lent me, and put my hands in my pocket and went from one end of the Ave. to the other without putting my hands to the machine, making two turns and crossing the car tracks at 14th and Penn. Ave., then came back and crossed a double track at Seventh and Penn. Ave., and when I got back to the store jumped the curb and would have gone on, but had to get off on account of the store.

Next Sunday I will take the handle bar off and ride up Capitol Hill and down the other side, and if I succeed I will let you know.

On an Iroquois. Yours Respectfully,

JAS. A. STEWART.

CYCLING

FOR

Health and Pleasure.

CHAPTER VI.

The safety is responsible, in no small degree, for the poor form and careless riding of so many wheelmen; because it is so easy to learn and to ride, that the majority are indifferent as to how they ride. If one dared to hint that the majority are ignorant of how to ride properly, he might be howled down; but then, would it be any less true? In no one point is poor riding more manifest than in pedalling, and no single feature of riding receives less attention. Everything, in cycling, depends upon the sort of connection a rider makes with his wheel, the connecting points being pedals and seat; hence the use of foot and ankle is of the highest importance. The why, the wherefore and the how are exhaustively considered, with diagram, in the chapter on Correct Pedalling.

COLUMBIA SPRING FORK.

Affords ample elasticity to relieve the rider and the machine from vibration, without affecting the positive steering for which the Columbia Safety is remarkable.

LARGE FRONT WHEEL.

For true and easy steering, hill climbing and coasting. The proportions of the Columbia Light Roadster Safety wheels are right for all around use.

HOLLOW FELLOES.

Of highest grade, cold drawn seamless steel tubing; without question the BEST felloes ever made.

TUBULAR REAR GUARD.

Of the same kind and grade of tubing. Always keeps its shape. A characteristic point of Columbia Safeties, making the frame rigid and substantial.

HARD BRASS NIPPLES.

The one point in which our '91 Safeties are not "all steel,"—but these are invaluable; they hold the spokes tight and do not rust in.

KIRKPATRICK SADDLE.

"Is more generally used to-day than any other on the market, and its popularity is the best evidence of its merits."

DOUBLE GRIP BALL PEDALS.

Are their own advocates. They hold the foot firmly, and run smoothly because they are made right. Fitted with new dust caps to prevent the entrance of dust and dirt, otherwise almost inevitable in any Safety pedal.

CUSHION TIRES.

We advertised and sold them on our '90 Safeties in November and December. We advertised them as a regular feature of our '91 Safeties in our catalogue, issued promptly at the first of the year, and we are selling them to all who prefer them Our cushion tires are equal to any, and superior to most, and we guarantee them; but we are candid enough to say that we believe that no cushion tire is yet the equal of the solid for wearing qualities. We want the public to know the truth, and we will give them what they wish.

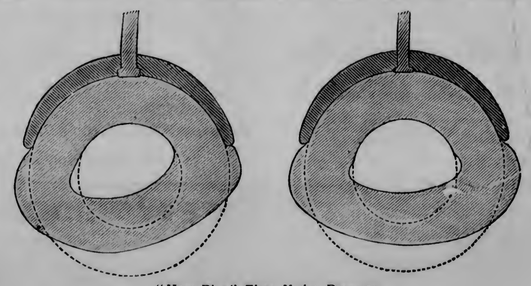
VICTOR CUSHION TIRES.

From U. S. Patent to A. H. Overman, Dated April 14, '85, we copy:

Victor Cushion Tire.

Victor Cushion Tire Under Pressure.



"The tire is made with an interior open space located near and following its inner periphery, ... the location of an interior open space near the periphery of the tire renders the inherent elasticity of such portion available by providing a space into which it can be displaced under pressure, or impact upon the outer periphery of the tire . . . . . thus, by providing the tire with an interior open space in accordance with my invention, its whole is made to cushion with obvious improvement in respect to its qualities for riding and service."

NOTE.—This invention was made in 1884, patented in 1885, has been experimented with ever since, and now the Victor Cushion Tire is presented as the result of such experimenting.

It is very amusing to see our competitors copy the words "cushion tire" from us, and at the same time offer a common thick-walled "hose pipe," which they undertake to describe with the name "cushion tire."

As we first used the name cushion tire, we are entitled to define it. As noted in copy from our patent of '85, it relates to tires made with a space on the inner side, and it does not relate to "hose pipes" made with holes in the middle. The Victor Cushion Tire under pressure is shown in cut. Also, note the "hose pipe tire" under pressure.

The rubber below the edges of the rims is dead weight, and will, as shown by experience, cut off on the edges of the rim. The "hose pipe tire" rides dead, heavy. The Victor Cushion Tire has jump in it.

"Hose Pipe" Tires Under Pressure.

WE "TRY THE EXPERIMENTS."

OVERMAN WHEEL CO.,

P. S. We don't wonder that makers who supply "hose pipe tires" say they do not recommend them, and are afraid to warrant them; it would take a brave man to do either.

TO THE EDITOR.

BICYCLING WORLD:

Dear Sir:--I have read with much interest your editorial on advertising which appeared in the last issue of your paper, and for one I feel a sense of freedom never before experienced. Oh! how I have longed to strengthen confidence in the Hickory Bicycle by telling publicly what I think of those whose misfortune it is to be making some other kind of a wheel. Relieved as I now am from all restraint it seems like the beginning of a new era, and I hardly know where to begin. I don't think that the other cycle makers would steal sheep, for with the prospect of free wool the sheep is not so desirable as some of the "nobler animals." I feel it my duty to warn all prospective buyers against dealing with men who make steel wheels. Shun them as you would a church fair. And when it comes to iron wheels, Oh My! Then there are the importers. They are a hard lot, and ought to be made to show cause why sentence of death should not be pronounced upon them. The only difference between the importer and the American maker is that one is a little worse than the other, but not much. Now what shall you do to be saved from all this? Ah! if you don't see what you want ask for it. Buy the old reliable Hickory. Here you have the most absolute honesty. Every part is guaranteed to be made of either one thing or another. None but the most skillful workmen are employed. No one in the factory gets the promise of less than 40 cents a day, and from that up to $1.10, except the boss, who is just at present travelling on his uppers, and that leads me to say that I have been asked several hundred times why Col. Pope made the scandalous remarks about the Hickory in his address at the opening of the C. C. C. show in Philadelphia. I want to say for the benefit of my more sensitive friends that I don't believe he intended to do me any harm, and the only way I can account for it is that he has lately had forced upon him the importance of telling the truth to an extent that he feels obliged to tell all the truth he knows.

I didn't think when I "struck" him to loan me the price of transportation to Phila. that he would uncover my poverty in such a cruel manner. Well, I was there and didn't walk either, and, in view of those remarks, I am glad I didn't.

The gentleman who made the introductory speech has been criticised for saying what he did about the pneumatic tyres. The idea was that the bicycle of to-day reaches the fullness of its usefulness by that "crowning triumph." There were makers there who do not believe in "inflation," and they "kicked," but in kicking I noticed they were careful not to hit any of the tyres.

Personally I have been much pleased with this whole tire excitement, for it shows how much riders desire to be relieved of that teeth loosening jar which you get without extra charge when you buy the average bicycle. I am glad that the desire for something better is beginning to germinate in the minds of men, but it was unfortunate that I could not have "seen" Mr. Tucker sooner and put him "onto" the true solution of the "vibration problem," which isn't pneumatic tires.

Yours,

STERLING ELLIOTT,
Newton, Mass.

P. S. No. Nor is it steel.

SOMETHING NEW IN PEDALS.

Duryea Ball Pedals, the only improvement in ten years, except in square rubbers. Stronger pedal pins and ample strength in every part. Weighs less than 12 ounces, while others weigh 20 to 24. Easily converted into rat trap pedals, thus combining the two styles in one. Highly finished and an ornament to any machine. Ball pedals of any pattern taken as part payment for Duryea's, if in good order. Dealers buying in quantity can substitute them for those furnished on their new machines, at no increase in price over the amount allowed by manufacturers for the absence of regular ones, thus lightening their wheels without any decrease in strength. MARMION. (Revised.)

The race, which for a space did fail,
Now trebly thundering swelled the gale,
And "UNION" was the cry.
A grin on Marmion's visage played
And fired his glowing eye.
With muscles set and bending head,
Right through the flying pack he sped,
He passed the wheel "that made the pace,"
And on his UNION won the race.

P. S. Our $135.00 UNIONS are selling at $135.00 faster than we can make them.

We have now made arrangements with the U. S. Postal Authorities for mailing our beautifully illuminated catalogues, and are doing our level best to supply the demand; they are, of course, on a par with Union Bicycles.

UNION

We are unwilling to enter into a discussion regarding the alleged healing influence of vibration on rheumatic subjects, but would say that should any of our customers be sufferers and desirous of having vibration in their machines, we can fix them up so as to give all that is required of the article, from a gentle "hist" to a Charleston Earthquake.

"Featherstone's Pneumatics."

Be patient, boys, the Pneumatics are coming through. You will get all you want three weeks from now. Twenty goes out this week. Twenty next week, and the week following one hundred; after that time from four to six hundred every week and more if you need them. They will be beauties, and will give you more speed and comfort than you can imagine. This is what Mr. E. R. Shipton, Editor of the C. T. C. Gazette, says of the pneumatic tire:

"As now manufactured, the pneumatic tire gives us no more anxiety than the solid one, while the increase in comfort and the luxurious riding is simply indescribable. The tires upon this, our latest machine, do not require re-inflating more than once a week under normal conditions, and the labor required is too trifling to be worthy of consideration."

DIRECTLY SPOKEN.

For 32 years we have been making bicycles, and have steadily maintained that a direct spoke, made correctly, is the one spoke which appeals directly to common sense. Now there are spokes and spokes, and experience gives perfection. Examine the "Swift" spoke carefully, it speaks for itself. There are 100,000 "Swifts" in use. In 1890 we supplied from our Sundry department 12 spokes for every 100 "Swifts" sold. Every Swift Spoke is guaranteed to stand the roughest fair and square riding.

EDITORS:

C. W. FOURDRINIER. J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 13 MARCH, 1891.

PHILADELPHIA, in the language of the "Great and Only," "We looks towards you, and we likewise bows." Truly the promoters of the show have every reason to feel proud of the success of the initial event. That the show will be repeated in 1892 is now practically settled, many of the exhibitors having already expressed a desire and willingness to arrange for space next year.

TO those who had any lingering idea that the ordinary was still in the race, it must have been very cold comfort to note the fact that in the total of some 200 wheels exhibited, there were only five ordinaries, and three out of the five were only put on for decorative purposes! Just think, the good old ordinary being used for decorative purposes.

WE were disappointed not to see the pneumatic men on deck to show the make-up and detail of the different devices. There were many machines that were shown fitted with pneumatics, but the Dunlop, Richwine and Thomas tires were conspicuous by their absence, either in toto or by an unsatisfactory exhibit. The Thomas people had part of the tire to show in section, but it was not complete as they expect to put it on the market. The parts so far as shown us of the Thomas tire were precisely the same as that of last year's Dunlop. We heard that there was to be some other details of construction not shown, but as to what these were we could not find out.

A FEATURE of the show that pleased immensely was the presence of so many ladies, and the way that most of them discussed the points of the different machines, showed a knowledge of he detail of construction that was charming in the extreme.

THE WORLD was the first of all the cycle papers to put in an appearance at the show, and barring the exhibit in which our correspondent made comparisons which were "odorous," the report was most excellent.

THE show was a success in every respect except the matter of room. Goodness, but how the wheels in some of the exhibits did crowd each other! With a few exceptions the visitors who wanted to examine any particular wheel in detail could not do so except under the most discouraging conditions. We do not make this criticism as a "carping critic," as we believe that the arrangements were, under the circumstances, the very best that could be made, and the management is entitled to the very highest praise; we only speak of the close quarters, so that the management can put on the thinking cap and provide for the increased rush for space to be expected next year.

WE noticed in the photographic gallery of cycling celebrities at the A. C. C. Show, the picture of S. G. Whittaker with the challenge of $1000 to $10,000 that he would beat all (safety?) existing records from one mile to one hundred. Here is a chance for some one to pick up or drop a few "thou." It's a pretty big job for any one man to undertake, but there is no doubt that with $10,000 hung up on the string, our friend Mr. Whittaker would make a brave bid for it, even if he failed.

"HOBSON'S choice" has advantages in that one need not bother about making up one's mind. Place before us a bill of fare on which a single soup, fish, roast entree, etc., are presented for our consideration, our way is clear and our choice soon made; but place before us a menu containing a hundred dishes or more and we at once throw our system into a nervous condition, conducive to dyspepsia, in our anxiety to make a proper choice, the poignancy of our anguish being invariably augmented by the evident pity of the calm-eyed-tip-taking "minion."

THE same with food, the same with cycles. Give us a half dozen patterns to choose from and our mind is soon at rest and our choice made, but place a hundred different patterns before us to choose from and our brain becomes chaos. Let a man with cool deliberation present himself before a real live representative of the different manufacturers and importers as being a buyer, and if by the time he has gone through the entire list without rest (other than that requisite for eating and sleeping) he comes out at the end with a clear brain and a firm judgment, then, indeed, he is entitled to the "highest grade" medal for intellectual power and perspicacity.

THE use of the aluminum as an alloy with steel to be used in drop forgings was an interesting exhibition at the Philadelphia show. The company showing these had an exhibit of the forgings of steel alone and the same thing with the aluminum. The difference in weight was decidedly appreciable. The difference in cost in weight for weight, so far as we can learn, would not be so much, and while it would take less metal in weight to make the bicycle the additional cost of the alloyed steel would be greater than that now used. We have not the data at hand just at present to give any information as to the relative qualities of the metals (i. e., the pure steel as compared with the steel and aluminum mixed), but we hope to have such data at an early day. The metal worker and chemist are working hard on the problem as to the proper combination; whether they have struck it right yet only actual experience will prove.

THE Stenographer, a magazine devoted to the art of shorthand writing, has an article headed "Shorthand and Bicycling." The writer, after describing the effects of the constant strain on his brain and his consequent impossibility to sleep, says he went to a physician for advice and the sensible medico advised cycling. The results were marvellous. Sleep as peaceful as a child blessed his weary brain, the digestive organs resumed their normal condition and he felt himself once again A MAN. He winds up his article with this appeal: "* * * Brothers and sisters of the mystic art! If you would feel strong and young again; if you would live long and be happy; if you would continue to be what you are—fast and accurate writers, let us strongly recommend you to procure a bicycle and proceed at once to make yourselves fast and good riders as well."

COLONEL POPE in his address at the opening of the A. C. C. Show in Philadelphia gave some statistics which are of interest as matters of record. After going into details as to the individual rise and fall of the unfortunates he says:

"* * * During the first ten years then of the bicycle business, as it began in 1877, thirty-six makers and importers entered upon the business, of whom but thirteen remain. The greatest increase in the number of firms and individuals engaged in making and importing bicycles has come within the last three years, and it was so great that in 1890 at least seventy-five can be counted.

While there are many patents on the various forms of bicycles, one can make a bicycle without infringing anybody's patent, and if he chooses to use the devices that are patented, he can obtain licenses from the owners on fair and equitable terms, or he can infringe them and take his chances of long litigation and defeat in the courts. * * *"

A few other items we take as follows from the same speech: "Tims & Lawford of Baltimore, Md., imported bicycles in 1876, going out of business in 1881. Buzzell of Lynn made a single bicycle about 1869. The Pope Mfg. Co. made a single bicycle principally of wood in 1877. Cunningham, Heath & Co. commenced to import in 1877, and the Pope Mfg. Co. received their first consignment of foreign cycles in January 1878, and began manufacturing of cycles in the early part of the same year of these "originals" of which the Pope Mfg. Co. is the sole survivor.

Among the names of those early men in the trade prior to 1879, and which now remain only in history are; R. H. Hodgson, Newton, Mass.; Stoddard, Lovering & Co., A. J. Philbrick of Salem, Mass.; A. M. Gooch of Newton, Mass.; Schuyler & Duane of New York.

MANY will remember the great set-back the League got in North Carolina in 1885. The Legislature passed a bill to prohibit bicycle and tricycles and all other "non-horse vehicles" from using the Wilmington and Coastwise Turnpike unless by express permission of the Superintendent. As the Superintendent was not willing to let the wheelmen ride on the pike, the bill was in effect prohibitory. The League fought the issue, made a test case and was beaten in the courts. This is the solitary decision against wheelmen on the books. The decision killed cycling in North Carolina, and it afforded a precedent that forbade the League taking legal steps in another Southern State where the conditions were similar.

But the wheelmen did not give up the fight, and we are glad to announce this week that the Legislature has repealed the objectionable bill, and on the strength of this a new cycle club has been formed in Wilmington.

BOTH Worcester and Lynn are desirous of having the spring meet of the Massachusetts Division. The Bay State Club of the former place and the Lynn Wheel Club have both invited the Division to hold the spring meet in their respective cities May 30. The Board of Officers will decide shortly which invitation they will accept.

OSCAR WILDE on a safety!! Let the scoffers scoff. What more appropriate, the apostle of æstheticism riding a machine the very motion of which is poetry, and especially if Oscar affects the pneumatic we can think of the "apostle" as riding on bottled air. Certainly nothing could be conceived more in keeping.

NOTES BY "HAWKSHAW."

THROUGH the kindness of Captain Burton F. White I have received a copy of the "Book of Tours" issued by the Washington Cycle Club of Chicago. To say that the volume in scope and finish exceeds anything of the kind I have ever seen printed by any club for the convenience of its members, but expresses the perfection of every detail that this handy little book contains between its Russian leather covers. The Washingtons have, in the issuance of such a volume, shown their progressiveness, and the example they thus submit is well worthy of following by any organization desiring to keep in the front rank, as it is by such carefulness of members' comforts as this that the difference is most quickly shown between a first-class club and one that is not.

I CAN foresee but one thing in the future which will cause the onward progress of cycling to halt and that is the successful solving of the problem of ærial navigation. This once discovered—traffic, whether for pleasure or profit, will be transferred from earth to air, and unless the inventor can fit the bicycle to this new order of things cycling would have to cease, but aside from this the most careful scanner of the possibilities and probabilities of the future cannot discover even the smallest cloud upon the sunlit horizon of cycling success.

IF some cycling correspondent will write his notes with the slang expression "not in it" eliminated therefrom he will introduce a novelty much appreciated by those who read the cycling papers.

To write anything new about the perfections of cycling is as difficult as to convey any startling information concerning the proportions of Mount Everest. Both are about eight miles high and fairly well established. Learned critics, with length of hair all out of proportion to the length of their wisdom teeth, find things to write for advertising purposes that seem knowing and sound deep, but the ordinary bald-headed (vide, Western wheel papers) chap such as I am, who has been going over every possible phrase of the question for ten years, finds safety in a more modest course. My plan is to walk carefully round the mountain until I come to a spot which seems to be tolerably unfrequented and then to say to my readers: "Do me the favor to study the tremendous height and the wonderful lights and shadows from this spot," and in this way I sometimes stumble upon a partially new view of the subject and my readers get the benefit thereof.

DRYDEN thus describes a header:

"The startling steed was seized with sudden fright,
And bounding o'er the pommel cast the knight;
Forward he flew, and pitching on his head,
He quiver'd with his feet and lay for dead."

I HAVE known cycling to increase a man's modesty so that after a year or two of it he couldn't summon up enough courage to mount the machine whose saddle, in the vanishing past, he was glued to for hours on a stretch seven times a week.

"HAD not exercise been necessary nature would not have given such an activity to the limbs and such a pliancy to every part as produces those compressions and extensions necessary to the preservation of such a system."—Addison.

THE peacock has been forced out of the running since the ribbon flying cyclist has entered the race. Nature cannot compete with art, at least such art as has its inception at the remnant counter of the ribbon department.

WHAT a contented and consistent individual the average farmer is? That is if we believe what we read of him and decline to accept the evidences of our own senses to the contrary. Who ever saw a contented farmer? I never did. If it rains he complains that his crops are drowned; if it does not do so he declares that they are parched up; if he has a bountiful harvest then prices are too low; if his crop is small then they are too high. Come as they will circumstances are always against the farmer to listen to the burden of his song. Long has he wailed for good roads until legislators actually thought he did want them and they went in to secure them for him, and what does he do? Why sets up a howl, because he is expected to pay for them. He don't want them that way—he wants to take a plow, tear up the earth, throw it in the centre of the thoroughfare, and from this tilling of the soil have it produce for him, free of cost, a macadam road just as it does corn and wheat, and when, strange to say, it does not do so, then again ascends to heaven his plaintive wail. Farmers and infants are much alike, both cry for what they have not, cry out against what they do have, and, upon getting what they cry for, cry yet more because it is given them. To reason with either or to expect from them any support in bringing about reforms for their welfare is like attempting to weave a rope out of sand.

CHICAGO. "WAYNE SCOTT."

A SMALL amount of the beautiful fell this week and consequently there has been but little riding, except for those who are lucky enough to possess pneumatics. They are like a lot of young fellows just learning to ride and just discovering the real beauties of the wheel. Winship was seen this last week at 12 o'clock midnight riding like mad through a snow storm. "Win" come down from the good old ordinary (fancy that) and riding in a storm at midnight. What next?

LAST Sunday Capt. Roberts of the Illinois Club led four of his club members a hot scorch to Evanston and return. This was about the only run taken, however, as the weather was so bad as to keep most of them indoors.

LAST Saturday evening, March 7, the Cook County Wheelmen gave "a stag," a feature of which was the exhibition of one of nearly all the leading safeties—a cycle exhibit. The reason for the cycle exhibit lays in the fact that the club has nearly 100 members who are associate members, whom it hopes to initiate into the popular pastime of cycling. Seventy-seven new members were elected to membership at their last meeting. The club in its third month has 237 members, a thing unprecedented in Chicago cycling history.

CHICAGO loses one of the brightest lights of her cycling world this week. L. W. Conkling leaves here to enter the employ of the Sweeting Cycle Co. at Philadelphia. He will travel for them. Conkling is one of the oldest of our Chicago wheelmen—is Vice President of the Washington Cycle Club, Treasurer of the Associated Cycling Clubs and a member of both the Chicago and Lincoln Cycling clubs. Conkling has started the great Pullman road race every year since its promulgation.

DOUGLAS CLUB members netted $100 on their masque ball. Capt. Miller has the season's run card in the press.

THE Pilzen Cycling Club gave a "nut crack" last Saturday evening. The early part of the evening was spent by the large number present cracking nuts and once in a while a joke was cracked and some times a head ditto. Later blackboards were brought forth and all present were blindfolded and a prize offered for the best picture drawn.

AN athletic entertainment was given last Saturday evening by the Illinois Cycling Club. A large programme, athletic and musical, was carried out very successfully. A light lunch was served. Two hundred and fifty were present. So successful has this club's cafe proven that they have found it necessary to employ a cashier and book-keeper. Mr. Blackman fills the position to a dot. Club members can pay their dues to him at the club house. Five colored men servants are also employed around the club house. The ladies' nights occur this month on the 9th and 23d, and on the 13th they give the fourth and last reception of the season at Martine's.

WEDNESDAY, March 18, the Æolus Cycling Club give a dramatic entertainment at Central Turner Hall. An elaborate programme has been prepared ending in a farce comedy entitled, "Wanted, a Confidential Clerk."

VICTOR CYCLING CLUB members entered upon a long-distance race Sunday, March 1, to conclude Jan. 1. An elegant gold medal has been offered as a prize.

MONDAY EVENING the Lincolns hold an important meeting. A change of location is to be made May 1.

J. V. WILSON, one of the oldest members of the Lincoln Cycling Club, returned to Chicago this last week after a year's sojourn in the East. He has entered the employ of A. G. Spalding & Bros. in their bicycle department, and will again join the Lincolns.

A MEETING was held at Ravenswood this last week and it was decided to form an organization to be known as the Ravenswood Cycle and Athletic Club, with a capital stock of $20,000. Subscriptions for stock are being solicited with good success. A general meeting is to be held next Thursday evening.

LINCOLN men, who have been spoken to, are very enthusiastic as the crowd who now have the matter in charge will allow the track to be open for practice at all times Matters will be pushed as rapidly as possible, as it is desired to have the grounds ready by May 1.

HOUSTON, TEX. "MAGNOLIA."

THE regular annual meeting of the Houston (Texas) Bicycle Club was held at their club room, No. 28 Main street, March 1. The meeting was a large and enthusiastic one, and a great deal of important business was brought up and disposed of and these officers elected: President, Mr. N. Shaw; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. G. W. Sims; Captain, Mr. Joe Taylor; Lieutentant, Mr. E. Dargen. At the suggestion of Mr. F. W. Dumble, Local Consul, it was decided that the Houston Bicycle Club be incorporated under the laws of the State, with a capital stock of $5000, divided into 500 shares of $10 each. An executive committee, the personnel of which is a guarantee of good and efficient work, was appointed consisting of the following-named gentlemen: Messrs. Shaw, J. Taylor, G. W. Sims, N. C. Munger and F. W. Dumble to select site for race track. A committee was also appointed to confer with the Galveston Club for the purpose of arranging meets, etc. The two cities being the two largest in South Texas and both having numerous wheelmen by working in connection can greatly advance tae interests of wheeling in this section. Six names were presented for membership and the applicants received, making the club membership about thirty-five.

NEW JERSEY NOTES. "PALISADES."

THE regular quarterly meeting of the Board of Representatives and Trustees of the New Jersey Division, L. A. W., was held at Elizabeth, the 4th inst. The Division is in a prosperous condition. The treasurer's report showed a balance of over $400—and renewal season near at hand. The Secretary reported a gain of 410 new members for the year, making a total of 1053 members in the Division.

THE Highway Improvement Committee reported wonderful progress and good work for the past year and assured the Board that next year's report will be even more favorable. They are having small pamphlets and circulars printed for general distribution that will be ready in a few weeks.

THE Secretary proposed that a circular be sent to all clubs in our State urging them to become League clubs and offering inducements to them for doing so, which the Board unanimously carried. A circular will also be sent to all non-League riders in the State.

ELIZABETH was selected as the place to hold the annual State meet this year. Vineland withdrew, leaving Englewood and Elizabeth to fight for the prize (?). The Englewood representatives not being present, Representatives Bennett and Hinners of the Bergen County Wheelmen undertook to convince the Board, etc., but Messrs. Gilbert and Pennell of Elizabeth were too strongly fortified and carried their point. Englewood claims it for '92.

COMMITTEE appointed on meet: Geo. C. Pennell, chairman; Fred S. Bennett, H. S. Fulper, W. H. Stauffer, Amzi T. Dodd, A. F. Bellinger, F. C. Gilbert and T. F. Merecles, Jr.

EXTENSIVE preparations have already been made for the meet by the committee and wheelmen can look forward to a very "large" time.

BY THE WAY, May 29th and 30th were selected as the days for holding the meet and don't forget that Elizabeth is the place.

THE B. M. C. L. of Newark at their last meeting adopted their new constitution and by-laws as a whole, and a committee appointed to have the League incorporated under the State laws.

THERE has been a report in some of our cycling papers that Dr. G. Carleton Brown on account of his election as Second Vice President of the League will have to resign as Chief Consul of the New Jersey Division. This is not so, for the doctor is too valuable for the Division to lose, and we hope to have him as our Chief Consul for at least another year after the present one.

WE have received a list of nominations for officers of the B. M. C. L. and are sorry to omit them from this column, but lack of space compels us to omit all names of officers either nominated or elected. Their election takes place March 26 at their new club house, which will be opened to the members for the first time that night.

WE regret to hear that C. R. Hoag (former Secretary of the B. M. C. L.) is necessitated by business to give up wheeling. Mr. Hoag has worked hard for cycling interests in general and the B. M. C. L. particularly. We extend our best wishes for his future success.

THE Chief Consul is considering the advisability of instituting a new feature this season in the way of short tours. A tour-master will be appointed, and runs will be taken every Saturday afternoon in different sections of the State, under the guidance of the tour-master and the Local Consul. This is a most excellent idea and one that should "go."

LOCAL CONSULS throughout the State are requested to send into their Chief Consul any information that they may possess regarding new roads in their territory or give the name of some party in their locality of whom this information may be obtained.

COLUMBUS, O.

"SAFETY."

SINCE Columbus is going to have the meet this year it will probably interest the wheelmen to learn what the Columbus riders are doing, and that they propose to make the meet one that the L. A. W. may be proud of. We have secured as prizes five high grade wheels, and others in view. Our list of prizes will be larger than ever before.

THE Columbus wheelmen are all glad to hear that Detroit has secured the National Meet, and they are thinking seriously of running an excursion to Detroit to enable the visitors to get the benefit of both the Ohio and the National Meets.

THE Columbus Safety Club men are hunting for new quarters for the coming season and will fit them up elegantly, and will be in shape to take care of our visitors in July. Committees have been appointed and are hard at work on matters pertaining to the coming meet. We will hold it on Jnly 13th, 14th and 15th, and wheelmen going to the National Meet at Detroit should come via Columbus and try our races before going to the "Big" ones.

PRESIDENT F. B. EVERETT of the Safety Club was in New York last week, and called on President Dunn while there.

IF the new agreement proposed by the A. A. U. is adopted by the L. A. W. it will seriously interfere with the success of the Ohio meet, and as we have made our arrangements before it was proposed, we are hoping it will not apply to our meet.

WE want every wheelman that can, to go to Detroit via Columbus next July.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.

ON Friday evening the Brooklyn Bicycle Club, seventy strong, will visit the Park Theatre to witness Lillian Russell in "Poor Jonathan." At the conclusion of the play a banquet will be served at the Clarendon Hotel. Manager Sinn is getting up handsome souvenirs emblemetic of the occasion to present to the members who attend.

IT was thought early in the season that Wm. F. Murphy of the New York Athletic Club would again be a candidate for the office of Captain of the Kings County Wheelmen at their election on March 12, but developments proved the contrary. Many members were very indignant at the manner in which, as they asserted, he deserted his wheel club in preference for the N. Y. A. C. almost immediately upon his accession to the office of Captain last year, and it is no doubt with the idea that this would be a strong point against his re-election that has restrained him from again being an applicant for the office.

THE impression is conveyed from the circular issued by the N. Y. A. C. in reference to their amending their By-laws to admit the Citizens' Bicycle Club to their organization in a body, that they are taking upon themselves a big burden, but as I am informed this is not the case. It is true the athletic club becomes responsible for the "Cit's" debts, etc., but the one hundred members it is proposed to take in will all have to pay an initiation fee of $25, a price which, with the dues which will accrue from their membership, should, in a very short space of time, liquidate all this. The New Yorks know what they are about, and will not inconvenience or burden themselves with any debt for the purpose of securing the Citizens' Bicycle Club in spite of the fact that they are getting one of the best wheeling clubs into their ranks.

THE Manhattan Bicycle Club it appears are desirious with the co-operation of one of its sister clubs of managing the New York race meet in connection with the New York State racing circuit One of the meetings will unquestionably be held in New York, and the Manhattans do well to bid for it, but there will be other bicycle race meetings in New York City this season, so that the racing men need not concentrate all their hopes on the circuit meeting. It is asserted that Albert B. Barkman of the Brooklyn Bicycle Club has been requested to take the Chairmanship of this circuit which, should he accept the position, as I think he will, this section should see some ably managed meets.

A CYCLING paper in a peurile plea to escape criticism on being entirely in the dark as to the political situation at the recent election says: "It is not our fault if the men who came to knife Dunn turned tail and fawned upon him in hope of future reward." As it was the delegation from this section who were principally averse to Mr. Dunn's re-election, the utter untruthfulness of the paragraph is particularly clear to every one hereabouts, and in fact to anyone with a discerning eye. A strong opposition was brought to bear against putting Mr. Dunn in the Presidential chair for two years by the New York contingent. It is true their tactics were characterized by a slowness that lost them their point, but nevertheless they stooped to no such subterfuge as "fawning" upon Mr. Dunn when assured that their campaign was unbeneficial. Such actions might be on a par with the character of the writer, but the gentlemen who opposed Mr. Dunn are too well known to have any such story against them received with credit.

A SQUIB is going the rounds of the press to the effect that the Manhattan Athletic Club proposes taking a house for the accommodation of their bicycle section. In reference to this a member of the cherry diamond says: "Is it likely that after erecting a magnificent club house we would still hire a new building for our bicyclists? No, a separate store room has been appropriated to their use, and although special attention will be given to this branch of sport, I am sure it is not the intention to secure commodious quarters for them outside of our Madison Avenue house."

THE Manhattan Bicycle Club will hold their annual election of officers on Monday next.

THE banquet tendered by the New York Bicycle Club to their bowling team on last Saturday evening was a great success.

NEWS AND COMMENT.

THE tenth annual reception of the Kings County Wheelmen took place at Avon Hall on the evening of March 3, and to say the affair was a grand success but feebly expresses it. The unpropitious weather was the only thing to mar the pleasure of the occasion, and but for that fact the hall would not have been large enough to hold the vast throng of friends of the organization. About 150 couples were present and enjoyed themselves in a royal manner. This is the first time since the opening of this club's home that they have been obliged to hold their reception outside their club house, which would have proved altogether too small for the occasion.

THE South End Wheelmen of Philadelphia have just acquired through purchase the property at the southeast corner of Broad and Morris streets. It is the intention of the club to occupy the house as soon as the necessary alterations and improvements are made.

ACCORDING to the By-laws of the L. A. W., the national championships must be run after Aug. 15. It is rumored that the wheelmen of Philadelphia are agitating the question of applying to have these races run there in a fall meet.

THE Apollo Bicycle Club of Taunton, Mass., held their first social in Davol's Hall on the evening of February 27. A large number of wheelmen were present, and an enjoyable time was passed by all.

NEWTON, IOWA, will have the honor of entertaining the members of the Iowa Division of the L. A. W. on the occasion of the annual meet on the 16th and 17 of June next. The wheelmen of the town are using every effort to make the affair a grand success, and already there has been arranged a public banquet to be held on the first evening, and a grand ball on the second evening of the tournament.

THE Harlem Wheelmen gave the last ladies' reception of the season at their cosy club house on the evening of March 3. On account of it being the last, everything was carried out on a larger scale than any of the club's previous efforts, and the large party present heartily enjoyed themselves till early the following morning.

THE East Hartford, Conn., Wheelmen dedicated their new rooms on the evening of March 2; the new quarters are nicely furnished, and a credit to the organization.

THE Ansonia, Conn., Wheelmen held their annual meeting and election on the evening of March 4. THE Rockford, (Ill.) Cycling club is hard at work perfecting arrangements for the annual meet of the Illinois Division of the L. A. W., which will be held at Rockford on July 3 and 4; a large number of visiting wheelmen are expected, and the Rockford Club intends to give them a royal reception.

A TOPIC of much interest among the Bridgeport (Conn.) Wheelmen is the contemplated road race of 25 miles with teams. All the clubs in the city are in favor of the proposed plan, and a committee has been appointed from the different clubs to solict subscriptions for the purchase of a trophy to cost about $330. There will be but one contest for this valuable prize, so the club winning the race will become the sole possessor of same. It is expected the race will come off early in June.

THE Bridgeport (Conn.) Wheel Club will hold their annual banquet on the evening of April 7.

THE Park Avenue Wheelmen are making up a party to attend the race meet at Hagerstown, Md., on July 3 and 4.

AN effort is being made by the cyclers of Cleveland, Ohio, to revive the lagging interest in cycling and cycle clubs. Cleveland enjoyed prestige once as being among the leaders in cycling affairs, but now she is down to the same low ebb as Boston.

THE following verses from a St. Louis correspondent were inspired by the remarkably fast (?) run made a short time since by the Missouri Bicycle Club (21 miles in 38 minutes:

Of course you've all heard of that very fast run,
A little bird whispered to me.
How eight fast Missouris went out for some fun,
This little bird whispered to me.

Now I think it must have been a very good brew
That Anheuser gave to those people, don't you?
To this then I think that their fast time was due,
This little bird whispered to me.

OUR Concord (N. H.) correspondent writes to inform us that Concord is not dead in wheeling matters, as there are 100 active wheelmen at present and a prospect of a large increase the coming season.

THE Alpha Wheelmen of Philadelphia, Pa., a new wheeling organization, was formed on Jan. 29. Eighteen names were on the charter list, comprising some of the leading lights of the city. A feature peculiar to the club is the fact that each and every member of the club must own and ride his own machine.

A WELL KNOWN Cincinnati physician says: "The proper use of the wheel is one of the best remedies for dyspepsia ever invented."

I STOOD looking in a print shop window once, and I saw there a picture, which, both the subject and the treatment, has always caused me to remember. The artist pictured a negro boy, upon whose face the most profound look of injured innocence was shown, while from a rent in a battered straw hat that adorned his head, could be seen protruding the heads of a couple of spring chickens. Beneath the picture was a card explaining it to such as could not get at its meaning from the picture itself or form any idea at all of negro character, it bore the words: "Don't you call me no thief, white man, I don't know where your chickens is." When I read Mr. Shipton's denial of any piracy or lifting of the L. A. W. badge by the C. T. C., some way or another, back to my mind comes the picture of that negro, and the "don't you call me no thief," as certainly both seem to me to be cases of the accused being "caught with the goods on them," to use an expressive term from the lexicon of the police. Don't waste pen and ink in denying the fact, Mr. Shipton, don't hide behind Mr. Lamson nor anybody else, come right out and do an un-English act of "acknowledging the corn," consoling yourself with the fact that you are not the only of your countrymen who, being detected in lifting from America, has seen fit to deny it in the face of all facts to the contrary. I'll admit eating crow isn't pleasant, but then, most anyone has to dine off of it some time in this life, and you can't expect to escape Mr. Shipton.

THAT RECORD OF ALLSUP'S.

Editor Bicycling World: In your issue of Jan. 9, '91, I expressed doubts as to whether "Teddy" Allsup of our city rode 2761 miles last October, working in business nine hours per day, as he claimed. My figuring gave him 3 1-3 hours' sleep per night for the month, and severe rains prevented him from riding at least three days. This would give him a daily average of 95 4 miles.

Mr. Allsup counters with two mouthpieces—"Star" in BICYCLING WORLD and "Squibbs" in the American Athlete. "Star" finds 34 days in October and says that Mr. Allsup rode from 4 A. M. to 7 A. M. and from 7 P. M. to 11 P. M. This leaves five hours for undressing, washing, breakfast and sleep, or about four hours for sleep. The other "mouthpiece" says that Mr. Allsup rode from 5 to 8 A. M., and that if Mr. Allsup had really but 3 1 3 hours' sleep during this remarkable month's riding "it would look pretty blue for Mr. Allsup." But, says the M. P. triumphantly, Mr. Allsup had five hours' sleep. Thus the cerulean horizon vanishes. Mr. Allsup could not have done it with 3 1-3 hours' sleep, but with five hours it is all right. I smile.

"Star" says that Mr. Allsup rode 12 to 15 miles per hour. "Squibbs" says 15 to 16 miles per hour, on asphalt streets, from 5 to 8 A. M. Now drivers prefer asphalt streets, and consequently the travel on such streets is considerable, especially between 6 and 8 A. M. Imagine a man riding an ordinary through the streets of a metropolis at a 15 to 16-mile gait.

Both the M. P.s ask me to go to Mr. Hanauer, the generous donor of the medal for the contest, and ask him for the daily mileage record as handed in for October and digest it. Well, I sent a friend for that purpose, but unfortunately the schedule is not to be found. Mr. Hanauer is making extensive alterations in his store and in moving the papers have been mislaid. Mr. Hanauer says "Teddy" kept no duplicate, so it is useless to go to him. It is unfortunate for Mr. Allsup that the original record is lost. The proof should have been found in them.

"Squibbs" says Mr. Allsup had company during his ride in October and can produce him.

Let us know him and let us see his mileage at Hanauer's.

I really hope that Mr. Allsup will explain away the difficulties, but until he does visions of Munchausen will flit before me. Mr. Allsup says he can prove that he did it—by doing it again. I laugh. That is the way we used to "prove" things when I was a boy.

In my article I referred sarcastically to the ride of the "Big Six" of Chicago from Indianapolis to Cincinnati. The Crescents of our city thought they were meant. I meant the large half-dozen from Chicago. I never knew that the Crescents claimed to have ridden from Indianapolis to Cincinnati. NON-CONTESTANT.

[This controversy must now cease.—ED.]

THE PHILADELPHIA SHOW.

THE individual who, through neglect or stress of circumstances, was not able to be present at the first annual cycle show in Philadelphia, given under the auspices of the Associated Cycling Clubs, missed a most interesting and instructive exhibition, and while a large portion of the visitors were cyclers, and interested in cycling business, it was a most flattering proof of the interest shown by non-riders, as the attendance of non-riders at both afternoon and evening sessions was in excess of the most sanguine expectations of the promoters.

THE WORLD was the first paper to show up at the exhibition with a description of the exhibits, and with the exception of one error (which no doubt our attention will be called to from some quarters), and one or two omissions caused by the hurry in getting the report to us in time to publish it was voted to be an excellent report. We give below a description of exhibits which were of necessity omitted from last week's issue. We also give an account of each evening's entertainment.

The exhibit of the Union Cycle Company of Highlandville, Mass., was undoubtedly the best arranged of any, the space being ample and the decorations very fine. The Pope Mfg. Co. came next in point of having sufficient space and in the taste displayed in showing the goods, and while all the exhibits were worthy of the highest commendation the fault we have to find with them is that of being very crowded and in not giving the visitors the chance to circulate among the machines and examine them closely and critically.

It will be of interest as a matter of record to print the number of machines shown by each exhibitor.

Bretz & Curtis had four Warwicks and five Referees, and among the Referees was shown the identical racing wheel on which Jones made his famous world records; it is a beautiful little machine and fully up to the standard of the Referee people's work. Bretz & Curtis are now the manufacturers of the Referee in this country and they will be in position to supply the growing demand for his wheel.

Mr. Sweeting's total exhibit numbered 28 wheels, including the Rivals, Humbers, Irwell, R. & P.'s, Psychos, Stovers, Elliotts, Ormondes, Sweeting Diamond, Clipper, the Minnehaha, and a double safety called "The Twins."

L. Pettitt & Co. showed two patterns of their Common Sense safeties, one regular pattern and one racer.

Wall & Boyer of Philadelphia showed 14 machines, 12 of which were Singers, including one tandem and one tricycle, and two medium grade called Captain and La Belle.

W. Trafford showed five wheels, one Columbia, two Populars, one Vulcan and one Sunbeam.

Eagle Mfg. Co. showed six wheels.

Coventry Machinists' Co., eight.

John Wilkinson Co., nine.

Premier Cycle Co., eleven. There was also one Sylph and one Buckingham & Adams ladies' wheel.

Western Wheel Works, through R. L. Coleman & Co., showed seven patterns of their cycles.

Keefe & Becannon had five wheels on exhibition.

Gormully & Jeffery, eight.

Strong & Green, ten, of which eight were Quadrants, one Universal and one Rambler.

Banker & Campbell had two sample wheels of their new Meteor.

Lozier & Yost, five Giants.

Pope Mfg. Co., nine safeties and two ordinaries.

Hartford Co., five wheels in this exhibition, which under the management of Mr. Hart also showed a new wheel called the Hart Safety—a very nice wheel for the price, $50.

E. K. Tryon & Co. showed sixteen wheels, eight New Mails, seven Lovell Diamonds and one ordinary, the machine on which Murphy made his celebrated record of 12,890 miles in a year.

Union Cycle Co. showed nine wheels and a most attractive exhibit it was.

Overman Wheel Co., through A. G. Spalding & Bros., their agents, showed a full line of their safeties, two ordinaries and two boys', making a total of eleven machines.

United States Cycle Mfg. Co., a brand new concern, showed two patterns of their new machine, called the Ajax.

H. B. Smith & Co. showed a line of seven Stars.

Total number of wheels on exhibit, 193.

The foyer of Horticultural Hall was devoted to the exhibition of the curiosities of cycling, a sort of "chamber of horrors" on a small scale which has become a yearly part of the Stanley Show in England. Among the "first" machines are shown the origin: l Lallement, bought of Lallement in Paris, in 1863, and was the first machine to which bicycle cranks and pedals was attached. The first Star and the first Eagle were also on exhibition. There was also shown a curious little machine, built exactly like an Eagle, owned by a six-year-old lad named E. Jackson, and on which the little fellow is said to have taken a continuous trip of 15 miles. The Singer Special Challenge No. 5, owned by Captain Longstreth, was shown and attracted a good deal of attention, as also did the Singer Special Challenge machine owned by Mr. Chandler of Brookline, Mass. Stevens' Expert—on which he travelled around the world—was shown, and also Weaver's Eagle on which he made his trip across the continent. A tricycle shown by Hart & Co. was labelled "experimental machine—never duplicated" and what surprised us was that it should have ever been conceived. The motive power being furnished by the rider's jumping up and down on the saddle—we did not wonder that it never was "duplicated."

The handsome case of medals and trophies won by Taxis and others was very interesting.

An excellent collection of photographs of cycle celebrities was shown. One curious combination particularly struck us, the individual photographs of the following-named being grouped together: Prince, Webber, McCurdy, Frazier, Rhodes and Kennedy-Child. There are several mentioned in this combination who undoubtedly would not feel unhappy were the combination broken.

There is a curious fac-simile in print of a hobby horse race in the Garden de Luxembourg in Paris, 1818. This curious print was presented by E. Neumayer of the Pennsylvania Bicycle Club. Mr. Neumayer, when 8 years old, was the proud possessor of one of these hobby horses.

One of the curiosities, which was not shown in the "chamber of horrors," was in Mr. Sweeting's exhibit, namely, a machine something like an old fashioned velocipede, the frame being hinged in the centre between the two wheels and the steering being done by means of this hinge. It was said that this wheel could not be ridden, and heretofore all efforts to ride the "critter" had been in vain, but on Friday morning the wheel was taken down into the lower hall where there was plenty of room, and three of the men, one of whom was Mr. Owen of Washington, succeeded in riding the wheel around the room without very much apparent effort, therefore it can no longer be said that the machine is unrideable. We were present also at a trial, under the most difficult and discouraging circumstances, of the Balance Bar, manufactured and patented by Gertenbach & Hamp of Philadelphia. This is simply a hard wood jointed rod, each end of which is placed on the shoulders of two riders, a hand of each rider being put upon the bar and held lightly in position; we saw this tried by two riders, one of whom was riding a wheel the saddle of which was much too high, and the other had never tried the device before, still without much apparent effort they were able to ride the machines in a horse car track, although the surface was very wet and slippery. Another novelty was "The Little Beauty Bundle Carrier" and Child's Seat combined, for attachment to safety bicycle or tricycle.

We were also shown a number of forgings in which we were told that aluminum was used to such as extent as not to intertere with the good qualities of the steel proper, and at the same time greatly reducing the weight of same. It is said that these forgings can be produced at 22 cents per pound. If the claims of this company prove by actual practice to be well founded, then there is no doubt but that the weight of machines can be greatly reduced, even though it be by an extra cost to the rider.

Mr. A. MacOwen returned from Europe, arriving in Philadelphia on Friday. The cycling press was in every case but one represented by the editors: Prial of the Wheel, Miles of Referee, Goodman of the American Cyclist, Barrett of Bearings, MacOwen of Athlete and Fourdrinier of the WORLD.

The souvenir and official programme of the Show is a most creditable production. It contains thirty-six photographic reproductions of prominent League officials and men both local and national, views of the Philadelphia club house, principal racing men, events, etc. The letter press gives records, a list of Railroads that give free transportation, an article on cycling and the Philadelphia riding district, track rules, an article by I. B. Potter vs. the movement for better roads, short histories of the local clubs, and an excellent article on "Cycling and the A. C. C." The souvenir is a fine book, and the possesor can consider himself lucky.

All one need say to "Ariel" is "Featherstone's pneumatic" and a circus will ensue.

A PLEASANT AFFAIR.

MR. H. CROWTHER invited a party of gentlemen to take dinner with him at the A. C. S. N. club house last Saturday evening, and a most enjoyable time was had. The guests were S. A. Miles, Referee; G. K. Barrett, Bearings; F. P. Prial, Wheel; J. S. Kuen, Jr., E. A. Keith, H. A. Keith, C. W. Fourdrinier, BICYCLING WORLD and Mr. Robertson of Washington. The club house of the A. C. S. N. was inspected by the visitors, and certainly in matter of appointment and elegance compares with any athletic club in the country. Mr. Crowther did the honors of host in a most gracious way, and when the guests dispersed, they all voted him as being a "jolly good fellow."

AFTER THE SHOW.

SATURDAY NIGHT witnessed the closing of what is going to be a landmark in cycling in these United States—the first annual cycle show of the Associated Cycling Clubs of Philadelphia. Undertaken with some hesitancy, it was yet carried out with ardor and plenty of hard work, the committee in charge leaving no stone unturned to insure its success, Chairman Hare and Messrs. Bunnell, Van Deusen, Edwards and Kain being especially active, while Messrs. Collins and Crowther, who compiled the souvenir programme, crowded into the short space of time at their disposal all the "copy" they possibly could, although had their requests been more promptly answered much valuable matter and several handsome "phizes" would not have been omitted.

With Boston and Chicago at such a distance from this city it became necessary to mail "copy" in many cases before the exhibits were all made in order to reach the editors' hands before the various cycling journals went to press, and naturally some of the information published in last week's issues was to a certain extent incomplete, but the BICYCLING WORLD scored a point by having its issue with a very full report on hand by Friday morning.

As at the time the account of the show was mailed—not all of the exhibitors had their machines entirely arranged—it might not be out of place to briefly touch upon the omissions.

BANKER & CAMPBELL CO., Ltd.

The machines of this firm, which had been detained, came along and were placed on view later in the week, consisting of their new Meteors, somewhat on the lines of the Ormonde and fitted with their new web cushion tire, which ought to be a good one. They are using on these wheels an arched crank axle hanger, allowing the sprocket wheel to be placed between the bearings and a new oil cup and cam chain adjustment, with the Perry Humber pattern chain. They list at $135 with solid tires, $140 with cushion tires and $165 with pneumatics.

A. B. RICH & CO.

Samples did not arrive in time for the show. Mr. Rich informed your correspondent that they had already contracted with the Ames Mfg. Co. for an American Ormonde for next season's trade; they in common with many other of the leading importers, foreseeing the importance of being able to draw their supplies from the home country.

KEEFE & BECANNON

The Comet wheels, with cushion tires, at $115 and $120 in plain and striped finishes respectively (the pneumatic costing but $135), and the K. & B. Diamond at $100, with ball bearings throughout, were also received later in the week (cuts and description appeared last week), Mr. Becannon coming over with them. They should do a large business in these machines this year, as they are graceful and look strong and are sold at prices that speak for themselves. A special feature of the Comet is the double spoke—48 to each wheel.

THE JOHN WILKINSON CO.

Mr. C. S. Merrill, the well-known representative of this hustling Western concern, had on exhibition in Space 9 ten styles of Rovers by the time my report was well on its way to Boston.

They showed men's wheels from 28 pounds in weight up to 42 pounds, two ladies' wheels, 38 pounds and 40 pounds, and a combination safety for either gentleman or lady; these are fitted with any kind of tires, solid, cushion or pneumatic. A cheaper wheel to sell at $85 is shown with solid tires, $100 with cushions and $125 with pneumatics. One novelty they show is the Rover Sociable, a machine no wider than the common tricycle, but so constructed that two persons can ride it side by side.

Mr. Merrill's light safety is also on exhibition. This wheel weighs 34 pounds, is fitted with pneumatic tires and has been in hard service all this year without a break of any kind. This is the more creditable, as the machine has been ridden by nearly 1000 people in that time.

AMUSEMENTS.

All through the exhibition the visitors, both afternoon and evening, were regaled with what really was excellent music by the Franklin Band, which filled up the gaps between the various scheduled events. On Tuesday evening Master Clarence Worrell, the thirteen-year-old bugler of the Third Regiment, gave several solos, and then Maltby came on to astonish the spectators with his wonderful trick riding. In the first part of his performance he was dressed up as a ballet girl, his make-up deceiving more than one among the audience and in the second part he was enabled to introduce a new feature. Taking Master Worrell on his shoulders, he executed his numercus tricks, and, finally riding on one wheel, Clarence sounded the bugle calls, bringing down the house.

Wednesday evening, being athletic night, was given up to fencing, single-stick, sparring and wrestling contests. The West Philadelphia branch of the Y. M. C. A. gave an exhibition drill which was loudly applauded. M. C. Austin and R. H. Kain fenced and guarded with foil and single-stick. H. Wolff, champion lightweight, and J. J. Anderson, both A. C. S. N., wrestled, the former winning a fall in 8 minutes 5 seconds. H. G. De Burle and Wm. Grant sparred, and then the contest on the Sweeting home trainer began. These contests were run in mile heats, for a silver cup offered by Messrs. Simons Bros. and a medal by the committee, and as they were run on the stage in full view of the audience (the large dial arrangement of the home trainer, with its two long pointers, enabling every one to note the lead of each contestant as he passed the other and was re-passed in his turn) they attracted great interest, the club mates of each man cheering him on to victory—or defeat, as the case might be. The preliminary heats gradually sifted out the following men to compete in the final on Saturday night: Fitzgerald, Columbia Cyclers; Hazleton, Century, Douglass, Park Avenue; Draper, Park Avenue; and Bailey, Century. In the finals Fitzgerald beat out Hazleton, Douglass beat Draper, Bailey beat Kelly, Fitzgerald beat Douglass, and then the deciding contest took place between Bailey and Fitzgerald, the former winning after a pretty race in 1.33 4-5, thereby creating a new American record.

On both Thursday and Friday evenings Maltby again gave exhibitions—on the latter night dressing up as a dude and doing the greenhorn act to the delight of his audience. He must carry an iron-clad accident insurance policy or have the proverbial nine lives of a cat, for such apparently tremendous falls and headers as he experienced were calculated to render the more nervous among the spectators anything but comfortable. Thursday evening was further pieced out by the Oriole Glee Club, but the very poor acoustic properties of the hall interfered materially with their performance. Friday evening was military night and the Silver Spring Rifles (Post 8, Cadets,) in scarlet coats and huge bearskin grenadier caps went through the manual of arms, while Gatling Gun Battery, Company B, of Camden, gave an artillery drill. The home trainer finals were the only attractions on Saturday night, and at 11 o'clock the lights were turned down for the last time and the first annual A. C. C. Cycle Show was history.

The success of the exhibition was a surprise to all concerned. More main floor space was applied for than was at the Committee's disposal, while the hall was simply thronged every night, many of the visitors being from out of town. A large number of the non-cycling public were also on hand, and more than the usual interest in things cycular was evinced. The evenings had been divided up among the various clubs, and the consequent rivalry to secure the largest attendance was strong. Although Pennsylvania and Philadelphia nights were very stormy, over sixty of the former were in attendance, while the Park Avenue, Century, South End, Mount Vernon, Oxford, Wissahickon and Columbia clubs all turned out in force.

The official returns are not yet in, but a moderate estimate would place the attendance at about six to eight thousand. Of course this ensures the financial success of the undertaking, and it is certain that a handsome profit will be placed to the credit of the Associated Cycling Clubs.

A pleasant feature of the Show was the organization of the "Thirteen Club," an impromptu affair born in the Lafayette Hotel cafe on Friday midnight, the following names being enrolled: Messrs. Pttman (the "Vet" being President), Miles, Prial, Merrill, Beals, Bridgman, Banker, Gerry, Barrett, Wells, Merrihew, Rich and Coleman. Pittman's recollections of "'Appy Days!" will linger long in the memories of the merry crew, not to have been numbered among whom, is one of the regrets of "ARIEL."

A SUMMER VACATION AWHEEL IN THE HARZ MOUNTAINS.

BY WM. HEYNY, JR.

(Copyrighied.)

COMPARATIVELY little is known of the German Harz among the American travelling public. Of all the thousands who visit the continent of Europe annually few knowing ones ever come to the Harz to stay for the summer,* or a stray individual happens to lose himself and "discovers" the grand beauty of its mountains, the surpassing loveliness of its hidden valleys.

It was in this way that I, some years ago, happened upon the Harz for the first time.

I had proposed a trip up the Rhine, through Switzerland to Italy. While crossing through the Harz, known to me then only by the poet Heine's celebrated "Harzreise," I found scenery of such original character that I at once determined to stay.

The great rocks, clad in mystic, legendary hue, spun their charms around me, and I did not venture beyond the idyllic valleys of the Harz that summer.

Happy am I in the recollection of my daily roamings about the hidden paths of these verdant and beflowered valleys, and of my explorations of feudal castle ruins.

Since then I have revisited these lovely mountains again and again, and each time I sojourn in Europe awheel, the days spent in company of the clubs of Onedlinburg and of Nordhausen on the smooth roads, winding through mountain and vale, leave everlasting bright spots on my memory.

The Harz (originally "Hart, mountain-forest) is the most northerly link of the central German mountains. Its extreme length is, from Hettstadt in the east to Seesen on the western slope, about sixty miles, while the greatest breadth, between Blaukenburg on the northerly rise and Walkeuried in the south, is only twenty miles.

THE SELKE VALLEY.

Leaving Hamburg we wheel via Celle and Braunschweig to Ballenstedt. On the height above the town lies the castle of Ballenstedt, with its handsome park and magnificent view of the "Gegensteine" and the Harz mountains in the hazy distance.

Just below is the little town of Meisdorf at the head of the Selke Valley, the entre port of the Harz. After a short ride over the good post-road, skirting the Selke river, hemmed in on both sides by green clad mountains, the tower of old Falkenstein Castle, almost hidden by the trees, greets us from its lofty site, fully 1000 feet high. It is the scene of Burger's "Pfanerstochter von Taubenhain."

We leave our wheels at the inn "Zum Falken," and ascend, through the forest, by a short, steep footpath. The castle, built in the 12th century, is well preserved, and contains very interesting antiquities.

As we are led through the quaint apartments and halls, we also come upon the ancient little chapel, where once Luther preached.

From the tower a fine view of the valley and surroundings is had.

Descending, we cross the Selke over a rustic bridge and ride on, passing several mills along the valley. The road follows the silvery stream in its windings, crossing and recrossing it.

Now the valley widens, giving room to fields and meadows, where cattle are pasturing and vegetables cultivated.

We next dismount at the inn "Zur Burg Anhalt." A short climb, and we have before us the spare ruins of Anhalt Castle, destroyed in the 15th century, covered with grass and shrubbery. For a long time treasures were believed to be hidden under the massive old tower, but when recently dug up, there was only revealed a human skeleton.

Isn't it fortunate to find an inn or "Wirthshaus" at almost every ruin or place of interest, hereabouts! There is no fear of any of us starving; they will not even suffer you to feel dry, as the rich milk at this inn is a treat that we may indulge in.

Passing the old Selke Mill, we now wheel through the most charming part of the valley to Magdesprung. Situated in the midst of the fertile valley, this village is noted for its park-like surroundings, full of arbors and shady walks. On a precipitous rock above is shown an impression like a huge human foot. "And thereby hangs a tale."

A certain giant's daughter being pursued by her enraged parent, in order to escape him jumps from the opposite "Zettelberg" clear over the valley to this ledge, leaving her footmark deep in the rock. From this legend the place derived its name, "Magdesprung"—maiden's leap.

Near the "Trappe" stands a large iron cross dedicated to the memory of Duke Alexis.

The Iron Art Casting Works of Magdesprung are renowned, especially for their deer groups. An obelisk of cast iron, 70 feet high, was erected by the Duke Alexis, in honor of his dead father, who built the first iron works here.

Between Magdesprung and Alexisbad the scenery continues picturesque and ever changing. The road follows the Selke, passing little waterfalls and bowlders, partly hidden behind rich foliage which clothe the blocks with friendly green. And here, after a turn in the road we come upon a cluster of houses, mostly hotels, at about the highest point of the valley.

Alexisbad, favorably situated, is a little watering place, and boasts of a number of guests in the season. At hotel "Goldene Rose" the host greets us cap in hand. We enjoy a dinner of mountain-brook-trout, and then, lighting our cigarettes, take a stroll around.

Directly opposite the hotel on a rock up high is another cross of iron, though different in shape and not so large as the one at Magdesprung. As we stand and read the inscription on the slab at its base, the "Kurkapelle" (band) below intonates a selection from Wagner's "Tannhauser." Truly, the classical music, as put forth by this band, is not intended for a musical ear, but up to our lofty standpoint it sounds so solemn that I am stirred to my very soul; I feel as if in church. And are we not? Is not nature in all this, its grandest beauty, God's great temple? Here we see all His wonders around us, and we are moved to bend our knee before him.

Below, the visitors to the baths are promenading in the "Kurgarten" to the music of the band. Let us join them and go a little further down the valley, where brightly colored wild anemones and other flowers are blooming in the meadows. In the distance the many hued rocks rise perpendicularly from the road, and the foliage is constantly changing color under the last kisses of the parting sun.

The band programme is exhausted, the musicians have packed up their instruments and gone home. Slowly shadows gather around us. From the valley below white fog is rising. The promenade has become deserted, but still we linger to inhale the luxuriant air, balmy with the resinous odor of the pines. A delicious sensation overcomes me. Ah—that I could dream away thus forever!

In my room I open all the windows. Nothing disturbs the solemn tranquility of the night, nothing is heard but the chirping of thousands of cicades.

* I found an American colony near Harzburg.

A THESPIAN'S "EXPERIENCE."

DEAR E. M.—Actuated by a desire to emulate your prowess "on the wheel," as I have long admired your artistic qualities—I hied me this bright sunny morning to a "school of instruction" situate near the park.

Having paid in advance, for a long "trip ticket" (you make your dates ahead for these encounters, and they tear off a coupon each time you enter the ring), I was ushered into the hall. They took my clothes away from me and then I was introduced to the deadly thing. It looked quiet and collected enough as it leaned in a blase way against the wall. The dusky person who was in league with it, and acted as "Professor," buckled a wide strap around my waist and got a hold on a tail that hung down behind and made me feel like a Darwinian theory.

He commanded me to mount. I remembered who I was and quietly resenting the superior tone of this dusky person—I did so, with the easy, well-trained, Daly Theatre style. Its hatred then began to show itself. It laid down—that's all. It wouldn't stand up.

The dusky person grinned—and I began to feel that I was dreadfully young. Some times I fell on the floor and some times on the dusky person—but The Thing always fell on top.

Oh! E. M., why did you tell me in Boston that it was easy! ! !

After a while it got tired of laying down and tried a series of wild rushes, hoping to smash me against the wall. The d. p. then said I was improving. I murmured, "You flatter your poor Pauline."

At this The Thing began playing at circus. It commenced going in a circle—a huge iron pillar was in the centre and stood for the ring-master. Oh, E. M., shall I ever forget the wild, maddening rush through space as the fiend-possessed Thing tore around the ever narrowing circle—faster! faster! nearer! nearer!—now I hear the cries of the d. p., who has gotten out of harm's way and is yelling something—and yet faster we fly to the fatal finish of the frantic fiend—one last spurt, and then with a murderous rush right on to the ringmaster, it got on top of me and threw me, pinning me to the floor—then all was chaos.

* * * * * * * * *

After the druggist that was called in got through and handed me what was left of the book of court plaster—they helped me to a cab and I went home.

I have faced many ordeals, E. M. I have asked my manager for a good part—I have even played in Shakespeare in Daly's Theatre. But The Thing out-cyclones anything I've ever met.

Ah! E. M., you are a great creature.

I admire you as an actor and an artist.

I love you for the many domestic qualities you have, and as a man and a brother, but—I venerate, respect and adore you as the master of the thing.

Verily, E. M., you are a man of great parts.

Yours in arnica, FRED BOND.

To E. M. Holland, Esq., 'Cyclist.

THE ILLINOIS DIVISION MEET.

ROCKFORD has made formal application for the annual meet of the Illinois Division, L. A. W. The Rockford Wheelmen number 200—all active riders. The town has many miles of splendidly paved roads—is located on the banks of the Rock River—is surrounded by beautiful scenery, has a splendid picnic ground seven miles down the river, reached either by steamer or by wheel over good roads. A large hall has already been secured in which to hold the meet and enough representatives have pledged their vote to Rockford to assure its location there. The race course, which is very fast, has been secured. Rockford has a very fine band, which no doubt will be in attendance. The Rockford Cycling Club have pledged a large amount and one tradesman has pledged himself to raise $500. A special train will go down from Chicago by the I. C. C.; round trip, $2.50. Springfield is solid for Rockford and will go by special train. "WAYNE SCOTT."

THE "JUDGE" AND J. S. PRINCE MAKE UP.

Editor Bicycling World: I returned from the East to find genial Jack Prince with us and also to learn that my friend the "Judge" had been saying unkind things about him for which Jack felt indignant. Now a word or two for both.

The "Judge" and I are old friends, though it is only of late that I have known him as the "Judge." He is a warm-hearted, good fellow, honest and true; a little impulsive, and makes the mistake of acting quickly at times where a second thought would have prompted different feeling. This is a fact in the present case. Having the best interests of the Detroit wheelmen at heart, he honestly believed that to look after the National L. A. W. meet this year and make it the success we all hope to the Detroit wheelmen would have all that they would care to look after, and in his anxiety to keep them from going into too many things he gave credence and publicity to rumors which otherwise he would simply have passed over.

Mr. Prince has made many friends here and among them none who speak in higher terms than the "Judge." The race we think is a fair one and is attracting large crowds. Our wheelmen are all glad to have met Prince, and I feel sure that he will look back with many kindly feelings toward Detroit and her wheelmen. He and the "Judge" both very willingly agreed that your humble servant should arraign their differences, and in this I have tried to do justice to both, and I will say for the "Judge" that he and the wheelmen will welcome Prince and his friends should they see fit to visit Detroit in July. Yours, A. H. GRIFFITH ("Griff"),

President Detroit Wheelmen.

ORANGE WHEELMEN.

THE first reception of the Orange Wheelmen took place at Music Hall, Orange, on the evening of Wednesday, 4th inst. The affair was very full dress, about 60 couples being present, and one very noticeable feature of the evening was the unusually large proportion of pretty girls in the crowd. The supper tables were placed upon the stage with the curtain down, and at the proper time the curtain was raised with a very pretty effect and those present partook of an elegant repast prepared by the caterer to the "Orange 400."

The dancing hall was handsomely decorated with the club colors—orange and black, and numerous bicycles. The orchestra was concealed on a raised platform behind a stack of wheels of all the modern makes.

The toilettes of the ladies were elegant and the affair was voted by all present a great success socially, and it is said by the "insiders" to have been a success financially.

One of the features of the evening was an exhibition of the handsome club cup, presented by Dr. Grey and won last summer by Fa'dwin. "ESSEX."

HARVARD UNIVERSITY CYCLING ASSOCIATION.

Editor Bicycling World: I am glad to be able to correct your statement in a recent issue in regard to the decline of cycling at Harvard. Far from this, the prospects for a successful season were never better. The Cycling Association is hard at work training its team (which is more than double that of last year), and work has already been begun on the open spring meeting on Holmes' Field, which the association has decided to make an annual fixture. This meeting will this year be held May 23d, a fortnight later than last year, thus insuring a much better and larger list of entries. Special invitations will be sent to all the colleges and to the N. Y. A. C., M. A. C. and Berkeley A. C. to send men to compete.

The prizes will be of large intrinsic value, and at the same time appropriate to a meeting given by the best American University.

Yours truly, R. H. DAVIS.

THE SIX DAYS' RACE AT DETROIT.

THE forty-eight hour professional race at Detroit, Mich., closed last Saturday in a "Blaze of Glory," 2500 people being present to see the finish. At the tournament of the last day's race Reading and Ashinger were only a lap apart with Ashinger in the lead. Reading made desperate effort to catch the leader, but he could not come it. The score at the finish was: Ashinger, 733 miles, 5 laps; Reading, 733 miles, 4 laps; Martin, 659 miles; Schock, 605 miles.

The average miles per hour exceeded 15 1-4 on the week.

Ashinger's time is all the more remarkable because instead of riding a special racer he used a new Columbia light roadster and knocked out several with wheels built for racing. Reading used the special wheel recently presented by Col. Pope to Prince the last part of the week.

QUEENS COUNTY (N. Y.) WHEELMEN.

The members of the Queens County Wheelmen intend giving a smoker about the 20th of the month; if as enjoyable as the last held in February it will be a huge success.

Mr. H. Quartrup, a popular member of the club, about six feet tall, was induced to try on the tights of a member (Choate) about half a foot shorter and somewhat stouter, in the club house the other night, when the rest of the members stole his overcoat and trousers and walked out singing, "Where is my Wandering Boy To-night," leaving him alone near the fire. He stayed until about twelve or one o'clock, and then went home. The members are offering $5 apiece for pictures of Quartrup on his way home, with a high hat, cutaway coat and vest and Choate's tights. JACK.

ANENT CLUB TEAMS AND THE EXPENSE QUESTION.

Editor Bicycling World: At a recent meeting of the club to which I belong the proposition came up that a racing team be appointed, to be composed of five or more men, the members of same to be excused from their club dues. This caused considerable discussion, and when it came to a vote it was killed by a large majority. The members thought that racing men were altogether too apt to go into the sport for the "filthy lucre" there was in it and not for the honor of winning the races and the accompany prizes, and it was decided then and there that if any member of that club expected to "make anything out of it" he would have to look elsewhere.

The above shows up once more the pernicious custom created by the larger athletic clubs of remunerating the men representing them in various contests. If they do not pay them direct they have some underhand way of doing it, such as making them cash presents, excusing them from their legitimate dues, etc., which answers the same purpose. In a great many cases the club that puts up the largest inducement in the way of hard cash secured a champion in his particular line. I will venture to say that very many so called "club contests" are between teams only half of whose members are bona fide—in every sense of the word "club members," and the other half are hired (call it what they may) men to assist in the contest.

When wheelmen begin racing for the profit there is in it, in the same spirit that they would do a day's work of any kind, it seems to me they lower the sport and are no longer amateurs in the true sense of the word.

The above does not in any way conflict with paying a man's legitimate expenses when representing any team in a contest.

Yours truly, L. A. W., 15,718.

TRADE NOTES.

THE OVERMAN WHEEL CO.'S FACTORY.

(See Supplement for Illustrations.)

ON special invitation the editors of this paper lately visited Chicopee Falls to view the factory of the Overman Wheel Co. in its enlarged condition. A short drive from Springfield, through a driving rain storm, over excellent sleighing, brought us to Chicopee Falls, and the glow and warmth of an open fire in the private office of A. H. Overman, soon drove all memories of the driving storm without from our minds and put us in a condition for the survey of the factory itself.

We described some time ago the 1889 building, and now as then we were impressed with the one governing law of 'System" that pervades the whole establishment from roof to basement. The smallest details are governed by this same law from the most important to that of serving tea to the office employes at 4 o'clock every day.

The employes have been organized into a fire department, the details of which, as described by Mr. Overman, showed the same careful system. Each man in the factory in case of an alarm knows exactly what he has to do and where he has to go to do it. His place is assigned and his duty assigned, and he must not waver from his instructions as laid down.

The company have two complete and distinct supplies of their own. First, an artesian well with wind engine and steam engine for pumps; second, a reservoir under the ground for holding 30,000 gallons, besides the city water works which water is piped throughout the mill, having standing pipes on all floors with hose to reach any part.

The water tower shown in the illustration at the front corner of the 1890 addition has a tank containing forty tons of water for use in case of a fire. The buildings, however, are practically fireproof. All floors are triplicate, with heavy asbestos boards between. All posts and beams are covered first with asbestos and then with lock-seamed tin. Buildings are divided up by fire walls with fireproof doors, and the staircases and elevator holes are closed automatically in case of fire. The factory is supplied with electrical apparatus, so arranged that pressure on each boiler is indicated and written on a record dial in the main office, showing pressure at all hours, day night. Similar devices are arranged to show temperature in each enamelling oven. Also to show stage of water in tower water tank. These devices show the state of things at the tank, oven or boiler. besides indicating it in the office on a dial which may be at all times seen on the walls. The written dials show condition for one month. An alarm bell in each case signals the proper authorities in case of extreme points being reached at any station.

An electrical clock shows at all times where the watchmen are.

A master clock in the office furnishes an electrical signal to the engineer for blowing the whistle, closing doors, etc., the clock being a complete programme clock for the transactions in the factory and giving electric time in all departments.

There are 30 telegraphic stations in the mill where messages can be sent to the central station in the superintendent's office, all of which is connected with the president's office. To describe the detail of manufacture is not our province, and indeed, as we have said many times before, to do so would take pages of matter of the driest reading and really would be understood by few. It is sufficient to state the cardinal facts that the plant is entirely of the very highest quality and contains many machines specially designed and built for making parts of these highest grade wheels, indeed nothing but their high grade wheels being made in this factory; their line of lower grade wheels and every part thereof being made outside of the Overman Wheel Co.'s factory.

Every part of their high grade wheels are made in the factory barring the rubber tires. The class of employes is of the highest quality only, a very few being under twenty years of age. There is no contract work done in the mill, all hands being paid on time basis, the requisite being excellence in results and not quantity.

The inspection system is most thorough, having one principal inspection room in charge of chief inspectors, with sub-inspectors located in several rooms in various departments, all connected by telegraphic wires.

The system of gauges is most perfect, being in triplicate, standard, inspection and working.

All tools, gauges and fixtures are kept in fire proof vault on separate foundation outside of the main building.

There are two men's dressing rooms, one in the '89 building where there are accomodations for 400 men, giving each one a separate hook and number, and separate stream of warm water, soap, etc.; in the '90 building there is one dressing for 500 men with same accomodations.

Lighting is by electricity. They make their own electric lights, having a plant for 1000 16 candle power lamps.

They also have their own illuminating gas works, making gas for lighting which they hold in reserve.

Coal is not burned except in an emergency.

The electric plating dynamo is made by the Eddy Electric Mfg. Co., and the Overman Company is informed by the makers of this dynamo that it is the largest one of which they have any knowledge.

The Company have a triplicate fuel plant, burning gas for brazing purposes, a complete oil plant and coal plant, it being possible to use either in all principal places throughout the factory.

They have storage capacity buried underneath the ground for seven cars of oil, and a pipe line to the railroad and a pumping station for pumping the oil into the yard.

In the forge shops the smallest drop hammers aae 1000 pounds, the largest 2180 pounds.

The greatest care is shown in keeping the factory clean and in shipshape, and everything looks as neat as a pin. The fittings and arrangement of the offices are the best that skill and good judgement can devise, and they have a splendid vault for the safe keeping of books and records. The President's room is a cosy, nay, an elegant apartment, and though the esthetic taste has been satisfied, nothing has been sacrificed to utility and business requirements. A good idea of the size of the factory can be had from the engraving, although there are quite a number of buildings, wings, etc., in the rear of the 1889 building which cannot be shown in an engraving such as the one presented.

In the 1890 addition one of the top floors is fitted up as a sort of riding school. All sorts of surfaces are laid down on the floor over which machines can be tested. This is an excellent idea, as when the roads themselves are unrideable during the fall, winter and spring, machines can have tests which otherwise would be impossible.

In all its equipments, plant and arrangement of the vast detail, the Overman Wheel Co.'s factory presents an establishment that can and does turn out the highest grade of wheels. Nothing short of the right thing in manufacture, material and method suits this firm.

MESSRS. MCDANIEL AND MERRIHEW CYCLE CO., in conjunction with Messrs. C. W. Dalsen & Co., are making a leader of the Swift Safeties. The Swifts have the reputation of giving entire satisfaction to the seller as well as the buyer.

MR. A. O. VERY, 173 Tremont street, Boston, will again handle the Union cycles the coming season for New England territory and the Warwick Perfection safety for Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Eastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Mr. Very is also importing a line of machines which will be known as the "Standards," consisting of a diamond frame and a lady's safety, which will be placed on the market at $85. In addition to these he will also handle a line of lower priced machines, which will be placed on the market at $40, $65 and $80, all being fitted with ball bearings. These will be known as the Reindeers. Mr. Very now has the Warwick and Union in stock and invites the public to call and examine them. Mr. E. P. J. Morton, well known in the trade in New England, will look after the bicycle interest for Mr. Very.

EDW. K. TRYON, JR., & CO.

MR. FRANK G. SILVERS, who has for some time been connected with the above well known house, informs us that arrangements have been made to meet the increased demand for New Mail and Lovell Safety bicycles, for which they are agents. He is of the opinion that the bicycle trade for 1891 will be something unprecedented, as inquiries are being received from all over the country.

About March 1st Messrs. E. K. Tryon, Jr., & Co. will issue their illustrated Athletic Catalogue, which will cover all goods and of the best styles that can be enumerated under this heading; being agents for A. J. Reach & Co.'s Base Ball goods, Wright & Ditson Tennis goods and the Narragansett Machine Co.'s goods, the completeness of these departments is secured, but Mr. Silvers prefers talking about his own department, namely bicycles, and claims that the experience of the house in this connection, with his own practical work and knowledge of the bicycle business, insures good service and satisfaction to those desiring goods in this line. Going into the particulars Mr. Silvers informs us that their first style of high grade wheel will be the "New Mail," which will be fitted with solid or cushioned tires as may be preferred. This style will sell for $135. The No. 2 New Mail will have the handsome model Diamond frame, brazed at all points, tangent spokes, half nickel, straight front fork, low handle bars, ball bearing, plunger brake and the favorite Garford saddle; all parts interchangeable, fitted with cushion tires; this wheel will sell at $100.

The next wheel they will push is a beautiful Lady's wheel, which will fill a long felt want; this wheel is also fitted with tangent spokes, handle bars curved back to the side, cushion tires, all ball bearing, and will have the lady's Garford saddle; price $100. Mr. Silvers informs us that probably one of the most popular wheels they will handle will be the well known Lovell Diamond Safety.

In addition to the above they will also have the Eclipse Safety bicycle, which is one of the curiosities of bicycle manufacturing, being made entirely of a new material not previously used in the manufacture of bicycles, aluminum bronze and Bessemer steel being the material used. Both front and rear wheels will have tangent spokes, ball bearing all over, plunger brake, all drawn Bessemer steel rods, nickel plated frame with enameled mud guards, etc.; this wheel will sell for $100.

Mr. Silvers further informs us that in addition to the above wheels, they will have a large line of juvenile wheels, ranging in price from the best quality ball bearing at $35 down to $15 each according to the size and quality. Their stock will also include tricycles and velocipedes. The bicycle sundry line will be largely increased to cover every want.

We would suggest to our Philadelphia readers to give Mr. Silvers a call if in want of a good bicycle or accessories.

"SWIFT" MODEL A.

THE "Swift" Model A for 1891, as above shown, is built to meet the growing demand for a light, yet strong wheel. The Coventry Machinists' Co., offer this model with either 28 or 30 inch wheels, and one inch tire if so desired. The "Swift" Model A with solid tires weighs 33 pounds, and with cushion 35 pounds. It is guaranteed to stand 200 pounds. This company have always studied simplicity, and the few nuts and bolts on the Model A is very noticeable. Fitted with the forged roller chain and direct butted spoke, which are warranted not to break by fair usage, we believe it will meet with universal approval and a large demand.

A NEAT OIL CAN.

AS CARRIED WHILE RIDING

WHAT wheelman has not suffered from the leaking of his oil can? What wheelman has not allowed his wheel to run dry because he didn't want the bother of exhuming his oil can from the tool bag? Well here is something that cannot leak, and is in the very handiest position for instant use. There you have the main advantages of the Cycle Vertical Oil Can Carrier. The cut will show the little arrangement which is to be used in connection with the "Cushman & Denison Perfect Oiler." Here are some other points: It cannot rattle; it weighs but one ounce; it can be attached to any wheel, and is fitted to the steering post or saddle post as desired, all you have to do is to name diameter of the rod you wish it attached to; it costs only 50 cents post paid, or if you wish the holder and Cushman & Denison Perfect Oiler then $1.00 does the business.

W. S. MALTBY, "the world famed scientific and character cyclist" seems to be in constant demand with cycling and athletic clubs to give his marvellous and refined entertainments. His performances last week at the Cycle Show in Philadelphia were a revelation to the wheelmen (as the Daily Item put it.) Cycling or athletic clubs desiring a first class and novel evening's entertainment, should write at once for open dates. Address W. S. Maltby, Wallingford, Conn.

MR. S. GOLDER of Humber & Co. has appointed the Standard Cycle Co. of Buffalo, agents for Northern Ohio. For particulars as to territory of the Standard Co. see Humber's advertisement in this week's issue.

MR. IRVINE MILLER, son of the late Justice Miller of the United States Supreme bench, and one of the most promising patent attorneys of Chicago, has been engaged to manage the legal department of the Germully & Jeffery Mfg. Co. and will devote his attention to that firm's patent affairs. G. & J., by the way, are after a number of infringers with a sharp stick.

BOTH the lamp and leather-working departments of the Gormully & Jeffery Co. have been enlarged and several new pieces of machinery added. The changes also give the bicycle assembly room more floor space. A large ventilating fan has been placed in the polishing room and the offices have been freshened up with new paper and paint.

E. M. KNAPP, the well-known bicycle rider of St. Louis, has quit the drug business and has entered the employ of the St. Louis Wheel Co. He will represent the above firm on the road. Their leading wheels are the Paragon, Iroquois, Rover and Hickory. Illustrated catalogue free to all that write.

THE Coventry Machinists' Co. show a fine full nickeled, new pattern spring frame Swift fitted with cushion tires in their window, which attracts much attention. We understand Mr. J. S. Roler of Nashville, Tenn., is to be the proud possessor.

Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co.,
Chicago, Ills.

Gentlemen:---

As I am desirous of securing a racer of your manufacture, I take the liberty to address you and ascertain on what terms I can secure the same.

As to my record, will say that I won the 100 mile Amateur Championship of Nebraska November 22nd last, and one month later won the professional championship for the same distance, over Edward Reading and Frank Schill.

In the six day race, three hours per day, which was run off during the week of January 26th, I finished second, both the leader and myself breaking the world's record for this time, which was 304 miles, he covering 308.4, and myself 308.3.

In this contest I was thrown from my wheel the first night, losing a a lap, barring which my chances for securing first place were first class.

In a 50 mile race, ran the 7th of this month, I finished second, it first being declared a tie, but afterwards given to Edward Reading.

In all these contests my mount was a Light Roadster Champion, and I liked it so well that I write you for the object named above.

Hoping that you may be able to quote favorable terms, I am,

Very respectfully,

William Martin.

Then we might also mention that at the Galveston (Texas) meet on Feb'y 10th, "Americans" captured the cream of the prizes, the Standard Rambler taking the half and one mile safety events, and the American Light Champion the one mile ordinary, while out here in Chicago on the 28th a Cushioned Rambler romped away with the two miles handicap at the Second Regiment games—and both pneumatics and solids were there, too.

ARTHUR W. ROBINSON, C. C.

Massachusetts Division.

There will be a meeting of the Board of Officers at Hotel Clarendon on Saturday evening, March 21, at 8 o'clock. Business of importance will be presented, and a large attendance is requested. Fraternally,

ARTHUR W. ROBINSON, C. C.

Massachusetts Division L. A. W.

Important.

The Committee on Roads and Bridges of the Massachusetts Legislature will give a hearing on Tuesday, March 17, at 10 A. M., at the State House, to parties interested in the order asking for the appointment of a Commissioner of Highways, and it is hoped that every member of this Division will take an active personal interest in the matter, and not only urge their Senators and Representatives to favor the bill, but will also have their locality well represented at the hearing.

The duties of the proposed Commissioner will be in brief: "To inspect the roads and bridges, give advice in regard to road building and collect statistics."

He will in no way interfere but will assist local Commissioners, Surveyors of the Highways or Superintendents, acting in conjunction with them when requested.

There is a growing sentiment throughout the State in favor of better roads, and a large attendance at the State House on March 17 will demonstrate conclusively the popularity of the measure and undoubtedly result in favorable legislation. Fraternally,

Elizabeth, N. J., March 7, 1891.

New Hampshire.

In response to a very cordial invitation from the State Capitol Wheelmen of Concord to hold the annual meet of this Division at their city and as their guests, I hereby appoint Thursday, June 18th, as the day on which to hold said meet.

I earnest y hope every member will make it a point to be present this year and thus help to the general success.

The wheelmen of Concord will spare no pains to make our visit an enjoyable one. I wish to take this time to call your attention to the large increase in membership this Division has sustained since the first of the year. We have nearly doubled the same, now numbering over 200. I am very anxious to see another hundred added before the meet. I think this can be done by persistent effort. An additional hundred would add materially to the success of this meet. We have the riders and we must do our very best work and induce them to join. There are but two remaining weeks in which to join for $1.50. After April 1st the cost is $2. Do your best for the next two weeks, but after that date please don't forget that the L. A. W. is doing business at the old stand, and that we are always looking for new members.

Watch these columns for more information regarding the meet, which will be given as soon as arrangements are perfected.

Hoping to see you all in June, I remain,

Yours fraternally,

F. A. MCMASTER, Chief Consul.

Board of Officers, Wisconsin Division.

Meeting was called to order by Chief Consul W. L. Simonds at 8 o'clock P. M., March 6th. There were present besides the Chief Consul, Secretary Treasurer Frank J. Morawetz, Local Consuls B. T. Higgins of Oshkosh, W. J. Casey of Green Bay, Henry P. Andrae of Milwaukee, Harry J. Warner of Madison, and Fred W. Hunt, representing the Oshkosh Wheelmen.

An amendment was offered and accepted to Article VI. of By Laws, making it read as follows: The nominations of officers made at annual meeting shall be published in L. A. W. BULLETIN for four weeks before election, and that a committee be appointed to count the ballots received by the Secretary up to the 15th day of November, 12 M.

Invitations to hold annual meet were extended by the cities of Madison, Oshkosh and Green Bay. After listening to the different speakers Chief Consul Simonds declared Green Bay the place for the annual gathering of this Division, the date of the meet to be decided on by members of the entertaining club, and to be published in the BULLETIN.

It was decided to appropriate the sum of $40 to defray the expense of two racing men (one mile safety and one mile ordinary championships) at next National Race meet.

A recommendation was made that an official handicapper be appointed in our State, as there was a good deal of dissatisfaction with the work of last year's occupant of that position.

On motion to adjourn the meeting was declared closed. Fraternally, FRANK J. MORAWETZ, Milwaukee, March 7, 1891. Sec.-Treas.

Pennsylvania Division.

I have accepted on behalf of the Division the invitation of the Maryland Division to join in the meet at Hagerstown, Md., on the 2d, 3d and 4th of July next.

A pleasant and agreeable vacation party is promised, and will doubtless be thoroughly enjoyed. A large delegation should attend. SAMUEL A. BOYLE,
Chief Consul Penn. Division.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 3, 1891.

WARWICK CYCLE MFG. CO.,

Send for Catalogue. SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

A poor country congregation recently found itself badly in want of hymn-books. The clergyman applied to a Boston firm and asked to be supplied at the lowest church rates. The firm replied that on condition the hymn-books contained certain advertisements the congregation should have them for nothing. Necessity knows no law, and the minister sorrowfully complied, thinking to himself that when the advertisements came they could be removed from the leaves. The hymn-books arrived and—joy of joys—they contained no interleaved advertisements. At the thanksgiving service the good parson joyously gave out the Christmas hymn, and the congregation sung the first verse with fervor. When they reached the last line they found that this was what they had been singing:

"Hark! the herald angels sing,
Williams' pills are just the thing;
Peace on earth and mercy mild,
Two for man and one for child."

This has nothing to do with the PARAGON, We don't have to advertise that way.

CYCLING

FOR

Health and Pleasure.

CHAPTER VI.

The safety is responsible, in no small degree, for the poor form and careless riding of so many wheelmen; because it is so easy to learn and to ride, that the majority are indifferent as to how they ride. If one dared to hint that the majority are ignorant of how to ride properly, he might be howled down; but then, would it be any less true? In no one point is poor riding more manifest than in pedalling, and no single feature of riding receives less attention. Everything, in cycling, depends upon the sort of connection a rider makes with his wheel, the connecting points being pedals and feet, hence the use of foot and ankle is of the highest importance. The why, the wherefore and the how are exhaustively considered, with diagram, in the chapter on Correct Pedalling.

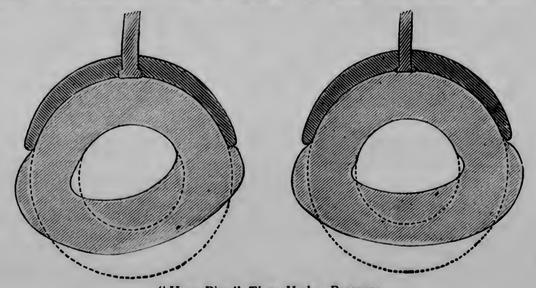
VICTOR CUSHION TIRES.

From U. S. Patent to A. H. Overman, Dated April 14, '85, we copy:

Victor Cushion Tire.

Victor Cushion Tire Under Pressure.



"The tire is made with an interior open space located near and following its inner periphery, ... the location of an interior open space near the periphery of the tire renders the inherent elasticity of such portion available by providing a space into which it can be displaced under pressure, or impact upon the outer periphery of the tire . . . . . thus, by providing the tire with an interior open space in accordance with my invention, its whole is made to cushion with obvious improvement in respect to its qualities for riding and service."

NOTE.—This invention was made in 1884, patented in 1885, has been experimented with ever since, and now the Victor Cushion Tire is presented as the result of such experimenting.

It is very amusing to see our competitors copy the words "cushion tire" from us, and at the same time offer a common thick-walled "hose pipe," which they undertake to describe with the name "cushion tire."

As we first used the name cushion tire, we are entitled to define it. As noted in copy from our patent of '85, it relates to tires made with a space on the inner side, and it does not relate to "hose pipes" made with holes in the middle. The Victor Cushion Tire under pressure is shown in cut. Also, note the "hose pipe tire" under pressure.

The rubber below the edges of the rims is dead weight, and will, as shown by experience, cut off on the edges of the rim. The "hose pipe tire" rides dead, heavy. The Victor Cushion Tire has jump in it.

"Hose Pipe" Tires Under Pressure.

WE "TRY THE EXPERIMENTS."

OVERMAN WHEEL CO.,

P. S. We don't wonder that makers who supply "hose pipe tires" say they do not recommend them, and are afraid to warrant them; it would take a brave man to do either.

THE PHILADELPHIA SHOW.

As I have already stated in the Wheel, I was one of the "prominent" wheelmen at the incipient Stanley Show recently held in Philadelphia. In fact I was rather more prominent than was pleasant. Several of the more observing ones noticed an unwonted air of solemnity where once I wore only a chronic smile.

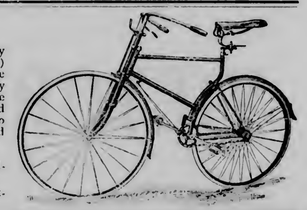
Some cheap discussion arose among the "trade" as to the probable cause of the too obvious sadness, some thought it was dyspepsia, others said it must be a disordered liver, while still others who had "been there" said "there is but one thing which could make a man look like that, and that is financial trouble."

It was a "draw," all were right. Some time ago I had a private mark sewed into my new coat, so that I might tell it from the old one, and in my hurry to get away in the dim twilight "between two days," I made a mistake and wore the old coat; this also helped to make me appear to a disadvantage.

The exhibit of "old wooden" machines was an interesting study. "Ever and anon" the sentimental visitor would note aloud, "the great progress that had been made from those ancient wooden concerns down to the magnificent specimens of steel architecture which are to be seen here to-day." Then they would proceed to admire the numerous kinds of springs and joints and tires by which the "steel architect" is vainly trying to get into his "magnificent specimens" the very quality which was, or might have been, inherent in those despised "wooden crocks" of the long ago.

But you say they weren't a success. Of course not Say! do you remember when everybody wore two button vests? Oh! You don't? Well, never mind, if you wasn't born then, I remember it. Well, it was necessary at that time to have a shirt bosom long enough to close up the gap. Now, except in the case of McAllister uniforms, vests are worn buttoned well up. How about shirt bosoms? I'll chance two dollars that you have got one on this minute that is annoying your stomach at least a foot below where there is any excuse for it.

"Oh! Ye generation of Infidels," how long will it take you to learn that nothing, outside of politics, is intrinsically bad? And that nothing (not even Hickory Bicycles) is entirely beyond criticism? There was a time when the Ladies' Tricycle, that barbarous relict which lives only in the memory of a dim and obscure past, was not thought to be at all correct unless the wheels reached above the rider's head.

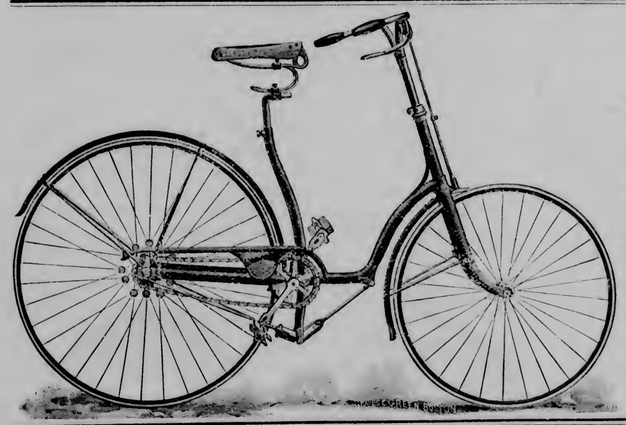


Now the most elegant ladies' safety has 31 in. rear and 25 in. front wheels, and the spokes are not "tied tangent" either.

Certain qualities are needed in a 60-inch wheel, therefore, it is argued, that such things must be in any sized wheel; then it is discovered that it was all a mistake, and, pell mell, like a flock of hysterical sheep, everybody goes over the fence to the other extreme, and waits there for the next wind to blow them where it will. "When it isn't hoops it's bustles," and now they have a pneumatic bustle, which I should think would be especially desirable on icy sidewalks, and besides it must be pleasant for a young lady to have something with her that is liable to "pop" at any moment. (It isn't the Atwater pneumatic.) There is a lesson to be learned from those old wooden machines. "What tales of woe their silence tells." I don't say that the makers of steel machines will wake up some morning and find crepe on their doors, but I do believe that the time will come when the "Lion and the Whangdoodle" will lie down together and seriously consider the subject of Hickory Wheels.

Yours,
STERLING ELLIOTT,
Newton, Mass.

P. S. Until further notice.



A CONSTANT AND UNTIRING EFFORT.

Almost every manufacturer of Bicycles today is exerting himself to produce a wheel of light weight and easy running qualities without sacrificing strength and durability. That the "Ormonde" (highest grade, English make) cushion, pneumatic or solid-tired safeties have distanced all competitors is no longer a doubt. They are built on the American interchangeable plan, and on an entirely new principle of lapping and brazing the joints, thus doing away with all superfluous weight, and producing a safety 12 to 15 pounds lighter than the great majority of high grade wheels on the market at the present time. The ideal safety of today is the "Ormonde," as it is light, strong and durable, and also combines many other new features. If you wish "to be in it" next season, and not be obliged to purchase a new wheel to keep up with the times in 1892, buy a light wheel now (the Ormonde Highest Grade) and save this expense. Good territory open for dealers and agents. Write for terms and further description.

"Seeing is Believing."

"But to see her was to love her,
Love but her and love forever."—BURNS.

Thus do poet and proverb attest the value of sight, but there are exceptions to all rules, and the only perfect way to learn whether or not the "Sylph" three-part spring frame is perfect is to ride it. The new version is "riding is believing."

Theoretically, any sort of a spring will smooth the road, but any mechanic knows that theory may sound well, but facts are what we have to deal with, and the facts are that many spring devices are faulty, slow on the race track, hard in sand, unsteady in ruts, bad coasters and worse hill-climbers. These faults are not found in the "Sylph." There is no fore and aft, sidewise or twisting motion. There is the easiest kind of a vertical motion which both smooths the road and saves the nerves and makes the "Sylph" admittedly, "the easiest running wheel we ever rode."

Rouse-Duryea Cycle Co.,
9 G Street, Peoria, Ill.

FUNNY, AINT IT?

Mr. Public and Mrs. People wish to ride a wheel, and so start on a tour of investigation. They call on Mr. Hope and his emissaries, and are told that the Colom is the only wheel made, all others are not "in it." That's funny. Then they call on Mr. Underman and his accomplices, and there they are informed that the Anti-vibrator frame is the best of all. For the purpose of further investigation they call on Mr. Haul and his supes, and all explain why "we are the people" and the Gatford and Sunset are way off. Notwithstanding that Mr. P. and Mrs. P. were told by the best authorities that the Gatford won more prizes in '90 than all others, and were never known to break, and the Sunset are introduced in America by the same firm, Sandbank & Hanford, who so ably handled the Gatford in '90. That seems very strange to Mrs. P. and Mr. P. But for fear that there may be some bile in this information they decide to call on Mr. Foss, and here they get a great reception, and are told that the only iron bound tyred Dinger is the easiest riding wheel. Horror of horrors, can this be true and the balloon-tyred Gatford still a leader? What yarns! Where shall we get the truth? A happy thought strikes them. Why not call on Sandbank & Hanford? They do so at once. Here they are told the truth: all wheels have some good points even a mule or a broncho pony, they can kick; but the ne plus ultra is the Gatford and Sunset, lighter, stronger, faster, easier riding than any other, and they got there in '90, and in '91 must do the same, only better. This seems reasonable, and they buy a Catford and Sunbeam of

Be patient, boys, the Pneumatics are coming through. You will get all you want three weeks from now. Twenty goes out this week. Twenty next week, and the week following one hundred; after that time from four to six hundred every week and more if you need them. They will be beauties, and will give you more speed and comfort than you can imagine. This is what Mr. E. R. Shipton, Editor of the C. T. C. Gazette, says of the pneumatic tire:

"As now manufactured, the pneumatic tire gives us no more anxiety than the solid one, while the increase in comfort and the luxurious riding is simply indescribable. The tires upon this, our latest machine, do not require re-inflating more than once a week under normal conditions, and the labor required is too trifling to be worthy of consideration."

C. W. FOURDRINIER. J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 20 MARCH, 1891.

THE worthy editor of our New York contemporary again dips into the realms of fancy, and utterly ignores facts when he accuses the editor of this paper of "not daring" to express an opinion as to results of League elections and the probable successful candidates. If the editor of our esteemed contemporary will kindly peruse our editorials in the numbers of this paper immediately preceding the election at Washington he will find that we "dared" name Mr. Dunn and Dr. Brown as being sure of election, and that the chances were in favor of Maj. Burdett as against Mr. Mott. Words of mouth may be hard to prove after being spoken, but cold, cold type is a witness that cannot be questioned. Please study and stick to facts brother P.

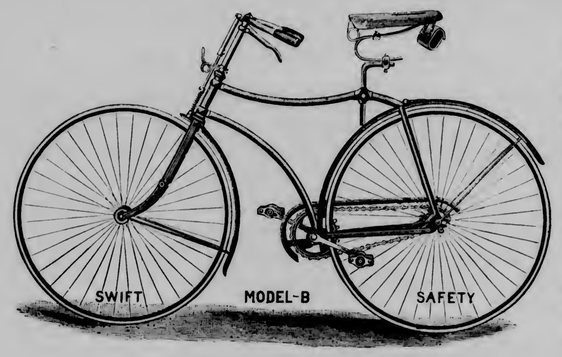
GOOD news comes to us from Utica, N. Y., that at the meeting of the Central New York Farmers' Club held at that place, the question of the Richardson Bill for Roads Improvement now before the New York State Legislature was fully discussed, and the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this club that the bill now before the Legislature for the making and maintaining State roads and known as the Richardson Bill, ought to become a law; or that some law of a similar purport ought to be passed.

WE have already briefly alluded to the provisions of the "Richardson Bill," but a short review of same will not be amiss right here. It provides for the raising of $10 000,000 to be expended in the making and improvement of roads outside of cities and incorporated villages. The matter is to be submitted to the vote of the people at the next general election, according to the provisions of the bill. Among the other provisions are that there shall be a Board of Commissioners composed of two members from each of the political parties casting the highest number of ballots at the general election preceding the passage of the bill. The members of the Board are to serve without compensation, but when discharging their duties their expenses shall be defrayed by the State. The aggregate salaries of all officers shall be $5000 annually.

IN the matter of making State roads the State engineer and surveyor shall determine the character and kind of road to be constructed under this act, subject to the approval of the commissioners, who shall in turn advertise for the lowest bidder for performing the work. The road is to be made to best subserve the interests of the public. The inhabitants of any county shall largely determine where they shall have the roads built. In the construction of the roads provided for in the bill the labor of convicts, paupers and tramps, which are now supported at the county's expense, will be used.

MR. SWEET, one of the speakers who strongly favored the support of the Richardson Bill, called attention to the fact that the estimated unassessed personal property in the State of New York is something like $2,000,000,000! an amount almost equal to that of the entire taxed property. "Here is a state of things, here's a howdy do." There is not a State but what is somewhat in the same condition through the laws of non-liability to taxation and false returns, but we had no idea that the amount was so large.



IF a large proportion of this immense sum was made taxable, or a small tax placed on the whole amount to be applied for the purpose of road building, it would relieve the farmer and country tradesman from a burden they should not be called on to bear unassisted by moneyed institutions and "false returners." The Savings Banks interest in the State would fight the attempt to place a tax on property which now is exempted, but the question is which is the greater evil, which is the equitable method?

IN a suit before the Supreme Court in and for Duchess County, N. Y., brought by Geo. M. Armstrong vs. Edgar S. Lockwood, to recover damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained by plaintiff by reason of his being run down by defendant while riding a bicycle, some interesting charges were made by Justice J. F. Barnard to the jury.

AFTER stating the fact that a bicycle was a vehicle and entitled to the same rights and privileges as other carriages, and were not allowed the use of the sidewalks, he said:

"* * * You cannot find a verdict against this man because he was in the wrong place. This case goes to you as one of personal negligence on the part of defendant. * * * The bicycle man was in a place where the city authorities said he must not go, but you have no right to consider that. You have to consider the principle on which this action rests violated before you can give a verdict against the defendant. * * * The principle of travel on the highways is that everybody is bound to anticipate possible danger and to guard against it, and any violation of that principle either upon the part of the plaintiff or defendant is of vital importance in this suit. If the defendant was in the wrong place and didn't hit this man, no action, because no injury was inflicted. If he was in the wrong place and acted wisely and prudently, guarding against possible danger to the extent that a wise man should, there is no action, although he was in the wrong place. You are to say whether this bicycle man, being in the wrong place, was guilty of neglect of duty. Any omission to foresee danger and any omission to do what a prudent man would do to prevent this accident or guard against it would be negligence on his part, and that is where he is to be held liable, if at all."

BOSTON, 20 MARCH, 1891.

THE worthy editor of our New York contemporary again dips into the realms of fancy, and utterly ignores facts when he accuses the editor of this paper of "not daring" to express an opinion as to results of League elections and the probable successful candidates. If the editor of our esteemed contemporary will kindly peruse our editorials in the numbers of this paper immediately preceding the election at Washington he will find that we "dared" name Mr. Dunn and Dr. Brown as being sure of election, and that the chances were in favor of Maj. Burdett as against Mr. Mott. Words of mouth may be hard to prove after being spoken, but cold, cold type is a witness that cannot be questioned. Please study and stick to facts brother P.

GOOD news comes to us from Utica, N. Y., that at the meeting of the Central New York Farmers' Club held at that place, the question of the Richardson Bill for Roads Improvement now before the New York State Legislature was fully discussed, and the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this club that the bill now before the Legislature for the making and maintaining State roads and known as the Richardson Bill, ought to become a law; or that some law of a similar purport ought to be passed.

WE have already briefly alluded to the provisions of the "Richardson Bill," but a short review of same will not be amiss right here. It provides for the raising of $10 000,000 to be expended in the making and improvement of roads outside of cities and incorporated villages. The matter is to be submitted to the vote of the people at the next general election, according to the provisions of the bill. Among the other provisions are that there shall be a Board of Commissioners composed of two members from each of the political parties casting the highest number of ballots at the general election preceding the passage of the bill. The members of the Board are to serve without compensation, but when discharging their duties their expenses shall be defrayed by the State. The aggregate salaries of all officers shall be $5000 annually.

IN the matter of making State roads the State engineer and surveyor shall determine the character and kind of road to be constructed under this act, subject to the approval of the commissioners, who shall in turn advertise for the lowest bidder for performing the work. The road is to be made to best subserve the interests of the public. The inhabitants of any county shall largely determine where they shall have the roads built. In the construction of the roads provided for in the bill the labor of convicts, paupers and tramps, which are now supported at the county's expense, will be used.

MR. SWEET, one of the speakers who strongly favored the support of the Richardson Bill, called attention to the fact that the estimated unassessed personal property in the State of New York is something like $2,000,000,000! an amount almost equal to that of the entire taxed property. "Here is a state of things, here's a howdy do." There is not a State but what is somewhat in the same condition through the laws of non-liability to taxation and false returns, but we had no idea that the amount was so large.

IF a large proportion of this immense sum was made taxable, or a small tax placed on the whole amount to be applied for the purpose of road building, it would relieve the farmer and country tradesman from a burden they should not be called on to bear unassisted by moneyed institutions and "false returners." The Savings Banks interest in the State would fight the attempt to place a tax on property which now is exempted, but the question is which is the greater evil, which is the equitable method?

IN a suit before the Supreme Court in and for Duchess County, N. Y., brought by Geo. M. Armstrong vs. Edgar S. Lockwood, to recover damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained by plaintiff by reason of his being run down by defendant while riding a bicycle, some interesting charges were made by Justice J. F. Barnard to the jury.

AFTER stating the fact that a bicycle was a vehicle and entitled to the same rights and privileges as other carriages, and were not allowed the use of the sidewalks, he said:

"* * * You cannot find a verdict against this man because he was in the wrong place. This case goes to you as one of personal negligence on the part of defendant. * * * The bicycle man was in a place where the city authorities said he must not go, but you have no right to consider that. You have to consider the principle on which this action rests violated before you can give a verdict against the defendant. * * * The principle of travel on the highways is that everybody is bound to anticipate possible danger and to guard against it, and any violation of that principle either upon the part of the plaintiff or defendant is of vital importance in this suit. If the defendant was in the wrong place and didn't hit this man, no action, because no injury was inflicted. If he was in the wrong place and acted wisely and prudently, guarding against possible danger to the extent that a wise man should, there is no action, although he was in the wrong place. You are to say whether this bicycle man, being in the wrong place, was guilty of neglect of duty. Any omission to foresee danger and any omission to do what a prudent man would do to prevent this accident or guard against it would be negligence on his part, and that is where he is to be held liable, if at all."

THE defendant claimed that he saw plaintiff and turned out to advoid him, but that plaintiff pushed him over deliberately, while plaintiff says that defendant ran right on to him and hit him before he saw the cycler. The case, as put by Justice Barnard, is of value as precedent in the fact that the question of E. L. Lockwood, the defendant, being on the sidewalk in violation of the city ordinance, is not allowed to be taken into consideration. The question being confined strictly to a matter of fact as to whether the plaintiff came by his injuries through negligence or voluntary act of his own, or by the negligence of the defendant, the illegality of the defendant's use of the sidewalk being entirely ignored.

IF Boston took in the same area of territory as Chicago or Philadelphia, it would have a population bordering close on 900,000, and if it did we would have a good many live, active cycling clubs. Literally within rifle shot of the State House on Beacon Hill, Boston, we find four or five separate and distinct corporations, the aggregate population of which is close to 175,000. Yes, if Boston could only come the "Octopus Act" like unto Philadelphia and Chicago, we would have a few live cycle clubs to boast of also.

A LADY rider in Brookline who evidently speaks intelligently, and by the card says in regard to dress:

"I do not like the divided skirt. For weather such as we have been having lately a somewhat full skirt, with close fitting woolen undergarments, and a blouse or basque about the fate of which you are not much concerned, are all that is required. Of course a short jacket is comfortable on cold days, and thus equipped you are ready for a ride wherever you can take your wheel."

AT the suggestion of Mr. I. B. Potter, Secretary Blaine has instructed United States Consuls to give in their annual reports to the Department of State, description of the roads, and methods of construction in the different countries to which they are assigned. Mr. Potter has in many instances received personal letters from the consuls to the effect that they will pay special attention to the question of roads, the building and repairing of same.

WE have never been thoroughly in favor of the "fol-de-rol" features of cycling. We mean the bugle blowing, flag carrying, gold lace trifles which have always given the non-riding public a false idea of the sport. Good old "Sobersides" rather sneers at a lot of "boys" that indulge in the butterfly and flap-doodle style of cycling. We do not think the pleasures of cycling enhanced one bit by the blowing of bugles, the flying of flags, and certainly the impression made on the general public is not one to increase respect for riders.

IN connection with this point we notice the Brooklyn Bicycle Club has taken steps to trim off the frills of the organization, and if our report is correct the club will not retain one single road officer. This may be a bit too radical even for our straight laced notions of what is becoming to the dignity of a club. A captain and a couple of lieutenants may be convenient officials on certain occasions, but if the signs of the times are read aright the period for making runs "show parades" is practically past, gold lace, bugles blasts and other fol-de-rol must give way to modest, quiet and practical dignity.

THE California Division officers met Saturday, March 7, and among other things done passed resolutions condemning this paper for publishing articles criticising the management of the California Division. We do not wish to add to the evident irritation, but we desire to say that all complaints from parties having the right to critise and which seem reasonable, will be published in this paper. Without commenting on the grievances as presented by the correspondents complained of, we must say that as the case was presented there appeared at least room for argument.

THE "many League members" quoted by the Philadelphia Inquirer as not hesitating in saying "that if the meet is held in Detroit this year as decided, it will be a repetition of the Niagara experience of last year, which, plainly speaking, had too much of the commercial, make-all-you-can spirit about it," do the Detroit men a gross injustice. There is nothing to indicate but that the hospitality of Detroit will be of the very heartiest. It is ungenerous to cast slurs on the expected entertainers of the League in the way above quoted.

THE agitation about the reorganization of the Massachusetts Bicycle Club has had a great effect upon more than one active cycling organization hereabouts. The Dorchester Club has given up its quarters, dropped its associate membership, and will again take to the road as a riding organization, while the Somerville Cycle Club has placed a limit on its associate membership in order to prevent a possible change from an active wheeling organization to one of a social nature. Both moves are in the right direction, and if one or two other clubs hereabouts would go and do likewise cycling would have a still sounder basis than it has at the present time. The agitation about the Massachusetts Club has been carried on in a surprising manner, not alone to the general wheelmen, but also to the members of that club who have requested all those desirous of joining the reorganization to forward their address to Secretary C. C. Ryder, P. O. Box 2966. The high standard of the membership of the old club will be maintained in the reorganization, and the wheelmen can rest assured that if it is perfected it will be a representative organization of Boston wheelmen.

IF any one has an idea that there is more talk than work about the Road Improvement Bill in Massachusetts, they ought to have been present at the hearing in the Blue Room at the State House on Beacon Hill, Boston, last Tuesday morning, and they would have seen wheelmen from all sections of the country anxious to add their little mite to the good of the cause. Chief Consul Arthur W. Robinson and Vice-Consul George A. Perkins, engineered the bill in a manner that would have done credit to the best and most capable lawyer of the present time, and it will be no fault of theirs if the committee reports inadvisable on the subject. The hearing was adjourned to next Tuesday at 10 A. M. We hope all will be present to show their interest.

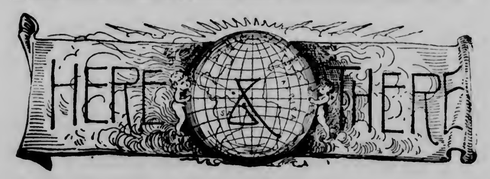
PHILADELPHIA CYCLE AND FIELD CLUB.

IN our issue of the 6th we printed a most excellent cut of the house of the Philadelphia Cycle and Field Club. It is a model club house, and unique in every way. A description therefore of its organization will be of the greatest interest to our readers.

This club was organized under the auspices of, and as an adjunct to, the "Philadelphia Bicycle Club," on August 27th, 1889.

Early in October, 1889, under the supervision of Harold R. Lewis, Chairman of the Building Committee, the building of the present club house, familiarly known as the "Wigwam," was commenced at Ardmore, Penn., 7 1-2 miles from the city club, on the well-known "Lancaster Pike," and was formally opened on February 22d, 1890.

The "Wigwam" owes its origin to the indefatigable efforts of three members who secured, in May, 1889, a small cottage on Montgomery avenue, near to the present house, and established it as a country annex. Only members of the Philadelphia Bicycle Club are eligible to membership, this, of course, including the lady contingent, always a pleasant feature in the parent organization. Starting with a membership of but forty-eight it has now seventy-three on its rolls.



The building is in Queen Anne cottage style. It has a large sitting and dining room, finished in oak, and with open fire place and commodious and well appointed kitchen and pantry on the first floor; and on the second floor, rooms for lady and gentleman members, the latter being supplied with a shower-bath. The janitor's quarters on this floor are separate from the rest of the house. The entire building is heated by a furnace in the cellar. The grounds of 1 1-2 acres have four tennis courts, and ample facilities for pigeon shooting, quoits, archery, etc., and in the rear of the house are carriage and bicycle sheds and a wind mill for supplying the house with water. A Telford road leads from the pike completely around the house. Situated but 1600 feet from the railroad station on the Pennsylvania Railroad, and but a trifle further from the village, it is readily accessible by train and within easy reach of supplies at short notice. A janitor, who is also a competent cook and good caterer, resides in the building, and can serve meals for two or thirty at short notice and at a reasonable cost. During the past ten months over 1100 meals were served, and 2500 visits reported in register.

Saturday is "club night" here, Wednesday being that of the city club, and after supper the piano and college songs are brought in use, and a waltz or quadrille are sure to follow.

October 4th was the first "field day," and proved an enjoyable and successful feature. It is the intention of the Athletic Committee to hold these gala days in the spring and fall of each year.

At the annual meeting held lately the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: President, William Uhler (re-elected); Vice President, Frank S. Harris (re elected); Secretary and Treasurer, Horace S. Blackiston; Trustees, Harold R. Lewis, Wm. Morris, Thos. A. Pearce and Edw. W. Burt; House Committee, L. H. Watt (Chairman), G. N. Osborne and E. C. Zellner; Athletic Committee, W. H. Derbyshire, J. B. Langworthy and V. Morris.

To the untiring efforts and efficient management of the President, Wm. Uhler, and the late Chairman of the House Committee, J. O. Tombler, much of the success of the club and comfort of the members is due.

NOTES BY "HAWKSHAW."

THAT great A. A. U., concerning whose threats to destroy the League, all of the papers were recently so filled, seems just now to have its hands full tending to trouble in its own ranks, and if there were any members of the L. A. W. who at any time really grew frightened by the bluster of misinformed writers, they can now rest assured that until the A. A. U. has strangled the enemies in its own camp that it will not be likely to battle with the solid front the L. A. W. opposes to it. The trouble seems to be, that the body of the A. A. U. lays in and around this city, while the small tail thereto reaches from Maine to Mexico. The body, that is, the clubs around and in the city of New York, has formed itself into a Metropolitan Association, which in plain English means, that the dog is better satisfied without any tail, than to be hampered with such a weak and lengthy caudal appendage as the other athletic clubs are, and so the tail seems destined to die either from the separation, or from lack of finding some other tailless canine upon which to engraft itself. The L. A. W., while a larger body, is more representative, better officered, more united and freer from the danger of foes among it own ranks, and consequently is better able to battle and defeat its enemies than is its more boastful challenger.

HE was a Boston rider, and his oil can and himself had parted company, as they often do, through the habit a saddle bag has of opening itself and depositing its contents on the road without the knowledge or consent of the rider. A bearing with a plaintive squeak demanded that it be lubricated without further waste of time, and dismounting to meet the demand, the wheelman had discovered his loss, and had remounted and ridden to a neighboring drug store to supply himself with the needed oil. "Have you any lubricating oil?" he inquired of the expectant clerk behind the soda-water counter. "I am sorry," he replied, "but we are just out of it, but I have some first-class castor oil which I guarantee is made from the bean———." "Give me a pint," replied the rider, not waiting for him to finish the sentence by naming the kind of bean the oil was made from. It was bean oil, and that was sufficient for a Boston man.

A CENTRAL Park policeman had arrested two colored riders for racing through the park while drunk, they had spent the night in the station house, and had been brought before the judge for sentence. The judge was himself a rider, and had been long annoyed by the inconsiderate actions of wheelmen upon the public roads, so that he felt anything but kindly towards the two woebegone, penitent colored law-breakers before him. "Officer, what is the charge against these two people?" inquired the judge. "Well, your Honor, I had to arrest them for being drunk and racing their bicycles through the park." Sternly looking the frightened prisoners over, the magistrate said: "A pair of black tights, eh? Well, $10 each. Next." And the curtain rang down amidst the smiles of the onlookers.

THE big athletic clubs want wheelmen, and they propose to get them, too. Last year they bought them, but that came high; this season they intend to bribe them, and instead of dealing with them as individuals, they will handle them in bulk, as it comes cheaper, and they get more for their money. For a man who likes to race, or for one who has no personal interest in being a factor in any organization to which he may belong, I can readily understand how the weight of creature comforts offered by these athletic monopolies would prove irresistable, even though he does cease to be anything but a small obscure brick in the construction of a palace some one else owns, but to the true wheelman, the man of interest and intelligence, the one who desires to construct and own his own athletic home, these vast buildings, the property of hundreds of members, will never attract him away from the less expensive surroundings of his wheel club, humble though they may be. The comparison is the same as that existing between life in a hotel, no matter how large and magnificent, and that in your own home, even though it consists of a small and inconvenient flat. In the large athletic clubs the wheelman is but a small branch of the great number of athletic elements constituting the organization, his individuality is lost, his surroundings are uncongenial; while in a wheel club it is different, it is like a party of friends, the membership being smaller knits the members together into a single family, the atmosphere speaks of wheels and wheeling, and the rider's interest is ever spurred on to the fullest enjoyment of the possibilities of the wheel. Money and grandeur can never offer these attractions, and the absorption of wheel clubs by athletic ones is a danger whose evil influences need cause no fear to the thinking student of cycling.

CHICAGO.

"WAYNE SCOTT."

MISS ELLA MCINTOSH, Vice President of the Ladies' Englewood Cycling Club, died last Wednesday (11th) of typhoid fever. Miss McIntosh was very popular with all. The E. C. C. members drafted resolutions of sympathy for the family and for the club, and sent a handsome floral piece.

So crowded has the new club house of the Columbia Wheelmen become at the meetings that the club is required, at this early stage of their existence, to seek for new quarters. The reasons for the large attendance at their meetings lie undoubtedly in the fact that the club has no Board of Directors, and all matters of business are brought up at the meetings, and thoroughly discussed. Mr. John Erickson fills his office as President of this new club most excellently, his decisions being always judicious and wise.

SATURDAY evening, March 28th, the Illinois Cycling Club give another athletic and musical entertainment. These have proved quite a factor in the winter entertainments. The Illinois Club give a ladies' night; it is always a success. They give an athletic entertainment; from two to three hundred spectators can be relied on. They give a swell reception, and it is all the name implies, and always successful; in fact anything the Illinois Club does is a model in its way. The secret of this lies probably in its management and in the brotherly feeling which each member feels for the others.

"OUR BOYS," a drama, will be presented at Steiner's Hall, Oak Park, Friday evening, April 10th, by members of the Oak Park Cycling Club. The Beloit Glee Club has been engaged for a concert about April 3d. Captain Stimpson, of the Oak Parks, requests all members to note down the names of such places as they wish a run called to, and the time. From these he will endeavor to compile his run card for the season.

THE Jackson Club and Cook County Wheelmen now have 237 members, and are barely three months old. Over thirty applications are already posted on the bulletin board.

CAPT. ROBERTS, of the Illinois Cycling Club, proposes to conduct a run of Illinois members over that (to be) famous course to Elgin, Aurora and return, 100 miles. R. G. Betts is father of a scheme to conduct a grand inter-club century run over this same course. Of the course as a thorough test of a rider's road riding abilities one can hardly say enough. All classes of road, and hills too, are included in the hundred miles. Down the Fox River Valley it winds and passes through the pretty towns, Elgin, St. Charles, Geneva and Batavia to Aurora, thence to Naperville, Downers Grove, Lyons, Riverside and into the city. A man has always found it to be one good day's work to complete the circuit, and many good riders have started but fell by the way. A number of wheelmen who have successfully completed the run in a day propose forming the Century Wheelmen of Chicago. To be eligible to membership in this club a man must have ridden over this course in a day. All wheelmen in this city who are eligible to membership in the club will confer a favor by calling upon F. Ed. Spooner, 15 and 17 Madison street, at once. A small amount will be collected as dues each month. This will be used to purchase neat little gold membership badges, containing data of first trip. To this will be attached a pendant bar, properly inscribed, each time the trip is successfully accomplished. To wheelmen who are eligible I say, let's up and do and make the "Century Club" a club of scorchers and road riders.

THE Farragut Cycling Club has now nearly fifty members. To become a member a man must first be a member of the Farragut Boat Club, whose initiation fee is $50. Saturday evening, March 21st, this club hold their annual meeting and election of officers.

BY a practically unanimous vote the sixty members of the Lincoln Club voted to move the club house farther north, north of Garfield avenue. Nearly four-fifths of the club members reside north of North avenue.

THE appearance of Prof. Steinbach alone should insure a large attendance at a grand novelty concert, to be given by the Lincoln Cycling Club Wednesday evening, April 1st, at Chickering Hall, Jackson and Wabash. W. L. Bush, Miss Schumacher and other excellent talent will appear. W. L. Bush is a whole circus himself, and wheelmen who have heard him once will be anxious to hear him in his many new attractions.

ROCKFORD is the place for the annual meet of the Illinois Division this year, and Illinois representatives should see to it that their vote is cast for this pretty little city on the Rock River. Kankakee wheelmen say come down and have a good time, but we will hardly be able to entertain you in any style. Rockford shows a strong front, has a thousand dollars already subscribed, the race track and a hall secured, and has besides a fine line of prizes already promised. Vote for Rockford.

MISSOURI.

"LINNEUS."

THE Boulevard Bill is now before the Legislature and everything looks favorable for its passage. The entire city press is strongly in favor of the scheme and is doing no little work in finding out exactly how the candidates for election in the Municipal Assembly, which will be held in the spring, stand on the question. From one or two of the poorer wards a decided opposition is made to the clause forbidding heavy hauling of any kind, and this has been the rock on which the parties have split before. It is evident that no boulevard can long be kept in first class shape if the heavier class of vehicles are allowed to use them in common with other traffic, and it is to be hoped that for once good sense will prevail in giving us and maintaining this much needed system of boulevards by keeping off heavy traffic.

THE report of Street Commissioner Murphy has caused great joy. He says: "I have determined to abandon the use of water for sprinkling purposes on the Pine and Locust street asphaltum. My opinion is that with a thorough sweeping each night, and possiby the services of two men on each driveway during the day, the dust will not accumulate in sufficient quantities to become injurious or offensive." In adopting the plan indicated the only possible objection to the asphaltum streets will be met. It will also render them safe and attractive for the wheelmen of this city whose petition I laid before you recently, and whose members aggregate, I understand, fully 1800. They are entitled to unusual consideration in this direction, because they are composed mainly of a class of citizens who are encouraging athletic training in our schools, and in the various organizations in the city. Have wheelmen in any other city ever received a better endorsement? If so, I have not heard of it.

No paper in the State has ever gone into the question of road improvement with such vim and enterprise as the late "Ballot" of St. Joseph, Mo., and in the suspension of this influential daily the cause loses one of its best supporters. The editor, Col. Hyde, had the county records overhauled, had estimates furnished as to the cost of the various systems, and gave the old fogy system of working out the road tax such a shaking up as it never received before. The amount which is annualy placed to the credit of the fund in Buchanan county alone is $70,000, and if it were properly applied it would macadamize the roads in less than six years. C. P. Kingsbury, who has had much to do in building bridges in the county, expresses the emphatic opinion that a large portion of the road fund might as well be hurled into the fire as far as any good the people may derive therefrom is concerned, under the present manner of using it.

After making a number of necessary changes in the building, the Cycling Club removed to its new and elegant quarters last week, and the first meeting which was held was the annual election, which gave the club the best set of officers it has yet had. A. J. Emery is the new President, O. L. Rule, Secretary; A. M. Milford, Captain. The club's new building is three stories in height, has a frontage of 25 and a depth of 65 feet. It contains a well finished basement, which will be used as a temporary wheelroom, and back of this is the kitchen. The first floor contains the parlor and reception room; the second floor, the Secretary's office, reading room and gymnasium, and the third floor, which extends over the entire building, will be devoted to billiards and pool. The house also contains a well constructed bath room with hot and cold water, and is heated by a furnace in the basement The house is situated on the Ewing avenue asphaltum, opposite the St. Louis Club, and is easily accessible from all parts of the city.

REPRESENTATIVE GARNER is again located at Carthage and reports that the arrangements for the State meet are progressing finely, and that nothing will be left undone to make it the most successful in the history of the Division. Fully $500 has been subscribed to the entertainment fund to date, and a number of handsome prizes for the races have been already secured.

HORTON POPE and C. B. Gibson have been appointed Directors of Tennis and Gymnastics by the Missouri's management, and will boom these features as they have never before A bouffet will also be shortly added to the already complete club, and promises to become quite a feature. As soon as the weather settles the club's quarters will be thoroughly renovated.

THE ORANGES.

"ESSEX."

Harry McDonough, who is now playing the part of Rubygold in Poor Jonathan at the New York Casino, is an enthusiastic wheelman and a member of the E. O. C's. Nearly all of the E. O. C's. have been over to see Poor Jonathan, and the bosom of every man "has swelled mit pride" at the finished and artistic manner in which their brother-wheelman has essayed his part. McDonough is the father of a very bright youngster, who may be frequently seen wheeling under the colors of the E. O. C's. at the side of his proud parent. Charles Plunket, of Francis Wilson's Company, is also a wheelman and a member of the E. O. C's.

THE banner won by the wheelmen last year from the E. O. C's. has not yet materialized. Perhaps the wheelmen are waiting for a suitable opportunity, when they will come forth with a war whoop and display their trophy. When this event is mentioned to a member of the E. O C's., his only remark is, "If only Brock's wheel had not broken it might have been different."

MR. EDITOR: Your horse sense about the vulgarity of the word "pants" is duly noted. But how about your own "breeks," an abbreviation for breeches? Is not this a case of six of one and half-a-dozen of the other? ["Breeks" is a Scotch localism, and we think not so offensive as "pants." However, "breeks" and "pants" we hereafter lay side by side in the same grave.—ED.] Allow me to suggest "trouserettes." Your suggestion as to calling wheelmen by the undignified title of "boys" is also noted. Hereafter your correspondent will speak of them as men, gentlemen, the fraternity, etc., etc.

THE East Orange Town Committee recently voted upon an ordinance limiting the speed of bicycles to seven miles an hour. This, of course, originated in the fertile brain of some back number, who had never been on a wheel and had forgotten that he ever was young himself. He is undoubtedly one of those fellows who, when he meets you on the road says, "What you riding on that durned thing fer, anyway?" A committee was at once appointed by the active wheelmen in the town, who conferred with the more sensible members of the Board, and the obnoxious measure was laid aside. It seems to me that this is a case where wheelmen might dabble in politics with good results.

BROCK, of the E. O. C's., yesterday, climbed Eagle Rock Hill on a pneumatic, in the presence of witnesses. He claims to be the first person accomplishing this feat on a pneumatic.

THE E. O. C's. have been incorporated. The full amount necessary to build the new club house is now an assured fact, and work will be begun the present week. It is expected the building will be finished by the first of June, when it will be opened with the usual ceremonies. The membership of this club continues to increase, and soon they will be among the leaders in the State in this respect.

"The philosophy of trade forces prices to correspond with quality. No man can buy for a dollar that which is worth two dollars, nor can one man make for a dollar what another and older man cannot produce for twice as much money. There are prices and prices, and qualities and qualities, and every time they correspond. * * * It is worth something to know what you are going to get."—See Bicycling World, p. 128, Dec. 6th, 1889.

THE Business Men's Club of Orange is booming. They have hired handsome rooms in a central locality, and they are getting to be a prominent factor in wheeling matters in this locality.

LITTLE ROCK.

"ARKANSAS TRAVELLER."

THE interest in cycling which has laid dormant all winter through the absence of club rooms and their attractions, has been reawakened with the approach of spring and plans are already being formed for the summer's amusement. The sport will have a backset of about ten days, caused by four inches of snow which fell last week, and which was the hardest one we have had for several years.

THERE are fully one hundred active riders here now, and from present prospects that number will be doubled by Jan. 1st, 1892.

OUR first Lieutenant, Mr. H. P. Baird, was in Memphis about ten days ago, and was assured by the Memphis cracks that they would give us revenge this spring for the defeat we suffered at their hands in the 25-mile road race run in Memphis last July. We have a course here that I think will test a rider's capabilities pretty thoroughly. The surface is very good but the course is very hilly. In connection with the road race we desire to have some track races. Whether we do or not depends on the owners of Clinton Park. They are putting in a half-mile track with a cinder surface, and promise to have it completed in the near future.

THE A. T. C. C. would have taken their first club run in 1891 on Sunday next, but "the beautiful" has knocked us out.

WE will have an L. A. W. Division here June 1st. Mark what I tell you.

BUFFALO NOTES.

"SETAGEC."

THE Saturday evening athletic contests have been well attended, and the fact has begun to dawn on many that Buffalo will also support Saturday afternoon field contests. I would suggest that the A. A. U. clubs get together and arrange for half holiday field games for the whole season, and by hustling get the free advertising that at this season of the year goes to the base ball club.

LAST Saturday evening's athletic entertainment was at the "Gym" of the Ircquois Athletic Club. Last Saturday week the Ramblers had a "benefit" at their "gym" for a local prize fighter; it was a general athletic programme. Next Saturday evening's game will be at the Arsenal, and the Union meeting of the 21st will have on its programme several bicycle races. Dorntge, Conn and Jno. Penseyres will be the leading contestants. The latter will ride a 33 pound safety with large, solid tire, built by his brother.

AT the 65th Regiment games on the evening of the 28th ult. there were a couple of bicycle races confined to members of the Regiment, Inderbitzen did not do as well as was expected, though he got two positions, while another dark horse loomed up, and great things are expected from him.

I AM glad the centre of the State will again have the State meet, and Rochester has long been entitled to it. The Flower City Wheelmen are hustlers with less jealousy than the clubs of this city usually show. The Rochester men are also royal entertainers and good managers. Buffalo will have to look well to her enterprise in future cycling, or Rochester will have a big lead.

How queer it is that wheelmen combine so poorly. One of the best workers we have ever had here, or ever will have, said to me this week while discussing this same idea: "It is impossible to get any two Buffalo wheelmen to agree on one idea long enough to accomplish anything." That is, the common experience in the past, and judging from the past it will probably be so in the future.

ALL the clubs commence to show more liveliness as wheeling becomes more continuous, though some riders, like my good friend Dai Lewis, manage to ride very nearly every day in the year.

THE Zig Zags have seventeen applications to act on at the next meeting. Brunner and Klipfel tried to make a century run last Sunday over the Erie course. This club will have a theatre party next month to see Francis Wilson in the "Merry Monarch."

THE Wanderers are very busy these times, and are enjoying themselves fully.

H. H. Werner of the Zig Zags will probably be the winner of Saturday evening's novice race.

APRIL 9TH the Zig Zags will have another ball at the Orpheus Parlors. They expect to have a great time next month with their ball, a club banquet, election of officers, a theatre party and several other jollifications.

THE Roamers Wheel Club are thinking of getting a larger club house.

USTIS DIETZER, one of thirty-five who came through from Erie in the great century run, and a popular seventh son of a seventh son, is one of the leading officers of the Mohawk Athletic Club.

PORKOPOLIS NOTES.

"STAR."

THE Cincinnati Base Ball Club, American Association, in conjunction with the Young Men's Gymnastic Association, have secured a lot on the river bank east of the East End Gas Works, and will fit it up as a base ball park and an outdoor gymnasium. That quarter-mile track that we so long have sought and mourned because we found it not, will now very likely soon materialize.

THE wheelmen of Madisonville, O., have organized the Madisonville Bicycle Club. They have twenty members at present, and a prospect of several additions in the near future. The club will probably be made a League club.

IF the $1,300,000, Ohio's share of the direct tax refunded to the States, could only be devoted to better roads, what a——but why indulge in vain and delusive hopes?

THE local papers have been filled with discussion on the relative merits of granite, asphalt and vitrified brick. It is claimed for the latter that it is as durable as granite, almost as smooth as asphalt and much cheaper than either.

MR. A. A. BENNETT proposes to run a road race on Decoration Day. The prizes will be gold medals. The place, distance and conditions have not yet been decided upon, but will be announced in due season.

MR. RUDOLPH MEISER is becoming quite a practical joker. He carries a galvanic battery in his hip pocket connected with wires in his coat sleeves, and those who have shaken hands with him recently declare that his conduct is quite shocking.

LAST Wednesday evening (March 11) my "Pet Club," the Porkopolis Wheelmen, celebrated the first anniversary of their organization by indulging in an elaborate banquet at the Palace Hotel. Mr. Maxwell—

> The genial Host had scoured the earth
> From sunny South to frozen North,
> From briny deep to nether blue
> To make his very unique menu.

And judging from the execution done his efforts were fully appreciated. Following the eating came the speaking, and the brilliancy of the rhetoric, the sharpness of the wit, and the mellowness of the humor surprised even those who knew to what a great club they belonged. When at length they dispersed it was with a sense of satisfaction that their active membership had within a year risen to a point where it was second to that of no other club in the city.

NEWS AND COMMENT.

THE Boynton Bicycle Railroad Company offers to build a road from the Battery, New York, to Harlem at a cost not to exceed $100,000 per mile, and agrees to run through trains between these points with four stops in seven to ten minutes. The speed attained to accomplish this would have to be better than a mile a minute!

THE Harlem (N. Y.) Wheelmen had an elegant roust-about party at their club house last Friday night. Representatives of nearly every athletic club in the city took part in a pleasing and varied programme.

THE Wisconsin State Division meet will be held at Green Bay in August sometime.

THERE is trouble in the ranks of the New Jersey Athletic Club. A bill for something like $100 was presented to the club by Zimmerman and S Bowman each for expenses in travelling the circuit of Niagara, Har ford and Peoria. The club refused to honor same, and hence the two men are disgruntled and talk resignation.

THE Toledo (Ohio) Bicycle Club will refurnish its club house. At a recent meeting the amount necessary to properly accomplish this was subscribed. A gymnasium is to be added most likely.

FIRST BICYCLIST—How does this road strike you?
Second Bicyclist (taking a header from the wreck of the machine)—Quite forcibly, Fred.—Yankee Blade.

THE Kings County (N. Y.) Wheelmen now lead the Brooklyn Bicycle Club 26 points in the inter-club pool match. The games are attracting large crowds to witness the play. The next set will be at the Brooklyn's club house.

THE New Haven (Ct.) Bicycle Club held its smoker at the club house last week Tuesday. Melody of voice and instrument added much to the evening's entertainment.

ANSONIA, CT., authorities will enforce the ordinance against cycle riding on the sidewalk. Riders in that vicinity will take notice.

A WHEELMAN'S pool league is formed between the New York Bicycle Club, the Riverside Wheelmen and the Manhattan Bicycle Club. The first game will be played March 21, and the last one April 25.

THE Manhattan Athletic Club of New York will give a road race early in May open to all the city for the New York championship. This club is also arranging for a series of club races to be run during the summer.

THE annual meet of the California Division will be held at Stockton, Cal., July 4th.

S. FISHER is an Austin, Texas, boy of nine years of age. Recently in company with older cyclers this lad made a trip of forty miles in something like five hours' riding time. That is pretty tart riding for a youth of nine summers.

THE Maryland Bicycle Club voted March 9 upon the question of remaining with the League as a League Club. There was but one faint vote to strike out the clause in the Constitution. The Lockport Wheelmen and the Syracuse Club have voted to continue with the League.

THE New Jersey Division has voted that to all clubs that will become League clubs between April 1st and June 1st, a rebate of fifty per cent. of the initiation fee be given, and that the same rebate be given to clubs already League clubs that present the names of twenty new members between the same dates.

ANENT the all absorbing question of tires the following comes to us from a Taunton, Mass., correspondent: "An incident happened to me to-day which was so comical that I thought it worth mentioning: I was riding on my pneumatic from one street into another when some boys went to cross the street, and one of them cried: 'Look out boys, here comes the steam roller.' I think coming as it was from boys hardly over 11 years old it is pretty witty!!

MR. A. H. MACOWEN and W. A. Richwine of the Richwine Ball Tire Co. were in Boston last week and made us a call.

W. J. NEWMAN and George Perkins are agitating the idea of pulling the remnants of the old Cambridge Club together and entering the ranks of the Cambridgeport Club.

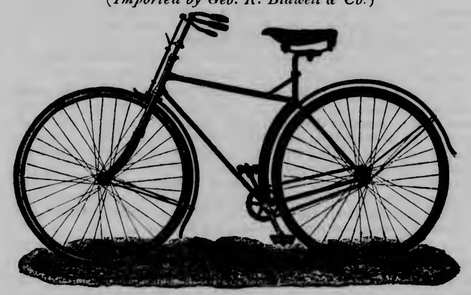
WHO can give the best route from Boston to New York? Mr. W. T. Wonson of 208 Dartmouth street, Boston, is after the information.

A VERY neat little souvenir bill of fare of the Porkopolis Wheelmen's banquet at the Palace Hotel, Cincinnati, March 11, reaches us. Not only is the menu an appetizing one, but the artistic quotations of the souvenir are decidedly taking.

ONE of the most unique invitations to a Calico Party to be given March 31 by the Oneida (N. Y.) Cycling Club reaches us. It is printed on yellow calico, and the envelope is a piece of paper folded in a manner that would do justice to the most complicated Chinese puzzle. We fain would be with you, Oneidas.

THE annual election of the Medford, Mass., Cycle Club occurred March 10th, The Treasurer's report showed a most encouraging and prosperous financial year, even the members intimate with affairs, expressing much surprise at the wealth of the club. The various enterprises undertaken during the winter were shown to have resulted in uniform success. The Treasurer was voted an increase of salary in view of his manifold and arduous duties. The membership roll showed an increase of 25 per cent in the past year, largely active wheelmen. After the meeting a banquet was served by Caterer Young.

ELWELL EUROPEAN TOUR NOTES.



THE party is now receiving additions so rapidly that it is only a question of a very short time ere it will be full. Among the participants will be the following: E. B. Pillsbury, Boston, Mass.; C. B. Hoffman, Red Hook, N. Y.; W. H. Grant, Central Falls, R. I.; F. C. Holden, Stromsburg, Neb.; J. E. Wilkinson, Baltimore, Md.; T. C. Brinsmade, Cleveland, Ohio; C. H. Sylvester, Whitewater, Wis.; F. C. Horter, Mansfield, O.; J. E. Gilbert, Mansfield, O.; Chas. E. Mason, Wheeling, W. Va; F. N. Requa, Chicago, Ill.; Chas. Baltzell, Parsons, Ks.; E. B. Mabbett, Baltimore, Md.; Wm. W. Collins, E. E. Earl, Germantown, Pa.; Geo. R. Linn, Max Loescher, R. E. Carrigan, F. R. McVoy, Chicago, Ill.; Fred R. Swan, Springfield, Mass.; B. B. McCreight, DuBois, Pa.; A. L. Davison, Lockport, N. Y.; D. W. Leu, Richmond, Va.; Edwin Z. Smith, Pittsburg, Pa.; W. A. Shorkley, Candelaria, Nev.

Many others have the tour in contemplation, and it would be well for them and a great assistance to the managers if names and deposits were sent in at once. The steamer is popular, and the time of starting is just when everyone is going, so the sooner berths are spoken for the better. Every indication points to the most successful tours Messrs. Elwell and Higgins have ever conducted.

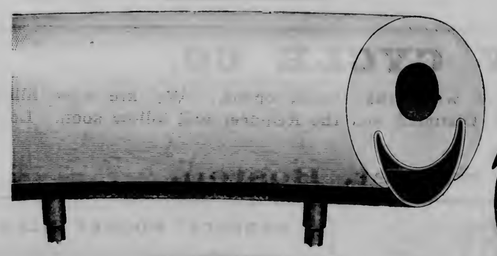
RANKIN & BRUCE are pushing the Rambler this season in the vicinity of Providence, R. I.

M. O. DAXON of Omaha, Neb., has taken the G. & J agency for his neighborhood, and will boom the Rambler considerably.

THE Buffalo Cycle Works are opening up a salesroom at No. 21 W. Chippewa, and will sell their own make of wheels exclusively.



LAST week Friday W. S. Maltby, "the much traveled" and marvellous exhibition cyclist, gave meritorious performances of his skill at Montclair and Freehold, N. J., under engagements with the local clubs to the delight of large and appreciative audiences; he is the only cyclist at the present time who seems to be capable of giving a whole evening's entertainment, as he appears as three different characters. Cycling or athletic clubs desiring a novel entertainment should write at once for open dates. Address W. S. Maltby, Wallingford, Ct.

MR. JOHN HOLMES, of Holmes & Co., the well-known "Knit Goods" firm, has gone West on an extended trip on business and pleasure bent. This firm's business has steadily increased from year to year, a substantial evidence that the reputation of the goods they make has become enviable and one to be proud of. Speaking of this firm we hear that Cupid has been at work in the establishment of Holmes & Co, and that Miss M. C. Clark, the cashier and bookkeeper of the concern, has lately changed her name to Efford We congratulate the happy pair.

THE Referee cycles will be more than ever in the market this year, and as we have already announced, Messrs. Bretz & Curtis have made arrangements to manufacture these celebrated wheels for this country, so that they can meet the growing demand for these wheels. The advertisement of the Referee appears on page 558, and we also desire to call attention to the fact that Mr. W. J. Newman at 46 Columbus Avenue and Harvard Square, Cambridge, is the New England agent for these wheels. These wheels can be seen at either of the above named places, and of course at the Philadelphia store of Messrs. Bretz & Curtis.

HEALTH by Good Living. Liquid Bread, a form of Malt Extract. is becoming very popular as a beverage, and is unquestionably one of the best agents for building up the system.

THE machine used by Henry George during his recent visit to Bermuda when he became an enthusiastic cyclist was a Warwick Perfection. "George the 5th" knows a good thing and says so.

BOLTE CUSHION TIRE.

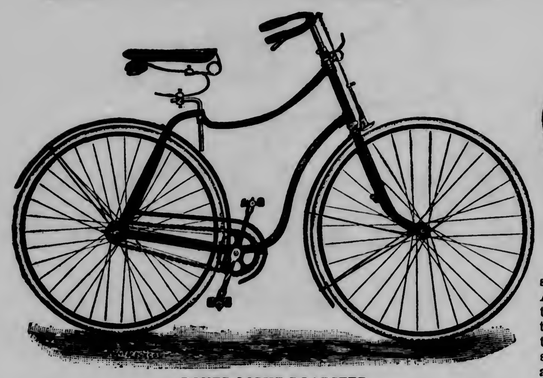
WE present cut of a novelty made by Mr. P. H. Sercombe of Milwaukee, Wis. The principal feature of this tire exists in the fact that it can be applied to any wheel made for solid tires without change of the rim or mud guards. It will be observed from the cut that the tire laps over the rim, and is fastened in by a process of Mr. Sercombe's own. By this form not only does the tire have the usual cement-taking surface of a solid tire, but has the additional surface presented by the outside of the rim. The very best quality of rubber is used, and the tires are moulded to three sizes (i. e.) to fit three-quarter, five-eighth and one inch rims. This tire will enable those who have bought safeties fitted with solid tires to have their wheels fitted with a cushion tire. Mr. Sercombe in writing about this tire says: "I know there is more springiness to this tire, even when 1 1-8 inch rubber is used than can possibly be got when the rim extends round the outside surface, as in the usual way."

SUNBEAM.

(Imported by Fairbanks, Sanborn & Co., Boston.)

HEREWITH we present a cut and specifications of the Fairbanks & Sanborn Special No. 1 Sunbeam.

Specifications—28x30 wheels, double diamond frame, ball head, drop handle bars (option F. & S. improved cork handles, nickel ferrules). Cushion tires, gear 57 and 60, steel forgings, full ball bearings, eccentric chain adjustment, weight (all on) 42 pounds.



ROVERS.

(The Jno. Wilkinson Co. Importers.)

ROVER SPECIAL.

WE present this week two cuts of the Rover machines. The "Special," which with pneumatics, weighs all on 36 pounds or stripped and with solid tires 30 pounds. The tubing used is of the best quality and very light, and the machine is built for men who weigh not over 160 pounds to use for scorching on good roads and path riding. Front wheel, 30 inches; rear wheel, 28 inches; gear, 60 inches; hollow rim tangent spokes; socket ball steering; balls to both wheels; crank shaft and pedals; special steel chain, detachable cranks 5 1-2 inch to 6 1 2 inch throw; plunger spoon brake; hollow L seat rod, Garford saddle, etc. With solid tire, $135; Cushion tire, $140; Pneumatic tire, $165.

ROVER LIGHT ROADSTER.

A high grade wheel in every respect, weight with all on 44 pounds. Rear wheel, 28 inch; front wheel, 30 inch; gear, 56 inch; tangent spokes; hollow rim; balls to head; wheels, crank shaft and pedals. Plunger brake; patent device for chain adjustment; steel cranks 5 1-2 to 6 1 2 inch throw; Garford saddle, etc. With solid tires, $135; with Cushion tires, $140. (Pneumatics not fitted.) A splendid wheel for the road scorcher, or in fact for any rider who wants a light wheel of the very highest quality.

THE PREMIER CYCLE CO.

WE take pleasure in calling our readers' attention to the advertisement of the Premier Cycle Co. on page 556

A. O. VERY CYCLE CO. report large orders for their line of wheels, and a flattering prospect for a lively trade during the coming season. They are prepared to suit the preferences of different riders, having in the Union a superior spring frame safety, and the Warwick fitted with the finest quality of cushion tires. In lower priced wheels they claim their Standard Diamond and Reindeer to give the best quality the market can afford at the price.

KING OF THE ROAD.

WE present herewith an illustration of the New King of the Road Lamp, controlled by the Premier Cycle Company of New York. As will be seen, the door opens sidewise, fastening with a neat catch, and does not require to be held open when heated, for trimming the wick or other purposes. The wedge is oblong instead of conical, effectually preventing any possible oscillation of the reservoir and the spring is attached to the detachable reflector instead of being riveted to the reservoir, so that the latter cannot leak. Another improvement not shown in the cut, is an air vent in the top of the hood, allowing a free current of cool air to pass back of the glass, preventing the latter from cracking. This vent is covered to keep out rain. The side glasses are of "copper-flashed" ruby surface, cut through in a diamond pattern to the white glass, giving a very brilliant effect. The usual side-slide for lighting is fitted, and the entire lamp finished in the highest possible manner. The price is from $5.50 to $7.50, according to size and finish.

Memphis, Tenn., March 11, 1891.

Kentucky Division.

The indications at this early day are that the meet in Louisville, June 26 and 27 next will be the grandest ever held in the West. Contracts have just been let for a slate and macadam six-lap track to cost $2000. This track will be located in the fireworks amphitheatre of the auditorium on Fourth avenue. It can be reached by asphalt streets from all sections of the city. The track is to be paid for by an association, the annual membership dues being only $3. A well-known capitalist builds the track for the wheelmen. There will be two days' racing. If practicable, the firstday's races will be run by electric light, there being an electric plant on the grounds capable of running 1000 arc lamps. The forty-page programme is now in the printer's hands, and when completed it will be a gem. An ample guarantee fund has already been subscribed.

Recently a mass meeting of all wheelmen in the city was held at the Louisville Cycle Club rooms, and as a result seven applications for League membership were received.

Kentucky Division now has 153 members, and with a little work on the part of wheelmen through the State, this list may be increased to 200. We are now ahead of Louisiana and Tennessee; let us stay in the lead, and come down the home stretch a winner in a canter.
G. E. JOHNSON, Sec.-Treas.

Missouri's on the Fence.

To Consuls and Members:

"On the fence" is the state of mind some riders are in who desire to join the League. They wish to know from you what the advantages of membership are, and you are in a position to give them exactly what they want. Everybody knows the man who waits, and the more intimate the knowledge, the deeper the pain attending it. He is the individual who has delayed sending in his application until the last moment, and he generally appears at a time of a League meet where reductions in hotel rates or admission to special entertainments is only secured by showing the League ticket, with the imperious demand that his application be "rushed through, so as to enable me to make use of my ticket." For some reason unexplained, there seems to exist a regular system of procrastination with some cyclists in regard to complying with their plain duty to join the League. This is doubtless caused by the approaching end of the League year and at the suggestion of Secretary Bassett, I request you all to hereafter receive applications at the full year rate, $2, and forward them to the Secretary, who will cause them to be published on April 3. This will do away with a lot of complaints from members who would otherwise pay 50 cents dues for a few months membership. Members who join us now will practically get thirteen months membership for one year's dues, and all Local Consuls and members are urged to strongly impress this fact on the minds of their non-League friends. If this is done promptly we will witness some lively tumbling "off of the fence" into the League fold.

Fraternally yours, ROBT. HOLM, Chief Consul.
St. Louis, March 12, 1891.

Missouri's Annual Meet.

The sixth annual meet of the Missouri Division will be held at Carthage, Mo., Friday and Saturday, July 3 and 4, 1891.

Notice is hereby given that a Constitutional Convention will be held at that time and place to amend the Constitution and By-laws of the Missouri Division so as to make them harmonize with the National Constitution as amended at Niagara and Washington.

Fraternally yours, ROBT. HOLM, C. C.
St. Louis, March 13, 1891.

New League Clubs.

The following clubs have qualified as League clubs and filed the certificate required in the office of the Secretary:

314—Frederick Bicycle Club, Frederick, Md.; E. E. Steiner, Secretary.

Rhode Island Division, L. A. W.

At a special meeting of the Board of Officers held Thursday, March 5, 1891, it was voted:

That Mr. J. C. Thompson of Providence do the work on Map Plates as suggested by Map Committee.

Also voted that the Chief Consul, Vice Consul and Mr. S. Jas. Foster be elected committee to secure plates and attend to duty of securing maps for the Division.

NELSON H. GIBBS, Secretary-Treasurer.
Providence, March 10, 1891.

Transportation Committee.

Please print in official columns the inclosed letter from Mr. Thomas Savage Clay of Savannah, Ga., for the information of League members in general, and Southern members and those contemplating trips to that section in particular. This committee desires to express its appreciation of Mr. Clay's services.

Very truly yours, W. M. BREWSTER, Chairman.
Quincy, Ill., March 11th, 1891.

SAVANNAH, GA., February 17th, 1891.

W. M. BREWSTER, Esq.:

Dear Sir—Replying to yours of the 4th inst., answering delayed on account of waiting to hear from Railroads in Florida.

Inclosed I beg to hand you circular letters from Ocean Steamship Company, New England and Savannah Steamship Co., Central Railroad and Banking Company of Georgia, and letter from Savannah, Florida and Western Railway.

The circular letter of the Ocean Steamship Company and the New England and Savannah Steamship Co., and the Savannah, Florida and Western Railway are very important, and I think it would be well if you would put their names among the roads that carry wheels free. Members of the League coming South during the winter can come via Ocean Steamship Co. to Savannah from New York, and from Savannah to Florida via Savannah, Florida and Western Railway.

I suppose there are many members of the League who visit St. Augustine, Fla., and if they knew they could take their wheels free would be glad to do so, as the streets in St. Augustine are made out of some kind of cement and better than asphalted ones. Should any of the members wish to come South from Boston they can do so via the New England and Savannah S. S. Co. and bring their wheels with them free, and from Savannah they can go to Florida via the Savannah, and Western Railway.

The Central Railroad will take wheels as far as Birmingham, Ala., and all through Georgia.

I trust these circular letters, which have been issued at my request, will be of benefit to the League.

If you have not made up the list of roads yet, please put in the Central R. R. and Bkg. Co. of Georgia, Savannah, Florida and Western R. R., New England and Savannah S. S. Co., Ocean S. S. Co. of Savannah.

Yours truly, THOS. SAVAGE CLAY,
League No. 19,865.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to date, and published in accordance with Article III. of the Constitution, which is as follows:

"Any amateur wheelman, in good standing, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the indorsement of two League members in good standing, or of three reputable citizens of the United States or Canada, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an initiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at 10 A. M. on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

CYCLING

FOR

Health and Pleasure.

CHAPTER VI.

The safety is responsible, in no small degree, for the poor form and careless riding of so many wheelmen; because it is so easy to learn and to ride, that the majority are indifferent as to how they ride. If one dared to hint that the majority are ignorant of how to ride properly, he might be howled down; but then, would it be any less true? In no one point is poor riding more manifest than in pedalling, and no single feature of riding receives less attention. Everything, in cycling, depends upon the sort of connection a rider makes with his wheel, the connecting points being pedals and feet, hence the use of foot and ankle is of the highest importance. The why, the wherefore and the how are exhaustively considered, with diagram, in the chapter on Correct Pedalling.

THOMAS E. LAMBERT.

A BRIEF notice appeared in the columns of this paper some three weeks ago to the effect that T. E Lambert, one of Boston's best known business men, had been stricken down suddenly by death.

Mr. Lambert was one of those friends we had made through our connection with cycling, a sport which he loved, as he was naturally an admirer of nature, and the cycle was the means he used more than any other to enjoy her beauties and pleasures, and study her moods. For many years and up to his death he was a member of the Boston Bicycle Club and also the Town Club, and among the members of those clubs he counted some of his warmest and closest friends.

Refined in nature, gentle as a women, yet a man in the fullest sense of that word, he attracted all he met to him. He was of a temperament that wore on acquaintance; it was even and happy. He always had a pleasant word, and to see "Lambert" other than genial and gentlemanly would have been an experience as novel as having the earth stand still.

Those who enjoyed his close confidence lose a dear friend, and those who simply knew him slightly mourn his death and pay a tribute in kind words to his memory. Mr. Lambert died February 17 at the City Hospital, Boston, Mass., after a brief illness. Death resulted from cerebro-spinal meningitis, which asserted its fatal influence on him about a fortnight before death. No serious result was anticipated at the time, though, acting under the advice of his physician, he was shortly afterward removed from his apartments at the Hoffman House, Columbus avenue, to the City Hospital. Mr. Lambert was one of the best known and most successful life insurance men in Boston, having been in the business there for nearly twenty years. He was born in Killarney, Ire., in 1845, and gratuated from Trinity College, Dublin. Coming to New York soon after, he engaged in pharmacy for a time and then removed to Boston to accept an engagement as agent for the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, changing from that to the Massachusetts Mutual, and finaly to the New York Mutual. He had a wide social acquaintance. Mr. Lambert was unmarried, and leaves a mother and sister in Ireland, and a brother in New York City. The remains were interred in Mount Auburn Cemetery.

THE A. A. U'S PROPOSAL.

AT the meeting of the A. A. U, held March 18, in New York, the following plan of alliance was adopted and will be submitted to the L. A. W. for action:

1. All cycling events in the championship or other meetings of the A. A. U., or of its associations or clubs, shall be given under the rules of the L. A. W.
2. Every cyclist shall be subject to test as to his amateur standing exclusively by the provisions of the constitution of the L. A. W., now in force defining an amateur.
3. Charges against any cyclist for which he might be disciplined, except in case of a cyclist exclusively a member of the L. A. W. competing at a meeting of the L. A. W. shall be considered and acted upon by a committee of three, one of whom shall be named by the A. A. U., one by the L. A. W., and the third member by the two so chosen.
4. No change shall be made by either the A A. U. or the L. A. W. from the above conditions so as in any way to affect the test of amateur standing or eligibility to competition of any cyclist a member of an A. A U. club, without the consent and approval of both organizations.
5. The League of American Wheelmen shall annually, or at such time and for such periods as it may deem advisable, appoint a delegate, who shall act with and constitute one of the board of governors of the A. A. U., and shall have a vote upon all questions coming before said board and a right to sit upon committees and take part in all the actions thereof as fully as members of said board elected from the several associations of the A. A. U., and to the same extent and in like manner as the delegates from the North American Turnerbund.
6. These articles of alliance shall be terminable by either party upon 30 days' notice to the other, and in case of disagreement between the L. A. W. and the A. A. U. upon any point covered thereby, the same shall first be submitted for decision to the board of governors of the A. A. U, including the members of the board appointed by the L. A. W, Turnerbund and any other association in alliance with the A. A U., and having a delegate thereon.

BY WM. HEYNY, JR.

The next morning finds us at the Victorshohe, on the top of the Ramberg, 2000 feet high. We are up with the sun in the mountains, and today before the matutinal meal, made quite a trip. A little ride before breakfast is very healthful and creates an appetite The wheelman's appetite, however, never failing, should become proverbial; thus the saying: "hungry like a werewolf" ought to be changed to "hungry as a cycler." It is amusing, sometimes, to see the guests, who are generally convalescents, more or less, start up in surprise at the tremendous appetite of our brethren. I have seen the smiling countenance of many an innkeeper grow long with astonishment to behold a club of touring wheelmen devour their table d'hote dinner like a pack of hungry wolves.

Before we entered the inn a pile of enormous rocks, just below, aroused our interest. This is the "Teufelsmuhle" (Devil's Mill). Here's the legend:

A poor miller, to better his reduced condition, made a bargain with the evil one, who promised to help him build a mill on the spot before daybreak. Almost all is ready, when the miller, in terrible excitement, drops the last huge block, which rolls down the mountain A rooster, at this moment, announces the dawn of day, and, with a wild roar, Satanas hurls the picked-up rock through the air, smashing mill and miller.

While we are busy with our breakfast, let me tell you how I once came down from here, over the road we have just traversed. You remember, that it winds through some very lonely and deserted parts, suggestive of scenery from the "Walkyre," then again through thick underbrush, an ideal working-ground for stage robbers and garroters a la Jesse James.

Well, in '84, when I made my first tour, afoot, I didn't know any of the roads. I was detained up here rather late, first sketching the "devil's mill," and afterwards listening to its legend and the stories of some guides. As I was travelling, minus a guide, I suppose I incited the wrath of one of them, and he endeavored to give me a good scare. I am sorry to say, he succeeded only too well. When informed that I intended walking down to Alexisbad, he told me to hurry up, as it would not be safe on the deserted paths of the Ramberg at night.

"Unsafe! Why?"

"Because there are vagabonds lying in ambush."

'Vagabonds?"

"Yes, sir. Only last week an Englishman was knocked senseless and robbed of his money and watch. They found him in the morning unconscious, at the foot of the mountain, near the ditches, just this side of the bushes."

"And did not the police scour the vicinity after the miscreants?"

"O, certainly, but no one knows who the scoundrels are. There are lots of workmen, discharged from the iron-huts about Magdesprung, who would shy at nothing when driven by the want of food. They will not give each other away, either. I would advise you, sir, not to go down tonight."

"Well, then I shall stay here."

"Impossible sir, there are no lodgings obtainable at this inn "

"Then I'll ride with you. Where are you bound for?"

"Geruode, sir, but there is no room for you in our carriage, it is already overfilled. And now I must bid you good-night, sir; there is a storm approaching."

He called to the driver, and the vehicle went off. The landlord affirmed the guide's assertion that he could not keep me over night. Having posted my baggage ahead to Alexisbad, I had no choice but to follow it.

First all went well, and I fairly jumped down the mountain. But when I had travelled this way for half an hour, and neared the fatal spot the guide had spoken of, an uncomfortable feeling came over me. It was darkening faster than usual, for clouds were gathering, and as if word for word of the guide should come true, far-off thunder now struck my ear, and large raindrops were falling. My fantasy was rapidly working out visions of the devil and the miller, and blackened cyclops with busy hammers, bending over the postrate body of an unfortunate traveller. I fought down these imaginations and hurried on; scarcely could I distinguish the road. Suddenly I came to a stop. A terrible gust of wind writhed and shook a clump of bushes in front of me, and just at this moment a flash of lightning showed what I supposed to be a big man, crouching behind a tree! Instinctively I felt that I stood on the very dreaded spot. I heard the water gurgling in the ditches at my feet, and now the thunder set loose, rolling and waking the echoes below in the valleys. I grabbed for my revolver and raised the hammer, but I knew at the same time that it would be useless, for how did I know but what there were others lying in wait behind the opposite rocks, which I would have to pass. I could hear my teeth chatter, my hat raised on my hairs' ends. But I must pass that tree——so, picking up all my courage, with a wild bound, I made for the tree and clutched——another tree behind it.

Well, it did not take me long to reach Alexisbad. Bathed in perspiration, mud-bespattered and drenched, I got to my hotel and went to bed. I did not even get rest then, for visions and dreams made me start up with a loud cry several times.

Next day I found out from Mr. Forsterling, mine host, that a robbery was an unknown thing in the vicinity, and the guide had been practising a hoax on me.

"TONEY."

SECRETARY CARTWRIGHT of the Somerville Cycle Club is kept so busy looking after the welfare of his Vandike that the duty of keeping "Toney" posted on matters appertaining to the organization have fallen upon the broad shoulders of its ever genial Captain, Mr. McCausland, and in a letter to me this week he says that the only trouble with "Toney's" letters are that they are not voluminous enough, and that I take a vacation once a fortnight. Well, we have got to make our peace with the desk editor and compositors by giving them time to revive from the effects of one letter before springing another, and the only way in which I can accomplish it is to keep quiet for a week at a time; but hereafter we will endeavor to kill both, that is if they will only give me time enough. But aside from this the Somerville Cycle Club has recently received a new club flag, presented by Capt. Cubberly as a remembrance of his connection of two years as Captain of the club. The flag will be formally presented to the club at its annual dinner at the Quincy House next Thursday evening.

The annual banquet of the Chelsea Ramblers occurred at the Quincy House last Wednesday evening, too late to publish anything in relation thereto.

THE members of the Rovers Cycle Club of Charlestown are busy superintending the work of paper hangers, who have taken possession of the headquarters, and are endeavoring to make it one of the prettiest club headquarters in the little village of Pigtown.

THE Springfield Bicycle Club and the Springfield Athletic Association are considering the advisability of amalgamating their forces for the coming season, and running several athletic and wheeling events.

IT is the concensus of opinion among the wheelmen that the spring meet will be held at Worcester on Decoration Day, and that the cyclists of Lynn will not have the honor of entertaining the League.

THE Somerville Cycle Club have practically opened the riding season, for last Sunday no less than five of its members rode "way round the reservoir and back."

DETROIT.

"JUDGE."

HERE we are again. Had a little vacation, that is all; some people seem to think because my notes have stopped that things bicycular have also stopped; dead wrong; in the first place I am not the "official correspondent" of the D. W., so never hold them responsible for what I say, and next I have been unable through illness to tell you what has and is being done towards taking care of and entertaining you next July. A gentleman from Chicago (he is the president of the Assd. Cycling Clubs), recently called on our president and expressed himself as much disappointed because we were doing nothing. He was soon convinced of his error, and now thinks a special train will run from Chicago carrying between four and five hundred "Windy City Wheelmen."

THE editorial in the last Referee is false. Mr. Griffith never said that Detroit simply wanted the meet for the money that was in it. As to the championship races the general sentiment seems to be we are better off without them. The two greatest race meets ever held were at Peoria and Hartford. Were either of them L. A. W. championships? We cannot hold this meet after the G. A. R. has been here, the meet would be the tamest kind of an affair. It must be held at the dates we have named. As for races we shall have races and prizes to race for, and the racing cream of the country will be here to compete.

ALL the committees for the coming meet have been appointed and have gone to work. The one which interests outsiders the most is the hotel committee; they will probably ask for no reduction from regular rates, simply a dollar's worth in return for a dollar; a bed for every man, and good, first-class meals. Large parties coming to the meet will have no trouble if they put themselves in communication with this committee. Address Detroit Wheelmen, Detroit (Hotel Com.)

GEORGE LANE is the coming fast safety man for the State; this leaves Jones and Hulett of Port Huron to fight it on the ordinary. Our "little un" is all right, so with Lane on the safety and Jones on the ordinary, Detroit should make a good showing in any State affairs.

THE Detroit wheelmen have promised to buy a painting from the collection to be shown during June at the Art Museum.

I'LL tell you all about our cycle show, etc., "next week at two o'clock."

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

"PALISADES."

GEORGE G. TELLER of the Cranford Cycling Club is not only a veteran but an enthusiastic cycler as well. He was formerly Captain of the Long Island Wheelmen, and his advent into Cranford caused the formation of a wheeling club at that place. With A. P. Folk as a co-worker, and with good roads as an additional inducement, this club will greatly increase in numbers and develop some good racing men.

CHIEF CONSUL BROWN has appointed E. M. Moore of Irvington and Dr. Wm. P. Richards of Orange, local consuls for their respective localities.

WITH deep regret we chronicle the demise of the Irvington Wheelmen. A very decided lack of interest on the part of members is said to be the cause. As there are many wheelmen at Irvington, we trust Local Consul Moore will soon take measures to organize a new club.

THE Montclair Wheelmen held a reception Tuesday evening, March 17th.

THE Plainfield Bicycle Club have formed from their members an excellent base ball nine. A ten-mile road race is on the tapis for the early spring, and an enthusiastic officer will offer a diamond mileage medal for season of '91.

THE Bergen County Wheelmen hold their annual meeting next month, and as these meetings are so exciting and call out so large an attendance, Fairview Hall has been engaged for the occasion. They will incorporate soon after the new officers are elected, and proceed at once with the new club house.

THE Atalanta Wheelmen of Newark celebrated their fifth anniversary last week. The anniversary of their twenty-first birthday was prematurely described by W. V. Belknap.

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF CYCLING.

Volume XXII. Number 22. BOSTON, 27 MARCH, 1891 $1.00 a Year. 5 cents a copy

Can any one tell us where to find the Pope Manufacturing Company? We are receiving many letters from riders over the country; the unanimous verdict of the writers being that on the merits of the case the Pope Mfg. Co. should pay the L. A. W. $5000 in accordance with the terms of our proposition.

We are grateful to those who have sent us such large and valuable contributions of facts and suggestions for use in this controversy, but having now more of such matter than we can hope ever to use, we will ask "that further donations be held till called for."

Have you seen the new Victor Catalogue?

Please note that it will not be sent to those who do not ask for it—this for several reasons.

You will find it worth asking for, and it will be mailed on receipt of your request.

Perhaps we may be pardoned if we say that you may expect to find it a better catalogue than has been issued by bicycle makers heretofore. We dislike to say this as we are naturally modest, of a retiring nature, usually claim something less than we are entitled to claim, although our claims are naturally apt to make jealous competitors uneasy.

You will find our bicycles for 1891 numerous, and about as good as they can be made.

You will also find that a Victor Cushion Tire will reveal new phases of bicycling. Your first day on a Victor Cushion Tire will be a red letter day. You will ride over roads which you have not heretofore attempted.

You will find the difference between a Victor Cushion Tire and a hose pipe tire. You will find why it is that makers who furnish hose pipe tires say they cannot recommend them and are afraid to warrant them.

Several years ago, when I was wealthy and lived in Boston, I had occasion to have some boys arrested for the heinous crime of throwing stones through the shop windows. One of these boys was a hard case. He had been arrested several times and took pride in calling himself "the champion tough of the South Cove." He even tried to "whang my knob wid a rock" while I held him, awaiting the assistance of the "copper." The other showed unmistakable symptoms of being a really good boy who had fallen into bad company, and, boy fashion, he felt obliged to do as the other did. In the Police Court next morning the officer and myself were called on by the Judge to say what we thought ought to be done with the boys.

With my usual modesty, I allowed the other man to do the talking and his judgment was that the bad boy ought to be let off with a reprimand, and that the good boy should be fined. After asking some of the questions over again, to make sure that he had not misunderstood, the Judge said: "Why do you advocate punishing more severely the boy whom you admit is the least to blame?" The only reason that he would give was that the father of the good boy was better able to pay.

I had nearly forgotten the case, until recently I received a call from a man relative to the possible purchase of a Hickory Bicycle for his son.

He said he would prefer to have the front wheel as large as the rear one, and very naturally we asked him why? He gave a very original answer. It was: "Because it looks better, runs easier, and steers steadier."

"Did you ever ride one of these machines?"

"No, I never rode any bicycle."

"Then how do you know about it."

"Well! ——— is a friend of mine and he has been in the bicycle business three years and he told me so.

"Did he ever ride one of the Hickory Safeties?"

"No, he has not, but he knows because he is in the Bicycle business.

"You might as well say he knows because he has red hair, or a milk leg, but if your friend will submit for trial under all practical conditions by some disinterested rider one of the machines he sells, in competition with the Hickory, you shall take the one that makes the best showing and we will be satisfied.

To this he readily assented, and we had the pleasure of selling him a "wooden" machine a week later. His line of reasoning was so similar that I told him the story as above, and he then admitted that he was the officer (a fact which I had already suspected), but that he had since reformed and was now driving a herdic. "And," he added, "I don't mind telling you now that it has all gone by, that that boy's mother was my cousin." I also found out that the boy is serving a term in the reform school on account of a misunderstanding he had with some officer who didn't take the interest in him that he had learned to expect.

I have the boy's address and shall try to sell him a Hickory Bicycle as soon as he gets out. If I can in that way save him, I shall believe that "All's well that ends well."

STERLING ELLIOTT,

P. S. A gentleman who lives in a prohibition state, writes to know if the Hickory Wheels will stand in a dry place without shrinking. He tells us that the ladies there sometimes get so dry that their hoops fall off. We are inclined to think that this man is trying to be funny, but will answer his question. Any bicycle should be kept in a dry place always. A rain, or even falling in the river, will not hurt a hickory wheel, though it kept for a considerable time in a damp cellar the wood tends to swell, and, of course, the metal will rust.

BROTHER ELLIOTT SAYS WOOD WHEELS.
OTHERS SAY IRON WHEELS.
STILL OTHERS STEEL WHEELS.
WE SAY BUY WHEELS.
BUY THE BEST.

We are young in years, young in the bicycle business, and we may handle young wheels as far as America goes, but there is one thing young and old America for that matter knows, and that is that English wheels are far superior to American makes, as a rule, and a wheel with a reputation in Europe ought to be good enough for anyone. Such a wheel was and is the Catford. Every dealer in Boston said in the young spring of '90: "It won't stand, it's too light." We told you all this was bosh. Were we right? Answer, Young America. Do you want a Catford for '91? They come high, but they have a BIG reputation now. Do you want a wheel that costs less and is just as good, lacking reputation in America? We say get a Sunbeam, and we are the same Hustlers that told you to get a Catford in the young spring of '90. Some of you did, and you got there, others did not and wish they had. Now don't make a mistake in '91.

When we thought we would enter the field of bicycle dealers in '90, we did so for one reason only. We had tried the Catford, rode the Catford, bought a Catford, and found it the best wheel we ever saw. We knew it had no reputation in New England, but there is a time when we all lack reputation, and we trust we can make a reputation without calling every other wheel on the market rotten. All wheels have some good points, but the Catfords and Sunbeams have so MANY good points that we do not have to run down other wheels to get there. Look at our Double Diamond Sunbeam, and then look at its American imitation—you all know the wheel. Question.—If some well-known makes of American wheels are so fine, why do they continually change styles and shapes, and invariably take some well-known English make for a model? Echo answers, why? We answer: Because they know a good thing when they see it.

Union Cycles Win the Race.

In consequence of the great demand for our Spring Framed Bicycles, necessitating all the office hands turning out to make crates, we have been unable to prepare our usual dose for this space. We are, therefore, obliged to resort to printing a letter, which is a fair sample of the kind which we get from our Western friends.

Gentlemen:—We duly received your circular-letter in which you justly put forward the claims your UNION ANTI-VIBRATORY BICYCLES have on overworked editors. We are with you in spirit, (you can take the literal meaning of this phrase if you choose), but not in cash. There are so many, many calls on a man in our position, who runs a great weekly newspaper, a butcher shop, grocery, saddlery, shoe shop, millinery store and signal service bureau, all under one roof, that we find it hard at times to produce the lucre. We at first thought of making a trade for one gross extension nightcaps (warranted all wool), fifty-four handkerchiefs with a "friend in need" worked on them in red silk, and two elegant galvanized iron cuspadors, on which is stenciled that trite legend, "a miss is as good as a mile." We say that we thought of making a trade for a bicycle with the articles mentioned, as they are so much dead stock on our hands, the residents on this reser——

Be patient, boys, the Pneumatics are coming through. You will get all you want three weeks from now. Twenty goes out this week. Twenty next week, and the week following one hundred; after that time from four to six hundred every week and more if you need them. They will be beauties, and will give you more speed and comfort than you can imagine. This is what Mr. E. R. Shipton, Editor of the C. T. C. Gazette, says of the pneumatic tire:

"As now manufactured, the pneumatic tire gives us no more anxiety than the solid one, while the increase in comfort and the luxurious riding is simply indescribable. The tires upon this, our latest machine, do not require re-inflating more than once a week under normal conditions, and the labor required is too trifling to be worthy of consideration."

C. W. FOURDRINIER. J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 27 MARCH, 1891.

THERE is a tendency from some quarters to criticise the selection of Mr. Randall of Chicago as Chairman of the Racing Board. So far as we can hear the objections are not based on any knowledge of unfitness for the place, but rather rest on the fact that this important position has been awarded to a Western man This does not seem a very broad view to take of the matter; the moment sectional jealousy sways one's judgment, that moment the strength of the League is impaired, and its usefulness threatened. What the League wants is efficient officers, and whether they come from the North, South, East or West matters not. Let us avoid sectional jealousies as we would the plague.

TRANS-CONTINENTAL tours are now-a-days such common affairs that they scarcely create comment. The story of transit from ocean to ocean on a cycle is no longer a seven days' wonder, and the globe-circling cycles will in the near future cease to excite more than passing notice, if the craze for wheeling round the world continues to increase. It is doubtful if Stevens' wheel tracks will ever be closely followed in his attempt to cross Afghanistan, but it will be one of "the things" to do to wheel through Europe into Asia Minor, and then take the steamer to India, etc. Such a tour is planned by Messrs. E. E. Stearns and Geo. D. Mitchell of Washington, and they anticipate starting about the middle of May.

THESE trans-continental round-the-world tours are great all round educators as to the real practical value of the cycle as a means of locomotion. It would be possible to walk across the continent, or round the world for that matter, still none will dispute but that the wheel very much reduces the physical effort requisite to accomplish either one of the undertakings.

FOR seeing countries where the roads are any way decent there is no doubt that the cycle is the best medium known. We confess to a certain lack of the Spartan element in our make up which would be necessary to make us find pleasure in the privations and dangers of cycling through semi-civilized or entirely barbaric countries. Man is a curious creature, however, and he loves to contemplate the accomplishment of the difficult and dangerous task. We have noticed, however, that the man who thus accomplished the "world girdling" feat on the wheel, or crossed this continent by the same means does not display any over-weaning anxiety to repeat the experiment.

WE are sorry that Detroit will not run the National Championships at the annual meet this summer. It seems to us that the National Meet and the National Championships ought to be unseparable. We hope for the sake of the Detroiters that the results of the meet will not show that they have made a mistake in not taking on the Championships.

OUR correspondent "Linneus" sends us this little glimpse of cycling in "Lightest Africa:"

"It seems strange that so little is heard of South Africa in a cycling way that the world at large is practically ignorant of the existence of numerous cycling clubs in that portion of the Dark Continent. My surprise can be imagined when I was shown a photograph of the Johannisburg Cycling Club of Johannisburg, South Africa, which embraces nearly 100 wheelmen, all members of this club. This valuable souvenir was presented to the Cycling Club by their former associate, William Corlin, who is now a resident of the city named. Another photograph shows a start on the race track, which must be of immense width, as no less than twenty-five men are on the tape facing the starter. Corlin writes that on account of their large track they have adopted the unique system of handicapping by placing the fastest men on the outside. The wheelmen, taken as a whole, are as fine a set of well looking men as I have even seen, and are all clothed in a uniform consisting of white knickerbockers and coats of a dark cloth. The helmet is worn by these African cyclers. Excepting the men on the race track, not a man clad in tights was visible, and this will, no doubt, be comforting news to our friend "Hawkshaw."

A VALUED correspondent sends us the following, which we think worthy a place in the editorial columns:

"Nothing that I know of is more injurious to the health and wind of a cyclist than the pernicious habit of smoking cigarettes on a run. In spite of this fact many wheelmen indulge in this ruinous practice, and are generally the first to get "winded" on a spurt or long hill. Then there are others who disgust their friends and try to bankrupt a hotel by eating everything there is in sight, and mount their wheels with an abnormally developed paunch. It only requires a little extra strain to settle this man for life."

A WRITER in Standard Union of Brooklyn remarks that "our forefathers would open their eyes if they could see the several fortunes on bicycles which roll along the avenues of Brooklyn on a sunshiny afternoon." The difference between our forefathers and present papas would seem to be that the past generations would "open their eyes" while the present have to open their pocketbooks.

MOST of the committees have been appointed as will appear in the Official column. The make up of the Racing Board will be scanned with much interest. The appointment of Mr. Randall as chairman will be viewed as a good choice, and the accession of Mr. Abbot Bassett as a member will be universally endorsed as a wise one. His experience during the stormy period of '85, '86, and his knowledge of racing matters will bring strength and solidity to the committee. The retention of two of the old members of the Board, Messrs. Atwater and Collister, will ensure the fact that the policy of the recent Racing Board will receive recognition at the hands of the "new brooms." We think it a wise policy to continue some of the old blood in the new committee; by this means the new members can be kept thoroughly posted as to the actions and the reasons thereof of the recent Board, and thereby direct all future moves with more intelligent sequence than if the entire Board had been composed of new men.

WE are especially glad to note the name of Mr. A. Mott as chairman of one of the committees. Mr. Mott is deserving of recognition, and therefore we are pleased to see his name among those of the appointed.

AND so Philadelphia will make a big pull for the League Championships. Chicago will haul at the other end of the rope—a veritable tug of war.

OUR good friend "Hawkshaw" some weeks ago rather discouraged the running of races by the light of electricity. His views brought forth a letter from a Louisville gentleman which was referred to "Hawkshaw" for reply. Hear what he says:

"Recently I 'sung a little song' in these notes, anent out of door cycle racing by electric light. I said then that I thought the idea should find a page for itself in that practical little book, the title of which is, "Don't." I spoke then from a limited experience, and perhaps may have only been betraying my own ignorance when I thought I was airing my profound wisdom. Perhaps nothing has taken such giant strides toward perfection as electric lighting has, in the last half of the present decade. Problems that a few years ago were considered beyond solution have by the teeming brains of inventors been solved and shelved, and I, perhaps, lost track of all of this when I advised the Kentucky Division to beware how they attempted to make night racing a success at their meet on June 26 and 27. I am in receipt of official and satisfactory evidence that the causes which made attempts of this kind fail in the past, no longer exist, and the racing man can now enjoy himself upon a track lit by electricity, without being subject to the annoyance of having his shadow for a pacemaker. I am glad, indeed, to know that this is so, and sincerely hope that the energetic Louisville wheelmen will, in their forthcoming trial, demonstrate it to be as safe and satisfactory racing as that by daylight, for if they do so, the thanks of the racing world will be theirs. Think of the new field it will open up. First-class tracks are always hard to secure on desirable dates, racing men who, during the day must labor that they may live, will find in a well-lit race track at night, a boon such as they have long waited for. A new form of amusement will open to the public, a racing possibility greater than has ever been thought of will be brought into existence. All of this and more depends upon the success of the Kentucky Division's innovation, and from the bottom of my heart I wish them the greatest of successes, as I am sure does every wheelman in this country and Europe.

A TOUR TO DETROIT.

MR. PHIN. S. HUNT of Grand Rapids has made partial arrangements for a tour awheel from Grand Rapids, Mich., and so far as made they will be as follows: The party will leave Grand Rapids on the morning of the 12th of July and will spend a half day in Lansing, the capital city, which has some of the finest streets in the State and many interesting sights to a stranger. D. C. Stewart, president of the Lansing Wheelmen, assures the management that the Lansing wheelmen will try to pay off an old debt of gratitude which they have owed the G. R. B. Club since the State meet in Grand Rapids three years ago. Mr. Hunt has so far selected the very best roads in the State for the route. The Wolverine Wheelmen of Ann Arbor, Mich. (about 30 strong), will join the party at that point if the tourists pass through that place. Two of the Lincoln Club of Chicago have made inquiries this early, and Mr. Hunt expects to get a few recruits from Muskegon as well. For particulars address Phin. S. Hunt, 646 So. Division street, Grand Rapids, Mich.

A. A. Zimmerman in writing to the Philadelphia Item gives the following as his best times for several distances: "My best time for one mile is 2.33 2-5, made at Peoria, Ill., on September 13, 1890; my best time for a half-mile is 1.12 3-5, made at Peoria, September 15, 1890; I made a half-mile in 1.14 1-2 at Syracuse, N. Y., in a half-mile race on September 1, 1890; I also made a half-mile at Syracuse on September 2, 1890, in a trial in 1.13. I have been informed that my mile in 2.33 2-5 and my half-mile in 1.14 1-2 are the fastest times ever made in races. * *."

BOSTON NOTES.

"TONEY."

THE Massachusetts Club men have at last awakened from their dormant condition to a true realization of the duty they have before them; the duty of rejuvenating the old and honored organization, and placing Boston in the front rank of cycledom, where she ought to have been long before this, with a well organized and properly maintained bicycle club that will be an honor, not to the city alone, but also to the manly sport of wheeling. They have given up all idea of having a dining and riding club, and the new scheme of securing a club house out of town is one that ought to receive the support and encouragement of every well meaning cyclist in this vicinity. Every wheelman owes something to the sport that has helped place self propulsion within his power, and although every applicant for membership will not be admitted, there are fully 300 representatives of the sport between here and Newton who will be gladly welcomed in the organization. The idea which is original on this side of the water with these gentlemen is one that has been a success in the mother country, and there is no reason why it should not be so here in America.

THE annual meeting of the Massachusetts Bicycle Club will be held at the Hotel Thorndike on the evening of April 7, when the all important question of increasing the membership to 300 and leasing a club house in the City of Newton will come up for consideration. There is no doubt but what the members will turn out in full force and do their duty both to the club and the sport.

WHAT is this I hear? The progressive Massachusetts Division providing for a racing and parade committee. I and a great many others had an idea that the Division had long since passed the stage of wheeling parades, the most disagreeable feature of the meets of the present period. It may be all right to have a parade once or twice a year, but why under the sun does the Division want a parade committee. Has she not enough business to occupy the time and attention of her officials without adding a parade committee to her already large list of committees? A racing committee is what is needed, and she ought to have one, but gentlemen, when you come to pass upon that clause providing for a parade committee, just take a blue or black pencil and strike it from out the Constitution of this Division. If there were any need or use of such a committee one could understand the reason why it should be appointed, but when the committee on meets can arrange sufficient parades to satisfy the average wheelmen for the time being, it seems absurd to appoint such a committee.

DURING the Road Improvement hearing at the State House last Tuesday morning a gray haired old gentlemen, namely ex-Mayor Stone of Charlestown, now a resident of Revere, arose in opposition to the passage of the bill, and in delivering his address he pointed directly to Chief Consul Arthur W. Robinson and delivered the following: "When I listened to that young man's address last week, and heard him speak about the poor farming and the great trouble the farmers have with poor roads I thought he was the son of a farmer. But what was my surprise upon reaching home and reading the evening paper to find that he was one of those "bicycle men." This caused a titter to run through the hall, and the Chief Consul felt highly flattered to find that he had been taken for a farmer. Vice Consul Perkins smiled a ghastly smile, and looked as though he were anxious to deliver himself of some pent up eloquency, but was refraining from fear of hurting the old gentleman's feelings.

SPEAKING about road improvements reminds me that the offer of ex-Gov. Goodell of New Hampshire to the town of Antrim to keep all the highways and bridges in repair from the time the snow leaves in the spring till snow covers them in the winter, has been accepted by the town, which has agreed to pay $1000 for such services. This does not include damages by extraordinary freshets.

THE honorable Secretary and Captain of the Somerville Cycle Club, having forgotten that I was still in existence, have failed to send me any news, so that the only thing I can say about the organization is that it is still alive and kicking, despite the fact that it tried to devour the Quincy House last Thursday evening, on the occasion of its annual banquet.

THE Charlestown Rovers having tendered a whist party to their numerous lady friends are now expecting that the said lady friends will turn around and present them with something nice to look upon. But even this does not seem to trouble them much, for they are awfully busy preparing for their prospective minstrel show, which will probably occur next month.

THE Roxbury Bicycle Club will endeavor to open the riding season by taking a short run on Fast Day, as will also the Medford, Somerville, Cambridgeport Club and the Charlestown Rovers.

DETROIT.

"JUDGE."

I SEE by the last WORLD that a "thirteen club" was formed in Philadelphia "after the opera was over," and that my old friend Sumner L. Beals was third oldest in the party. Sumner "me bye," let some of us hear from you, we still have a very tender place for you in each Star heart, good and true. I also noticed among the members the names C. S. Merrill and W. L. Bridgeman.

I CAN hardly make up my mind as to whether the excellent new correspondent on the Bearings' staff writing from this city is my friend or not. First in a very pretty piece of sarcasm he says at the conclusion of a criticism on my recent article on Prince: "As for Prince he is a mighty good fellow (right here let me indorse that) and as for 'Judge,' ahem, well you can 'Judge' for yourselves." Rather hard, eh! Then at the conclusion of the awful roast he gave Schimmel, he says: "Let Schimmel remember that it is not always the largest man who has things his own way. He tried to bulldoze 'Judge' the other night and made a very bad mess of it."

WE do not allow the fact that we have over three months in which to prepare for the meet to deter us from immediate activity; all committees have been appointed, have elected chairmen and Secretaries. The committee which interests you all is the hotel. We have between 25 and 30 hotels, all in the heart of the city, and where accommodations can be had from a dollar to ten dollars a day. If you are going to bring a large party put yourself in communication with the Secretary of this committee, Mr. F. H. Griffith (this is not our President A. H. Griffith, we've two of 'em.) Rest assured we shall take care of you, and that you will receive the worth of your money.

LAST Sunday our President repeated his excellent talk on the "Causes of the Civil War." These talks were the outcome of the vote of the club on Sunday games, the majority voting against games of any kind in the club house on Sunday. They have been a great success, and have proved good educators. Last Sunday, the 22d, Mr. Fred A. Ballen of the Detroit Boat Works gave an illustrated talk on how boats are built. The average attendance at these talks has exceeded 50.

NEXT Monday will see the start of the second professional race in Jack Prince's series. It will be a twenty-four hour race, four hours a day. Prince will start, also Ashinger, the winner of the forty-eight hour race. Reading and Clark will also start. I see Pete in the last Bearings states I won $25 on the recent professional race here, he is way off; I did not. [Did you lose?—ED.].

CHICAGO.

"WAYNE SCOTT."

The Century Wheelmen. Such will be the title of the latest cycling organization. To be eligible for membership a wheelman must have ridden the circuit of Elgin-Aurora and return in a day. This course is an assortment of all descriptions of road construction, including a number of steep hills, and many is the wheelman who has fallen by the wayside or found the railroad a convenience in reaching home. An initiation fee will be charged and small dues. This money to be expended for handsome badges for the members. To these badges a bar will be added each time the member successfully accomplishes the distance inside of twenty-four hours. The course is about 102 miles in length.

AT an impromptu meeting at the Washington Cycling club house one evening last week, over a thousand dollars was quickly raised towards the club's new house. This club, although it has passed through a veritable baptism of fire, is still plucky, and will, by spring, be nicely located in a house of their own.

THAT Ravenswood track scheme! ! Don't speak above a whisper. A meeting was held of the Ravenswood citizens, and a branch of the Y. M. C. A. was formed. "Money makes the mare go," and it was money that talked at this meeting. Mr. R J. Bennett, an arch-enemy to billiards, pool, tobacco and Sunday practice on the track, magnanimously offered to build a two-story (80x60 feet) building, and give it rent free for five years, and money accomplished this. There will be no track in Ravenswood.

THE Æolus Cycling Club gave a musical and literary entertainment Wednesday evening, and 850 tickets were taken in at the door. As tickets were 50 cents, and all expenses were cleared on the advertising in the programme, the club netted a neat little sum toward the library fund. The entertainment was excellent and was well carried out.

THE Chicago Cycling Club indoor team has won a larger percentage of games than any other of the many indoor ball teams. The Æolus team has been very successful and is now tie with the Arions for the championship honors of the Northwest League. A cycling club league will, no doubt, be a feature of next season's winter doings.

ECONOMY has been practiced by the Lake View Cycling Club. Going without a club house the last winter they have accumulated enough money to furnish their club house complete. This club has organized a racing board, of which the captain is chairman. This board will have charge of all the club's races and represent the club in such races as the men compete in, and fix handicaps, buy and award medals, etc. They are still adverse to Sunday racing, but rescinded the clause in their constitution which prohibited official club runs.

CAPTAIN ROBERTS of the Illinois Cycling Club has conducted a run nearly every Sunday this year. Last Sunday it was a circle of the Parks, next Sunday a party of Chicago club men say they will join with the Illinois in their run. This is as it should be.

THE first grand concert of the Douglas Cycling Club was given Friday evening at Apollo Hall. Fifty wheels were used in the decorations of the hall. These were gaily decorated in club colors. An excellent programme was followed by a dance.

THE Cook County Wheelmen will give a grand reception and dance at the West Chicago Club, Thursday evening, April 2.

ON all the books of run cards so far seen, not one but has a run scheduled for Rockford to the Illinois Division meet, July Fourth.

PLANS for the Oak Park Cycling Club's new house have been accepted, and work will be started immediately.

A PLUCKY rider is Mrs. H. F. Akin. Mr. Akin is a member of both the Illinois and Oak Park Cycling Clubs. Last August Mrs. Akin took probably the longest day's ride ever taken by a Chicago lady rider over country roads. To Joliet and return, a distance of 76 miles, and after the completion of this long trip was anxious to continue the ride to complete a century. At 4 o'clock the next morning she was again in the saddle and took an early breakfast at Hinsdale, returning before 8 o'clock. Mrs. Akin frequently took such trips, although none of them were as far as the Joliet trip. Her total mileage last year was very close to 3000.

PENNSYLVANIA.

"ARIEL."

CHIEF CONSUL BOYLE has formally accepted on behalf of the Pennsylvania Division, Maryland's invitation to attend the Hagerstown meet on July 3d and 4th, and there will be a large delegation present from Philadelphia. In fact the majority of our club men will go to Hagerstown in preference to Detroit.

THE first in the field for a road race this season are the Outing Wheelmen, who will hold a five-mile club championship race over the Century course from Haverford to Bala on Montgomery avenue next month if weather permits; if not, in May. A handsome gold medal will reward the efforts of the winner.

PRIZES and medals galore will reward the efforts of the club man who is industrious in his attendance on the club runs this year. Likewise the man who rolls up by unremitting industry the heaviest mileage. The Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Century, South End, Park Avenue, Quaker City, Referee, Oxford, Mount Vernon, Wissahickon, and now the Time Wheelmen have offered prizes for each of these purposes.

THE Time Wheelmen will give a musical and literary entertainment at St. George's Hall on April 16th.

A PROGRESSIVE novelty party was given by the Fairmount Lady Cyclers on Monday evening at the residence of Miss Enberg, 432 Franklin street, which was largely attended by the members and their friends, among whom were representatives from several of the cycling clubs. The Fairmounts are increasing their membership slowly but surely, and have quite a lot of new names for membership in the club with the opening of the riding season.

IT will be good news to the many friends of Mrs. Charles Sulzner of the Fairmount Lady Cyclers to learn that she is once more about after a severe illness.

SEVERAL important actions were taken by the Century Wheelmen at their regular monthly meeting. In order to provide for the erection of the proposed gymnasium, $5000 were appropriated, and bonds to cover the additional expense have been issued and subscribed for. The limit of active membership, which has been two hundred, has been removed in order to provide for the admission of new members, and the club also increased the annual dues for active and associate members to eighteen and fifteen dollars respectively. The alterations to the club house will be begun at once, and the plans when carried out will give Century one of the finest gymnasiums attached to any cycling club house in the country. It was also decided to hold a race meet this spring, which will probably be given on the grounds of the Tioga Athletic Association at Westmoreland station, Tioga.

ANOTHER amateur theatrical entertainment will be given by the Century Wheelmen in their wheel room on April 8th, which will be combined with a musicale and dance. Since their last entertainment, which scored such a success, they have had the stage enlarged, procured new scenery and secured new talent.

AT the last meeting of the Quaker City Wheelmen, the vexed question of lady membership caused several changes and resignations. The older and more conservative members, headed by ex-Captain James Artman, who is a tower of strength to the organization, can be depended on to place the club on its proper footing again.

THE principal social events of the week were the dancing class of the Philadelphia Bicycle Club at the club house on Tuesday evening; the Pennsylvania Bicycle Club's progressive euchre party on Wednesday night; the Lehigh Wheelmen's theatre party at the Grand Opera House on Wednesday night, and the informal dance given by the Park Avenue Wheelmen at the club house, Thursday evening. All of these affairs were largely attended, showing that there is no indication as yet of the social season being on the wane.

OWING to the success of their last dance, the Park Avenue Wheelmen have decided to give a closing one at St. George's Hall on April 15th, and have issued invitations accordingly. The patronesses will be Mrs. Chas. D. Phillips, Mrs. C. C. Douglass, Mrs. David S. Bunnell and Mrs. George W. Curtis.

THE Social Committee of the Park Avenue Wheelmen has arranged to hold a smoker and entertainment in the bicycle riding school of Strong & Green on Thursday evening, April 2d.

ALTERATIONS will be begun shortly by the South End Wheelmen to the property recently purchased by them at the corner of Broad and Morris streets for the purpose of adapting the same to the uses of a club house. The property is a three-story building with a basement, upon a lot 70x124 feet, which will give them space for future enlargement. The wheel room, which will accommodate 150 machines, will be in the basement, while the front of the first floor will be used as a parlor, the back part being rebuilt as one large room to be used for reception purposes. On the second floor will be the meeting, billiard and directors' rooms, with a wide veranda surrounding the house. The dressing and bath rooms will be on the third floor, and a gymnasium will be fitted up in course of time. The club expects to be housed by June, and the entrance fee and dues will in all probability be increased when they take possession.

STILL another addition to our thirty odd clubs. This time they call themselves the Juniper Cycle Club, with Mr. Edward Smith as Captain.

PORKOPOLIS NOTES.

"STAR."

IT was really unkind in "Non-Contestant" to call me a mouthpiece. Just think of it! A mouthpiece! and that too so soon after I had had the small pox and the fits! Why, it is simply outrageous! If this thing keeps on I will soon be afraid to step out of my front door lest some one may be lying in wait for me armed with a—nosegay.

FRED SPICKER was in the city the other day with his pockets full of applications to the L. A. W., which he had secured while on a trip through the State. If others would follow his example the L. A. W. would soon have Representatives in every locality where there are wheelmen.

THE Board of Police Commissioners sat down on the proposition of our redoubtable Chief of Police to mount the roundsmen in certain districts on wheels, possibly through the belief that bicycle riding is beyond the capabilities of the average policeman.

CINCINNATI has been unfortunate for the past year and a half in that all street improvements have been in the control of a Board that has been the football of politics. When the present Legislature came into power they replaced the Board of Public Affairs by the Board of Public Improvements. This Board was ousted in turn at a special session of the same Legislature, and was replaced by a Board of City Affairs. The Board of Public Improvement did not relish being thus summarily deposed, and appealed to the courts and were reinstated about two weeks ago. The Legislature then enacted a law giving Cincinnati a new charter which replaces the Board of Public Improvement by the Board of Administration. Thus it will be seen that within the short space of a year and a half we have had five different Boards in charge of our streets, and yet some people say we are not progressive.

THE granite and asphalt pavements laid within the past five years have been a valuable object lesson to the citizens of our city. Those who stood aghast at the enormous expense of such improvements when the Four Million Bill was passed by the Legislature, and prophesied all sorts of dire calamities, are now demanding more pavements of the same kind, and the probabilities are that within the next five years an additional four million will be spent on pavements. A large part of this, however, will be spent in the suburbs, and the much maligned city of Cincinnati will then be one of the best paved and most beautiful cities in the Union.

THE latest indications are that the canal, otherwise known as the "Classic Rhine," is soon to be a thing of the past. The Legislature, which is to adjourn in a fortnight, is to be asked to authorize the city to vacate that part of it south of Findlay street and transform it into a combination railroad and boulevard, the railroad to be in tunnels with the boulevard on the surface.

IT is reported on the quiet that certain wealthy citizens residing on and near the Madisonville pike are talking of contributing a certain sum to have the part of that thoroughfare lying within the city limits widened twenty feet. If this is done it, with the part outside of the city limits which is being regraded and reconstructed, will make a magnificent drive of over seven miles through some of the most beautiful scenery in the county. In addition to the street improvements, the Park Commissioners are to spend a million dollars in improving and beautifying our parks.

IN contrast with this improvement fever one may find just the opposite condition of affairs in Covington just across the river, a city of over 40,000 inhabitants, and in reality a suburb of Cincinnati. After a great deal of difficulty a law was passed by the Kentucky Legislature authorizing the expenditure of a large sum in laying new pavements, and if there is any place in God's world that needs new pavements Covington is that place, but the "best" citizens are fighting the question and propose to enjoin the authorities if they expend a cent.

NEW ORLEANS.

"LA. DODGE."

THE officers of the Louisiana Division, L. A. W., will soon issue a call for a League run to take place 19 April. This plan of calling League runs is a very good one, and, although it has not received the support that it should, it is well to continue them. Not only does it serve to a renewed interest in League matters, but it serves to bring different clubs and unattached wheelmen into closer relation socially, and gives the new riders an opportunity to introduce themselves and learn of the advantages of League and club membership, as unattached riders are usually invited.

So far, in this section of the country, wheeling is patronized generally by the best class of the community, but cycling is increasing so rapidly that it is fast spreading to all classes and it will not be long before it will be necessasy to select cycling companions with the same care as in other fraternities of society. Even the negroes are taking to the wheel and a few can be seen on our avenues.

THERE is a plan undergoing discussion for an extensive entertainment to take place at Audubon Park for the benefit of that place, and the wheelmen of this city have been requested to assist. The Audubon Park officials are working hard to make this place, so well gifted by nature, one of the finest parks in the South, and the wheelmen of New Orleans should do all in their power to further their operations, not only because they will be specially benefited by its improvement, as this is one of the favorite resorts of the cyclists here, but from a spirit of public pride. One of the features proposed is a lantern parade through the park.

AGAIN the wheelmen of New Orleans will contest the distance over the 10-mile course from Carrollton to West End. The L. C. C. are completing arrangements for an open handicap to occur 12 April next. If the weather will present its brightest side on that day, this will likely prove one of the cycling events of this section. The record for this course is 36m. 13s., made by Mr. Cason, and it is to be hoped that Mr. Slusser will enter and decide the vexed question as to whether he or Mr. Cason can claim the title of fastest man in the South.

THE press of Louisiana, one after the other, are awakening to the need of better roads. Throughout the State the papers are agitating the question, and once the press will call the attention of the people to the advantage of good roads, the necessary legislation will soon follow. One fact that operates considerably against road improvement in this State is the levee system. The heavy taxes and large amount of the State revenue used for maintaining the levees draws extensively from funds that otherwise could be appropriated towards road improvement.

THE annual meeting and election of officers of the Louisiana Cycling Club occurs Monday, 6 April next. This is usually the most interesting time of the year to club members, and, as is always the custom, a banquet will follow the meeting.

THE Louisianas have decided to remember their lady friends at least once a month, and the second Friday of each month has been set aside as ladies' night and the house committee ordered to provide refreshments.

CAPT. GORE, of the N. O. B. C., has been hard at work for the past few months trying to bring the members out on club runs, but says that he is almost disheartened. The N. O. B. C. are a jolly good set of men at smokers or cards, but some disease has evidently attacked either them or their wheels that has interfered with their riding. Their once familiar face is hardly ever seen on the road, and scarcely appears on the avenue, and club runs are almost unknown. What is the matter, gentlemen? Has the club house project used all your cycling energy, or are you growing old? On a bright Sunday morning, or bright moonlit night, the place for a cycling club is on the road, and a club should be judged by its riding, not by its membership, uniform or club house.

THE wheelmen of New Orleans are sure to be represented in one way or the other in every important movement of the citizens. One of the members of the L. C. C., who was at one time one of the most prominent cyclists and still figures a good deal in wheeling circles, was one of the leaders in the uprising of the citizens who met to administer justice in the Parish Prison on the 14th inst. Numerous other wheelmen were also in the number, aiding by their presence and approval in one of the most important and beneficial movements that has ever occurred in this city.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

"KICK-A-FOO."

THE coming State meet here, although nearly a half year in perspective, is a stirring subject for discussion among the local cyclers. Things are moving in that direction already, and the banner is nailed to the mast. It reads "The biggest State shall have the biggest meet." The proposition has the backing of the "Rochester Wheelmen's League," an association of six clubs with an aggregate membership of over six hundred.

WHEELING interests are looking up in Rochester, although they have been well sustained through the winter. Balls, parties, concerts, races, ball games, tournaments and suppers under the patronage of the various clubs have kept things moving.

AT the approach of spring the timorous ones who have missed the pleasure of winter riding on our fine sidewalks are bringing out their wheels and touching them up for the season's sport.

THE series of indoor ball games between the Lake View Wheelmen and Genesee Bicycle Club resulted in a victory for the latter club. The games, which were played in the Washington Rink, were well patronized by the friends of the clubs, a large proportion of the spectators being ladies.

THE Genesees will soon be an incorporated club.

THE Captain of the Lake Views is now recognized as "Papa" Morgan.

MISSOURI.

"LINNEUS."

THE event of the week was the formal opening of the Cycling Club's new quarters at 316 N. Ewing avenue. A large assemblage of prominent society people, as well as local cycling lights, were present, and the house was beautifully decorated with flowers and potted plants. The guests assembled in the parlors were entertained by vocal solos by B. J. Pavier and Mrs. Senator McGrath, a well rendered declamation by Miss Robb, and a magnificent speech on "Cycling and its Relation to Civilization," by Senator McGrath. He particularly emphasized the refining influence which women exercise over men in all physical sports in which both sexes participate. Misses Sutter and Alice Wilder gave piano selections, and this was followed by a number of original club songs, composed by H. A. Weaver, which made the hit of the evening. The happy allusions to the club's racing and foot ball teams, their performances on the road, etc., were all well received. Messrs. Pickering and Scott gave a number of banjo and guitar solos. An adjournment was then taken to the billiard room, which had been converted into a banquet hall, and an elegant repast was served.

LAST year was a fairly successful cycling year, but this year will eclipse it two to one. To properly develop the sport a number of short L. A. W. tours were needed, and the first of these will be the St. Louis County tour, which takes place on April 5. All League members in the city are urgently requested to take part in this affair. The column will form on Twentieth and Locust streets, and the start will be made at 8.30 A. M. sharp. Ballwin will be the destination of the tour, and Mine Host Busch will make the effort of his life to serve a magnificent dinner. An appropriate souvenir will be presented to each participant in honor of the occasion, and on the tourists' return to the city the whole party will be photographed at Forest Park.

LIFE at the club is exceedingly lively just now, and the card, billiard and reading rooms at the Missouris are heavily patronized. Director Gibson has the gymnasium well in hand and the classes are larger than at any time in the existence of the club.

RIDERS who have participated in the Pike County tour in previous years, will be glad to know that this year's tour over this famous riding district will be held on May 3, and will be better managed and attended than ever before. The Palmer House has been entirely renovated and refurnished since our last visit, and Proprietor Birkhead is specially anxious that the cyclists who visited his place last year will again be among this year's participants. An elaborate programme is now being arranged, which will shortly be published.

EIGHT members of the Missouris were placed in a peculiar position last Sunday on a run to St. Charles. The big, boiling, muddy Missouri was reached in time, when the cyclists observed to their dismay that the pontoon bridge had been carried away by the ice and there was, as a consequence, a half-mile of water between them and dinner. After frantically waving handkerchiefs, they finally attracted the attention of a ferryman in a skiff, who took them across the Missouri for a round sum. Some three or four walked the Wabash bridge, which is 80 feet high at this point, without guards or foot planks, and got over safely.

SYRACUSE.

"SALINA."

CYCLING news of interest in Syracuse has been a scarce article during the past two weeks, and your correspondent has very little to chronicle except the sad and unfortunate blindness of Wm. H. Johnson, the gifted correspondent of the Wheel. Mr. Johnson's affliction has grown upon him during the last month, and especially since the March meeting of the S. C. C., in fact your correspondent has frequently observed him wandering through the club house in an aimless manner, each time seeming to lose the power of recognition to a greater extent. Many have lamented the fact of his misfortune. "Clarence" informs me, however, that the Syracuse Glass Co. have a contract for a pair of very strong glasses that will no doubt be of great service to our member from Canada.

I HEAR much favorable comment on Capt. Judd's road riding contest, and it will evidently be a pretty contest for the prizes.

BUGLER GEO. B. PENN is organizing a brass band among the members. We already have a splendid club orchestra, and there is plenty of talent to select from. Success to the S. C. C. Band.

NIAGARA FALLS.

"KISMET"

A GREAT many inquiries have been received of late by different club officials asking if more of the League meet pictures are obtainable, and to whom should orders be addressed. For the benefit of those who have thus inquired and for any persons who contemplate doing so, I would respectfully refer them to E. O. Babcock, 81 Falls street, Niagara Falls, N. Y., who will fill all orders promptly. The price is $1.50; the photo is 20x22 unmounted, and is a very fine piece of photographic work; there are over 1500 faces in it, including all the prominent League officials and ladies, and every face can easily be distinguished. It is a picture that every bicycle club room should possess.

ALTHOUGH we are all happy that Detroit is to get the '91 meet, we are very sorry to see that they have selected July 16, 17 and 18 as the dates, for we have every reason to believe they have made a great mistake, and we are not the only people who think so either, as the omittance of the championship races will have a decided effect on keeping away a great many people who would otherwise have come. If the Detroit Wheelmen invited the L. A. W. to their place for the money there was in it, as Mr. Griffith their President states, they will be greatly mistaken, when they think a sufficient amount of money can be made without the chief attraction for all wheelmen, the races, as there is considerable more money to be made from that source than all others combined, besides exciting races are what bicycle men would rather see than anything else. I do not wish to criticize the management, but simply offer this as a suggestion, in the hopes that with influence from all other quarters they may be induced to change the dates to later in August, thereby taking in the championship events so that they can be witnessed at one time and place.

EX-LIEUT F. H. SALT will be the first rider of the 'balloon" tired safety in this vicinity. He has placed an order for a pneumatic.

THE members of the N. F. B. C. have organized a small sized political power among themselves, and they have pledged their word to vote irrespective of party for the candidates at the coming town election who will favor a judicial expenditure of the highway fund in the improvements of roads in this vicinity in fair and proper manner. At the last village election the candidates they supported were successful in every case but one. It is to be hoped that their power may long continue and will be respected.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

"HOOSIERITE."

THOUGH somewhat late in the season, a pool tournament has been arranged for by the new directors to begin April fourth. The victor receives a gold medal and the club '91 championship. Minor and York are probably the sharkiest of the sharks, and the contest will lay between them, if the former enters.

THE second annual election of officers of the Indianapolis Zig Zag Cycling Club passed off smoothly, and the club is to be congratulated on the selections made.

ANOTHER fine thing for the Indianapolis Zig Zag Cycling Club for this season is their uniform. It consists of black hook-down cap adorned with the silver club monogram, blue-black jersey coat and breeches, black silk shirt, black hose, and shoe to fit the pedals (of the man.)

WHEN we have a tool-bag or other removable appurtenance of the wheel stolen we smile and say nothing, but when we come from a lecture hall and find the projecting part of our tire sliced away for twelve inches and the piece gone, our wrath is only equaled by that of the rider who finds his saddle cut across when three miles from home after the mule motors have moted their last mote for the night.

NEWS AND COMMENT.

DAN CANARY has been recently doing some marvelous riding in San Francisco. He took the front wheel only of a 54-inch bicycle and rode down a flight of stairs safely. His hands were somewhat burned from friction through steering and controlling his wheel during this wonderful performance.

WANTED· Information as to the best route from Chicago to Dubuque, Iowa, via Oregon, Ill., then to Waverly, Iowa. Any information will be appreciated. Address S. O. BAKER, Adrian, Mich.

THROUGH the courtesy of the D. N. Weaver Bicycle Co. of Elkhart, Ind., we have been furnished with a list of 84 riders of that city. The interesting feature of the list is that 20 of the 84 are ladies, pretty close on to one-fourth of the total number.

THE wheelmen of Sandusky, Ohio, are preparing to entertain tourists who will pass through their city en route to the Detroit meet. The entertainment will take the form of a banquet at Cedar Point. The palatial steamer Kirby will carry those of the tourists that desire from Sandusky to the "City of the Straits."

HERE is a man who desires the best route from Toledo, Ohio, to Kansas City via St. Louis. Who can help him? Address J. G. Perrin, 217 19th street, Toledo, Ohio.

JAMES REVELL, JR.—If this paragraph should meet the eye of anyone who knows the present whereabouts of James Revell, Jr., he would confer a favor on his relatives by communicating with the editor of this paper.

NO. 15 284, Dorchester, Mass. Your article will appear in the issue of April 3d. Thanks!

His route will be as follows: New York to Buffalo, to Chicago, to St. Louis, to Omaha, to Denver, to Salt Lake City, to Carson City, to San Francisco. He will take about three months for the trip.

HARRY HALL of Brooklyn will appear on the racing path again this season.

THE York County Wheelmen of Biddeford, Me., held a banquet on the evening of March 20; about 75 persons, including invited guests were present, and the affair was a complete success in every sense of the word.

THE Kings County Wheelmen of Brooklyn, N. Y., are making every endeavor to have the final ladies' reception of the season, which occurs on the evening of April 7, the grandest event in the club's history.

THE Fraternity Wheeling Club of Buffalo, N. Y., was handsomely entertained on the evening of March 17 at the residence of Mr. Henry G. Falke. This organization is booming, and has elected eleven new members during the last month.

TO Chicago must be awarded the palm as being the residence of probably the heaviest couple devoted to the pastime of cycling. Mr. Henry Gott helps tip the scales at 257 pounds and his wife at 217 pounds.

THE Chesapsake Wheelmen of Baltimore, Md., held their second smoker of the season on the evening of March 19, and like all other entertainments given by this organization was a grand success.

THE Centaur Club of Baltimore, Md., will give a dance on the evening of April 2.

THE Hartford (Conn.) Wheel Club have appointed a committee to arrange for the minstrel entertainment to be given by the organization in the latter part of May.

THE Columbia Cycle Club of N. Attleboro, Mass., will hold a supper and entertainment commemorating the tenth anniversary of the organization, on the evening of March 31.

THE third annual spring reception of the Manhattan B. C. will take place on the evening of April 17.

THE Century Wheelmen of New York are to give an amateur minstrel entertainment on the evening of April 8.

THE Lockport (N. Y.) Wheelmen will hold an entertainment on the evening of April 3.

THE Fort Madison (Ia.) Cycling Club, which is one of the most flourishing wheel clubs in the West, will hold a public reception on the evening of April 2, and from all accounts those who attend will enjoy themselves to the fullest extent of the term.

THE Milwaukee (Wis.) Wheelman's Club has a membership of 114 at the present time, which they hope to largely increase during the coming season.

THE annual dinner of the Portland (Me.) Wheel Club took place on the evening of March 16, and was a grand success.

MESSRS. E. E. Stevens and G. D. Mitchell of Washington, D.C., are planning a bicycle tour around the world. They will start in the middle of May and will travel from Cork through Ireland, Wales, England, France, Switzerland, the Tyrol, Turkey, Greece, Asia Minor and Palestine to Egypt. From this point their plans are indefinite, but the tour will probably include also India, Ceylon and Australia, and will occupy a year or more altogether.

OUR good friend Harry Hall of Brooklyn will be pleased to notice that the typo of the Brooklyn Citizen set his name up as "Harry Hill." While Harry Hill may be more victorious, we doubt if good old Harry Hall will feel flattered by having his name confounded with the notorious New York dance-hall keeper.

HOLBEIN, the English road rider, seems to think that the pneumatic road records will go pretty close to the following during the coming year: Safety, 50 miles, 2.25; 100 miles, 4.55; 200 miles, 12.00; 370 miles, 24.00. Tricycle, 50 miles, 2.25; 100 miles, 5.45; 175 miles, 12.00; 330 miles, 24.00

A MOST interesting illustrated lecture was delivered by Mr. James E. Wilkinson at Portland, Me., last week. Mr. W. has travelled through Europe extensively with the Elwell party, and also alone.

BANGOR, Me., will hold the spring meet of the L. A. W. on Decoration Day.

PEORIA IS ALIVE!

WE raise the forms to say that a communication reaches us too late to be given in full in this issue. A tournament will be held equal, if not ahead, of all former efforts. The Illinois Division will probably take a hand officially in the meet. Particulars in full next week.

IRVINGTON-MILBURN ROAD RACE.

THE annual road race over the famous Irvington-Milburn course will occur as usual on Decoration Day, May 30. This affair has become one of national importance, and it is expected that this year's race will call out a bigger list of entries than ever before. Notice is thus given early so that the racing men can have ample time to make their plans to be in it. Address A. B. Barkman, 241 Broadway, New York, for further information.

RESULT OF THE A. C. C. SHOW—BID FOR THE L. A. W. CHAMPIONSHIPS.

AT the regular meeting of the Associated Cycling Clubs, held at the Park Avenue club house, on Tuesday evening, a partial report of the Cycle Show Commiitee was received, which showed that while the receipts had been large the various expenditures had also been very heavy, and it is therefore doubtful whether the A. C. C. will realize more than five or six hundred dollars from the affair. This, while not as large as it was expected the profits would be after witnessing the attendance, is eminently satisfactory for the first attempt, and next year when the show is held—as it undoubtedly will be—the experience gained in their first venture will prove of the greatest practical value.

At this meeting a committee consisting of Messrs. Bunnell, Crowther and Collins, was appointed to secure the whole or a part of the National Championships for this city, said Championships to be run on Labor Day at a race meet, which, in event of their being secured, would be held under the auspices of the A. C. C.

Another important move was the action taken relative to incorporating the A. C. C. The scope of the association is widening to such an extent that this has been found necessary for its proper working. ARIEL.

HERE'S A CHANCE!

OUR Chief Consul in Philadelphia writes that he knows of a gentleman who, sometime in May next, intends to drive with four horses from Philadelphia to Harper's Ferry, W. Va., thence via the Shenandoah Valley, Luray, Natural Bridge, Appomatox, etc., to Richmond; and would be glad of the company of a pleasant lady and gentleman bicyclers, whom he could assist on hills, and sometimes with a seat. Those desiring such a trip, please write to

BY WM. HEYNY, JR.

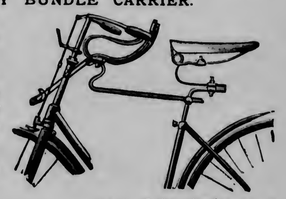
An observation tower on the highest point of Victorshohe affords a fine panoramic view of all the surrounding mountains; the Brocken, with its hotel and tower appears quite near. As far as the eye can reach, the houses and roofs of numerous towns and hamlets are seen; we distinguish amongst others Goslar, Halberstadt and Quedlinburg, a sight well worth coming a great distance to see.

On our way down to Gernrode we may see some game. I had the pleasure on previous tours to meet herds of deer hereabouts. How fleet they are on their delicate limbs! Once I was surprised by the tameness of a hare, who came hobbling to within a few paces of me; of course I stood still as a statue.

"Ta ta ra ta—a!" What's that? There, again! It is the postilion's merry horn down the valley. Let me give him an answer on my bugle. The mail-coach, coming up from Gernrode, is the only means of travel in these mountains for non-wheelmen. Soon we see the yellow carriage, its uniformed postilion on the box, emerging from the forest; he passes us with a military salute.

And now we are coasting down the Stubenberg. Ah, of the advantage the happy wheelman has over the other tourist! You feel as if wings were grown you, sailing down this forest bestood mountain like an eagle. How I envied the cyclers, gliding lightly by, as I walked down here the first time.



A half turn of the road and through the foliage we notice some red spots; below another turn to the right, and there before us lies the town of Gernrode with its two-steepled, white church. I stopped at this place over a week once, and made numerous excursions from here. The baths of Suderode, at once noticeable by the bills stuck up at almost every house of "Rooms to let," "Boarding" or "Coaches for hire," are within a few minutes' ride, and further on the Ruins of the Stecklenburg and Lauenburg Castles.

When I went to sketch the Lauenburg ruins I was mounted on horseback. Mine host was kind enough, for some money and many kind words to let me have one of his stout wagon horses. I must confess I am not much of a rider of 'the' horse, but at that time I utterly failed in the "staying powers." It was my intention to ride to Thale and the Bode Valley, but that did not seem to suit my mare. She evidently did not care to climb, or venture too far from the stable. Through Suderode I managed to appear all right and not give the guests there a "sight." But soon after leaving the town my mare manifested a desire to turn back every time we met another team going that way. Of course the peasants had a good laugh on me. The worst of it was that I could not make her go; if I pulled the reins, planting my heels into her flanks at the same time, she would wake up and start into a stubborn trot, but soon the pace would drop off to a walk a la funeral march; then I would have to renew the manipulation in order to bring her forward. And the sensations of that ride! No cushion tires or spring frames, but my well-fed charger had a trot like an elephant, she nearly shook my teeth out! But worse was to come yet. I got on the wrong road and had to return. Next I lost myself into a forest; the path leading through it narrowed up, until the branches scratched my face and knocked my hat off. I was obliged to dismount and lead the dear animal over the rocks, until I could get no further. Finally I had the pleasure to walk back again a mile or so. After all I thanked my good luck that nobody saw me, for a sign which I had overlooked before read: "Ten marks fine for riding on this path."

You can imagine that I felt sore, hungry and thirsty when, at last, I reached Lauenburg castle and stabled my horse at the inn; but I was rewarded for my troubles. While taking some refreshments in front of the inn, a grand spectacle presented itself to my gaze. A thunderstorm raging in the far off mountains first and then in the valley below me, thundering and lightning and the echo resounding again and again. Just think of me, sitting up here, high and dry, while it was raining in torrents below.

TRADE NOTES.

THE BEAUTY BUNDLE CARRIER.

The cuts herewith show one of the neatest little combination bundle carriers and child's seat that we have ever seen. It is made by Rich & Sager of Rochester, N. Y., and is bound to become a popular sundry. A study of the cuts will show the arrangement of the device as a child's seat and also a bundle carrier, and the method of attaching same in front of the rider. The foot rests, when in use as a child's seat, are adjustable, and the seat itself is a very comfortable canvas affair, with arms to keep the child steady. In case it is desired the seat can be attached so that it is behind the rider. This being especially for the use of ladies.

MR. J. S. ROLER of Nashville, Tenn., who has had a spring frame "Swift" built for him, writes: "The spring frame Swift came to hand in good order, and as soon as the machine came I uncrated it and rode abont twenty miles with the boys. I was scorched by them all, and there was none of them in it with me. We have a rider here, who has beaten everyone that he has run against, except the new "Swift," then he got left. I mention this to show how fast it is; as for the quality of workmanship there never was anything here to compare with it.

DANIEL LOUGHRAN of Washington, D. C., is in the employ of B. E. Dakin and is a youthful phenomenon. He rides a new Mail Safety sans handle bar, up the steepest hills that Washington can boast of. "How is that for high?"

MR. A. J. MARRETT, the manager of the Western-Branch of the Coventry Machinists' Co. at Chicago, reports that he has his store and goods all ready for a large demand. Applications for agencies in the West should write him for his terms on "Swifts."

NO. 2 CATFORD.

(Imported by Premier Cycle Co., New York)

WE show herewith an illustration of one of the Premier Cycle Company's new patterns of this celebrated wheel. Retaining all the splendid features that has made the Catford such a favorite with expert riders, the company have added a ball bearing head of particularly light and neat design; cushion tires, 1 1-4 inch, fitted in the Premier rim and guaranteed not to cut; cork handles, and a new light handle-bar adjustment Notwithstanding the generous tires, the actual weight of this flyer is but 35 pounds ready for the road. It is fitted with either American or English saddle and with rubber or rat-trap pedals, as rider may desire. The price is $150. Messrs. Fairbanks, Sanborn & Co., of 145 Columbus Ave., are the Boston agents.

THE 'POPULAR" DIAMOND SAFETY.

It is imported by Percival Tattersfield of Twelfth and Oxford streets, Philadelphia, who has been importing for two or three years. He has spent some months this winter in England among the best English cycle manufacturers, and now offers to the public as the result of much study, what he believes to be the best and therefore the most "Popular" machine ever offered for the money. The engraving shows for itself what a pretty and mechanically accurate design the machine is, being a true diamond frame, with a long and strong steering head; every part being well fitted; simplicity and strength being the aim. The whole combination being one such as to make the machine comfortable in riding, an easy hill-climber, a good "pacer" and suitable for either the millionaire or the man of moderate means.

The following is a description furnished us of the "Popular" safety: "It is made of the very best weldless steel tubing and drop steel forgings. The fittings and finish are superior in character, and the general plan of the machine of the most approved design. The details of the construction are mechanically accurate in every part. The frame is a Diamond of the most approved pattern, the centre brace enclosing the saddle post, thus adding greatly to the neat appearance of the machine, and giving a greater length of adjustment to the saddle post than is usual. The steering fork has 9 inches long dust-proof centres, fitted with ball-bearings, which are readily adjustable, and there is plenty of handle-bar adjustment. The lamp bracket swings with the front fork as it turns. The handle bar is one piece 3-4 inch weldless steel tubing 28 inches long and bent well backward to be conveniently reached by the rider. The chain is the "Humber" pattern, and is adjustable for slack at the rear forks in a very simple and effective manner.

The spokes are direct. The ball-bearings are all of a good design and readily adjustable.

The cranks are detachable of forged steel, 6 1-2 inch to 7 inch throw. The tires are of the best quality Paraguay rubber of 2-8 inch in diameter. The machine can also be bought with 1 1-4 inch "eccentric" cushion tires, these tires being made with the hole in an "eccentric" position or on the underside of the tire and within the rim. This gives, it is claimed, a more durable tire and equally as good a cushion. Price with 7 8 tire $85, or with cushion $100.

THE Chas. F. Stokes Mfg. Co. opened a branch office in Milwaukee last week.

"REPAIRING done according to Hoyle" is a rather unique sign posted in the window of the Spooner, Peterson Co. Chicago. J. Hoyle, an expert English repairer, has entered their employ, and hence the sign.

THE far famed "Wizard of the wheel," W. S. Maltby, spent most of last week in New York State, giving his marvelous and highly interesting entertainments in scientific and character cycling. The Utica Press speaks thus of his entertainment at the Y. M. C. A: "Mr. Maltby is a complete master of the wheel, many of his tricks never having been attempted by others." Early in April he makes a tour of Pennsylvania. Clubs wishing to 'raise coin" can do no better than to write at once for open date. Address W. S. Maltby, Wallingford, Ct.

THE Warwick Bicycle Company of Springfield, Mass., have issued invitations for an "open house" to be held at the Union armory a number of days and evenings during the next three months. To-night (March 20) the first meeting will occur and the other day and evening openings will be announced later.—Union.

A FALSE report seems to have got adrift in regard to the connection of the John Wilkinson Co. and Mr. C. S. Merrill. Mr. Merrill is still with the John Wilkinson Co., and will continue with them indefinitely, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

ONE of the neatest little pocket manuals of official records of all sorts has been compiled and issued by Mr F. K Lanpher of 48 and 50 Summer street, Boston, Mass. See his advertsiement on page 585.

THE Coventry Machinists' Co. have received the following:

"Gentlemen—Your Swift cycles of last year (of which we sold over one hundred) gave such excellent satisfaction that we have decided to make an extra push on them the coming season, making them our leading wheel. We find that your wheels are much lighter, and in fact much stronger than most of the high grade wheels now on the market. We have no fault to find with the Swift, and cannot see much chance for improvement. Yours very truly, RANKIN & BRUCE."

THE Renewal Season is now open, and we are ready to receive the annual dues of members.

HE who gives quickly gives doubly. Those who renew early save to the officials the expense and trouble of the drumming-up circular. This notice should be all that is required by members who are thoroughly in earnest in the cause.

ARTICLE III., section 5 of the Constitution provides that "Each Division and sub-Division must, on or before the first day of April, file in the office of the Secretary of the L. A. W. a certificate stating the amount fixed as its annual dues, and in default thereof the amount shall be fixed by the Executive Committee of the League." Since the Divisions establish the amount of dues in their respective Constitutions, and since no change has been made in the matter of dues by any Division the past year, we will waive the notice and announce that the dues are $1 in every case.

WE have opened the books for 1891-2, and applicants for membership may now send $2 and they will be put upon the roll for the year ending April 30, 1892.

ALL memberships expire April 30, and must be renewed before July 1st.

WE publish in this issue a renewal blank which we hope will be universally used. A blank of this kind is more satisfactory for filing than a notice of renewal written in letter form. If a member has no blank and does not care to mutilate his paper, he will oblige us by sending renewal on paper the size of the blank and made out after the same form. The same applies when two or more names are sent.

EVERY League Club has been supplied with sheets to send applications on, and also a renewal blank to be made out for renewal of the club. Since many non League clubs send in lists of names; a list of names is no indication that a League club renews its membership, and we must have the regular certificate of renewal as per blank furnished every club before we can issue our certificate of membership.

CLUB SECRETARIES will be supplied with renewal sheets for club lists on application.

CONSULS and Secretary-Treasurers should be supplied with renewal blanks, application blanks, hangers, etc., and can have them from us upon order. We have now in press a little pamphlet made up from the matter that has previously appeared in our two four-page recruiting circulars. This will be much handier for perusal, and consuls will find it to the advantage of their Divisions if they will put one of these pamphlets into the hands of every non-League wheelman.

Massachusetts Division.

A meeting of the Board of Officers of the Massachusetts Division League of American Wheelmen was held at the Clarendon Hotel on March 21; Chief Consul Robinson presided, and the members present were E. B. Pillsbury, J. Fred Adams, I. E. Moultrop, H. W. Robinson, J. C. Kerrison, A. C. Copeland, W. W. Scott, C. G. Wells, C. W. Pierce, J. W. Bean, G. F. Kehew and C. S. Howard.

It was unanimously voted to accept the invitation of the Bay State Bicycle Club to hold the Divisions spring meet at Worcester on May 30. Last season's spring meet was held in that city and proved highly successful. A committee, consisting of Chief Consul Robinson and Messrs. Bean, Barber and Copeland, was appointed to co-operate with the Bay State Club in holding the meet, and the committee was authorized to extend a sum not exceeding $100.

The following order was offered by Mr. Wells: "That each member of the Board of Officers residing at a distance of over ten miles from Boston, shall be allowed the amount of railroad fare one way each time he is present at a regular meeting of the Board; such amounts to be paid from the Division treasury.

On motion the order was referred to the finance committee for its consideration.

Chairman Moultrop of the Committee on Rules and Regulations presented a report which recommend the adoption of a new set of By laws, and submitted a draft of the same. The report was accepted, and a vote of thanks passed the committee for its work. The proposed new rules were informally discussed, and by vote of the Board ordered printed in the Official BULLETIN, so that Division members might judge of their merit before they were adopted.

CHAS. S. HOWARD, Sec.-Treas.

Pennsylvania Division, Attention.

There seems to be a most singular apathy on the part of members of this Division on the question of the new road book. Although two notices have appeared in the BULLETIN and a circular mailed to local Consuls and others, asking for new routes, corrections of old ones, etc, but half-a-dozen replies have been received. To issue a new and correct edition it is absolutely necessary that some interest be taken by the members in general. Do you want your road book? If so, take the trouble to look up the routes in your locality, as given in the present issue, and send any corrections to the undersigned.

It is a noticeable fact that after a new edition is placed on the market, the committee receive numerous letters complaining of this error, and that omission; when, had the parties written before there would have been no such errors or omissions.

A circular will shortly be mailed to each member of the Division, and it is earnestly hoped that a reply may be forthcoming.

Sincerely yours,
H. CROWTHER,
Chairman Road Book Committee.

George P. Wetmore moved that the report of the Secretary-Treasurer, as read, be approved, and introduced the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the report of the Secretary-Treasurer be received and published in the L. A. W. BULLETIN for the information of members, and that all expenditures mentioned therein, whether of the Board of Officers last preceding, or of the present Board, be and they are hereby approved. And be it further

Resolved, That we hereby express our disapproval of certain anonymous articles which have been published in the L. A. W. BULLETIN, criticising the administration of the affairs of this Division by the last preceding and the present Board of Officers.

That we declare the statements contained therein to be at variance with facts, unjust, mischievous, and calculated to create dissatisfaction at home and discredit abroad.

That we reaffirm our confidence in the last preceding and the present Board of Officers.

That we regard with satisfaction the steady growth of the Division, and consider the policy of the present Board of Officers wise and all sufficient for the advancement of the League in the State of California.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the L. A. W. BULLETIN.

The report of the committee appointed at the last meeting to secure privileges to ride on the Main Drive, Golden Gate Park, was read, and is as follows:

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb, 3, 1891.

Dear Sir—At the last meeting of the Division, a committee consisting of Capt. Phillips, Mr. Dolive and myself was appointed to interview the Golden Gate Park Commissioners with the view of obtaining from them permission for bicyclists to ride through Conservatory Valley on Saturdays and Sundays.

After ascertaining that all matters were left in the hands of the Chairman, Mr. W. W. Stow, your committee called upon this gentleman and presented the case to him. We were very kindly received by him, were allowed to use up more than an hour of his time, and were well pleased with the evident disposition he showed to be fair to bicyclists and allow them all safe and proper privileges. He however claimed that it would be dangerous to allow bicycles and tricycles on the Main Drive while crowded with carriages, not because he had any fear in regard to experienced riders, but owing to the fact that the new and unskillful wheelmen and women would "tumble around" (as he expressed it) among the horses, and cause runaways. We were compelled to agree with Mr. Stow, as he was undoubtedly right. After a suggestion that the restriction might with safety be removed during the hours when not much driving is done. It was finally agreed that wheelmen should not be allowed on the road between 11 A. M. and 5 P. M. on Saturdays and Sundays and holidays, but that the same should be free to them at all other times.

Your committee considers this quite a concession, and also think it possible that after the widening of the Main Drive is completed, the restriction may be entirely removed.

At our conversation with Mr. Stow he discussed with us a plan, which he had in his mind and which he thought might soon be put into execution, of building a road for wheelmen through Conservatory Valley, starting at the junction of the "Main Drive" and the "North Drive," passing near the Conservatory and ending near the Casino.

Your committee would have made a report a long time ago, but has been expecting that another meeting of the Division would be held, at which such report could be made. No meeting having been called, we now send this report of our actions to you, the Chief Consul, leaving it for you to inform the members of the League of the modification of the rule above referred to. Respectfully submitted,

A. D. D'ANCONA, Chairman.

The report was accepted and the committee discharged with thanks.

Chief Consul temporarily vacated his chair, which was then filled by Vice Consul A. C. McKenney, and moved that the Division pay its Secretary Treasurer a salary of $5 per month, to begin with March 1, 1891, and that a clause to that effect be enbonied in the By-Laws of the Division.

After some discussion as to the proper amount to allow that office, the above motion was unanimously carried.

Dr. Hill spoke of having another century run this year, and made the motion that a committee of three be appointed to arrange matters and to have a run without expense to the Division. After some discussion as to the best means of raising the necessary money to defray the expenses.

Mr. Thomas H. Doane offered the following amendment to Dr. Hill's motion: That the run be from San Francisco to Hollister, and the expenses be paid by subscriptions. The motion and amendment were voted on and carried.

The following were appointed to serve as such a committee: Jos. G. Cox, L. G. Hodgkins and Al Col.

During an intermission of ten minutes $58 were subscribed by members present for the century run.

On motion of R. M. Welch a committee of five was chosen to revise the Constitution and By-Laws of the Division, and submit them to the members by a mail vote.

The committee appointed are: R. M. Welch, A. D. D'Ancona, Capt. Phillips, Harold J. Gage and H. B. Sperry.

The subject of the annual Division meet was brought up and discussed. Mr. A. H. Wright spoke in favor of having the meet at Stockton on July 4, and said that the Oak Leaf Wheelmen of that city had instructed him to make the following offer: That they would furnish to the League a good tract, fenced, and with grand stand for July 4, for $300, stating in explanation that the Oak Leaf Wheelmen would have to rent the grounds for nine months in order to get them at all. There being no action on the above proposition, Mr. Wright said that if the League desired, the Oak Leaf Wheelmen and Bay City Wheelmen would take charge of the meet, pay all expenses and have all profits or losses.

Mr. Thomas Doane moved that Mr. Wright's last proposition be accepted, and that the Oak Leaf Wheelmen and Bay City Wheelmen be allowed to hold a League meet at Stockton, and that they assume all responsibility. Unanimously carried.

Mr. Wright further stated that the Oak Leaf Wheelmen extended a cordial invitation to every wheelman to attend an old-fashioned party to be given by them in Stockton, March 31, 1891.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned with three hearty cheers for Stockton.

To Consuls and Members:

One of the most ancient modes of attracting public patronage, long before the age of printing, was by means of criers. These mediæval criers carried horns with which to fix the attention of the people when about to make a publication. In the present age the local consul has taken the place of the criers in League affairs, and attractive circulars that of the horns. Some local consuls as well as members take such little interest, and are so anxious to save time that they give little personal attention to the matter of recruiting. This is not right and should be altered. Benjamin Franklin stated: "If a man can do business he should let it be known." If there are local consuls who have not yet displayed their hustling abilities it would be wise for them to begin now. Don't loose your grip when you have once commenced to hustle and made the League known. You'll surely loose it unless you keep at it until every cycle rider in your city is enrolled as a member of the League. It is only a question of time when we will have those coveted 500 members, but if you will aid in the work now we will get there by April 1. Don't forget the fact that applicants can now get the benefit of 13 month's membership for 1 year's dues and initiation fee which together amounts to $2.

Fraternally yours, RONT. HOLM, Chief Consul.

CYCLING

FOR

Health and Pleasure.

CHAPTER VI.

The safety is responsible, in no small degree, for the poor form and careless riding of so many wheelmen; because it is so easy to learn and to ride, that the majority are indifferent as to how they ride. If one dared to hint that the majority are ignorant of how to ride properly, he might be howled down; but then, would it be any less true? In no one point is poor riding more manifest than in pedalling, and no single feature of riding receives less attention. Everything, in cycling, depends upon the sort of connection a rider makes with his wheel, the connecting points being pedals and feet, hence the use of foot and ankle is of the highest importance. The why, the wherefore and the how are exhaustively considered, with diagram, in the chapter on Correct Pedalling.

STEEL FORCINGS.

Are pretty good things to have in a high grade Safety.

Some use them, some don't—some use part forgings, part castings.

They are expensive to make—costing a good deal of money, and a good deal of time—practically the same thing when you are making bicycles.

But a $135 bicycle should be made of the best possible materials regardless of cost.

The advance in the manufacture of bicycles has been such that no high grade machine in 1891 should contain castings in its regular construction and equipment.

The public have had ample opportunity during the last three months to find out for themselves what the Safeties advertised in the '91 Columbia catalogue are made of.

Those who have taken advantage of the opportunity are satisfied that the metal parts are of the best qualities of steel, with the exception of the hard brass nipples, which are better than steel for the purpose; and that forgings are used throughout instead of castings.

In all our principal stores and agencies, sets of forgings can be found which tell their own story.

The makeup of the '91 Columbia Safeties is instructive as well as interesting.

It's what you might know AND WONT that counts
There are scores of so-called Cushion Tires upon the market—"Hose Pipes" mostly, but some other funny things as well.
There is always a best. Always one object that shines more brightly than the rest.
Is it strange that the best Cushion Tire for 1891 should be a VICTOR?

Boston. Washington. } OVERMAN WHEEL CO. CHICOPEE FALLS, MASS. { Denver. San Francisco.

It is not good that the man should be alone, I will make an helpmeet for him—Gen. II., 18th.

The above, though ungrammatical, is without doubt one of the wisest conclusions ever arrived at by infinite wisdom. But since "Is marriage a failure" became one of the leading questions, the correctness of it has been doubted by many among the ungodly. However that may be, I am disposed to believe that as applied to business it should stand with the following amendment: "Especially when the man who is alone has a constipated bank account." The Hickory Bicycle business has come to be a very healthy infant. Of course there are a great many who don't believe in it, but there are also some who don't seem to know that the war is over. When I found that it was important, not to say necessary, that a helpmeet should be added to the already long list of fixtures, by means of which the Hickory Wheels are turned out, it became a very absorbing matter and one to which I gave much prayerful consideration.

The selection of a matrimonial helpmeet is usually a very easy thing, just as it is easy for a man to select a place in which to be struck by lightning; it don't happen as long as he can help it, and when it does happen it is inevitable, and so he feels relieved of any responsibility. But in business it is different; to find friendship and business harmoniously blended so that neither shall interfere with the other, is as desirable as it is rare.

I feel at this time a double joy in having gotten a helpmeet that God made for me. First: For myself, that I can devote my time entirely to the making of wheels without the disadvantages incident to a limited capital; and second: For the Hickory Bicycle, for which, as you might have suspected, I feel more or less responsibility. And which I know must some day stand before the world as a thing to be imitated by those whom the Creator has not endowed with the fatal gift of faith in the unseen.

The first printed advertisement of the Hickory Safety appeared in this space March 29th, 1889, and contained the following: "Our ideas as to how and of what material wheels should be constructed differ somewhat from those commonly accepted, and we are glad they do, for if we are wrong we shall, by means of our failure, still further confirm the prevailing custom and that would be justice.

If, on the other hand, our departure in wheel construction shall be vindicated, (and to that end we are doing something more than to hope), then we shall not have lived in vain. Nothing was said about having "come to stay," as we knew that what we had come for could be of no consequence until it were accomplished.

Without stopping to take account of stock until last week, we have labored diligently and conscientiously, with results that are easily investigated. Already we get more cheers than sneers, and hope to keep on increasing the former at the expense of the latter. Engravings of the new $150 machine are now being finished, and we shall soon issue a few "tracts" on the old subject of Hickory versus popular delusion.

We hereafter "look towards you" under the name of the

THE UNION CYCLE MFG. CO.,

Dear Sirs:—

I had the pleasure of riding my new No. 12 wheel this morning, and it proved a pleasure indeed. it fairly ran away with me, and as for the jolting you generally get in going over car-tracks, &c., there was none, and it was a constant surprise to me, as I was waiting for the jolt that never came. I watched the wheel very closely and could not see where there was any play sideways caused by the springs; this was what I feared, but I now believe you have succeeded in making a spring frame without weakening the frame a particle. As for looks, I believe it is the handsomest machine turned out by any company.

Yours, etc.,

JANUARY last we notified the entire Cycle trade that we had secured the control for the United States of the Dunlop patents on Pneumatic Tires. Anticipating a great demand for this tire, as it is the only practicable and successful Pneumatic Tire made, we warned the trade against infringement, and, at the same time, freely offered to the trade this tire at a reasonable and uniform price.

We are informed that some persons are still offering in the market, cycles provided with Pneumatic Tires, identically, or substantially the same as the Dunlop Tire, but without any authority from us. We respectfully refer manufacturers, importers, dealers and users to United States letters patent, reissue No. 11,153, granted to John B. Dunlop, March 24, 1891, "Wheel Tire for Cycles."

This patent is owned by us, and we shall immediately begin the active and vigorous prosecution of every person making, selling, or using tires containing the improvements claimed in the said letters patent without authority from us.

C. W. FOURDRINIER. J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 3 APRIL, 1891.

THE days of shallow prejudice in some quarters are not yet past if we are to judge by the following item taken from an exchange: "Some of the Wilmington, Del., church goers cannot reconcile bicycle riding with piety, and hence have asked their pastor, who has been using the wheel for his health's sake, to either abandon the wheel or find another pulpit than theirs." Wherein these excessively good people discern the heinous sin in riding a bicycle is hard to say. To drive a horse is an evidence of piety, but to sit on a bicycle and propel same by the natural means God has given us is a deviation from the straight path of rectitude, horrible to contemplate in the eyes of our "good" Wilmington friends. It savors of the earth earthy to them, and should be frowned upon by all pious people. A clergyman has no right to enjoy the soul destroying pleasures of cycling, and the one who yields to its fatal fascination cannot expect the love and respect of the "good" in this world, or look for aught but dire punishment in the next.

OUT on such nonsensical illiberality, and shame on those who would look down on a clergyman because of his indulging in one of the most healthful and harmless pastimes that man or woman can indulge in. As a promoter of moral and physical development and vigor the cycle stands unsurpassed, and to oppose its use by "The Cloth" shows a stunted mind and distorted understanding. Such carking critics are really beneath serious notice, and belong in the days when it was accredited a crime to kiss ones wife on Sunday. They are stumbling blocks to true religion, and with this veneer of false religion they expect to pass current as solid, hearty oak of the honest, true kind. The plating is too thin, it won't pass as "sterling;" the veneer is too transparent, the true inwardness of canting bigotry becomes apparent.

IF THE resolution passed recently by the Amateur Athletic Association of England, that all officials at race meetings accepting fee for services be adjudged professionals becomes a law, then the handicappers will come under the ban. It is doubtful if this ruling be accepted by the body at large, and we question the wisdom of such a rule. If there is one man whose labor is practically a labor of love, (for the performance of which he gets "more kicks than ha'pence"), that man is the official handicapper. The fees he gets barely pay postage, and are in no way commensurate with the amount of work and worry he is subjected to. The pay is nominal and the duties onerous; and if he were paid in proportion to the labor involved, four or five dollars a handicap would not be exorbitant.

SPEAKING of the Amateur laws in England, we notice that the National Amateur Rowing Association of England is about to change the definition of an Amateur, so that the laborer or mechanic will not be barred on account of his occupation. Heretofore, the man engaged in a "menial" occupation was not allowed to compete with gentlemen, (i.e.) men who lived by their wits, by means of brain work, or those whose income was sufficient to support them without the contaminating medium of "trade." This action of the N. A. R. A. is the entering wedge in the 18th-Century idea that labor is degrading, and the working man is not fit to compete with the middle and aristocratic circles; and it remains to be seen whether this old idea which makes the horny handed son of toil an ostracised member of society in England will survive the Nineteenth Century.

CURIOUSLY enough, we have lately heard the question seriously broached as to whether we in democratic America would not be compelled to adopt the archaic rule which now obtains in England in defining an amateur as being a "gentleman," a man who does not work with his hands. This step by the N. A. R. A. will show that the tendency in England is to expunge the present definition and make a rule based on the lines of common sense, in accordance with 19th-Century notions.

A CORRESPONDENT suggests the formation of an L. A. W. Accident Insurance Co. There is scarcely any necessity for such an organization, as there are so many first class Accident Companies ready to take these risks at a rate as cheap as consistent with safe business policy. The field is well supplied, and unless the correspondent meant that indemnity in case of accident should only extend to those injured while cycling, then we think the suggestion of no special value. If, however, the idea would be to extend aid and pay losses in cases where injury or death were incurred while riding a bicycle, then the scheme of an L. A. W. Insurance Co. might receive serious consideration.

THE Industrialist of Manhattan, Kas., sings a pretty song, and one that has melody in it, containing as it does the following sentiments:

"When bicycles were invented not many years ago, their warmest friends did not dream of the great public good that would be accomplished by their aid. * * * The cry for good roads goes up from every wheelman in the country. While their motives may seem at first glance selfish, the object for which they labor is a most praiseworthy one, since all good citizens are interested in the improvement of our highways. * * *."

Here we have the true ring of honest, unprejudiced opinion, and Mr. J. S. C. Thompson, who is responsible for the article, is a superintendent of roads who can see beyond the end of his nose. Speaking of noses, it strikes us that the attitude of opposition taken by some people against the question of Roads Improvement has very much the appearance of biting off one's nose to spite one's face. The crying down of the effort, and the opposition to legislation tending toward a better condition of highways because the "hated wheelmen" are pushing it has a good deal of this self-mutilating element in it. Funny, isn't it, that no matter how worthy the object, if some people see the finger of a wheelman in the pie, all question of its worthiness fades away and they become bitter opponents. It is the case over again of the Hibernian who is credited with putting himself on record as being "agin the gov'ment" anyway.

A CASE in point was that which occurred at the hearing before the Massachusetts Legislative Committee a week ago. Chief Consul Robinson had made an eloquent appeal for better roads from a farmer's standpoint. His remarks seemed to have weight with a certain aged gentleman present; but on going home the aged Solon read in the papers that Mr. Robinson was an L. A. W. member, "one of them bicycle fellers," and at once the attitude of the A. S. was changed. He came back to the committee room filled to the brim with indignation and opposition, all because the appeal had been made by a wheelman, and not because of any wast of merit in the proposed road bill. This condition of things is too exasperating to be laughable, and yet we cannot help but smile, even though it be a sickly one.

THE Editor of "The Cycling Authority of America" had better read up the racing rules a little and he will find that the measurement of tracks is not made one foot from the pole, but eighteen inches. The error he makes is the more remarkable from the fact that the editor of "The Authority," etc., is a racing man himself, of no second-rate calibre.

SOMETIMES we have to go away from home to get the news, as is proven by the following item taken from the New York notes in Sporting Life. "The meeting of the National Assembly, which was to have been held on Monday evening, was postponed, owing to the absence of President Dunn. Over seventy-five delegates were present." Here's richness! Investigation did not reveal the fact that any meeting of the National Assembly had been called in New York for the Monday evening in question. Sec'y. Bassett had heard nothing of it, and a careful examination of the Official Department of this paper did not reveal any notice of any such meeting. Where the "seventy-five delegates" got their notice from nobody knows, except perhaps the New York correspondent of Sporting Life. A lurking suspicion enters our mind that the enterprising correspondent is the victim of a hoax, or perhaps he may have exceeded his usual daily allowance of "exhilarator," and was the victim of his own over-excited imagination.

RECENT cables from "the other side" report that the latest fad among the gilded aristocracy of England is to attend select slugging matches! and horror of horrors, the despatch mentions the name of a sister of a prominent American lady (now an English peeress) as being present at the last "little affair." The entertainers rejoiced in the names of Puggy Donovan and Bill Cheese, "all of which leads the wicked correspondent of the Sun," says the Record, "to suppose that an inaccurate version of this interesting social event may have given rise to the rumor current last week in some of the Paris clubs that it was the intention of Mr. Ashmead Bartlett and Baroness Burdett-Coutts to initiate a series of Sunday afternoon dog fights in Piccadilly." What next? We should not wonder to hear that Mr. Hilliers had attended a race meeting at which brutal exhibitions of real racing was given, and that he enjoyed it!

IT IS said that straws show how the wind blows, and this saying applies with considerable force to newspaper correspondents who are supposed to write on subjects of interest to their readers. Gath, who for years has been a correspondent for the Cincinnati Enquirer, has in the issue of March 27 a long letter on "Country versus City Life," in which he shows that one of the drawbacks to rural life was the badness of the roads, and gives some interesting figures on the cost of transportation over different kinds of roads. The letter, three columns in length, is full of valuable information.

A FAIR ENGLISHWOMAN'S VIEW ON DRESS.

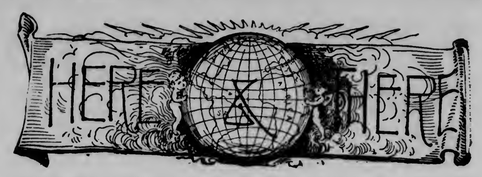
SINCE bicycling has been universally adopted by ladies of nearly every nation, the all important subject "how to dress becomingly and also comfortably whilst awheel" has been discussed freely, without aiming at a definite conclusion as to what would be.

To promote an interest in cycling, every lady should dress as nicely as her finances will permit. For what is more unsightly than a badly dressed woman on a bicycle? One would imagine that a slouchy sailor waist, (ditto hat), with a skirt four or five yards in width (flapping around her feet) is an ideal costume? It matters not how gracefully she may ride, it detracts from her appearance, and that ,no woman can afford.

Many advocate the "divided skirt" as the costume proper, and I have even read of a ladies' club adopting it as a uniform. Now; as an undergarment, it's simply indispensable, for it allows perfect freedom of movement in mounting and dismounting, and has no creeping up propensities that are so annoying; but as a costume I unhesitatingly pronounce it outre. And as I credit all those who ride as having exceptionally good sense, I sincerely hope they will agree with me on this point and never appear in one again.

I will try to describe a costume that will create quite a furor in bicycle circles this coming season. It's a navy blue, tailor made princesse, material, medium weight broadcloth, draped slightly in front, so as to give the desired fullness when mounted, and trimmed with dark copper colored silk braid. With it is worn a jaunty "Tam O'Shanter" cap, and gaiters of navy blue, with long gloves of the copper color.

This, of course, is designed expressly for "asphalt riding;" and as the wearer is a brunette, the effect is charming, without being showy, as some might imagine.



Another, in which the same good taste is displayed, is a gray flannel made with a "blazer," and straight skirt gored in front breadth, very much like the short dresses so much in vogue. With this is to be worn shirt waists, of color and material as the wearer's fancy dictates. Jockey cap, gloves, and gaiters of gray.

According to my ideas, the above described suits are both modest and pretty, and withal comfortable. And the girl who hesitates to depart from the sailor costume mentioned, will soon find herself regarded as a curiosity.

When the fair devotees of the wheel begin to realize that a bicycle costume must be selected with the same care that is bestowed on a party or street dress, they will be in position to defy all prejudiced, ill natured persons who are still debating, "whether or not it's proper for women to ride a bicycle." X. L. D.

Birmingham, England.

CAPT. KIRKPATRICK, of the Business Men's Cycle League of Newark, N. J., has offered a gold medal to the member attending the most club runs from April 1st to January 1st; and Pres. J. S. Holmes has offered a similar one to the member making the largest mileage record for the same time.

WILL P. E. H. (or A.) of Louisville, Ky., please send on facts and notes of the June meet in that city? His letter, paper and circular have been mislaid.

THE annual bicycle meet of the Chicago Cricket Club will be held July 24 and 25 at Parkside, Chicago. Address J. G. Davis, Parkside, Chicago, Ill.

OUR Harrisburg, Pa., correspondent says: "The entertainment held in the Grand Opera House under the auspices of the H. W. C., and previously referred to by me was a pronounced success, and the club came out ahead financially in a way that made their hearts glad. This excitement having abated, of course the question of a club house was again taken up, and while the members are somewhat backward in undertaking the responsibility, I have good hopes for the ultimate success of the scheme. One of our morning papers, viz., The Call, suggested "that some of our enterprising and wealthy citizens erect a suitable building for us and let us pay it off as rent." The suggestion is an excellent one, now who will be the "enterprising and wealty citizen?"

TO-MORROW, April 4th, a new sporting paper will be issued in Boston called the Referee. It will cover all branches of sports both outdoors and indoors. It will also deal in musical and dramatic affairs. It will be national in its character. The Referee will be edited by Ed. A. Perry, ten years dramatic critic, two years sporting editor, and three years London correspondent of the Boston Herald, who will have the assistance of a corps of competent writers and correspondents in all the principal American and foreign cities.

THERE is good reason to believe that the discussion of the matter of a live club for Boston will bear fruit. Efforts are being made with every prospect of success to revive the Massachusetts Club. Boston wheelmen desiring to join the reorganized club should address Mr. C. C. Ryder, P. O. Box 2966, Boston.

THE two professional bicycle races run in Detroit by Jack Prince have been very lively; the contestants ride a terrible pace. The average in this last race has been over 17 miles an hour. In the first race the most serious fall was that of Le Croix, who took a header and broke his collar bone and hurt his face. In this last race Martin rode off one of the turns and broke his leg; cause extreme carelessness. At last accounts Reading and Ashinger are tied for first place.

THE Farragut Bicycle Club of Chicago held their annual election last Saturday evening. The annual reports of the officers showed the club to be in good financial condition. The Farraguts are an L. A. W. club and have in the neighborhood of forty members, which number they expect to increase considerably this spring, as the initiation fee of $50 of the Farragut Boat Club, to which club a man must belong to become a member of the Bicycle Club, is to be reduced to $25.00.

THIEVES broke into the store of H. L. Spencer of Pawtucket, R. I., the other evening. Unluckily for the fellows, Mr. Spencer and a friend happened to be on the premises, and after a sharp chase one of them, John Dugan by name, was captured and taken to the police station. Dugan is only about 14 years; on being searched a 22-calibre revolver was found on his person.

THE first public exhibition of the Y. M. C. A. of Utica, N. Y., took place March 18th. The athletic exhibition was varied and very fine. W. S. Maltby "astonished the natives" by his wonderful trick riding. His impersonation of Oscar Wilde's first attempt in riding showed qualities as a mimic, the possession of which Mr. Maltby is to be congratulated on.

ONE of the most important events in Chicago for the coming season will be the scorchers' clubs century run to Aurora, to Elgin and return. This will be early in June, and will be no scorch, an early start to be made from the club house after a light breakfast in the cafe, and dinner and supper to be taken on the road. To every member finishing the run, a handsome souvenir badge will be given by the club.

THE Peoria (Ill.) Club is one of the oldest clubs in the Leage, as well as one of the strongest, having become a Leage Club when it was organized in '81, and has always remained faithful to the cause through thick and thin. With a membership, at present, of over one hundred active wheelmen, they are well known as an enterprising and thrifty organization, and stand forth prominently as one of the most important race promoting clubs in America. This club will make a bid for the National Championship to be run at their tournament next fall.

MR. STEPHEN GOLDER'S visit to Chicago has been made one constant round of sight-seeing by a number of Chicago's prominent wheelmen. Sunday, March 22d, he was escorted to Pullman by the 2:50 Club, ten in the party. Saturday it had rained hard all day, and those who have been over the Pullman Road after a day's hard rain will realize its true character on this occasion. Mr. Golder said: "You Americans call this a road; it's a beastly mud hole." Tuesday, Mr. Golder saw the Union Stock Yards, pig-sticking and all. He ate no meat for dinner after his return.

DETROIT seems to have an attraction for wheelmen. Fred Donlee, of the R. I. Wheelman, a great friend of Van Wagoner, started for St. Paul, and stopped off in Detroit for a few days; but he liked the city so well that he will stay in Detroit permanently.

MR. WILLIAM HENNY, JR., of New York, is meeting with good success in organizing his tour through the Harz Mountain, Germany, this summer. The party will leave New York, June 30th, on the Hamburg line of steamers. The cost of the tour will be $200. The average speed will be about 25 to 30 miles per day, a mighty sensible rate of speed.

THE Springfield (Mass.) Bicycle Club and the athletic association of the same city will, no doubt, join forces, and the new organization will retain the name of the Bicycle Club. A club house will be built, containing all the appointments of a first-class athletic club.

F. F. PEARD, editor of Cycling of Toronto, will settle in Chicago permanently. Mr. Peard will be a welcome addition to the ranks of Chicago cycledom.

CAPTAIN MILLER, of the Douglas Cycling Club, Chicago, has associated with him two other members, and they will buy land and arrange for the building of a home for the club in the near future. That's the kind of a Captain to have!!

THE members of the New Orleans (La.) Bicycle Club are going to have a handsome new club house. Recent records of real estate transfers show where this club has purchased three very fine lots of land on Baronne, Dryades, and Gen. Taylor streets, and on this land the new house is to be built. The new home of the New Orleans Club is to be a commodious structure, complete in every detail, and is to be furnished in elegant style and taste. On the large lawn beside the house a tennis court is to be laid out. It is expected that ground will be broken early this month, and it is hoped the club house will be ready for occupancy by July 1.

THE Somerville Cycle Club held its annual banquet at the Quincy House on the evening of March 26. About 45 members were present.

THE methods of government of the Englewood Cycling Club of Chicago are as follows: "The Board of Directors transact all the business of the club and pass upon all applicants for membership. The members call a special meeting when the Board's action proves unsatisfactory. Many of our other clubs might just as well do this, for their meetings, though well attended, are conducive of no expression of opinions from the members who sit around like a lot of wooden men, and ask somebody else to talk.

THE minstrel entertainment of the Nashua (N. H.) Cycling Club took place on the evening of March 25, and the seating capacity of the theatre was thoroughly tested on the occasion. The members of the organization did themselves proud, and encores were as profuse as though Billy Rice, Geo. Thatcher, or some other leading exponent of burnt cork held the boards. The club will net quite a large amount of money as the result of their labors.

CAPT. SHANNON, of the Referee Wheelmen of New York, has offered a silver cup to the member making the greatest number of miles from April 1 to Dec. 1, '91.

AN endeavor will be made by Capt. Stimpson, of the Oak Park Club, of Chicago, to again revive the old-time interest in club runs. This was scorched out of the members by a few of the would-be racing men of the club. Captain Stimpson says he is going to stop it. But how can he? The scorchers ought to join the Century Club if they hanker after speed and trials of endurance.

HERE is a bit of interesting national history from our correspondent "Judge" of Detroit:

"The first memorial tablet of the Detroit wheelmen was placed on the Art Museum last week. It marks the place where the home of Gen. Hugh Brady stood. Gen. Brady, an old hero of the war of 1812, came here from Pennsylvania and settled. He also fought in the Mexican war at the head of the Brady Guards of this city, organized as a result of the riot in this city in 1835. Gen. Brady was born July 29, 1768, at Standing Stone, Pa., and died in Detroit April 15, 1867. This is now No. 1 of this patriotic body of young men. Detroit is the most ancient city of the great lakes, and no city in the United States presents such a series of interesting events. It was first visited in 1610, ten years before the Pilgrims landed on Plymouth rock and two years after Quebec was founded. Cadillac laid out the city in 1701. It was transferred to England in 1760, and transferred to the United States by treaty in 1783. The first American flag was hoisted in Michigan at this city in 1796 by Gen. Wayne. In 1812 Gen. Hull surrendered to the British and the Americans retook it in 1813. Five times its flag has been changed; twice has it been besieged by Indians, and 50 pitched battles have taken place within the present city limits."

MANY of the riders of Harrisburg, Pa., and vicinity well remember Myrtle Glover, the little daughter of L. O. Glover, as being one who rode her safety with so much ease and grace. She was also a feature of many of the parades of the local meets. Poor little Myrtle passed away after a brief illess at her home in Harrisburg. The remains were taken to Columbus, O., for interment. The sympathy of the wheelmen who knew her will be accorded her sorrow-stricken parents.

THE Æolus Cycling Club, Chicago, indoor ball team lost the championship of the Northwest League by one run only. The deciding game was one of the most exciting contests of the season, being a tie for five innings and nobody's game until the last man struck out. Twelve hundred people witnessed the game. The score was 8 to 7.

THE question of throwing the club house open to the ladies on certain days of the week was the subject of considerable discussion at a late meeting of the Peoria (Ill.) club, but it was finally decided in favor of the ladies, and henceforth the house will be open to them each Thursday afternoon, and on the evening of every other Thursday, when they will be invited to come and make themselves thoroughly at home.

"SETAGEC" of Buffalo, N. Y., has this to say in regard to the Lewis matter: "The local correspondents of the Wheel, who are brilliant newspaper men, occasionally make a mistake, like other mortals. In their letter of a week ago they say that I am to blame for D. H. Lewis' being adjudged a professional by the racing board. Of course this is not so, as I knew nothing about his amateur status till I read it the daily press. On looking it up I found that Mr. Lewis had written the League officer himself, telling him he had had his expenses paid by his employer when he went down to that road race at Richfield Springs last summer. I hope he will be reinstated, as I have no doubt that he will. I like Lewis, even though he did make that uncalled for attack on me in the Referee, and I do not do spite work if others do."

THE Quincy (Ill.) Bicycle Club recently celebrated the fifth anniversary of its organization. The members of the club were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. White, and about 25 couples braved the elements and gathered in the cosy home of Mr. and Mrs. White. A fine impromptu musical programme was rendered, and President W. M. Brewster (good old "Pop") made a stirring speech. Dancing was also indulged in by those terpsichoreanly inclined.

BICYCLING NEWS says: "Users of inflated tires who travel on the continent will do well to choose a tire which possesses an emptying as well as a filling valve, as it is said that the officials of the French customs house cut open the big tires to see if any contraband is within them. If the tire could be emptied of its air it might escape this fate."

THE members and friends of the Capital Bicycle Club of Washington, were pleasantly entertained last Friday night at the club house on 15th street by a musical and literary programme of ten numbers that occupied about an hour and a half. A phonograph gave some interesting performances. After the programme had been concluded the floor was cleared of the chairs and was occupied by dancers until midnight.

OUR Buffalo correspondent says: "I see it stated that W. F. Hoack, a professional roller skater and ball player, who was dropped from the League last year, he having posed as an amateur, has now applied to the A. A. U. to be reinstated as an amateur wheelman, but the A. A. U. referred him to the L. A. W. If such professionals as Hoack are to be reinstated, the League might just as well take in all professionals."

To the members of the Illinois Club attending and furnishing the largest number of club runs this season, be there a dozen or more tied, each and every one will be awarded a medal by the club. The Illinois will keep up its reputation as a "riding club."

A NEW addition is talked of for the Illinois club house of Chicago, 25x50 feet, with wheel-rooms in the basement, and probably bachelor apartments above.

THE Bay State Bicycle Club of Worcester, Mass., are hard at work on the details of the annual meet of the Massachusetts Division, which takes place on May 30, and will leave no stone unturned to make the affair a success.

THE young men of Saylesville, R. I., and vicinity have organized a bicycle club, and have 25 members for a beginning. The organization is to be known as the Lincoln Wheelmen.

THE National Club is the name of a new ladies' bicycle club recently organized by the lady riders of Rochester, N. Y.

THE final games in the pool tournament between the Brooklyn Bicycle Club and the Kings County Wheelmen were played on the evening of March 25 at the house of the Brooklyn club. There was a large audience present, and the utmost excitement prevailed all through the evening. The score was tied at the end of the sixth game, but the seventh told the story, and the Brooklyn club was the winner, the score standing 716 to 712.

THE Superior, Wis., Cycle Club are making arrangements to build a new club house in the near future.

THE Arlington League Wheelmen, the latest accession to New York cycling clubs, is destined to become prominent. It is splendidly located, and its accommodations are excellent in every way. The 14 charter members of the organization are all energetic young men.

MESSRS. BRUMMER & KLEIFEL started to make the first continuous run of the season for Western New York. They started from Erie on the 15th ult., but stuck in the mud at 40 miles. They did not accomplish the century, but what they did accomplish required the most heroic effort.

THREE HUNDRED DOLLARS was cleared on the musical and literary entertainment of the Æolus club, Chicago, and nearly $150 on the grand concert and hop of the Douglas Cycling Club of the same city.

THE indoor sports of the Plainfield, N. J., Cycling Club, which have held their members together during the winter months, came to a pleasing and successful end Thursday evening, 19th ult., when, in the presence of over 500 persons, they crossed bats with the Crescent League in an indoor game of base ball. The Plainfield club are particularly fortunate in having the Crescent rink, with floor surface of 80x200 feet, for entertainments of this kind.

MR. FRANK CHURCH of the Bergen Co., N. J., Wheelmen (now in Korea) has written some poetry regarding wheeling in that country, and has dedicated it to his club. A local paper informs us that Mr. Frank Bennett of the same club is training a Newfoundland dog to ride a bicycle, and will enter him at the next dog show in New York for a prize.

JAMAICA PLAIN (Mass.) wheelmen, attention! There will be a meeting at Kolb's Hall, Monday, April 6th, at 8 P.M., 121 Greene street, Jamaica Plain, Mass., for the purpose of reviving the Jamaica Plain Cycle Club.

"Star" of Cincinnati says: "Your editorial in the issue of March 20, concerning the 'Octopus act,' applies with equal force to Cincinnati. From our northern boundary line at Clifton to the river is but little over three miles measured on the map. In this territory, according to the last census, 298,000 human beings reside. This, of course, does not include the hosts who tax the capacity of our cable and electric cars; our railroads, bridges, and ferries morning and evening to carry them to and from their homes in the suburbs to their places of business in the city. Covington and Newport, two cities across the river, require five bridges and four ferries to accommodate the travel across the river. If one were to take our Court House as a centre, and draw a circle that would include an area equal to that of Chicago, it would include a population more than double that given us by the census, and nearly 500 League members, instead of 226 that we now have."

THE "expectations" of an inventor and the realization do not always gibe. For instance, a Mr. Hartman of Ogden, Utah, has invented a water cycle, and "expects" to travel 10 miles an hour at least. The first test Mr. H. makes will shatter these "great expectations."

THE Maryland Div. meet at Hagerstown in July promises to be a great success. The managers have received acceptances of all the States comprising the Third District—Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and District of Columbia. This promises to be one of the largest meets of the year.

A CALIFORNIA wheelman discourses enthusiastically on the merits of wheeling in that "glorious climate." He says: "The month of March, however, is the time of the year when wheeling in San Francisco is most enjoyable. If one wishes to get the beautiful in nature in deep draughts, to be exhilirated with the stimulant that only serves to make the muscles stronger and the head clearer, let him get up in the early morning, mount an ordinary or safety, and ride out over the hills to the ocean. If early

SOMETIMES we have to go away from home to get the news, as is proven by the following item taken from the New York notes in Sporting Life. "The meeting of the National Assembly, which was to have been held on Monday evening, was postponed, owing to the absence of President Dunn. Over seventy-five delegates were present." Here's richness! Investigation did not reveal the fact that any meeting of the National Assembly had been called in New York for the Monday evening in question. Sec'y. Bassett had heard nothing of it, and a careful examination of the Official Department of this paper did not reveal any notice of any such meeting. Where the "seventy-five delegates" got their notice from nobody knows, except perhaps the New York correspondent of Sporting Life. A lurking suspicion enters our mind that the enterprising correspondent is the victim of a hoax, or perhaps he may have exceeded his usual daily allowance of "exhilarator," and was the victim of his own over-excited imagination.

RECENT cables from "the other side" report that the latest fad among the gilded aristocracy of England is to attend select slugging matches! and horror of horrors, the despatch mentions the name of a sister of a prominent American lady (now an English peeress) as being present at the last "little affair." The entertainers rejoiced in the names of Puggy Donovan and Bill Cheese, "all of which leads the wicked correspondent of the Sun," says the Record, "to suppose that an inaccurate version of this interesting social event may have given rise to the rumor current last week in some of the Paris clubs that it was the intention of Mr. Ashmead Bartlett and Baroness Burdett-Coutts to initiate a series of Sunday afternoon dog fights in Piccadilly." What next? We should not wonder to hear that Mr. Hilliers had attended a race meeting at which brutal exhibitions of real racing was given, and that he enjoyed it!

IT IS said that straws show how the wind blows, and this saying applies with considerable force to newspaper correspondents who are supposed to write on subjects of interest to their readers. Gath, who for years has been a correspondent for the Cincinnati Enquirer, has in the issue of March 27 a long letter on "Country versus City Life," in which he shows that one of the drawbacks to rural life was the badness of the roads, and gives some interesting figures on the cost of transportation over different kinds of roads. The letter, three columns in length, is full of valuable information.

A FAIR ENGLISHWOMAN'S VIEW ON DRESS.

SINCE bicycling has been universally adopted by ladies of nearly every nation, the all important subject "how to dress becomingly and also comfortably whilst awheel" has been discussed freely, without aiming at a definite conclusion as to what would be.

To promote an interest in cycling, every lady should dress as nicely as her finances will permit. For what is more unsightly than a badly dressed woman on a bicycle? One would imagine that a slouchy sailor waist, (ditto hat), with a skirt four or five yards in width (flapping around her feet) is an ideal costume? It matters not how gracefully she may ride, it detracts from her appearance, and that ,no woman can afford.

Many advocate the "divided skirt" as the costume proper, and I have even read of a ladies' club adopting it as a uniform. Now; as an undergarment, it's simply indispensable, for it allows perfect freedom of movement in mounting and dismounting, and has no creeping up propensities that are so annoying; but as a costume I unhesitatingly pronounce it outre. And as I credit all those who ride as having exceptionally good sense, I sincerely hope they will agree with me on this point and never appear in one again.

I will try to describe a costume that will create quite a furor in bicycle circles this coming season. It's a navy blue, tailor made princesse, material, medium weight broadcloth, draped slightly in front, so as to give the desired fullness when mounted, and trimmed with dark copper colored silk braid. With it is worn a jaunty "Tam O'Shanter" cap, and gaiters of navy blue, with long gloves of the copper color.

This, of course, is designed expressly for "asphalt riding;" and as the wearer is a brunette, the effect is charming, without being showy, as some might imagine.

Another, in which the same good taste is displayed, is a gray flannel made with a "blazer," and straight skirt gored in front breadth, very much like the short dresses so much in vogue. With this is to be worn shirt waists, of color and material as the wearer's fancy dictates. Jockey cap, gloves, and gaiters of gray.

According to my ideas, the above described suits are both modest and pretty, and withal comfortable. And the girl who hesitates to depart from the sailor costume mentioned, will soon find herself regarded as a curiosity.

When the fair devotees of the wheel begin to realize that a bicycle costume must be selected with the same care that is bestowed on a party or street dress, they will be in position to defy all prejudiced, ill natured persons who are still debating, "whether or not it's proper for women to ride a bicycle." CAPT. KIRKPATRICK, of the Business Men's Cycle League of Newark, N. J., has offered a gold medal to the member attending the most club runs from April 1st to January 1st; and Pres. J. S. Holmes has offered a similar one to the member making the largest mileage record for the same time.

WILL P. E. H. (or A.) of Louisville, Ky., please send on facts and notes of the June meet in that city? His letter, paper and circular have been mislaid.

THE annual bicycle meet of the Chicago Cricket Club will be held July 24 and 25 at Parkside, Chicago. Address J. G. Davis, Parkside, Chicago, Ill.

OUR Harrisburg, Pa., correspondent says: "The entertainment held in the Grand Opera House under the auspices of the H. W. C., and previously referred to by me was a pronounced succes, and the club came out ahead financially in a way that made their hearts glad. This excitement having abated, of course the question of a club house was again taken up, and while the members are somewhat backward in undertaking the responsibility, I have good hopes for the ultimate success of the scheme. One of our morning papers, viz., The Call, suggested "that some of our enterprising and wealthy citizens erect a suitable building for us and let us pay it off as rent." The suggestion is an excellent one, now who will be the "enterprising and wealty citizen?"

TO-MORROW, April 4th, a new sporting paper will be issued in Boston called the Referee. It will cover all branches of sports both outdoors and indoors. It will also deal in musical and dramatic affairs. It will be national in its character. The Referee will be edited by Ed. A. Perry, ten years dramatic critic, two years sporting editor, and three years London correspondent of the Boston Herald, who will have the assistance of a corps of competent writers and correspondents in all the principal American and foreign cities.

THERE is good reason to believe that the discussion of the matter of a live club for Boston will bear fruit. Efforts are being made with every prospect of success to revive the Massachusetts Club. Boston wheelmen desiring to join the reorganized club should address Mr. C. C. Ryder, P. O. BOX 2966, Boston.

THE two professional bicycle races run in Detroit by Jack Prince have been very lively; the contestants ride a terrible pace. The average in this last race has been over 17 miles an hour. In the first race the most serious fall was that of Le Croix, who took a header and broke his collar bone and hurt his face. In this last race Martin rode off one of the turns and broke his leg; cause extreme carelessness. At last accounts Reading and Ashinger are tied for first place.

THE Farragut Bicycle Club of Chicago held their annual election last Saturday evening. The annual reports of the officers showed the club to be in good financial condition. The Farraguts are an L. A. W. club and have in the neighborhood of forty members, which number they expect to increase considerably this spring, as the initiation fee of $50 of the Farragut Boat Club, to which club a man must belong to become a member of the Bicycle Club, is to be reduced to $25.00.

THIEVES broke into the store of H. L. Spencer of Pawtucket, R. I., the other evening. Unluckily for the fellows, Mr. Spencer and a friend happened to be on the premises, and after a sharp chase one of them, John Dugan by name, was captured and taken to the police station. Dugan is only about 14 years; on being searched a 22-calibre revolver was found on his person.

THE first public exhibition of the Y. M. C. A. of Utica, N. Y., took place March 18th. The athletic exhibition was varied and very fine. W. S. Maltby "astonished the natives" by his wonderful trick riding. His impersonation of Oscar Wilde's first attempt in riding showed qualities as a mimic, the possession of which Mr. Maltby is to be congratulated on.

ONE of the most important events in Chicago for the coming season will be the scorchers' clubs century run to Aurora, to Elgin and return. This will be early in June, and will be no scorch, an early start to be made from the club house after a light breakfast in the cafe, and dinner and supper to be taken on the road. To every member finishing the run, a handsome souvenir badge will be given by the club.

THE Peoria (Ill.) Club is one of the oldest clubs in the Leage, as well as one of the strongest, having become a Leage Club when it was organized in '81, and has always remained faithful to the cause through thick and thin. With a membership, at present, of over one hundred active wheelmen, they are well known as an enterprising and thrifty organization, and stand forth prominently as one of the most important race promoting clubs in America. This club will make a bid for the National Championship to be run at their tournament next fall.

MR. STEPHEN GOLDER'S visit to Chicago has been made one constant round of sight-seeing by a number of Chicago's prominent wheelmen. Sunday, March 22d, he was escorted to Pullman by the 2:50 Club, ten in the party. Saturday it had rained hard all day, and those who have been over the Pullman Road after a day's hard rain will realize its true character on this occasion. Mr. Golder said: "You Americans call this a road; it's a beastly mud hole." Tuesday, Mr. Golder saw the Union Stock Yards, pig-sticking and all. He ate no meat for dinner after his return.

DETROIT seems to have an attraction for wheelmen. Fred Donlee, of the R. I. Wheelman, a great friend of Van Wagoner, started for St. Paul, and stopped off in Detroit for a few days; but he liked the city so well that he will stay in Detroit permanently.

MR. WILLIAM HEYNY, JR., of New York, is meeting with good success in organizing his tour through the Harz Mountain, Germany, this summer. The party will leave New York, June 30th, on the Hamburg line of steamers. The cost of the tour will be $200. The average speed will be about 25 to 30 miles per day, a mighty sensible rate of speed.

THE Springfield (Mass.) Bicycle Club and the athletic association of the same city will, no doubt, join forces, and the new organization will retain the name of the Bicycle Club. A club house will be built, containing all the appointments of a first-class athletic club.

F. F. PEARD, editor of Cycling of Toronto, will settle in Chicago permanently. Mr. Peard will be a welcome addition to the ranks of Chicago cycledom.

CAPTAIN MILLER, of the Douglas Cycling Club, Chicago, has associated with him two other members, and they will buy land and arrange for the building of a home for the club in the near future. That's the kind of a Captain to have!!

THE members of the New Orleans (La.) Bicycle Club are going to have a handsome new club house. Recent records of real estate transfers show where this club has purchased three very fine lots of land on Baronne, Dryades, and Gen. Taylor streets, and on this land the new house is to be built. The new home of the New Orleans Club is to be a commodious structure, complete in every detail, and is to be furnished in elegant style and taste. On the large lawn beside the house a tennis court is to be laid out. It is expected that ground will be broken early this month, and it is hoped the club house will be ready for occupancy by July 1.

THE Somerville Cycle Club held its annual banquet at the Quincy House on the evening of March 26. About 45 members were present.

THE methods of government of the Englewood Cycling Club of Chicago are as follows: "The Board of Directors transact all the business of the club and pass upon all applicants for membership. The members call a special meeting when the Board's action proves unsatisfactory. Many of our other clubs might just as well do this, for their meetings, though well attended, are conducive of no expression of opinions from the members who sit around like a lot of wooden men, and ask somebody else to talk.

THE minstrel entertainment of the Nashua (N. H.) Cycling Club took place on the evening of March 25, and the seating capacity of the theatre was thoroughly tested on the occasion. The members of the organization did themselves proud, and encores were as profuse as though Billy Rice, Geo. Thatcher, or some other leading exponent of burnt cork held the boards. The club will net quite a large amount of money as the result of their labors.

CAPT. SHANNON, of the Referee Wheelmen of New York, has offered a silver cup to the member making the greatest number of miles from April 1 to Dec. 1, '91.

This promises to be one of the largest meets of the year.

A CALIFORNIA wheelman discourses enthusiastically on the merits of wheeling in that "glorious climate." He says: "The month of March, however, is the time of the year when wheeling in San Francisco is most enjoyable. If one wishes to get the beautiful in nature in deep draughts, to be exhilirated with the stimulant that only serves to make the muscles stronger and the head clearer, let him get up in the early morning, mount an ordinary or safety, and ride out over the hills to the ocean. If early enough to see the sunrise, so much the better. He will gain an appetite, get his nerves in good condition and look upon the affairs of life with a new interest. Such a ride is better than whisky—even with mint in it."

THE building occupied by the Cincinnati Bicycle Club has been torn down, and the club have stored their piano and bath-tub at Hanauers', where they now make their headquarters.

THE Cranford (N. J.) Cycling Club offer the following medals for road riding: 1st. To each member riding 1000 miles (with an extra bar for each additional 1000 miles.) 2nd. To each member making a Century Run (100 miles inside of 17 hours.)

THE Rambler Club of Dayton, O., held its first anniversary jollification on the evening of March 26.

MR. F. D. LASEY and Mrs. Marie Hale-Lasey, assisted by an able corps of vocal and instrumental talent under the auspices of the Crescent Cycle Club of Rochester, N. Y., gave a concert last Tuesday evening. The programme was quite an artistic affair, printed in club colors of yellow and crimson.

MR. W. H. LAWTON of Cincinnati sends us the following, and desires us to publish the same: "An impression prevails among the wheelmen of Cincinnati that I am the author of the 'Non-contestant' letters which have appeared in your journal, owing, probably, to the fact that I am a relative of Mr. Petty, who was Mr. Allsup's chief competitor. Permit me to assure one and all that I am not 'Non-Contestant,' nor have I written any of the above-mentioned letters."

WE are in receipt of some samples of road maps published by Gustav Kobbe, 251 Broadway, N. Y. They are neatly gotten up, and are of convenient size, and should be in the hands of every wheelman of New York and vicinity. The maps received by us are those of the Jersey coast, Long Island, Westchester County, N. Y., Fairfield County, Conn., and central and northern New Jersey.

"SETAGEC" of Buffalo has this to say about the chairmanship of the Racing Board: "A Western wheel paper had considerable to say a week ago about Randall in connection with this Division, and the general impression of these items was that the officers and members of the New York State Division opposed the appointment of Mr. Randall as chairman of the Racing Board. Now, this is not so. Neither is the Referee's statement that this Division desired to have Mr. De Graaf appointed, as Mr. De Graaf did not desire the position, and would not take it under any consideration."

THE Kings County Wheelmen appear to be particularly desirous of running the Irvington-Milburn road race this season. For what reason they desire a change in the management of the race is not clear. A. B. Barkman is the originator of the event, and has run the affair very successfully for two years, and is fully capable of repeating his previous performances.

THE New Haven (Ct.) Bicycle Club is making great preparations for its annual meet, June 8th. The value of the prizes offered will aggregate $800.

CAPTAIN FULLER of the Brooklyn Bicycle Club and F. L. C. Martin have started in to make the arrangements for the '91 century run from New York to Philadelphia. A meeting of those interested has been called at Plainfield, N. J., for to-morrow, Saturday.

THE outlook for a racing track in Brooklyn, N. Y., is not so bright as it was a month ago. It is too bad to let the scheme die.

THE East side of Buffalo, N. Y., boasts of a Road House called the Wheelman's Rest.

THE programme of the three days' meet of the A. A. U. Championships in Buffalo in June is nearly complete. The third day of the meet will be devoted exclusively to cycle events, of which there will be twenty-four.

OUR SPORT.

WHOEVER was the inventor of the bicycle little matters now, but through no fault of his own he lost his opportunity of almost revolutionizing the affairs of man, his only misfortune being that with all his cleverness, he was unable to cause his birth to have taken place instead of that of his great-great-grandfather, for could he by any possibility have changed places with that ancestor, and so have brought out his machine before the world knew anything of railroads or telegaphing, what a wonderful invention his would have been to people of that age, and what an universally useful one for quick travelling or dispatch of urgent messages! It might have caused the complete upset of those quiet old times. Those glorious (slow) old coaching days which we are now so often invited to look back upon as a standard of all that is good and great and noble; when the young were said to have made the proper use of their legs, instead of indulging in any such effeminacy as riding to and from their daily occupations, when they were said to have real stamina, and to have lived more primitive and more healthful lives. Alas! in these degenerate times of extremes of life at high pressure the wheel can only take its place as a pastime. But what a grand pastime it is! Which amongst our modern games can in any wise compare with it taken as a whole? It has been said that there is danger in the sport. True, but what sport of a manly or vigorous nature can be mentioned in which there is not only danger, but a good spice of it into the bargain, and far better it were so than the courage inborn in Americans should be allowed to die out for fear that perhaps a broken skin might be the result. But as a fact it is a most safe amusement if only it be carried on without recklessness, foolhardy bravado, or excess. Yet herein lies an almost insurmountable barrier, for how is it easy to restrain the natural volatibility of youth, whilst at the same time it is brought out by emulation and the struggle for supremacy? Who, at some time or another, has not felt his spirits rising, as sitting in a train where it happens that two lines run parallel to one another he sees that inch by inch, window by window, wheel by wheel, and slowly but surely car by car, he (or she) is gradually outstripping his neighbor, the face brightens into a glow of satisfaction, and these are feelings of exultation that it is vain to try to smother. Nature is within, and under such circumstances will assert herself, let who may try, in their coldness to suppress it. Let the pace slacken but ever so little, ah! then see the change that takes place; the brightness all at once flies from that train to the occupants of the other, and a thinly veiled vexation is tried to be hidden by the assumption of an appearance of utter indifference to the whole affair. How can such trivial affairs be allowed to interfere with the sublimity of a practical man of business? But they do for all that, and those worsted passengers assiduously read their papers (without understanding them probably) or look another way and try to appear at ease. Admitting all of these feelings to exist, what wonder that the wheelman when his blood is up and spirits high with healthful exercise finding that he is being beaten on the road by a rival rider, should allow his discretion to be outstripped by his feelings and put on a spurt, even though it might result in bringing both wheel and rider to grief. Would his graver prototypes have sat so indifferently and refrained from using it had they the power of applying a little personal exertion to increase the speed of their train? Most likely not, even though surreptitiously done. It is to be hoped, therefore, that the pastime of cycling may continue its steady advance, and it should be hailed with delight that a safe and yet easily driven wheel has been introduced, which enables the weaker sex to take part in so healthful an exercise, calculated as it is to the full development of all nature's beauties of form and color. There are, of course, many exercises equally healthful, but most of them require by pre-arrangement, the meeting of friends to be carried out. Others there are again that only those with leisure and wealth can enjoy. The excitement of the chase can perhaps hardly be exceeded provided it is a good pack that is being followed on a first-class horse and over good cross country. But even then a "find" is indispensable. But for greatest convenience can anything come before a well-built wheel, which being always ready, can be mounted during any spare time, and seems at once to become a part of its rider, having no will but his, and thus, as it were, entering into the spirit of his wishes, giving him the fullest enjoyment of quick motion, that feeling of confidence and self reliance arising from the knowledge that he depends on himself and himself alone? Thus, whilst inferior to no sport in interest and enjoyment, less dangerous than many, it enjoys perfect immunity from any sufferings of the lower animals as its raison d'etre. It requires no worm writhing in its death agonies to tempt an equally unprotected fish to its torturous death or mutilation, no fear-struck fox or deer to succumb after every fibre of nerve and muscle gives way to exhaustion under its frantic efforts to preserve the life given it, no pigeon's quivering frame to attest the marksman's skill by the cruel wounds administered, not even a dumb animal ridden beyond its strength, no influences are as elevating to the mind as they are invigorating to the body, and as such may it always receive the encouragment of all right thinkers. "HAWKSHAW."

THE "ABSORPTION" OF WHEEL CLUBS IN NEW YORK.

THE gradual absorption of the wheeling clubs of New York city by the large and powerful athletic clubs, is a menance to the interests of all wheelmen at large. Cycling from its early birth has been so distinctively considered from all other branches of sport that its amalgamation with sister clientals involves questions which, while dormant at the present time, will arise to confound us later on. Having for its fountain head a League, made great by years of unremitting toil by earnest workers, it seems a pity that the movement so grandly erected should be weakened at its formation by secessions of clubs who owe fealty to its cardinal features.

Last year there was discord among the various cycling clubs by the athletic people weaning from the bicycle organizations their strong racing men, but while that was to be deplored, the present state of affairs may result far more disastrously.

New York is the home of a number of opulent athletic clubs, the chief aim of each being to outdo the other in the way of offering advantages to athletic and social aspirants. The inducements which each individually offers have caused great strife. Up to the present year, while the heads of the different athletic clubs had no doubt thoroughly weighed, the advantages which accrue from merging entire bicycle clubs into their ranks, they took no active steps in this direction until early in January.

The first announcement of a proposed amalgamation scheme between an athletic and bicycle organization was occasioned by the rumors of the proposed move of the Citizens' Bicycle Club.

The banner clubs of New York contemplating affiliating with the New York Athletic Club, caused great surprise. Faint as the rumors of this move were at first, they finally developed into a certainty, and now arrangements have been about completed, when Gotham will lose one of its oldest clubs. But the trouble does not stop here. The Manhattan Athletic Club has managed to secure about a dozen members of the Riverside Wheelmen who, while still remaining members of their bicycle club, have virtually deserted it for the M. A. C., as they will represent that strong club in all races, etc., during this season. The Riverside and Citizen Clubs are not alone the only ones who are identified with athletic bodies, the other clubs having suffered also, losing members gradually, one by one.

The question now is how to combat with these strong clubs. Bicycle clubs in their present state cannot compete with them. The athletic clubs have their bicycle departments which embody everything which a wheel club offers, and, outside of that, everything in the athletic way.

There are a great number of good strong clubs at present in New York, and some united movement should be taken whereby a bicycle club could be retained independent of the athletic clubs. Many times it has been proposed in various cities where there have been many small clubs that the different organizations come together and organize themselves into one body, under one title; whereby an immense club house could be erected, and the wheeling section could remain distinct from any other sport, as has been done heretofore. The absorption of the bicyclists will not alone harm clubs; may also prove detrimental to the L. A. W. eventually.

Active wheelmen in New York cannot but fail to see the present situation. A movement should at once be taken up to bring the clubs together for an opinion on this subject. All petty spites, etc., which exist between some of the clubs should be buried, and a wholesome expression of opinion should be given on this subject. The Brooklyn clubs are at present uninjured by athletic clubs, for the reason that there is no large organization of such a character in the City of Churches. If a movement of this kind was taken up it would prove vegy advantageous to wheeling; for with the erection of a club house, a suitable track could be constructed, which would give a boom to racing, and prove beneficial in many ways.

The idea of the athletic bodies finally wiping out the athletic clubs may sound strange, and perhaps absurd, to some at the present time; but it will, nevertheless, turn out to be true in New York. Bicycle clubs can, and will, no doubt, exist there for time to come, but they will be unable to class with the bicycle department of the athletic bodies. "TREB."

HOW TO BUILD A BICYCLE HOUSE.

ONE of the first questions which presents itself to the intending purchaser of a wheel is, Where shall I keep it? Some wheelmen are fortunate enough to live where they can keep their wheels in a shed or unused room on the ground floor, while the number of riders who have to carry theirs up from six to twelve steps to leave in a back hall is legion, and a larger number than one would imagine carry their wheels to the second floor before finding a resting place for them.

When I first owned a bicycle, this question of where to put it was a serious one, as I did not live on the ground floor; and the only alternative to carrying it upstairs was to build a house for it, which was immediately adopted. Being one of the great army of bookkeepers, I was more accustomed to the use of the pen than of saw, hammer, and chisel; and my efforts in an architectural and building direction might have brought a smile to the countenances of those more skilled in such work. But a bicycle house must be had, and accordingly work was begun and carried to completion.

The dimensions of the house were: Length, 7 feet; breadth, 3 feet; height on the higher side, 6 1-2 feet; and on the lower side, 5 1-2 feet; the roof being of the "lean-to" style, pitching only one way. The frame consisted of four corner posts, three pieces on each side; one each at the top, bottom, and middle of the side, running horiizontally, and four pieces connecting the tops and bottoms of the corner posts and fastening the two sides of the house together; 2x3 scantling was used in constructing this frame. The sides, ends, roof, and floor were made of spruce sheathing, put on up and down, doing away with the necessity of using clapboards, and making a tight, dry house.

My first plan was to batten the interstices of the sheathing on the roof with fancy strips; but after the roof had been on a few weeks the heat of the sun so warped it that it began to leak, and it became necessary to remove the strips and shingle the roof.

My first house was put together to stay, but have constructed another this season which can be taken apart by removing sixteen screws, and which consists of six parts; sides, ends, roof, and floor. The largest and heaviest part is easily handled by two persons. The advantage of this plan of construction is that, in case of a change of residence, a teamster and one's self is all the moving crew needed. I have experienced the need of such a house, as I have had to move my old one twice, and have trespassed on the kindness of my friends in doing so.

I give below a description of a "knock-down" house, which will be readily understood by reference to the accompanying cuts:—

Fig. 1. Inside view of lower side.
Fig. 2. Inside view of higher side.
Fig. 3. Inside view of back end.
Fig. 4. Inside view of front end, showing door and spring lock.
Fig. 5. View of under side of roof. Floor is constructed in same way.

It will be seen by the cuts that the two front corner posts are a part of the door or front end; they are mortised like the back corner posts to receive the ends of the three horizontal joists forming frame for sides, while the two back corner posts are a part of side frames. It is necessary to have this so in order to do away with unhanging the door when the house is taken apart, also to connect the joists which act as floor and roof supports. These floor and roof supports are mortised 7-8 inch deep, to receive the ends of the strips which hold together the boards composing the floor and roof.

FIG. 4.

The upper horizontal piece of 2x3 of each side is chamfered off to conform to the pitch of the roof.

The 2x3 joists for corner posts and frames of sides are placed flat ways; i. e., with the 3-inch side to the sheathing, thereby giving the greatest amount of room inside.

The six parts of the house are fastened together by means of eight cast iron braces on the inside of the house, four at each end. The braces on the back end are screwed into the corner posts forming part of side frame, and the sheathing of the backend, one each at top and bottom of each post. Those on the front end are secured to the under edges of the upper and middle horizontal joists of side frames, and screwed to the front corner posts The roof and floor boards are held toghther by two strips, as shown in Fig. 5, the ends of which rest in mortises also shown. They are held in position by their own weight.

After the house is all put together, a 1-inch quarter round moulding is put on around the sides and ends under the roof, to complete the appearance of the house.

The framework consists of 2x3 joist, and sides, ends and door are spruce sheathing 7-8 inch thick, and either 4, 5, or 6 inches wide; 6 inch is to be preferred on account of the saving of time in laying it. The roof can be made of cheaper wide boards, planed one side. The floor should be made of spruce sheathing same as the sides, on account of the stiffness imparted by the tongues and grooves, and also to exclude dampness which may rise from the ground.

The door swings inward, in order that a good spring lock may be used instead of a staple and padlock, which would be necessary in case the door swung outward. A good spring lock is far more satisfactory and convenient than a padlock.

The whole cost of the materials necessary for this house need not exceed seven or eight dollars; and if one is at all handy with tools he can make it himself, by putting in his spare time for a few mornings and evenings.

When completed it makes a neat, pretty, and serviceable house, and one which will be a source of much pride and satisfaction to the owner, especially if he can point to it as the work of his own hands. C. A. D.

A WHEEL INTO THE INDIAN COUNTRY, NO. 1.

BY C. W. NORTHRUP.

FORT NIOBRARA TO ROSEBUD.

IT was a crisp morning in the early part of October, 1886, that I slid from the saddle of my bicycle within a stone's throw of Fort Niobrara. My bicycle (an ordinary) had been my only companion and conveyance in a week's ride westward from Omaha, Neb. In that time we had travelled 350 miles over road, bridle path and prairie trail without the slightest mishap, and with but one fall of the kind so common to riders of the steel horse. On previous tours taken with friends, my bicycle had often seemed a thing of life with moods varying with those of its rider. Was it strange then after seven days of its silent but faithful companionship that I had grown to love every spoke of the trusty wheel, and that now as we stood looking down on the first point of interest we had come to visit, I could see no reason to doubt our ability together to cover the 1000 miles planned for in an outing of three weeks? This story of travel treats of "our" adventures—that is my wheel and I.

An Indian fort—To how many of the readers of the BICYCLING WORLD will these words bring a picture of a high stockade enclosing a log building full of loop holes, and yet the reality is as different as possible from this. Fort Niobrara is situated in a natural basin, possibly a mile in diameter, its northern boundary formed by the wall of a canyon, through which flows the Niobrara river. From the highlands the place resembles nothing so much as a quiet country village, but not a frontier village, for in the outskirts and on the first easy slopes of the basin the many neat cottages occupied by the Commandant of the Post and his officers give an appearance of thrift and prosperity not common to other settlements in the neighborhood. A stranger might point to several large one-story buildings near the centre and say: "there are the forts," but they are only the barracks of the soldiers and stables for their horses. The north side of the fort seems an immense wood yard covering several acres, and as we ride by a small army of men with teams are busy with hauling cord after cord of pine and oak from the river to add to it. A colored sargeant, who is busy cleaning a carriage, informs us the wood is not for sale as we had supposed, but is to be used for warming "the quarters" during the coming winter.

For over an hour we wheel slowly around the fort among the cottages, through the barracks and past the post-trader's store, but no one speaks to us, asks our business, or tells us we are on forbidden ground. All is so quiet and peaceful it seems hard to realize that ten years before this was the principal depot from which were drawn supplies and soldiers for a campaign against the Sioux Indians, and that less than one-half that time, looking into the future, will find it again a busy and warlike place.

Leaving Fort Niobrara a half-hour ride through a desert of sand brings us to Valentine. In the early part of the eighties, Valentine was for some time the terminus of the Fremont, Elkhorn and Missouri Valley Railroad, and at that time was considered the "toughest" as well as the busiest town on the frontier. Busy it must have been, for all the goods furnished by Uncle Sam for the Sioux were here transferred from the railroad to the big freighting wagons to be hauled to the Rosebud and Pine Ridge agencies. But this was in the past, and now the railroad has stretched its double line of steel a hundred miles to the West and left Valentine with only the memory of "those good old days"—to keep it alive. Of the manners and customs of that ancient town we remember little, but with us is still a faint recollection of meeting with three or four oysters in a stew we ordered at a restaurant, and exchanging a silver quarter for each one of the dainty shell fish.

On the outskirts of Valentine we wheel on to the stage route to Rosebud. It is an ideal road for bicycling, smooth and hard as asphalt, with few grades that are difficult to climb, and many that furnish grand coasting. Three miles out we cross the Minnechaduza river, a clear sparkling stream, and a few minutes later are in chase of an Indian freighter, who, with his four horses and canvas top wagon, is making more than schedule time towards Rosebud. As the distance between us lessens, we notice a dark little face belonging to a papoose of two or three summers, peering at us through an opening in the rear curtain. Other eyes, too, must have been watching this strange combination of wheel and rider, for suddenly the forward horses swing out upon the prairie a rod or more, leaving ample room for a dozen horsemen to ride by abreast.

It had not taken a week of riding to convince us that the average teamster considers one-half the road far too much to allow a wheelman in passing; so much more was the politeness of this dusky driver appreciated, that we found it easy to pause long enough to exchange the customary greeting "How," and natural to ride at a slower pace for half an hour to satisfy the curiosity of our polite friend. Dinner is eaten in a sod cabin with clean swept stone floors, and walls smoothed and whitewashed until they closely resemble ordinary lath and plaster. Early in the afternoon we leave the soil of Nebraska behind and wheel on to the Sioux reservation in South Dakota. Between many States the dividing line is an imaginary one, but at this point it is as plain as though a broad furrow had been turned to mark the intersection. On either side the road, the last "160" belonging to Nebraska is under cultivation, while beyond lies Dakota, a vast desert covered with short buffalo grass, with not a tree or building of any kind to break the monotony of the rolling prairie. As we ride along, however, the telephone line between Fort Niobrara and Rosebud, which has been playing hide and seek with the road all the morning, now keeps closely to us as if for company. The single wire is strung on iron poles, and we have only begun to conjecture why this is done when we ride into a district over which a prairie fire has lately passed. It is a scene of desolation, so complete as to be difficult to describe. Apparently, all animal life has disappeared with the fire; nothing is left behind but here and there a pile of bones, their gleaming whiteness forming a ghastly contrast to the universal blackness of the prairie.

For two hours we wheel through this desolate country, dismounting but twice; once to examine an old buffalo wallow, and again to explore a well worn trail, made probably by the same animals. How pleasant it is after such a ride to look down from the brow of a hill on a field of green with comfortable looking farm buildings close by. We find that this is the property of a thrifty squaw man, and is known as the Half-way house. We stop only long enough to drink a glass of milk, for it is four o'clock, and there are still eighteen miles between us and the Rosebud agency. Since leaving Valentine we have been facing a stiff head wind, and this has now risen till it is blowing a gale, making riding very difficult, except on the down grades. Twice our bicycle comes to a standstill under us, as if to protest against going further; but it is out of the question to stop yet, so we push on, more often out of the saddle than in it, until finally, as night settles down, we dismount, and with one hand thrown over the saddle of our favorite steed, trudge forward on foot. At this high altitude sound travels a long distance; and while still nearly 10 miles from Rosebud, we hear the clear sweet tones of the bell in the Catholic Mission calling to prayers. Soon we can see a number of twinkling lights, and hear the barking of dogs, the latter sound, by the way, being as common to an Indian village as the rumbling of wagons is to a large city. It is half-past eight as we stop before a large frame building that looks so uncommonly like a hotel that we feel no hesitancy in leaning our wheel against the hitching bar, and walking through the partly open door into the hallway. This is dark and deserted; but midway of its length the reflection from an open wood fire shining against the wall shows that one room at least is occupied. In answer to a knock on the casing, a surly looking Sioux comes to the doorway, and after several attempts at mixed English and pantomime on our part, which we have reason to believe is so much Greek to him, we are directed to the further end of the hall. Then the door is slammed in our face, and we are left in the dark, feeling as lonely and forsaken as the man who has just lost his only friend. For a few minutes it is a question whether to advance or retreat; but a fast of eight hours has made the wants of the inner man so pressing that, after a little hesitation, we stumble along the hallway and knock at the door we have been directed to. No attention is paid to the summons, so, throwing it open, we step into a dimly lighted room, nearly filled by a dozen or fifteen Indian children of all ages. Several are drawing on a blackboard that leans against the wall, but the majority are seated on rough benches, either studying or writing. We had heard Spotted Tail's school often spoken of before reaching Rosebud; and now from one of the scholars, a half-breed boy, who speaks a little English, we learn that our imaginary hotel is nothing more nor less than this well-known institution. From the same little instructor we get directions to one of the Agency stores, where in his broken English we are told there are "plenty white men" Leaving the road here we take a path that leads by a number of Indian tepees. Before each a fire is burning, for the evenings are cold at this elevation; but rather to our relief we see no Indians in the vicinity, and push on, hoping to avoid any more meetings, at least for the present. The full moon has risen now, and by its light we skirt the edge of a canyon for a short distance, and then follow the path down its almost perpendicular sides.

BY WM. HEYNY, JR.

The Cyriaki-Church at Gernrode is one of the oldest and finest romanesque churches in Germany. The town is named after St. Gero, who died in 965, and is buried in this church. The interior has been renovated and handsomely decorated by Dusseldorf artists, and if you want to see Heaven and Sheol you can look at them here. The church also contains antique relief ornaments, and a beautiful organ in two parts. I was really surprised to find such a fine church in this little town. The inhabitants raise fruit and make juice of it, that is why we see so many orchards, and apple, pear and plum trees everywhere on the road.

A pleasant ride of some five miles brings us direct to Quedlinburg again. We pass one of the old Watch towers on the road, from where in "ye olden time" they signaled the approach of the robber barons to the citizens. Nearing the city the road leads through endless fields of flowers cultivated for their seeds. The effect is strikingly novel and beautiful. Now a half-mile or so of red crysanthemums on one side, yellow daffodils on the other, abruptly ending in another stretch of white crysanthemums, followed by blue heliotropes; a sight which gave me the impression of a huge colored map. The sweet fragrance is carried for miles ahead at every stir of the air. From the hills about Quedlinburg we can view the Brocken, Lanenburg castle, Blankenburg, Teufelsmauer, Victorshohe, Ballenstedt, Gegensteine, etc. The old imperial city with its famous castle above it, and the historical Munzeberg, is an imposing sight, and leaves a lasting impression upon the visitor. They take us through the great castle and show us thousands of antiquities and relics. In the church we see the tombs of Henry the Fowler, German Emperor, and his wife. Many quaint and curious old houses are found at this town; they were built in the peculiar style of their time, the upper stories topping over the lower ones, so that in narrow streets the gables almost touch. Most of them have elaborate carvings on their beams, bearing inscriptions and dates, in old German and also in Latin. One, named Dorathea, built in 1622, another dating from 1614, still another in the Schwertgasse showed a date as early as 1507, and in the wall of the house No. 26 Laugegasse, is a marble slab with two coats of arms, also bearing the date Anno Domini 1597. These are sights which the American tourist will fail to find in the European capitals.

At the foot of the "Schlossberg" still stands the old house where Klopstock the author of the "Messiade" and many "Odes" was born in 1724.

The Rathhaus (City Hall) is a regular Museum of antique weapons and instruments of torture. Enough can be seen there to make one shudder; for instance, the heads and hands, with the thumbs torn from them, of three would be assassins of an old emperor; also old scriptures from the 13th century, paintings, ornaments, scriptures, etc.

Handsome gardens of flowers throughout the city make a walk pleasant, but when strolling about, you must be careful not to get mixed up between the outer walls and ramparts, or you might experience what happened to me once, when I could not find my way back into town for nearly half an hour.

The Bicycle Club of Quedlinburg generally run their races in August, and a great time is had. The prizes are awarded afterwards at one of the fine concert gardens. I made the acquaintance of some of the local crack riders there. The hotels are overfilled on those days, and on one occasion I was obliged to stay over night at the League hotel with several of the Nordhausen members; six in one room with one bed. I made a sketch of the situation and have it somewhere—two of us in bed, one on the floor, one in an armchair, and two crosswise on the lounge. But we had a jolly time.

At about the same distance from Quedlinburg as Gernrode lies Thale, another little town, but more modern in its appearance, a railway terminus. Handsome villas everywhere, elegant equipages, uniformed servants, people with fashionable airs. A train is just unloading a crowd of pleasure seekers as we wheel by the depot. See them running for the hotel wagon, shouting, panting, and perspiring! How lucky are we wheelmen! We shall head them off, and be snugly installed in our rooms before they get there. "We have been there before." Passing the pretentious Hotel Zehnpfund, squatted at the entrance of the Bode Valley, like a self-satisfied monster, we soon disentangle ourselves from the hustle and bustle of peddlers, showmen, hotel runners, and photographers, (we make short work of it; if the fellows don't get out of our way, we run over them; the unfortunate pedestrian, however, has to suffer their molestations) and reach a solitude, in a bend of the wild Bode stream, where the waters are quietly coursing between great bowlders, and one can distinguish the trout perform its elegant and rapid evolutions in the crystal clear fluid. We cross a little bridge to an island, and here, half hidden among flowery branches, like a fairy dell, we find the Hubertusbad, though we cannot make out the pretty hotel until standing almost in front of it. Its appointments are stylish, the house first class. How charming to sit here in the park-like garden, with its well kept walks, behind a cup of exquisite coffee, the birds singing in the branches above, the sunlight playing on the rippling waters! How delightfully sweet did I rest here at night, lulled into slumber by the music of the Bode!

As we leave the quiet island, the rush of the stream grows louder; with each step we advance, it becomes more furious, roaring and foaming against the rocks; sometimes, especially after a heavy rain, the noise is almost deafening. Just below, great forges are in operation day and night. Let us take a peep in, and see how the blackened, half-naked workmen wield out the long, white-hot iron rails.

LEGAL.

THE Baltimore American reports the filing of an opinion from Judge Morris of the United States Court in the case of the Pope Mfg. Co. vs. Sam'l T. Clark. The court found "that the Overman patent for rocking pedals has been infringed, and that the eighth and ninth claims of the Latta rim patent are invalid for want of patentable novelty. * * *." In his opinion the Judge says: "I think that it appears Overman made a distinct step in the adaptation of pedals to the requirements of improved bicycles * * *." As regards the Latta rim Judge Morris says: "We find the rim patented by Latta accurately described and careful instructions furnished for making it out of a single strip of metal in the English patent taken out by Warwick in the United States upon application filed December 4, 1883; so that Warwick's application preceded Latta's, and the grant to Warwick was prior to date to the patent granted to Latta. * * *. But conceding that Latta was an independent inventor, and that the proof carries the date of invention as exhibited back to a date prior to the date of publication of his Warwicks English patent, I have been unable to find, taking the state of the art, that it required any invention to produce the rim claimed by Latta. * * *." The Overman pedal patent referred to is owned by the Pope Mfg. Co.

NOT OF THE OCTOPUS FAMILY.

EDITOR BICYCLING WORLD: Your editorial note of last week anent Philadelphia and its clubs is misleading in its purport. Philadelphia certainly covers an immense area, but that feature of the city in no way contributes to the number of its bicycle clubs; all but a very few of these are within two and a half miles of the City Hall, and the large majority of them are within fifteen minutes' walk of each other; this major portion find their homes in the northwest section of the city, and seem to be growing stronger every day. The pioneer amongst them was the well known Century Wheelmen, whose constant growth and continual enlargement of quarters up to six months ago was the daily theme with the cycling news gatherers; at that time the club seemed to have reached its maximum, and a limit was placed upon its membership, but the rest was only a short one; the old story is to be retold in a new way,—the Centurions are about to enlarge their already large wheel room and locker space.

This room is now ninety-seven feet long, and about twenty-five feet additional will be added; above the wheel room two stories will be built, containing a complete gymnasium one hundred by twenty-five feet, and a locker room of nearly the same dimensions. The membership of the club is already greater than any other bicycle club in this section; but as the limit has now been removed it will doubtless soon be the largest in the United States.

Surely, Philadelphia's plethora of square miles has nothing to do with this instance of cycling growth, nor can it have any bearing upon the fact that right around the corner from the Centurions is to be found the Quaker City Wheelmen who, it is said, number one hundred and twenty upon their roll, and who have attained the hoary age of one year and two months; the Park Avenue is another large and thriving club; and after these can be counted a baker's dozen of smaller fry that have in them all the elements of strength and growth. These clubs are surely not what they are because Philadelphia extends from the Neck to Holmesburg, but rather because cycling in Philadelphia is in the sturdy condition that makes such organizations possible. Probably, though this is said in no way as reflecting on Boston or any other city, Philadelphia clubs are numerous and prosperous because they are run on business principles, giving as many comforts and conveniences as it is possible for the money. The Century—being a member of that club I can cite it more intelligently than others—for instance had never had a single resignation from its ranks on account of any unpleasantness; as a member recently remarked, "all the 'chic(k)s' in the club are on the pool table." Its dues have always been as low as was consistent, its finances well engineered, and it has never made an assessment; a record this that has something to do with its success.

The same story can be told in a certain measure of every Philadelphia club, and to such circumstances must be ascribed their numbers and robust condition.

TRUE, EVERY WORD OF IT.

A TRUE lover of bicycling is always ready to receive literature relative to the wheel, and an enthusiast is always waiting for the next issue of the paper which is ever extolling the bicycle and firmly endeavoring to prove to some of our disbelieving citizens that its proper use is conducive to good health, by stimulating the several organs of the body to perform their various functions in a normal manner.

I have ridden a wheel and been a student of medicine for several years, and it gave me great pleasure to read in a late issue of THE WORLD the article in the Stenographer as well as to learn of the advice given by two physicians. I thoroughly agree with the Cincinnati physician in this: "The proper use of the wheel is one of the best remedies for dyspepsia ever invented."

More can I add: When one's mind is tired with hard work and eyes ache from long application to books, when having been cooped up all day in the lecture room, one can get out for a short spin, it is wonderful to see with what an appetite he sits down to his meals with no after discomfort. On the contrary, he can pursue his studies through the evening with satisfaction, awaking early the next morning to take a ride in the cool part of the day; and if no one has ever ridden at an early hour on a spring day, just at that time when the trees are donning their bright green gowns, he had better do so. What can be more hope inspiring than the birds singing gaily in the trees, showering thanksgiving to the Creator; the air fresh and crisp. Everything sensibly impresses us with youth, our mind is lightened, our eyes relieved. All is bright and new, the reflected sunlight on the dew covers the young grass shoots with diamonds, and we hear the distant water as it tumbles down over an incline and is beaten into cool refreshing spray on the jagged rocks. This is pleasure; it unburdens the labored mind, widens the thoughts, exercises the body, and properly calms the senses, and admirably prepares the man for a day of hard work.

It is my advice to all, if it be within their means, to procure a wheel as early as possible, for these pleasures cannot be enjoyed in any other way. One can go along over the country or suburban city road on the bicycle, which gliding noiselessly along, allows one to drink in all these sights and sounds and be thus impressed by the greatness of this world.

A MARVELLOUS RECORD, OR A MUNCHAUSEN STORY?

EDITOR BICYCLING WORLD: Now that you have, very properly I think, prohibited further discussion, in your columns, of that famous mileage record claimed by the renowned "Teddy" Allsup, perhaps I may be allowed to, in a modest sort of way, draw public attention to a much more startling performance in that line, viz., my own mileage record for that same month of October, 1890. As is already known to a few, I claim to have ridden my bicycle 2999.9 miles that month, at the same time working ten hours a day at my trade, Sundays excepted. I have since been sorry I did not ride another tenth and thus make it an even 3000 miles. Some doubting Thomases have asked me to produce proof in the way of a daily record; and while resenting the reflection on my veracity, I cheerfully comply, as follows: October 1, 93 miles; 2, rain, 76; 3, 104; 4, rain, 53; 5, 136; 6, rain, 78; 7, 115; 8, 107; 9, 105; 10, 105; 11, 107; 12, 136; 13, 99; 14, 97; 15, 109; 16, rain, 68; 17, 74; 18, 76; 19, 165; 20, 117; 21, 119; 22, rain, 70; 23, 73; 24, 110; 25, 67; 26, rain, 50; 27, 116; 28, 93; 29, 70; 30, 100; 31, 111.9 Now, gentlemen, these are the figures, and "figures won't lie;" but if any one is unreasonable enough to ask for further proof, let him call at my residence, and I will show him the very bicycle on which the deed was done. Or, if any one will put up a suitable medal, I will make another record equal to, or even better than the above, and make it in the same way. ELI MULHATTON LONGNOW, Cincinnati, March 23, 1891.

THE PEORIA TOURNAMENT.

AT the regular monthly meeting in March of the Peoria Bicycle Club considerable important business came up for discussion, and a great interest was taken by the members present. The most important business was the question of holding another tournament. While it has been generally conceded that we should hold another meet this year, the question has never before been brought up for discussion at a club meeting. It was decided, however, in very short order, that we should hold a tournament this year that would, if possible, outshine any previous entertainment, not only in point of interest in the race line, but in point of the entertainment of visiting wheelmen.

It has been the intention of the officers of the Illinois Division for some time past to take charge of the entertainment of visiting wheelmen at the Peoria tournament this year (if one was held), and prepare an elaborate programme that would be an everlasting credit to the Division.

The club also feel reasonably sure of securing the National Championship races for Peoria this fall, and where in America is there to be found a track on which the National Championships could be run with any better results, either for speed or general benefit to the League, than the Peoria track? and where is there a club more deserving of having the Championships than the Peoria Club? or a club more capable of taking charge of them and putting through to success?

RACING AT BUFFALO, N. Y.

THE indoor season was closed last Saturday evening by the spring tournament of the 65th Regiment A. A. and the Iroquois A. C. Between three and four thousand people were present, and the games were more interesting than any that have been held at the Arsenal prior. All the leading bicycle clubs, excepting the Buffalos, were well represented in the many contests. There were four bicycle races. Aside from this the long programme, well arranged and conducted, consisted of the usual running, walking and jumping.

The first wheel event was the mile safety novice, contested by John Kurtz, Iroquois A. C.; C. H. Callahan, P. C. C.; Ed. C. Bald, Roamers W. C.; W. D. Ottenot, Roamers W. C.; and James M. Shultz, Queen City A. C. All got a good start and lead, but Bald shot ahead at once with the rest following. On the second lap Callahan fell and was out of the race, though he mounted again. Bald kept a good lead, and finished nearly a half lap ahead of Shultz, with Ottenot third. Time, 3:38 1-5.

In the half-mile (safety) bicycle, Charlie Dorntge, the Iroquois flyer, got a grand start and lead, but in turning into the home stretch on the second lap his wheel sidled, throwing him, and injuring his wheel so he had to drop out. On the fourth lap John Penseyres got a fall also and dropped out. R. W. Conn won nicely in 1.36 on a 33-pound wheel, built by himself; Will Conolly of Rochester, W. E. B. C., second; and William J. Fisher of the 65th Reg. A. A., third.

The mile 3.30 race had nine starters. Bald of the Roamers again got the lead from the start, and by the third lap was nearly 100 yards ahead, finishing as he pleased in 3:07, with Callahan second and Conolly third.

Chas. Dorntge, R. W. Conn, John Penseyres and C. H. Callahan were the only starters in the three-mile bicycle race for city indoor championship, this being the third race for the championship, the Iroquois rider having won both the others. Dorntge took the lead, and gained steadily, being a lap ahead of all at the finish of the second mile, and won nicely in 9.28 2-5.

In the five-mile race of this contest, Dorntge made the last three miles in 8.43, which was wonderful, considering the floor. Conn finished second by a lap, with Callahan several lengths behind him. Penseyres took a fall early in the race and dropped out.

THE PROPOSED NEW YORK, NEW JERSEY, AND BROOKLYN ROAD RACING ASSOCIATION.

THE movement for the formation of a team for New York, New Jersey, and Brooklyn Road Racing Association should, now that the racing season is approaching be pushed right ahead. What is required is an initiative move. Why not let the Kings County Wheelmen, which is the prominent racing club in this section, call a meeting of representatives from all the prominent New York, New Jersey, and Brooklyn clubs for an expression of opinions upon the subject. There are at least half a dozen clubs who would join the movement, and it would do much to promote road racing in this section.

NOT IN FAVOR OF THE DIVIDED SKIRT.

EDITOR BICYCLING WORLD—The sentiments expressed by "Brookline" in regard to divided skirts will be endorsed I think by a majority of lady riders. With a skirt of just the right length and fullness (learned by experiment) there is sufficient freedom for most of us to pedal easily and rapidly; three season's riding by the writer having been attended by no accident blamable to skirts.

There seem more objections to be offered to the ungraceful, unwomanish style of garment than to the regular well constructed full, plain skirt.

The courtesy invariably shown by League members to the "feminine contingent" makes us hope that by neither dress nor deportment on the wheel we may forfeit the right to it. Yours very truly. MELROSE.

A CYCLE SHOW AT DETROIT.

IN connection with the coming League meet in Detroit there will be a cycle exhibit. Those desiring information and space should address A. F. Peck, Chairman, 139 Jefferson avenue, Detroit, Mich.

RESULT OF SIX DAYS' RACE AT DETROIT.

FULLY 1200 people saw the finish of the six days' race last Saturday night at Detroit, Mich. Ashinger and Reading were riding neck and neck, first one took the lead and then the other. Finally Reading made a spurt and took the lead, but when they reached the starting point the lap before the last they were side by side, and Reading, thinking that his trainer had told him it was the last lap, slacked up. Discovering his mistake he almost caught up to Ashinger on the last lap, but when the bell rang Ashinger was two feet ahead of Reading. The score at the finish stood: Ashinger, 396 miles, 14 laps; Reading, 396 miles, 14 laps; Clark, 383 miles, 5 laps.

THE FIRST CENTURY RUN OF THE YEAR.

D. H. LEWIS of Buffalo made a Century run from Erie, Pa., to Buffalo, N. Y. He left there at 12.40 A.M., and arrived in Buffalo at 10.35 P.M., Thursday, March 26th. He left as soon as possible after midnight, while the roads were frozen. He rode a pneumatic tired safety, and got along fairly well till he got to Silver Creek where the sun began to soften up the roads. Leaving there about 10 A.M., it took him three hours to reach Angola, thirteen miles farther on. At Angola he went to bed and slept a couple of hours; and, reinforced with a good dinner, he left there at about four o'clock. Nearly every mile of the twenty to the city line had to be walked, and so it took Lewis seven hours to do this distance. He says he walked about thirty miles of the one hundred. The whole time occupied was 21 hours and 55 minutes, time on the road 19 1-2 hours. Lewis came through in good condition. "SETAGEC."

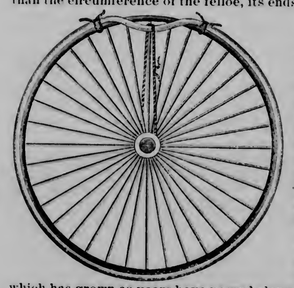
SINGER SAFETY.

Specification—30-inch wheels speeded to 57-inch (or 54-inch), patent one inch wired tires, Singer ball steering, Singer ball bearings to all running parts, including pedals, Singer patent steering lock, Singer patent detachable crank bracket, weldless steel tube frame, handle bar and forks, guard to both wheels and to chain, brake, foot rests, lamp holder, best combined saddle and spring, spanner, etc., etc. Enameled, and with parts plated. Price $135. Cushion tires, $5; Pneumatic tires, $40 to order, extra.

THE LADIES' SAFETY.



Specification—28-inch wheels, speeded to 53-inch, patent one inch wired tires, Singer ball steering, Singer ball bearings to all running parts, including pedals, Singer patent steering lock, Singer patent detachable crank bracket, weldless steel tube frame, handle bar and forks, guard to both wheels and to chain, brake, foot rests, lamp holder, best combined saddle and spring, spanner, etc., etc. Enamelled, and with parts plated. Price, $135. Cushion or Pneumatic tires to order, extra.

The changes in the Singer wheels this year are the making of the crank bracket detachable, and the adoption of a one inch wire tire for their wheels. The other changes are very small and consist only in little matters of detail.

The making of the crank bracket so that it can be detached readily is a mighty good feature. If for any reason such a change of gear or repair the bracket need to be sent away, it can be done without sending the entire wheel away also.

In the matter of tires the company have decided to stick to their well known and tested "Wired Tires," and enlarge to a full inch. The best quality of rubber is used, and the tire makes a most comfortable and easy riding one. The points of the tire are:

The tire is fitted to Singer cycles only. It is compressed, not stretched on the rim. It is more elastic, forming a cushion. No cement is used. It cannot come off accidentally. The wire is of specially strong quality, and is corrugated thus: ~~~~~ It is passed through a hole in the centre of the rubber and its ends are interwoven. As the rubber tubing is longer than the circumference of the felloe, its ends are joined by compression.

On a 30-inch wheel, the rubber tubing, instead of being several inches shorter than the circumference of the felloe is four inches longer than the circumference of the felloe. This gives from 15 per cent. to 20 per cent. more rubber than the ordinary tire, forming a very decided elastic cushion. The rubber will not as easily cut, and any cut made will be pressed together, not distended under tension. The tire may be pushed aside sufficiently to admit of the putting in of a spoke. (See cut.) The reputation of this company in this country for excellence of work and design is well enough known to our readers without our expatiating thereon. It is a reputation which has grown as years have passed along, and the fact that their American Catalogue for '91 salutes its readers with a "sixteenth annual greeting" is sufficient to show that the Singers have been tried for a long time in the country and not found wanting. Increase in business during these years is most flattering testimony as to the way these wheels are regarded here. Nothing but the best suits the Singer people. Mr. Ross, the American manager, has appointed some excellent agents, the most prominent among which are: F. W. Aymar, 2 Astor House, Broadway, New York City; Wall & Boyer, 1714 No. Broad street, Philadelphia, Pa.; Thorsen & Cassady, 60 and 62 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.; F. S. Cahill & Co., 1732 Penn. avenue, N.W., Washington, D. C. They are also represented in almost all cities and towns of the country. The appointment of Mr. F. W. Aymar of Boston to the New York branch is an excellent one. Mr. Aymar is a driving, energetic man, and will cover his territory in a way that cannot but accrue to the benefit of himself and the Singer Co. The company will furnish him wheels in quantities, so that he can supply his customers with invariable promptness.

THE O. W. CO. CATALOGUE.

THE Overman Catalogue for '91 is at hand, and it certainly is a work of art from its beautifully embossed front cover through every one of its 40-odd pages. The color of cover is what we should call a pale "robin-egg blue," and the embossing is very rich, and in relief is paler in shade than the flat body of the cover. It is without doubt the handsomest and most artistic cover

There may be some truth in the old saying that

and then again there may be not. Here is one gentleman who shows that the latter is, sometimes at least, the case, and also that the best proof of a wheel is in the riding:

BAY CITY, MICH., March 7, 1891.

GORMULLY & JEFFERY MFG. CO.,

Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:—

* * * I was not much taken with the Rambler myself, until I rode it to some extent the past winter. I then decided to have one.

Most of the spring frame machines have to stop and vibrate a little after an obstruction is gone over, but the Rambler, no matter how rough the road, keeps right on "sawing wood" and seems to shoot forward after every rut instead of stopping for a rest.

Yours truly,

D. G. JACKSON.

GORMULLY & JEFFERY MFG. CO.,

MAKERS OF THE "AMERICAN CYCLES,"

222-228 N. FRANKLIN STREET, CHICAGO, ILL.

178 COLUMBUS AVENUE, BOSTON, MASS.

that has ever appeared on a catalogue. The inside work is also very fine; is in the highest style of the engravers' and typographers' art. The pages are all printed on the finest book paper, in two colors, black, and robin-egg blue. The ornamental headings are exquisite "bits." After the richly engraved title page comes the pictures of the factory, which we published in this paper some few weeks ago. Then come fine cuts of the "Victor family," six of 'em." Then follows the usual catalogue and illustration of the detail. Near the end are shown the Credenda wheels and Nonpareil.

They also show a cut of the Victor Rational ordinary, large back wheel and Victor cushion tyres. The whole work is a credit to the compiler and the printer who did the job.

While on the matter of artistic subjects and the O. W. Co., we must acknowledge receipt of one of the Overman Wheel Co. wrenches, most exquisitely etched with our name, a delicate foliated pattern, and the picture of a young lady on a safety. It is the prettiest thing of the kind we have ever seen.

We also have received from the same source a beautiful paper cutter made of aluminum, and our thanks are registered herewith.

MR. FRANK BROCK and Howard A. Smith & Co. of Newark, N. J., have severed connection.

D. H. LEWIS in his century run from Erie, Pa., to Buffalo last week Thursday rode a Featherstone Pneumatic safety.

REFERENCE to our advertising columns page 617 will show that there is a good chance for a rubber worker to engage permanently in the making of pneumatic tires.

DAN CANARY in his great feat of riding down a flight of steps on one wheel at San Francisco a few weeks ago used a Victor wheel. Dan on a Victor intent on the performance of difficult tricks is a combination hard to beat.

THE foundation of the new Pope Mfg. Co.'s building on Columbus avenue, Boston, is fast reaching completion. We were favored with a glimpse of a perspective drawing of this building the other day, and we can safely assert that for beauty of design it cannot be excelled by any business building in the Hub.

THE Overman Wheel Co. tendered a reception to about 100 Connecticut wheelman last Friday. A special train was taken at Springfield for Chicopee Falls, and the Overman Band discoursed sweet music. An inspection of the factory followed, and then the visitors enjoyed a splendid repast. Each visitor was presented with flowers, a bouquet holder, an aluminum paper knife and a nickel plated wrench with the name of recipient etched thereon.

ERRATA—Last week our types described the tires on the "Popular" machine as being 2-8. It should have been 7-8.

HORACE BELL has secured quarters at the Southwest corner of Van Buren street and Wabash avenue, Chicago, for the Humber Importing Company, of which he is manager.

IT is beyond question that the physicians are alive to the importance of the bicycle as a hygienic appliance, and as a means of exercise. This was shown in a marked way last year, when the Pope Mfg. Co. was requested to make an exhibition of bicycles and tricycles at the exhibition in connection with the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Medical Society. The same desire has been shown this year, and the celebrated Columbias will again be seen on exhibition at the Mechanics Building, June 9th and 10th, in company with other sanitary appliances as well as with surgical apparatus and Pharmaceutical preparations.

THE PULLMAN-CHICAGO RACE.

THE date of this race will be May 30 and not the 31st as heretofore published in our fixtures. This year the race will be entirely under the management of the Associated Cycling Clubs of Chicago.

$1000.00 REWARD.

Three days before Noah left the Ark, about 14 o'clock in the morning, a balloon was cut loose from the top of Pike's Peak, containing two small children, twins, one a boy of 36 summers, and a girl of 40 winters.

The boy wore a long North Pole linen duster lined with tomato cans, and a cream colored plug hat, with the word "SLAVIR" spelt backwards.

The girl wore a Striped Pneumatic Suit, with a Bale of hay for a bustle, and carried a La Tosca sun-shade, made from cherry wood furnished by the boy who never told a lie.

Any one learning of their present abode, will confer a great favor on the bereaved parents by keeping still about it.

The ascension was made for the purpose of painting on the Moon, that the SWEETING CYCLE COMPANY is now ready with a full assortment of Safety Bicycles of High and Medium grade, for Men, Women and children, [boys and girls.] We even have them for Twins.

CHAPTER THE TWOTH.

The principal object of our paying out money to see this nonsense in print is not, as some have thought, to play the part of a by assisting a struggling but honest editor to make a living; but really to tell you that we have on hand somewhere about 900 of the latest improved "Coventry Rivals," and we are so desirous to get them into fresh sections of the country that we want to send a sample to each dealer who has not yet handled them. To this end we will allow an extra 5 per cent on sample machines until May 1st.

CHAPTER THE THREETH.

And last [for this week only] we want to remind you that we are fully equipped with boys' wheels, girls' wheels, and other wheels. We quote 24 inch Safeties, $25.00; 27-inch, $35.00; 30-inch, $45 00; subject to big discounts. We remark that we sell a wheel at $45, less one-third, making $30 net, when a certain other house lists at $60, and gives 40 per cent., making $36, or $6 more than ours. DEALERS.—Get net cash prices, and don't be fooled any longer by high list prices, [which you can't get] and big discounts (which you can't make.) We sell our wheels on quality, not price; and yet we guarantee our prices as low as any in the United States of America.

CHAPTER THE ONETH.

[Second Volume] Do not think this is all we have to say. We have on hand the celebrated "Irwell," solid and pneumatic tires; the famous "R & P," the "Clipper," the Paragon, the "————," well, we have them. We want to do business with you, and we can make money for you.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE REPORT.

BALTIMORE, March 21, 1891.

Board of Officers, Maryland Division L. A. W.:

Gentlemen—The committee appointed at your last meeting to act in conjunction with the Hagerstown Bi. Club in securing the participation of all the Divisions of the third racing district in the meet of the Maryland Division at Hagerstown July 2, 3 and 4; beg to report that an invitation to so participate has been addressed to each of the said Divisions. Official acceptances have been received from Chief Consuls Boyle of Pennsylvania, Merrihew of Delaware, Atwater of the District of Columbia and Belleville of West Virginia, leaving only Virginia to hear from finally. Chief Consul White heartily endorses the project, and has promised to lay the matter before his Division. A formal acceptance from him is looked for daily.

Respectfully submitted,
C. L. MITCHEL,
A. L. CLINE,
G. P. WILSON, Chairman.

A communication was read from Mr. Henry G. Penniman inviting the Board of Officers to attend a meeting to be held at the Lyceum Parlors, Thursday evening March 26, '91.

This meeting is in regard to the movement on foot to start a general athletic club in this city, similar to the Columbia of Washington, Boston Athletic Association and New York Clubs.

Chairman Mott appointed the following committee to represent the Board at that meeting: Messrs. Hayden, Chism and Unverzagt.

The following motion of Mr. J. J. Zimmerman was carried: "That the Maryland Division refund to the Mayland Bi. Club initiation fees and dues of Messrs. W. W. Cloud and Jas. H. Stone, erroneously paid to Secretary Bassett, and that the Board take action to recover the amount from the L. A. W."

A motion was adopted that the Maryland Division pay the proprietor of the Howard House at Ellicot City the sum of twenty-five dollars ($25) to reimburse him for any loss he may have incurred in preparing to receive wheelmen on November 27, 1890.

On motion the meeting at 10.12 P. M. adjourned.

Fraternally yours, WM. J. UNVERZAGT,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Missouri Division Tours.

To Members:

To assist in popularizing the sport of cycling in this city, and as the right to participate in League tours is one of the chief advantages of membership in the League, all members are urgently requested to participate in the following: St. Louis County Tour, April 5, to Ballwin; Pike County Tour May 3, at Louisiana. Don't fail to carry your League ticket with you, as it will entitle you to advantages which you will otherwise miss. Further notice of the tour will appear in the news columns of this paper, which you are requested to read carefully.

Fraternally yours,
ROBT. HOLM,
St. Louis, March 21, 1891. Chief Consul.

Missouri Wants 500.

To Consuls and Members:

You have read about the man who was "too busy to write an official notice for his Division" haven't you? A number of people have asked the undersigned how he found time to write these notices; they didn't see how he did it. Well, we do. It always struck us that an officer who couldn't take the time to take proper care of its wants. Be that as it may, we have an organization that justifies us in harping on each day in the year. You don't need a jimmy nor a dark lantern to open the eyes of the riding public. A good argument will do so more effectually, and the rider will like it better. You must tell your story in a way calculated to produce the effect you desire and to aid you in accomplishing this object a recruiting pamphlet is now being printed, which will soon be distributed among the thousand of non-League riders in this State. This pamphlet talls briefly what riders want to know about our organization—initiation dues, its objects and claims for patronage. We shall be glad to send it to all riders of your acquaintance. Send names and addresses on a postal card. Fraternally yours.

The sum of $17,028 has been credited to the Division and $9404.50 is the amount retained by the League. Seventy League clubs have united with the League the past year. At the February meeting we reported that California had been crowded out of the "first-ten" Divisions, by Rhode Island. And now California has stepped ahead of both Rhode Island and Michigan, taken ninth place and crowded Michigan out.

Wisconsin Division, Notice.

The annual meeting of this division will be held in conjunction with the tournament of the Green Bay Cycle Club at Green Bay, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 22 and 23, 1891.

Division championship races will be held at this meet for one and five-mile Ordinary and one and five-mile Safety. The racing track at Green Bay is fast, and I trust this meet will develop the fact that we have in the Wisconsin Division some of the best racing ability in the country. Championship races are open to division members only. All others open to all comers, as will be noticed hereafter.

Division racing board is hereby appointed, to hold as per By-Laws until their successors are appointed: F. S. Fox, Chairman; W. J. Casey, F. A. Arthur, E. Marique, all of Green Bay.

The Hon. Mayor of Green Bay, through personal letter to Division Officers, sends greeting to all wheelmen, with general invitation to attend the July Cycle tournament.

The interest shown by citizens last season makes it more than certain that all who attend will be most heartily welcomed, and all who participate in the races will find worthy contestants for a splendid list of prizes.

Especial invitation to this meet is extended to League members resident in the north peninsula of Michigan; you ought to belong to the Wisconsin Division. Our meet next year may go to the southern part of the State. Your State will never hold a meet anywhere near you. Join us this time in full force.

League meet at Detroit, July 16, 17, 18. Wisconsin should put in a large attendance. We will ask for the national meet sometime. Lets go, a big lot of us, and see how to run it.

Fraternally, W. L. SIMONDS,

Milwaukee, March 30, 1891. Chief Consul.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary, in order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at 10 A. M. on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

"HONESTY IS THE BEST POLICY."

—MATTHEW HENRY. (Sometimes attributed to Franklin)

A very instructive and moral homily might be written on the above. It is undoubtedly the best policy, however, and we will say no more about it. We have honestly represented the machine that we build, and buyers will find them all and more than our most elaborate eulogy would indicate. The PARAGON, as its name indicates, is the peer of any and the superior to most of the machines on the market.

CYCLING FOR Health and Pleasure.

CHAPTER VI.

The safety is responsible, in no small degree, for the poor form and careless riding of so many wheelmen; because it is so easy to learn and to ride, that the majority are indifferent as to how they ride. If one dared to hint that the majority are ignorant of how to ride properly, he might be howled down; but then, would it be any less true? In no one point is poor riding more manifest than in pedalling, and no single feature of riding receives less attention. Everything, in cycling, depends upon the sort of connection a rider makes with his wheel, the connecting points being pedals and feet, hence the use of foot and ankle is of the highest importance. The why, the wherefore and the how are exhaustively considered, with diagram, in the chapter on Correct Pedalling.

FRAMES.

The first and most necessary point, in building a house or a bicycle, is the proper construction of the skeleton or framework.

This point has been aimed at (and successfully met according to a critical public) in the manufacture of the '91 Columbia Light Roadster Safety.

Graceful, rigid, light, strong---all apply to the above frame.

Note the construction---long socket steering head, two lengths of steel tubing extending to hub of rear wheel, rear wheel guard of steel tubing firmly bracing whole, with crank shaft bracket at the firmest point. See the possibilities of lateral adjustment for saddle.

One of the best mechanical engineers in the United States, a bicycler for fourteen years, says: "The diamond frame is, in my eyes, very graceful, and, of course, is unequalled in strength." Strong endorsement, the stronger because unsolicited.

But the pith of the matter has been reached by another testimonial (also gratuitous): "You have had a mechanic at this machine, who dove down into mechanical principles."

The double-diamond frame was built on mechanical principles.

"The truth shall make you free."—John VIII., 32.

I have been severely criticised in the past for using scriptural quotations in connection with tangible current matters. Some of these have been made by men whose lives are approved by their neighbors. Of such I can only say they have either misunderstood my motive, or they are saturated with that nearly obsolete idea that religion and common sense make a dangerous mixture. I have investigated the personal character of some of the men who wrote condemning myself and the editor of this paper for the adv. which appeared here June 20th, '90. In one case the self-appointed judge had recently been suspended from his pastorate (instead of a tree) for improper relations with one of the Ewe Lambs of his flock. When he sees this and remembers the letter he wrote me, I hope it may stimulate him to write once more and tell us just what special position of prominence he expects to occupy in the promised land.

Another who could hardly find words to express his disapproval of one who was making a practical use of the bible, turns out to be a ——, well! he rides a bicycle. He is also a minister in New York State; he was out one morning (making pastoral calls probably), and while trying to pass between two wagons he got mixed up with one of them and buckled his front wheel (it wasn't Hickory); one of the drivers helped him to straighten it out as well as such treatment could, and he rode it to the agent, whom he still owed for the last monthly payment (he had also had the benefit of a special minister's discount) and he actually asked that the injured spokes be fixed up gratis! as it had "happened by ordinary use on good roads." And this rudimentary specimen had written me that he considered my use of the bible "pernicious in the extreme." He also said that "had it not been for the bible the world's morality would now be at a very low ebb." I am quite willing to admit that some of the bible's teaching is well calculated to improve morals, but it can't create morals; there must be some foundation to work on; fertilizers are of no use without the germ to fertilize.

It would be serving this man right to give his name. He knows well enough who he is, but under the drippings (or drivelings) of his sanctuary next Sunday will sit people who don't know. If such a man was "breaking the bread of life" for me, I should want to watch him to see that he didn't give me the crust and put the best of it under his own vest.

A prominent Hickory Cycle agent, Mr. Sweeting, of Philadelphia, recently received a machine to be repaired, together with the following letter: "I have misused this machine fearfully. I was riding on the ties across a R. R. bridge when it broke. Please have it repaired and send me the bill."

The machine was repaired and returned with the following letter: "—— Dear Sir:—We have put your machine in order and return it this day by —— Ex. We take pleasure in saying that no charge is made for this work, as you are the first rider who has ever admitted any responsibility for the breakage of his wheel."

If you happen to have an accident to your machine be a man (if you don't happen to be a woman;) don't forget that an expert would take the evidence of the break in preference to anything you could tell him. If there was a flaw he can see it, and if there wasn't and you have rubbed the fracture full of "gudgeon grease" (as I have known you to do) he can, by means of a little turpentine and a microscope, tell just as much about it and a great deal more about you. Any maker who expects a future of prosperity will gladly make good any defect that he was responsible for, and he entertains the most cordial feelings toward the customer who is willing to do right. At least, we have an expert who feels that way.

PEACE BE UNTO YOU.

"He is happiest, be he king or peasant, who finds peace in his home."—Goethe.

SO likewise that cycler is happiest who finds peace on his wheel, or in other words who rides a perfect spring frame, such as is found only on the "Sylph." A three part frame. One part carries the load; the other parts each carry a wheel. All held in position by springs. Either wheel free to rise over obstructions without affecting the saddle or pedals. This reads well, but do you known what it means? It means that instead of lifting the load, cycle and all up and over each pebble in the road, the wheels only are lifted on the "Sylph." It means that perfect springs smooth the road, and that the "Sylph" runs easier on rough roads than any other.

JANUARY last we notified the entire Cycle trade that we had secured the control for the United States of the Dunlop patents on Pneumatic Tires. Anticipating a great demand for this tire, as it is the only practicable and successful Pneumatic Tire made, we warned the trade against infringement, and, at the same time, freely offered to the trade this tire at a reasonable and uniform price.

We are informed that some persons are still offering in the market, cycles provided with Pneumatic Tires, identically, or substantially the same as the Dunlop Tire, but without any authority from us. We respectfully refer manufacturers, importers, dealers and users to United States letters patent, reissue No. 11,153, granted to John B. Dunlop, March 24, 1891, "Wheel Tire for Cycles."

This patent is owned by us, and we shall immediately begin the active and vigorous prosecution of every person making, selling, or using tires containing the improvements claimed in the said letters patent without authority from us.

Last Sunday (15th) two members of the Ramblers here tried to make 100 mile run, Erie to Buffalo. The roads were so bad that, after going 45 miles, they took train home. One of them, Mr. B——, was mounted on a 45lb. "Swift," cushion tires. The other man, Mr. K——, is a light-weight, and rode a solid tire * * *. On the latter wheel the tires were cut all to pieces, while the cushion on the "Swift" had not the faintest sign of a scratch.

EDITORS:

C. W. FOURDRINIER. J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 10 APRIL, 1891.

IT gives us pleasure to accord space to one of Chicago's most respected wheelmen, in which he takes strong exceptions to the views we have expressed on the butterfly phase of cycling. He rather misunderstands the criticisms made by the editor of this paper in the common use of the noun boys as almost universally applied to cyclists by some correspondents. Now, it is no crime to be young, and it was not our intention to cast slurs on the younger members of the L. A. W., but it did seem and it does still seem to be not in keeping with the dignity of the League that its members, the average age of which is certainly over 25 years, should be constantly alluded to as "boys."

THESE views, as put forth in former issues, may be narrow and very wrong, and to the end that some opinion may be arrived at we gladly give space to the discussion of the phases of cycling which we have honestly criticised on being detrimental to the sport. We will not, just at present, further defend our position, other than to note that the definition of "boy" as given by Worcester is "A male child; a male person or youth under the age of puberty; sometimes used in contempt for a young man," [italics ours, ED.] but leave the discussion to any of our readers who may desire to give their views. In the meantime we commend the communication of "Enthusiastic 46-year old wheelman" to the careful persual of our readers. The writer is a gentleman of unquestionable standing, and his words are entitled to the utmost respect and attention.

IT IS very pleasant to notice from time to time statistics which prove the position taken by the advocates of the Cycle that it is not the engine of destruction its enemies would have us believe. The great bugbear constantly presented to influence people, is that the Cycle frightens horses, causes run-aways, deaths, and mutilations. Cycling, like every other means of locomotion (including walking) must bear its proportion of accidents; but when we learn that out of over 100,000 bicycles which entered Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, in 1890, not one accident to a wheelman was reported, and only nine wheels were broken by collision. It is, as we said before, pleasant to be confronted with such statistics.

IN the same report which shows the practical absence of accidents through the agency of Cycles, we note during last year 193 carriages were broken: 67 by collision, 74 by the horses becoming unmanageable, and 52 by other causes; and ten people thrown from horses in Fairmount Park. We are sorry that for purposes of comparison the report does not state how many vehicles entered the park; but if the ratio is the same then there must have been 2,255,533 carriages and equestrians enter the park during the year, or nearly 7,000 for every day in the year.

A SOULFUL correspondent propounds the following legal problem for us to solve:—

"I have the misfortune to live in a small town—small in every sense of the word. At the foot of what is called the 'town hill' is the 'Town Bridge,' a rickety, shaky affair of iron, at the ends of which the town authorities have caused to be erected signs bearing these words: $15.00 fine for riding or driving on this bridge faster than a walk.

"Naturally tired sometimes, it is not at all surprising that I should coast the hill which, of course, gives a speed, when I reach the bridge much 'faster than a walk.'"

"This is the cause of the row which was kicked up by the local horsemen; they claiming that I had no right to pass them, or ride on the bridge faster than the law allowed. While I claim that the laws of the bridge refer only to horses, and that vehicles not drawn by horses have the right to travel on the bridge 'faster than a walk.'"

Now, should any one attempt to cause me trouble, or any of the other wheelmen of the town, on these grounds? What can be done?"

HERE is a question the debating of which by two able lawyers would be worth "travelling miles" to hear. The arguments would be based purely on technical grounds as to whether the notice applied to all kinds of vehicles. We must confess that as the courts recognize the bicycle as a vehicle amenable to laws governing the movements of vehicles on the public highway, we lean to the opinion that the notice does apply to bicycles. Leaving the technical discussion of the case out of the question, we still decidedly lean to the opinion that common courtesy would compel the local wheelmen to recognize the very reasonable request made by the horsemen.

IT is not unreasonable to ask the cyclers to come down to a rate of speed nearly that, or quite that, of a walk. The dashing along of a cyclist in passing a horse, even though he be a docile animal, on a bridge, is likely to produce the most serious results, and we confess to a feeling of amazement that any reasonable cyclist should be willing to subject any human being to the possibility of accident, possibly resulting in maimed limbs or even death. For the honor of cycling, for the respect we would hold for our correspondent and the other local cyclists who hold the same opinion as he does, we do hope that the authorities will not be obliged to have recourse to extreme measures. If, however, in the face of the evident intent of the notice, he and others still persist in ignoring its requests, by flying in the face of common courtesy, we hope the decision of the court will be to the point, sharp and decisive at that.

THE attempt by Mr. Davis of the Ontario legislature to make cyclists responsible in cases where damage results from horses taking fright at cycles, no matter with what care they may be ridden, will come to naught. 'Mr. Davis' proposed bill does not trouble itself with limitations, but invites the excursions of roving fancy," says an exchange. As an appropriate amendment it is proposed that the owners of umbrellas and handkerchiefs come under the liability clause, and that the issuers of hand bills, and the trundlers of wheelbarrows or baby carriages also be made "liable for damages" as all these things have and always will frighten nervous steeds. There is about as much reason in one case as in the other.

SERIOUSLY, we as cyclists must permit ourselves to be governed by reason and courtesy in the use of the highways, and as long as we violate neither law or decency we cannot be held responsible for the actions of ultra nervous equines, or the stupidity of drivers. We do not believe in ignoring the laws of the road and common courtesy (as we have remarked in another editorial in this issue), but in the proper use of the highways we have equal rights, and are equally liable with the users of other road vehicles.

AMONG the questions said to be put to applicants for certain preferment in the English army is the following:

"How are military communications divided and what requirements should they satisfy?"

The German military authorities are laughing over the ignorance displayed by certain of the candidates who with a dense misconception of the purport of the questions answered by a discussion of bicycles, carrier pigeons, and various other modern ideas, which, though perhaps useful enough in their place, have nothing to do with the subject of the question.

FORCED abandonment of the wheel during the winter months is no doubt conducive to a renewed interest in the sport when the wheeling season does set in. The riders are wound up to a pitch of anticipation and anxiety to get out on the road, and this anxiety is very comforting to the heart of the cycle dealer. While the ability to ride the year round is no doubt very desirable, yet human nature is such that the abstinence from the indulgence of any enjoyment is bound to whet the appetite where opportunity comes to satisfy same. Let a rider be obliged to store his wheel for a few weeks, and how he does long for the frost to leave the ground, the roads to settle, and the air to breathe promise of spring. Winter cycling, where the frost has made the roads hard, and the snow does not cover, then affords the most delightful riding; but in this latitude, the season when winter disputes the advance of spring does not provide the kind of roads or the kind of weather conducive to the full enjoyment of cycling. It is as well that it should be so. Choke your blase cycles off "willy-nilly" for a few weeks and his enthusiasm comes back with renewed vigor, as the pussy willows give way to the crocuses and the lilacs. A man does not have to be a crank to enthuse over the springtide. Everything in nature appeals to the hopeful side of his being. With a few weeks of shivery weather and dreary dripping bare trees, he hails the first tender green of spring with the same joy that the thirsty traveller notes the indication of an oasis in a sandy desert.

OUR correspondent, "Linneus," of St. Louis, makes the following comment on the lack of interest shown by cyclers in gymnasium work:

"That cycling is a magnificent exercise no one who is a devotee to the sport denies, but it seems strange that so few of our best riders take kindly to gymnasium exercise of any kind. In spite of the fact that the Missouris have the finest equipped gymnasium of any cycling club in the country, the active riders are seldom seen using the apparatus. Those cyclists who are proficient in a few gymnastic exercises are physically far in advance of those who are not, and the thing wanted is some simple home exercise which, with the outdoor life, will combine to tone us up, invigorate our persons, and keep off either mental or physical exhaustion and disorders, too often brought on by long runs, or spurting. Fifteen minutes' work every day with pullies or dumb bells, (each of which should not be over one sixteenth of the users weight), will work wonders, and all riders who will try the experiment will shortly find their powers of endurance doubled.

THERE is no doubt that the chief charm of cycling is in the fact that it takes the devotees out of doors, and the lack of interest complained of by "Linneus" is due to the reason that indoor work, even of the most interesting kind, is somewhat monotonous to the cyclist. The use of the bells or the clubs for half an hour or so is not very exciting amusement, and the trotting round a padded track is certainly devoid of any special interest. As a matter of training the use of the gymnasium is undoubtedly an advantage in keeping riders in trim during their enforced retirement, but it smacks too much of work, and the comparison sure to be drawn by riders between indoor grinding at gymnasium work, and the pleasureable excitement of out-door cycle riding is a strong factor in the reason why cyclists do not avail themselves of gymnasium exercises.

IN reply to a correspondent who wishes to get at the comparative number of League members in the East and the West, and suggests a division on the meridian of Buffalo, we give the following figures: East, 12,190; West, 6314.

HE BELIEVES IN "FOL-DE-ROL."

EDITOR BICYCLING WORLD: I have noticed in the official organ of the L. A. W. a number of times since I became a member of the League, items in the editorial department similar in tone to the enclosed, by the great "WE" of that otherwise sound paper. Now I think a word in answer will do no harm, and I think I speak the mind of many a loyal and enthusiastic L. A. W. man when I ask a few questions.

Where does "WE" expect to recruit his new members from to keep the order in lively shape but from among the "Boys?" and has he any ideas to advance to keep "Boys" enthusiastic if he drops the "fol-de-rol," as he calls it, of "bugle blowing, flag carrying, and gold lace?" Why do we always have crowds line the streets when we have a League or State Meet? Do they come out to see a lot of ministerial sober-sides sitting erect on a wheel, solemnly passing in review? How long does "WE" suppose our L. A. W. would last if every "Boy" who joined it was compelled to get a somber ministerial suit to ride in on all public or private occasions? "Good old Sober-sides" never cares a flip for cycling boys any way; and his opinion of them on their ways does not help the L. A. W. one little bit, in fact, if "Sober-sides" had his way not a wheel would turn in the United States. Boys who join the Leage want fun; and the more "bugle blowing" and "fol-de-rol," as "We" calls it, they can have on festive meets the better they are pleased and the more company they get. Why, even the venerable Secretary of the League promenades at L. A. W. gatherings, at least once a year, in a white cap and League pin conspicuously attached to it. Perhaps Brooklyn needs to trim off some of her "frills," but that is no reason why "WE" should deprive all the rest of us of a little fun. If we did not have some "fol-de-rol" at our gatherings, I am of the opinion that "WE" would soon be longing for the "good old days." Give the "Boys" a chance, for they are the foundation of our organization. "WE" and "Sober-sides" can stay at home when the "Boys" turn loose. They don't get a chance often. Yours for the "Boys,"

ENTHUSIASTIC 46 YEAR OLD WHEELMAN, AND L. A. W.

Chicago, Ill.

THE Syracuse Cycle Club has issued a card calling attention to the liberty granted to members of that club to use the city sidewalks outside certain bounds. The card also contains a list of rules for the guidance of the members using the sidewalks as allowed. The infringement of any of the rules and abuse of the privileges will probably carry with it dismissal from the club and withdrawal of the sidewalk privileges.

THE members of the Grand Rapid (Mich.) Cycle Club are much elated over the recognition the West has received in the appointments on the National Committees. Chief Consul Richmond gets a position on the Rules and Regulations Committee, and Mr. Randall plucks the Chairmanship of the Racing Board as a prize.

FATHER MCGRATH of St. Monica's Church, New York, writes: "Enclosed you will find an account of our new Bicycle Club. 'The Monica Bicycle Club.' We number 11 young ladies and 10 gentlemen. One of the conditions for membership will be that every member must belong to the L. A. W. We anticipate a pleasant season. I am very anxious that our young men and women will take advantage, and join this, the first Catholic Bicycle Club in this country."

ROUTE wanted: "Will some generous wheelman who has been from Boston to New York, or vice versa, via Newport, R.I., and Greenport, L.I., tell how he managed crossing between the two last mentioned points: and whether the whole route, taken as a whole, is an enjoyable one? H. P. Makim, Hyde Park, Mass.

Do not run away with the idea that because Detroit will not run the Championships that they will not have races. They will have races, and good ones, too.

AT a meeting of the Chicago Cycling Club, held last Saturday evening, it was decided to accept an offer made to them and build a $30,000 club house, or rather a $20,000 club house, $10,000 to be expended for land. Six thousand dollars is to be raised by the club. Three thousand of this amount was readily raised at the meeting. The new club house will be in the neighborhood of 40th or 43d streets, about where the old club quarters were located.

OUR Detroit correspondent, "Judge," writes: "The custom house affair has been placed in the hands of Mr. Griffith (excuse me for bringing this name into notice again, this is news), that is at this end. Mr. G. hopes to so arrange matters that wheelmen can pass through Canada without being subjected to the annoyance of last year."

"I can see no reason," says our friend "Setagee," "why there should be so many conflicting names in the cycle business. Chicago makes a Peerless, so does Rochester; a manufactory here makes the Comet, a New York firm manufacture a Comet, too. In this city we have the Buffalo Tricycle Works, the Buffalo Cycle Works and the Buffalo Bicycle Repair Works, all separate institutions. Similar cases can be cited all over the country. Surely English is rich enough and profuse enough so all can have original names, both for wheels and companies, and yet not conflict."

ON the 18th day of October last, three members of the L. A. W. at Ann Arbor, Mich., held a conference and concluded, for the best interests of cycling, to organize a club and maintain the interest felt through the winter, and the consequence was that 18 wheelmen of this city were got together and a club organized. It was named the "Wolverine Cyclers." It has steadily increased in membership and is a very lively and healthy "kid," numbering now thirty good wheelmen. The club rooms, which are located at No. 9 North Main street, are as handsomely furnished as any club room in the city and do credit to the members. All travelling wheelmen are cordially invited to visit them while passing through this city.

IT is stated that W. S. Campbell will ride under the colors of the Manhattan Bicycle Club of New York.

WE regret exceedingly to hear that F. A. Clark, of Yale, is seriously ill, suffering from hemorrhage of the lungs. This will undoubtedly incapacitate him from taking part in any racing this season.

DETROIT is to have a female bicycle race and "Judge" mourns a low sad mourn in the shape of a few lines of poetry which, for the sake of the feelings of our practical Secretary, we consign to the w. p. b.

THE State Capital Wheelmen, of Concord, N. H., held a social assembly at Chase's hall last week, Tuesday evening, which was attended by seventy couples. Isabel's orchestra furnished excellent music, and Colburn was the caterer. The order of dances numbered fourteen. Shortly after 12 o'clock the prompter called for the company to form for a quadrille as an extra dance, and when the sets were formed they were quietly reminded by him that it was April 1, and they could repair to their several homes, which they hastened to do after so early a reminder that it was All Fools' day.

CAPT. JUDD'S (of the Syracuse, N. Y., Cycle Club), contest for the promotion of road riding is being received with much favor. Every active member of the Syracuse Cycle Club is entered. Five prizes will be given in the form of medals; first and second, gold; third and fourth, silver; and the fifth, a leather medal for the member riding the least number of miles.

"Now that our city government," says a correspondent from Indianapolis, Ind., "has passed from the control of politicans to that of business men, street improvements will progress even more rapidly than last season. The first act of the new Board of Public Works affecting wheelmen, was the making of permanent street cleaning arrangements, and our asphalt is once more reclaimed from the mud."

AN elegant pair of silk portiers was presented to the Englewood Cycle Club, of Chicago, this last week. The Ladies' E. C. C. were the donators.

ONE of the finest runs in the State of Michigan is a triangle of twenty-eight miles, starting from Ann Arbor via Main street to Saline, thence to Ypsilanti and back to Ann Arbor via the South Road. On this run there are numerous fine coasts; the road is constructed of hard gravel. The University of Michigan, one of the greatest universities of America, being situated at Ann Arbor, is time well spent in visiting it. It has a total number of 2400 students.

THE Englewood (Chicago) club's amateur minstrel show occurs on April 14th, and promises to be of exceptional merit. Ralph Temple will give a trick riding exhibition during the evening.

THE Ramblers of Buffalo, N. Y., will probably drop out of the League. This club has not been very enthusiastic over League matters for three years, and quite an effort has been necessary to keep them in the L. A. W. from the start, still they may stay in as they did at the beginning of last season. All depends on the few who really control the club affairs.

THE Cycling Press Club of Buffalo held its annual election last week. Geo. M. Williams was elected President, and C. F. Alwards "ordinary" Captain. This club has two sets of road officers, one set for the ordinary riders, and one for the safety riders. Quite an idea when the membership is so divided as to warrant this division.

ARTICLES of incorporation have been filed by the Business Men's Cycle League of Jersey City, N. J.

Two hundred and fifty people attended the Grand Novelty Concert of the Lincoln Club of Chicago last Wednesday evening at Chickering Hall. Miss Shoemaker, a young lady of exceptional elecutionary powers, W. L. Bush, who is a host in himself, Mr. Catlin, Master James Wrath, Signor Guiseppi Morran, and the Imperial Banjo Quartet provided a very pleasant and well executed programme.

OUR correspondent "Salina" of Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "Have been informed of a move on foot to organize a cycling club composed entirely of business and professional men. This movement if carried out will no doubt be hailed with pleasure by all lovers of the wheel in this city; as it would add both dignity and influence to the sport, and in no manner be a drawback to the club, already in existence, which is one of the most successful organizations of its kind in the country.

SAYS "Star" of Cincinnati: "On reading the April number of the Sporting Review I was astonished to learn what a dreadful person that man Bassett is. Well, well, the old darkey was about right when he said: "You never knows white folks till you summers and winters with 'em."

FOR the first time since its organization the Lincoln Club of Chicago has been visited by death. Roswell P. Hayes, a prominent member of the club is the first to succumb. Mr. Hayes died last Wednesday of apoplexy. He was North town assessor in Chicago, and owed much to the Lincolns for his election. It was the members of the Lincolns headed by Billie Herrick who turned out in a body at the polls, and canvassed the entire North Side in Mr. Hayes' interest. He was an athlete and a good rider, and was very popular with all who knew him.

ARTHUR HOLLINGS of Coventry, England, has located permanently in Chicago. Andrew Cahill of Dublin is also located there, and will probably remain until after the World's Fair.

THE first race ever run by women upon bicycles was in San Francisco on Saturday, November 29, 1879. The winner, Miss Baymer, upon a 50-inch Stanley, made the wonderful record of eighteen and a half miles in two hours.

A LARGE lady on a nickelled wheel was struck by a horse on Washington street, Indianapolis, Ind., the other day. She happily escaped injury, but her wheel was damaged and her clothing plastered with mud. It is upon these rare and trifling accidents that our Mrs. Grundys principally rely for ammunition.

THE Orange (N. J.) Wheelmen are "talking tournament" pretty strong. A tournament in such a cycling centre ought to pan out handsomely.

AN advertisement on page 645, from J. P. Z., is worthy the attention of any one in the trade wanting a first-class manager. We speak whereof we know.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer perpetrated a clever (?) April fool joke on its readers by printing in the issue of April 1st a circumstantial account of a mammoth athletic building to be erected in that city. It stated that a fund of $750,000 had been raised, and that a building would be constructed of such a size so as to contain a covered court large enough to play base ball in. That the place would be made as light as day by electricity and that games would be played in the evening, that the building around the sides of the enclosure would be occupied by the various athletic associations, etc., etc.

MR. GEORGE ATWATER, of Washington, was in town this week. This time "ye editor" kept a close watch on our Washingtonian, and he did not disappear so mysteriously in the company of that bad man, Bassett, as he did the last time he was here.

THE Wolverine Cyclers of Ann Arbor, Mich., will attend the National Meet at Detroit in a body next July. This club will entertain the Hunt tourists, and then wheel the 42 miles in company with the visitors to Detroit.

CHIEF CONSUL BROWN of New Jersey, in his circular to members, admits that the L. A. W. should recognize the pleasure and enjoyment of cycling, but strikes the key note when he says: "Our great mission is the improving of the highways of the United States." He then points with pride to the fact that in New Jersey was enacted the first successful road legislation.

THE mass meeting of St. Louis wheelmen last week Thursday, at the Missouri's gymnasium, was but poorly attended. Committees having the Forest Hill Park road race and the Son-of-a-Gun hill climbing contest were appointed. Mayor Noonan was present and spoke of the street sprinkling reform most favorably. The meeting, though small, was enthusiastic.

OUR Cincinnati correspondent remarks: "Leaf by leaf the roses fall." One of the attractions of the National Meet, the election of officers, was opped off at Baltimore, and now if the Championship races are to be opped off, in what way will the National Meet differ from any other meet? What attraction, aside from that of locality, will it offer to the visitor, in addition to that offered by a State meet, Columbus for instance?"

AT the annual meeting of the Dayton (Ohio) Bicycle Club, Secretary Houck read a most interesting report. The club was organized in June, 1881, with a membership of ten. For several years interest seemed to lag and the club was practically dead, but owing to the push and energy of a few the Dayton Bicycle Club now has a membership of 50. We wish we could give Secretary Houck's report in full, but space forbids.

THINGS cycular in Nashville, Tenn., are moving. The State meet will be held there some time in May. A road race to Franklin, a distance of 18 miles, is on the tapis, probably on the same date as the State meet. Harmon, of Clarksville, is looked on as the crack rider of that section. The Nashville Athletic Club has leased the park on College street and will put same in shape for cycling and other sports.

THE Zig-Zags of Buffalo, N. Y., had an enthusiastic meeting last Friday night; and beside attending to a large amount of business, received thirty-nine new members, there having been forty-two applications filed. The club is looking for larger quarters and will add a gymnasium; they have applied for membership to the A. A. U., and will stay in the League, and will soon be the leading League Club of this part of the State.

A CLUB has been formed in this vicinity (Boston) eligibility to membership of which consists in the fact that applicants must have ridden from Boston (or one of the near suburbs) to Portsmouth, N. H. The club will be known as the Mystic Wheel Club, and among its members are W. C. Dillingham (President), Miss M. E. Beers (Secretary and Treasurer), Mr. and Mrs. McArthur, Miss Dillingham, Mr. A. Beers, and Mr. H. T. Hutchins. For further information address Miss M. E. Beers, Secretary, Everett, Mass.

THE dramatic profession in New York have lately taken to cycling with a vim. On invitation of J. De Angelis, E. Stevens, B. B. Balwin, E. Smith, Max Figman and "Young" De Angelis, and seven members of the E. C. C. went to New York and met the above-named gentlemen at Geo. Bidwell's place. The party then rode out to Wendel's hotel, dined "at Mr. Stevens' expense," and thence continued out through West Chester County. There is serious talk of forming a club to be composed of members of the "profesh," and the name of the club we hear is likely to be the "Casino Cycle Club." As soon as the E. C. C's. complete their new club house, the Casino people are going out to do the Oranges, when another lively time is looked for.

C. DORNTGE, the crack Buffalo rider, has resigned from the Iroquois Athletic Club of that city.

CAPTAIN TIDD of the Missouris (St. Louis) has issued a pretty folder, giving the schedule of the season's runs, a short extract of the road rules of the club, and a short address to members on the importance of attending club runs. It is gotten up very neatly, and is praised on all sides.

A. FEATHERSTONE of Chicago is having manufactured for him a pneumatic tire, light speeding buggy with which, and the fast horse he already owns, he expects to scoop them all.

IN the second series of games of the Pool League last Saturday at the N. Y. B. C. house, the New York Bicycle Club team beat the Manhattan Bi. Club team by a score of 100 to 44.

MR. SAMUEL BOYLE, Chief Consul of Pennsylvania, is spoken of as being a likely appointee for the fifth place on the Racing Board.

"LOUISVILLE (KY) wheelmen can now show something tangible in the way of a track. Mr. Daniel Quilp's contractor, with a force of something like 100 men, went to work at the Auditorium grounds Monday, and before the rain that began Wednesday set in, the foundation of the home stretch and the Sixth-street curve had been laid. With ten days of fair weather, the track will be finished and fast wheelmen speeding around it."—Times.

THE Alpha Wheelmen of Philadelphia will give a musicale and dance at their headquarters April 17. The club attended a euchre party given by Mr. E. B. Voorhees last week Tuesday.

THE "annual feed" of the Louisiana Cycling Club of New Orleans took place last week Tuesday. In the notice Mr. Fairchild, the chairman, says: "* * * In the meantime secure tickets, which will privilege you to enter the banquet hall and devour everything in sight. You are earnestly requested to enter active training at once, as this will be a scratch affair. Positively no handicaps allowed."

HERE is a pointer (if true?) for the friends of the pneumatic tire. A Buffalo rider found an 8-penny nail driven clean through one of the tires. On withdrawing same the aperture closed up and no air escaped! "Setagee," of Buffalo, is responsible for this remarkable story.

THE new club house of the Hudson Co. (N. J.) Wheelmen is completed, and the club will take possession in a few days.

THE Wissahickon Wheelmen of Germantown, Pa., gave a pretty reception at Parkers Hall last week Wednesday. It was a full dress affair, and very swell.

THE Fostoria (O.) Bicycle Club celebrated the coming of the Easter season by a ball last week Monday.

BUT five hundred people turned out to the Oak Park (Chicago) Club's entertainment last week, Monday evening. The Beloit Glee and Banjo Clubs provided an excellent entertainment. Monday evening, April 13th, occurred this club's annual dramatic entertainment at Steiner's Hall, when "Our Boys" and "Box and Cox" will be presented.

IT seems that St. Louis wheelmen are using the "club banner" on club runs once again. The Missouris of that city will (t. f.) hereafter take the club colors, cardinal and black, on all the club excursions and runs.

AT the last meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Orange (N. J.) Wheelmen, plans were adopted for a club house, to cost $3000. They will have plenty of room and all modern conveniences and club blessings.

ON Thursday evening (2d) the Ramblers of Buffalo, N. Y., had their annual theatre party at the Academy of Music. Forty members attended and Major W. T. Parsons, of the 65th Regiment Athletic Association, was their guest of the evening. The stage was decorated with flowers and wheels, and the club members wore uniform and club colors, as usual.

PENNINGTON, now in Chicago exhibiting his air ship, is an enthusiastic wheelman and rides an ordinary altogether, although he has recently patented a safety bicycle.

EVIDENTLY a misnomer. The Buffalo Press Club has 65 members, but nary one is connected with a newspaper!! Forty members have been dropped because of non-payment of dues!! Really this is "too too."

CHIEF CONSUL BULL, of New York, is a member of the Buffalo Athletic Club.

ANOTHER club started in Buffalo to be known as the Meteor.

THE Wanderers Club of Buffalo are talking about building a gymnasium.

ON April 17th the Douglas Cycling Club of Chicago will give a reception and dance. This they say will be far ahead of anything given yet.

THE Bergen County Wheelmen held their annual meeting last Tuesday (7th), and had an attendance of 90 per cent. of full membership. They elected officers, appointed committees to get subscriptions for Club House stock, also to file articles of incorporation. Of course "Handsome Captain Jack" was re-elected.

BUFFALO, N. Y., has nearly a score of Athletic Clubs, and more than thirty bicycle associations. Many of the wheel clubs are members of the A. A. U., and athletics have been the fad, or rather the popular practice in the Queen City of the Lakes.

THE Cleveland (Ohio) Wheel Club will be a live club during the coming season. A meeting of members was held April 2d, and among the officers elected we notice the names of W. A. Skinkle, (formerly Pres. of the Chicago Bicycle Club) Ned Oliver, Geo. Collister, and C. Collins. A suitable house for headquarters will be looked up, and cycling will be made to boom in Cleveland this year.

MR. E. J. WILLIS is again in this country on a short business trip.

ZIMMERMAN will probably ride under the colors of the Schuylkill Navy Athletic Club of Philadelphia.

THE Passaic (N. J.) Wheeling and Athletic Association held a "Book Party" on the 23d. The result was a donation of some 175 valuable books. Here's a pointer for other clubs.

"PLENTY of talk but little work done towards getting a race track for Philadelphia" is the way the Inquirer of that city puts it.

DURING last year Chief Consul Mott of Maryland rode 326 days, and scored 6400 miles during that period.

THE Utica (N. Y.) Club have rented a club houses at 341 Genesee street. They will take possession May 1.

EX-SPEAKER REED is said to ride a 56 inch ordinary. He does not appear on the road much, but uses his wheel in the immediate vicinity of his home.

THE Columbia Bicycle Club of No. Attleboro, Mass., held its 10th annual supper last week Tuesday. The Columbia Club is one of the most lively and enterprising in the State.

CAPT. NISBETT of the New York Bi. Club calls a meeting of wheelmen for to-morrow night at 148 West End avenue for the purpose of discussing the formation of a Road Racing Association.

THE Massachusetts Club of Boston held a business meeting last Tuesday evening at Hotel Thorndike. The matter of reorganizing was the chief matter of business. A committee consisting of A. D. Peck, Jr., Lieut. J. M. Sprague, E. B. Pillsbury, W. M. Farrington, and J. E. Tippett, has the matter in charge.

JACK PRINCE is travelling East. He started a six days' race in Rochester, N. Y., last Tuesday.

THE Crescent Club of Rochester, N. Y., gave one of the most successful musicales last week Tuesday ever held in that city.

A NEW road map of Rhode Island will be issued by the R. I. Wheelmen, and will be an exact copy of the United States geological survey map. Scale 1 1-2 miles to the inch.

CYCLE CLUBS, AND CAUSES OF THEIR FAILURE IN BOSTON.

IT is plainly evident to those who have watched the rise and fall of several large and once prosperous cycling organizations that their downfall and practical disbandment have not been brought about solely by the introduction of the "social element." The after dinner speakers of the present year have emphasized and dwelt upon the fact that this element was the cause of the "innocuous desuitude" of at least two of the one leading clubs in this section, but if these gentlemen would only look a little deeper into the subject they would immediately come to the conclusion that the "Social Rock" was only one of the five rocks which cycling organizations have been unable to weather during the tempestuous storms of a cycling decade. That at least has been the case in Boston city. In the first place times have changed since the infancy of cycling, and instead of having only one sport to select from the younger generation of to-day has all and more than it can properly attend to in this line, therefore while they may have sufficient time to devote to the enjoyment of the wheel, the superabundance of other sport is sufficient to keep them entertained without their being members of an organized band of wheelmen. Even if they were members of a club of the present day they would find that instead of having and enjoying club runs on a week day afternoon, as was the case a few years ago, they would only be expected to turn out on the Sabbath, which to a great many means a desecration of that day, although I fail to see it in that light.

In order to properly maintain a club successfully, it is necessary that it be conducted on a business basis. If the club beginning life goes into large quarters and assumes heavy expenses it must have some little capital, therefore would it not be as well to make the annual, semi-annual or quarterly assessments payable in advance? Men who have paid their dues are likely to stand by the club through thick and thin, whereas if they paid monthly dues, they would be likely to get out at the first sign of weakness.

Internal dissension is another Rock which a club has to steer clear of. A small club, say of 75 members, can easily navigate around that dangerous obstruction, but in a club having a membership of three or four hundred it is vastly different. The majority of the members are unknown to each other, the older men congregate together, and the younger do likewise, hence become "cliquey." In such cases trouble is sure to arise sooner or later, and when it does come it generally ends in disaster.

Another reason why clubs in this vicinity do not enjoy the same brilliant life they enjoyed a few years ago is undoubtedly on account of the admittance of a social element, which, unless the active members are exceedingly cautious, will be in the majority, and ere long in control of the club. Many organizations have found themselves in financial difficulty, in order to overcome which they have resorted to a social membership, and are now practically nothing more than social organizations. Such is the case in the East, and what is true in the East in this respect will prove also true in the West

Boston, unlike her great sisters of the West is purely a city of suburbs, and the result is that her wheelmen are members of suburban clubs with which they ride and under whose colors they race, and from these cyclists the membership of a Boston club must be drawn.

The admission to membership of every "Tom, Dick or Harry" who presents himself is another thing which helps kill a cycling organization, and the greatest care should be taken in this matter in order that the life of the club might be lengthened, and a high personnel standard be maintained. In all clubs, great or small, kickers and other objectionable elements can be found, and every care should be exercised in selecting new members, so the numbers of these "club killers" should not be augmented. I cannot emphasize too strongly the fact that inasmuch as a club's existence depends greatly upon the social status of its members, too much care cannot be taken in the selection of the same.

To sum the matter up in a few brief lines, the five reasons a large club has not been able to be maintained in Boston are:

First—Owing to Boston being an entirely suburban city.

Second—Its vast majority of wheelmen residing in the suburbs.

Third—The superabundance of other sports and amusements, and the lack of club sports.

Fourth—The fostering of the social element which can generally be found in bicycle clubs.

Fifth—Internal dissension and lack of care in selecting members.

"TONEY."

HAWKSHAW'S COLUMN.

HE was in Springfield, Mass., the train which was to carry him hence was not due for an hour or two, and time hung heavy upon his hands, so he strolled down Main street until he came to Hampden Park, and passing through the open gate he wandered in upon the deserted track. A look of sorrow and regret came over his face, and his mind went back to years before when he was younger and more enthusiastic, and cycling seemed to him to be the greatest possible enjoyment. He remembered when the weed-grown enclosure where he now stood, had trembled beneath the feet and cheers of thirty or forty thousand delighted onlookers who had gathered from far and near to see men that were riders race. He recalled the day when Springfield was like a deserted graveyard because every man, woman and child had gone to the races; when stores were closed, and upon their windows a notice pasted which read, "Gone to see George Hendee race." It even came to him how when once the handsome local light had met an unexpected defeat at the hands of the flying "Sandy" Sellers, how the band ceased playing a lively air and rendered the Dead March from Saul instead, how thirty thousand people looked on in mute astonishment at their idol's fall, while weeping women fainted. All this and more came to his memory as he stood there, and a gloom settled upon his soul. A sad eyed stranger had drawn near, and like himself stood in mute wonderment at the scene of desolation and neglect around him. "Are they going to run any more bicycle races here?" said the first stranger to his sad visaged companion. "Oh no, they stopped running bicycle races a long while ago. It isn't the fashion any more. They creep now." And the band played a good old Scotch melody.

I met an old time Enligh racing crack the other day, whose hair has silvered since he and Cortis were school mates together, and in conversation with him learned many a personal adventure they had had together. Speaking of a race between Jack Keen and Cortis, in which the latter was defeated, he thus described the riding form of the contestants: "The contrast in the form of the two men was very noticeable, Cortis bending over his handles at almost a right angle, and in many cases wobbling very badly, while Keen sat erect in the saddle with his wheel running in true lines, and always under the most perfect control." Thus even the great Cortis when viewed by his friend was far from being the paragon we have grown to believe him.

A farmer who intended that his son should have a better education than parents had, and in consequence had sent the young hayseed off to college, was astonished when his son sent him in a bill for a $150 bicycle as part of the necessary collegiate equipment. An explanation was demanded from the student, and though no wiser he declared himself satisfied when the shrewed young gentleman informed him that a curriculum was an absolute essential for every college and for most collegians.

When I went to school it stood as a learned quotation from antiquity on the title page of the grammar I studied, and was whipped a thousand times for not learning that: "The rudiments of an art must be taken as a task, not as an amusement." Watch the man with a foot lathe, a sewing machine or a pair of scales for the first few times, and see what hard work it is to him. So with a bicycle, the man finds it at first difficult to attend to hands and feet at the same time; he instinctively grasps the handles with a tiresome effort to hold himself on—which he soon learns he can no more do than to lift himself by his boot straps; it bothers him to make hands of his feet and keep them to their duty on the pedals; see how hard he works to resist every motion of the machine but the straight onward one, just as a fresh lubber does on deck, or a very green mount does on horseback; so with his convulsive efforts to mount and dismount. This pupilage fortunately is brief, but I always have a certain respect for the man who has patiently and persistently passed through it unaided by any

IS A DAISY.

IT HAS all the good points which have made the Roadster a success, viz.: Simplicity of Construction, Ease of Propulsion, Beauty of Lines and Finish, and in addition to the above it has lightness in weight. A 50-inch wheel weighs 37 pounds; as light as any one wants for a road wheel.

We have brought out the Light Roadster in response to a demand from riders, particularly racing men, for a light wheel of our make. We do not recommend it over the Eagle Roadster for the majority of riders, but it is fitted for those who wish a light, fast wheel, who are willing to give it reasonable care, and who are skilfull enough riders not to abuse it.

For such it is THE WHEEL combining everything that can be desired in a perfect bicycle.

The Light Roadsters will be Ready for Delivery in a Few Days.

We have a large number of orders booked ahead, and the number is daily increasing. We will go by the rule of "first come first served." If you want your wheel soon, order at once.

of the modern conveniences of a first class padded-walled riding school, and I feel sure that he has courage enough for anything he undertakes. To learn to ride the safety with all the equipments and safeguards of a modern riding school, is as different from learning to master the old vertical forked wheel of a dozen years ago, as the cossing of the Atlantic in a modern ocean gray-hound is from the same voyage made in Noah's ark. Lucky, and thrice blessed is the beginner of to-day.

CAMPING FOR CYCLISTS.

For the past four years a pet hobby of the writer's has been the formation of a grand annual "camping-out party" of wheelmen. Not all from one club, but a camp composed of representatives from all of our principal clubs. Each club to run its own camp, but all to be congregated on the beautiful banks of one of our many western lakes. Wheelmen who have taken part in the Lincoln's camp heretofore will recognize what advantages this would have in a two weeks' camp. Expenses on such a trip, say in a party of fifteen to twenty, need not amount to over twenty to twenty-five dollars each, for the entire two weeks. This would include passage to and from the camp and all the incidental expenses. The first two weeks in August the Cook County Wheelmen's first annual camp occurs at Nagowicka Lake, Waukesha County, Wisconsin. Were a group of camps gathered there together, what fun they could all have. Picture to yourself, dear reader, the many pleasant little runs which you could enjoy through this, the finest riding country in the West, to Waukesha one day, to Oconomowoc another day, to Pewaukee, to Parker's place on Oconomowoc Lake, to the Observatory hill, to the Lakeside cottages, and the many other delightful summer resorts of this region of the wheelmen's delight. With a combination of camping parties, foot-ball, base-ball, and many other games could be arranged and much enjoyment gained thereby. Should you be of the lazy, take-it-easy-on-my-vacation kind of a chap, picture to yourself the shady nooks and the hammock in which you can recline the livelong day and only arouse yourself at the sound of the dinner-horn. And what meals you do eat! And how you do enjoy that cob-pipe and that perfect sense of contentment with the whole world, and the absence of business cares. Then when evening comes how pretty the camping grounds look, with hundreds of torches brightly burning amongst the trees, and a large camp-fire glowing down on the beach, and around which you all cluster, laying on and covered by blankets spread upon the ground. Banjos, guitars, and mouth organs, are brought forth by the musically inclined, and to the accompaniment of these, the old old songs are sung over again, each time with more vim and spirit sweeter than the last. Perhaps all voices don't blend perfectly together, but what care you? there's no critic in the woods to sneer if they don't. As you lay there with your face toward the stars, your thoughts involuntarily wander back to the loved ones at home, and you picture to yourself their looks of dismay at the change in your appearance when you return. It is wonderful how two weeks of such life puts flesh on your bones, tan on your cheek, and a desire in your heart that you might never return to that busy business life and its consequent cares. The camp-fire dies down, torches are put out, and you retire to a cosy tent, perhaps of five rooms, one of which is yours. Perhaps you engage in a game of "ante," or finish that novel after you have undressed and crawled into as nice a bed as you could wish, made up on a cot though it be. Perhaps you sit down to write to—well, you know who! As the night grows old, one by one all fall asleep, to be awakened while the dew is on the ground for a fishing trip, an early morning plunge, or an early start awheel for some far-off point. Your meals in camp are of the best; the table is set in a long tent, with sides which are not enclosed in pleasant weather. Milk can be drank by the quart, and cow's milk at that. Country produce is to be had at all times. The first day in camp seems long; but after you have made the acquaintance of the fairest maiden at a neighboring summer resort, and boat rides, wanderings, tete-a-tetes are in order, time flies; and when the day comes to pack your trunks and knock down tents, you feel as if you had lost your best friend. The last visits to the old favorite nooks and crannies and the aforesaid sweet maiden is the hardest part of all.

I have only pictured to you one side. There is once in a while a dark day when everything is wet, dull, and discouraging, and everything and everybody is blue; but these days are seldom, and can really be made very pleasant inside the tents. "A wheelmen's camp" for me; what say you?

WAYNE SCOTT.

A FAIR PHILADELPHIAN'S IDEA OF DRESS AND POSITION.

EDITOR BICYCLING WORLD: Will you allow a modest Philadelphian to say a word apropos of woman on the wheel? And what better vantage ground can a well-bred and graceful woman have than the airy perch of her bicycle saddle?

A correctly clad gentlewoman, be she lean or fat, short or tall, old or young looks well on a womans' safety bicycle.

Such a gentlewoman is clothed from crown to toe in dark colored severely plain garments. As she moves no portion of her attire not designed for the public eye is visible; nor does any part of her limbs above wrist or ankle appear. She brushes, at each revolution, her neatly trousered knees together under her trig habit skirt. She stands erect upon her lowest pedal, she reaches her handle bar with straight back and drawn in elbows, and she does not chew gum!

I will not dwell upon the appearance of a woman tearing along on a bicycle with her pedal cranks too long, her saddle post too low, her knees a yard apart, and striving to whack her nose at every lunge, her elbows well out, her head craned over her handle bar and her jaws going like mad on—ye gods!—a piece of chewing gum!

No, I cannot dwell upon the spectacle, but I can dare affirm that no parent, brother or husband will invite daughter, sister or wife to the fine and wholesome sport of cycling upon beholding such a sight!

Every woman who now cycles is a pioneer on whom no small degree of responsibility rests, for as she appears and makes cycling appear to those about her, just so will those about her be repelled or attracted by cycling. That which is graceful, seemly and becoming we may be sure the ladies will desire now and ever to do; that which is awkward, unseemly and disfiguring we must expect them to shrink from. Let the woman who would ride procure a bicycle rather light than heavy, rather small than large for her size and weight.

It is a distressing sight to humane persons to see a slender little girl struggling with a machine big enough to knock her down if it should fall against her.

Let her insist upon the very shortest pedal cranks. Just the length of your pedal crank will be the elevation of your knee in its revolution, and just so high will your skirt be hoisted at every push. Men think too little of this necessity of short pedal cranks for riders in petticoats. A bicycle dealer who takes his short wife out on a long pedaled machine drives away custom.

Next let her be sure that her reach from pedal to saddle is amply long. If a woman ride in a sitting position with bent legs, the result will be great knee movement and a disordered skirt.

She should stand erect upon her lowest pedal, using the saddle more as a support than as a seat.

The handle bars should be within easy reach of her hands without the slightest bend forward. She should be straight from crown to toe, shoulders back and head up.

She should wear a dark, loose habit, with trousers of same material, close fitting from the knee down, like a man's equestrian trousers. With these strapped beneath the instep and a moderately long moderately full skirt lined half-way up with linen, no matter how the wind may blow, no exposure is possible. Of course you wear no skirt but the one habit skirt.

Now the waist. If you would preserve and increase your health, if you would ride strong and far my dear sisters you must throw aside the corset when awheel. You must give yourself the same lung room your husband or brother has if you would not see him wait upon your lagging progress. You must not have a steel, a bone, a bit of buckram, a single external support about you. Nature has given you all the support any of us need in the manificent muscles lacing your bodies, and it is a part of your new friend, the bicycle, to allow these, for the most part unused and abused supports to assert themselves and make strong, healthy women of you. No woman who rides the bicycle in an unbelted sailors' blouse for even one month can "fall to pieces" when she takes off her clothes. The hat should be either a perfectly plain dark straw or a cloth to match the habit of some very simple shape with a brim in front to protect the eyes. No matter just what, so that it be absolutely unornate. Flowers, feathers, bunches of ribbon, gew gaws of all descriptions are utterly and entirely out of place—as much so as on horseback.

Now my fair cyclist with your long saddle post, your short pedal cranks, your plain, dark habit; knees together, elbows at sides, back straight, head up, lips closed, a good wheel under you and an agreeable companion at your side speed away and seek the most public places if you will, for the sight of you will go far toward slaughtering the prejudice which exists in the minds of many against "a woman on a bicycle! Oh, dreadful!!! "

ONE WOMAN.

A WHEEL INTO THE INDIAN COUNTRY, NO. 2.

BY C. W. NORTHROP.

ROSEBUD AGENCY.]

In all our touring we had found no travelled way so difficult to follow as this. In places the path is so steep that we are obliged to cling to the grass and stunted bushes with one hand, while with the other we lower our wheel a few feet at a time. It is hard work, and half way down a halt is called a minute to gather breath; when, happening to glance back, we see, just coming over the brow of the hill, four figures clad in white from head to foot. It is fortunate for us, no doubt, that the moon is bright enough to reveal dark faces peering from the ghostly coverings, otherwise we might have reached the bottom of the canyon by a shorter and quicker way than the path, steep as it is. Presently we are joined by four young Sioux—"bucks" they are commonly called—and after looking them over we can confess to having been frightened without being much ashamed of it. They are clad in the usual Indian costume, with head gear, breech cloth, and leggins, but over all is thrown a square of white cotton cloth, large enough to trail behind in walking, the whole making a combination that few men, we think, would care to encounter on a dark night. This covering, we learn later, is used as a protection in the cooler months, and takes the place of the heavy blanket worn during the winter. The "bucks" are intelligent fellows, but the bicycle is evidently a mystery they wish explained. First they touch the pedals, then the wheels, and finally the saddle and handle bars, while we explain by signs the use of each, which they understand almost instantly. We only regret the explanation, when, by a very simple pantomime, they express a wish for a practical illustration of how this new horse is ridden. Unfortunately, or more likely fortunately for us, we had failed to take out an accident policy on our life before leaving Omaha, so do not venture to mount; but instead, invert the bicycle, and by a sleight, known only to wheelmen, shoulder and carry it to the bottom of the canyon. Our inability to ride this new steed is evidently a problem the Indians cannot solve, and we leave them at the foot of the hill talking among themselves, and no doubt doing their best to explain why we carry our horse instead of its carrying us, while we climb the opposite side and soon reach the agency store. Their perplexity is better understood on the following day, when we see one of their number mounted on a sure footed pony ride up a path every whit as steep and difficult as the one we had come down the previous evening.

By one of the half-breed clerks in the store, we are directed to the hotel close by. It is a rambling, one-story log building, looking as though it had been added to, piecemeal, a half dozen times. We remember distinctly having to travel 'round the corner of the house to reach a bedroom, and of taking our morning eye-opener in the brook near by, with the thermometer below freezing; yet, in spite of these disadvantages, the recollections of our stay there are of the pleasantest. Fifteen minutes after arriving we are served with an abundant and well cooked meal, and when, like Oliver Twist, we called for more, the supply was so generous that we found it impossible to clear the board, even though supplied with the appetite and capacity of two men. The bed-rooms, although bare of any but most necessary furniture, are sweet and clean, and we sink into a comfortable bed, and fall asleep with the feeling that it paid occasionally to have a hard day for the added comfort of the night's rest. About midnight, as though the past twelve hours had not been sufficiently full of incident, we are awakened by the creaking of a rusty hinge, and, looking up, find we are to have a full-blooded Sioux for a room-mate. Something has evidently astonished the fellow, and it is not difficult to tell what, for he is staring straight at the corner where stands our wheel, its nickel backbone and forks glittering in the lantern light like polished silver. After a minute he puts out the light, and then we remember nothing more until the sun, shining brightly in at the window, brings us out of dreamland, and to the realities of another day.

The Rosebud Indian Agency is located in as rugged a bit of country as it has ever been our fortune to visit. The few acres of available land for building are largely taken up by the agent's headquarters, the police station, the post-traders' stores, and the blacksmith and wagon shops. To the north and west are the long, steep ascents leading to the highlands, while southerly and easterly the immediate neighborhood is cut up into "hogbacks" by a succession of canyons running in every direction. Why one of the principal agencies should be situated in such a place is hard to understand, nor can we get any information as to the cause of it, not even the convenience of the water supply being urged as a possible reason. Finally, we reach the conclusion that the original settlers must have come overland in a balloon and located on the first spot on which they chanced to alight. Rosebud can properly be called the rendezvous of the Brule Sioux, as Pine Ridge, is that of the Ogallallas. Comparatively few of the Indians live here; but as their beef and other supplies are issued from this point, and thay have little else to do but travel to and fro, in the wagons furnished by the government, the agency is generally full of them. At the breakfast table we meet representatives from each of the different classes common to this country. There is the Agency Inspector, a pleasant and well informed man; seated by him is a cowboy with a college education, while to our right and left are a half-breed clerk and our room-mate of the previous night. The Inspector takes an immediate interest in us, and by his advice we decide to stop over long enough to witness the "Beef Issue" which takes place to-day, instead of continuing our journey at once.

MISSOURI DIVISION ANNUAL MEET.

THE sixth annual meet of the Missouri Division L. A. W. will be held at Carthage, Mo., July 3rd, 4th and 5th. The city has a population of 10,000 people situated in the centre of one of the richest counties of the State, has an elevation of 1200 feet above sea level, which fact alone makes the summers extremely pleasant, and everywhere is evidence of a city where people are industrious, thrifty and intelligent. Jasper County has thirteen cities and towns, varying in population from 500 to 10,000, and all of these are connected by railroads and good gravel highways, with Carthage the county seat. The lead and zinc mines of Jasper County rival the world, and the taxable wealth is $9,142,878,00 on a valuation of 33 1-3 per cent. No better place, if as good, could be selected for holding the annual meet, as Carthage has all the facilities of a metropolitan city. In a fine race course it defies comparison, St. Louis and Kansas City included. In beautiful scenery, fine gravel roads, elegant coasts, costly residences, and overflowing hospitality it cannot be surpassed. There will be sixteen race events, occupying two days, interspersed with trick riding and athletic exhibitions, fine runs through the county, smoker, hill-climbing contest, Division meeting, meet photograph, etc., the whole winding up with a grand masquerade lantern parade, and the annual banquet. Elegant prizes are offered for the largest representation, including St. Louis and Kansas City, also one prize for largest representation outside Kansas City or St. Louis. The prize list for the races is costly and valuable, and the programme will soon be mailed to members. Racing men desiring information, prize lists, etc., will address R. W. Garner, representative at Carthage, who will gladly give any information desired. Arrange your affairs and dates so as to be at Carthage on the 4th, if you want to enjoy the largest and most successful meet the Missouri Division has yet held.

THE THREE DAYS' MEET AT BUFFALO.

THE City League, as the executive body of the confederation of A. A. U. clubs in Buffalo, has for some time been settled on the point of holding a three-day bicycle and athletic meet, and June 6, 7, and 8th were originally decided upon as the dates; but as the Driving Park, where the events are to be contested, will be used on these dates for the circuit running races, the week of June 15 will probably be the initial date for this three-day tourney.

The first day will be given up to athletics.

The second day will be devoted entirely to bicycling. The programme will contain seventeen track events and a 50-mile road race, the finish of which will be on the track. The track events are:

Two hundred twenty yard, unicycle, open; one-mile, ordinary, novice; one-mile, ordinary, closed; one-mile, ordinary, open; one-mile, safety, novice; one-mile, safety, open; one-mile safety, closed; three-mile, safety, open; three-mile, ordinary, open; five-mile lap race, safety, open; one-half mile, ordinary, open; one-half mile, ordinary, closed; one-half mile, safety, open; one-half mile, safety, closed; one-mile, tandem, closed; one-mile, tandem, open; two-mile, tandem, open.

The third day will cover the rest of the athletic field, including La Crosse, Base-ball, Foot-ball, and canoe races. Probably some other events will be introduced, and among these, not the least interesting will be some yacht races on the bay.

"SKIAGEC."

FOURTH ANNUAL "GREAT CENTURY RUN" TO PHILADELPHIA.

AN enthusiastic gathering of wheelmen representing the Century Wheelmen of Philadelphia; Mercer County Wheelmen of Trenton; Atlanta Wheelmen of Newark; Trenton Wheelmen; Rutherford Wheelmen; Westfield Wheelmen; Orange Wheelmen; Cranford Wheelmen; Plainfield Bicycle Club; Brooklyn Ramblers; and Brooklyn Bicycle Club, met at Plainfield on Saturday, April 4th, 1891, to appoint a day, and elect a committee to take charge of the Century Run for 1891.

After considerable discussion, it was decided to hold the run on Saturday, June 13th, (rain or shine) over practically the same route as taken in 1890, assembling at Newark, June 12th.

A committee who will make all necessary arrangements, and publish the same at an early date, was elected as follows: Chairman, Waldo E. Fuller, Brooklyn Bicycle Club, 50 Wall street, N. Y.; F. L. C. Martin, Plainfield Bicycle Club, Plainfield, N. J.; C. W. Dalsen, Century Wheelman, Philadelphia, Pa.; L. F. Jones, Mercer County Wheelmen, Trenton, N. J.; L. H. Thorn, Atlanta Wheelmen, Newark; J. D. Racey, Orange; F. C. Gilbert, Elizabeth Wheelmen.

Letters were read from various clubs, showing the great interest being manifested in the run, and indicating that there would be in the neighborhood of four hundred starters this year, as the Philadelphia clubs alone promise to send 200 men.

THE PIKE COUNTY, MISSOURI, TOUR.

THE second event on the list of fixtures for the coming cycling season is the Pike County Tour, in which all the wheelmen of St. Louis, Hannibal, Quincy, Clarksville, and Louisiana will take part. The date of the meeting is May 3, and the wheelmen of this city who will participate will leave on the 8 P.M. Keokuk Line train on May 2, arriving at Louisiana shortly before midnight.

The tour will be held under the auspices of the Touring Committee of the Missouri Division, and the attendance, therefore, promises to be larger than ever before. Pike County is a cycler's paradise, and the gravel roads are owned partly by the county and partly by a company composed of farmers who know the worth of fine roads.

The morning of May 3 will be spent in touring to Clarksville via the famous Belt road. The road has been the scene of many a hard fought road race, and for a long time held the world's 50-mile record. The afternoon will be utilized by riding to Bowling Green, the county seat, short runs around the city, climbing the "Pinnacle," and the whole will wind up with a smoking concert, for which the best talent will be secured. The cyclists of Bowling Green will take the visitors in hand for a trip to the Fair Grounds where light refreshments will be served, and afterwards escort them to the McCormick fancy stock farm, where they will be the guests of Harry McCormick, an old St. Louis wheelman.

Louisiana has again been selected as the headquarters of the tour on account of its central location, and its fine facilities for handling a large crowd. Her hotel accommodations are ample to accommodate 250 cyclists.

The fare from St. Louis is $2.50 for the round trip; and in case the party numbers 50 or more, a special baggage car which will be sidetracked at Louisiana will be procured for the carriage of wheels.

Illinois Wheelmen are especially invited to take part in the tour, and a royal good time is guaranteed.

"LINNEUS."

St. Louis, April 3, 1890.

THE DATE OF THE L. A. W. MEET AT DETROIT.

IN the early part of August Detroit will have poured into it between 250,000 and 300,000 G. A. R. people. When these people have gone this city will be like a well sucked lemon, and an L. A. W. meet in the month of August would be a dismal failure, for it must be held near the middle of the month. Now the question is can we have the meet in September and make it a success? I hardly think so for this reason. Most wheelmen are commercial men whose vacations come in July and August, and who must or wish to take them then, and who would be unable to come to Detroit in September. We regret this championship affair, we admit the annual meeting place of the L. A. W. should be the place to run them, and we wish we could run them, but we cannot see our way clear to do otherwise but follow the course now laid out, which will insure one of the most successful meets ever held, even if Philadelphia don't wake up in time to come and join us. In conclusion I would like to ask what did the championships amount to at Niagara Falls; were Windle, Campbell, etc., etc., in them?

"JUDGE."

DETROIT WILL HAVE RACES.

ARRANGEMENTS for the meet are progressing nicely. There seems to be an impression abroad that because we are to have no championship races we will have no races at all. Now this is a decided mistake, as we have already secured the Detroit Driving park for the races. This park contains the best one mile track in the West, and also has better grand stand facilities than any track the L. A. W. has ever had its races on. It is our intention to make the races one of the most interesting events of the meet, and if you will do us the favor of explaining it this way to those whom you come across who have the wrong impression, you will confer a great favor on the Detroit Wheelmen.

THE KINGS COUNTY WHEELMEN'S TENTH ANNIVERSARY.

THE organization of this prominent club was celebrated on Tuesday, March 31st, at its club house in Bedford ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., by a reunion of its active and veteran members. Three of the club's organizers, its six presidents, and other officers, and old-time members, were among those present, and a delightful evening was spent.

The many banners, cups, and other objects won by the club's teams on path, road, and at pool, or presented to its drill team, were grouped together in a highly effective display, very gratifying to club pride. An exhibition of prizes won by individual members of the club also occupied much space and proved very interesting. The most valued of the club's prizes is the beautiful silver cup of the N. Y. and N. J. Team Road Racing Association, which was presented to the club on the disbandment of the Association, after having been won by the K. C. W. teams at five successive semi-annual contests over the Irvington-Milburn course.

The statement was made in one of the papers read, that the first team road race ever held was the one conducted by this club over the Coney Island Boulevard, Nov. 3, 1885.

In the paper on the club's race meets, attention was also called to the large number of famous racing men who had received their early training and won their first laurels at the race meets held by the K. C. W., a record it was claimed that could be equalled by no other club.

The various papers, while relating past history, also showed the club to be in a most flourishing condition, and fully prepared to maintain the reputation gained from its past successes in everything that pertains to cycling.

Names OF Wheelmen.

We want the name of every wheelman, (not members of the L. A. W.), in the New England and Middle States, and the names of all who are talking of becoming cyclists this season, that we may send them something of great interest and importance free, and also urge upon them the great importance of joining the L. A. W., and working in harmony with its members in behalf of good roads, and all matters in which wheelmen are interested.

We hope every L. A. W. man will send us the names of such parties in his town, and do us this favor and also help on the good cause. All who do this will receive the paper Free.

TRADE NOTES.

THE "SINGER" STEERING-LOCK.

This is a most important addition to a Safety, for the difficulty of leaning a Safety against a wall or building has probably been experienced by every rider of this popular type. It is not necessary, therefore, to enter into elaborate description of the machine's persistent and persevering attempts to lie down. Suffice it to say that all such efforts are rendered absolutely abortive by our patented steering-lock.

One slight movement locks the steering rigidly, and the machine may then be left inclined at a safe angle to the wall without the slightest fear of movement or damage.

It is impossible for the lock to operate automatically whilst the machine is in use; otherwise it would certainly be dangerous. It has proved so important a point in a Safety, and has been so thoroughly appreciated by all safety riders, that Singer & Co. have arranged to apply it to all their best patterns for 1891.

We desire to call attention to the offer of the Young American made on page 645 of this issue.

We have received the 1891 catalogue of the Union Cycle Mfg. Co. of Highlandville, Mass., and a beauty it is. The front cover is a handsomely colored lithograph cycling scene, and the descriptive portion is "way up in G." It is one of the most attractive catalogues of the season.

H. A. Smith & Co. of Newark, N. J., send us their 1891 catalogue, "Encyclopedia of Cycler's Wants." It is a great improvement over the former issues of this Co.'s catalogue, both in form and in character. By all means send for an "Encyclopedia." Messrs. H. A. Smith & Co. are now located in their new store with Riding School attached, which consists of a cinder track enclosed, their premises extend from 518 Broad street through to Atlantic street, a distance of 335 feet, and double width in the rear which gives them ample room for the cinder track.

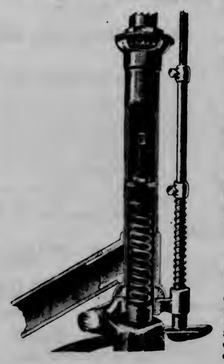
Rouse, Hazard & Co., Peoria, Ill., are said to carry the largest general line of cycles of any house in the United States, and an inspection of their stock will, it is said, verify the statement. April 1st they moved into larger and more commodious quarters which they find necessary to do on account of their rapidly increasing business, which has doubled nine times in eleven years. With their increased facilities they will be better prepared to serve their customers than ever before. They are reliable, and any one wishing to purchase a bicycle will do well to get their prices before ordering elsewhere.

G. M. Hendee rides the "Swift" model A, cushion tire.

Harrisburg Cycle Co. of Harrisburg, Pa., make the "Swift" Safeties their leader.

The 1891 catalogue of the Charles F. Stokes Mfg. Co., Chicago, is before us, and they wil be glad to send it to all who desire a copy. The cover contains portraits of Pres. Stokes, Sec'y Sieg, and an excellent portrait of Pres. McCune of the Union Cycle Mfg. Co., as well as that of Treas. Measure of the same Co. The wheels handled by this lively Chicago firm are the Unions, the Warwicks, and the Swifts as their high grade wheels. The catalogue lists several separate styles of medium grade wheels, each style ranging in size from the juvenile up to the full sized wheels. These machines are the "Typhoon," $80; the "Flash," $65; "Fashion," $60; "Leader," $40; "Imperial," $60 and $75 and $85 (full ball bearing and all convertible); "Advance," $35, $42, and $50; "Guide," reduced from $80 to $55. The Stokes Co. also handle the Merritt type-writer. Aside from the Union Safeties, the Chas. F. Stokes Mfg. Co. have contracted for nearly 10,000 other machines. The sale on all medium grade machines handled by them is open; and if dealers will write to this Company requesting prices and Catalogue, they will certainly be pleased with the result.

Commencing this week, the Overman Wheel Co. will run both factories day and night, stopping only for Sunday. Two sets of hands will be employed, probably over a thousand total. It was thought that the erection of their new five-story addition would be ample to enable the Company to keep up with orders, without all-night work. A few weeks' occupancy of the new building proves that even now the plant is inadequate to the demands of the busy season.



A very good proof that the Coventry Machinists' Co. were right in guaranteeing their grooved cushion tire will be found on page 636.

The New Zealand Herald, in speaking of Maltby's cycling featr, stated: "The local 'bikes' have had quite a revelation in the possibilities of wheel-riding by the 'marvellous Maltby.' It was the subject of frequent remark last night that one of his greatest charms is the quiet and unassuming manner in which his tricks are executed, being quite free from that posing for effect, or waiting for applause so frequently seen in professional performances." As before stated, Maltby is a about to make a tour of Pennsylvania, and clubs wishing dates should write at once. Address W. S. Maltby, Wallingford, Ct.

PEERLESS CYCLES.

These machines are comparatively new comers in the cycle trade, and we take pleasure in introducing a cut and description of Peerless No. 1. This machine is convertible, and is built of the very best material in the very best manner. The following are specifications: 30-inch wheels; moulded rubber tires; 7-8 inch front and rear; Warwick hollow felloes, deep section; No. 11 drawn to No. 13 tangent spokes, nickeled to second crossing; 40 rear, 36 to front, and adjusted to felloe by a neat brass nipple.

Peerless hubs, adjustable ball bearings to both wheels, crank axles, pedals and head; weldless steel tube front fork, to which is applied the Peerless Spring Fork; weldless steel tube combination frame; detachable brace rod; adjustable crank and chain driving gear; self-oiling chain; detachable cranks, 5 1-2 to 6 1-2 inch throw; 9 inch ball-bearing socket steering head; 30 inch one piece weldless steel tube handle bar, adjustable as to height; vulcanite handles; plunger brake to front wheel; L seat rod; Garford saddle; detachable steel-wire dress guards; round step; adjustable foot-rests; sheet steel mud guards over both wheels and chain. Tool bag with B. & S. wrench and oil can. Gear, 56 inch. Weight, 48 pounds. The usual parts nickeled on copper, and the balance enameled; bright finish. Price, $135.00.

The Spring Fork is a feature of the machine, a cut of which we give here. It will be observed that the spring is in the head. It is adjustable to any weight of rider, and is of the coil variety. Can be tightened up, and a rigid fork made of it if desired. It is so neat that a Peerless can be looked over carefully and the spring fork not seen, so of course it does not disfigure the machine.

SINGER'S CATALOGUE FOR 1891.

Singer's 1891 catalogue is out, and "The Sixteenth" of this Co. will be a welcome addition to the list of catalogues. We cannot do better than reproduce in part their greeting: "Our 1891 compliments to our friends old and new, with our thanks for past confidence, and our pledge of good faith for the future.

Our cycles, as heretofore, are all of the best quality, the material being the best that we can procure, and the workmanship and finish of the highest class; and as such, we guarantee them.

No second-class cycles are made by us, our attention being entirely devoted to the manufacture of the best machine it is possible to produce.

All parts of our cycles are manufactured at our own works, the parts being rigidly examined, and interchangeable.

In our 1891 patterns, little alteration has been needed, the satisfation given by the thousands of cycles supplied in 1890 enabling us to proceed with confidence on the same lines as in that year. * * *.

The reduction of weight is carefully dealt with, the minimum of weight compatible with the necessary strenth being given in all cases. The tire question has been considered and efficient patterns adopted. Among our specialties we may mention: The "Singer" Ball Steering Head, the "Singer Steering Lock, the "Singer" Spring Fork, the "Singer" Detachable Crank Bracket, the "Singer" Axle, the "Singer" Tandem Steering, etc.

In order to meet the increased demand for our cycles, a new factory has been added to our works at Coventry since last season, the additional space being upward of 16,000 square feet, making our fourth complete factory.

The American branch is therefore assured of the largely increased supply of stock that the growing volume of their business demands."

Dan J. Canary, the world-renowned fancy and trick bicyclist, will soon return from an extended western tour, and take charge of the Overman Wheel Co.'s riding school at Chicopee Falls, Mass. It is intended to make a grand success of the school, particularly for ladies.

In the Bicycling World of Feb. 20th, page 429, we remarked the Peculiar and Unbusinesslike Methods

By which some wheels were pushed and commented on the means employed by a certain class of travelling men who are, unfortunately, only too plentiful in the cycle trade; shysters who either cannot or will not sell wheels in a genteelly legitimate manner, but who must needs employ blackguardry and misrepresentation of competitive goods as a questionable aid.

One of this brand recently "stumped" the State of Pennsylvania. He and his methods were heard from at several points, and the following extract from the letter of a Ramblerite pictures the "species" so well that we think it will prove interesting and carry its own moral. Says our correspondent:

> "When this agent of the * * * * Co. paid our town a visit last year, he urged me to sell my Rambler and take up the * * * * *, giving as his reason that my make of wheel was yet saleable, but that ere long I would be able to command little or no price for it as its reputation was fast diminishing, etc. I, at that time, told him that as long as the wheel proved as satisfactory as it had in the past, I could not complain, and that I had no idea of abandoning it.
> "Several weeks ago Mr. * * * * * paid our town another visit, and learning that I was in the market for a wheel he immediately called to see me. For two long hours that man talked, extolling the praises of the * * * * *, and of the genial, loyal, generous and thousand-and-one other adjectived president in the person of * * * * * * * *. At the end of his harangue he said: 'Now to induce you to ride our wheel, I will make you a proposition (something our company never does, sic), but for this I shall assume the consequences: If you will give me your order I will give you a * * * * *, commission detached, to be paid for on the installment plan of $7 per month.' Of course I thanked him for deviating from a rule the Company never (!) indulged in, but I don't want a * * * * *. I want a '91 Rambler."

And reader, this is but one case in many. We have heard of "diminishing reputations," the eventual outcome of petty, despicable, but well-cloaked (!) methods; of reputations that are beginning to need the bolstering aid of misrepresentation and blackguardry, but if the reputation of the Rambler is on the decline our orders, our letters, our agents bear not the slightest trace of it. We believe in wheels selling themselves or being sold on their merits; we do not believe that the virtues of any member of the firm, or that sentimental nothings should cut any figure in the matter. We believe in doing business on business principles, and the selling of Ramblers by the denunciation of competitive wheels will not be tolerated. The Rambler needs no such aid. It is too good a wheel and has too many good solid "talking points" to require it, and the fact that those who ride the wheel are its best friends, and that a trial of it is the surest way of making converts and speaking recommendations. Like the gentlemen whose letter we published last week, you may not now be much taken with it, but don't be a bigot, and if you have the opportunity, try a Rambler. You will have no reason to regret it, in fact, you won't know what luxurious cycling really is until you have tried it.

The Renewal Season.

The renewal season is now open, and we are ready to receive the annual dues of members.

We have opened the books for 1891-2, and applicants for membership may now send $2 and they will be put upon the roll for the year ending April 30, 1892.

All memberships expire April 30, and must be renewed before July 1st.

We publish a renewal blank which we hope will be universally used. A blank of this kind is more satisfactory for filling than a notice of renewal written in letter form. If a member has no blank and does not care to mutilate, he will oblige us by sending renewal on paper the size of the blank and made out after the same form. The same applies when two or more names are sent.

Every League club has been supplied with sheets to send applications on, and also a renewal of the club. Since many non-League clubs send in lists of names; a list of names is no indication that a League club renews its membership, and we must have the regular certificate of renewal as per blank furnished every club before we can issue our certificate of membership.

Club Secretaries will be supplied with renewal sheets for club lists on application.

Consuls, Agents, Club Officers, etc., who desire renewal or application blanks should procure them of the Secretary-Treasurers of their respective Divisions. See addresses in BULLETIN.

The Regulation League button will be supplied by the Secretary at 5 cents for the large and 3 cents for the small size. The cloth is 54 inches wide.

Kentucky Division.

The League year, closed April 1, 1891, was numerically the most successful in the history of Kentucky. When the renewal books closed July 1, there were 87 names enrolled. During April 5 applications were received; May, 15; June, 3; July, 13; August, 4; September, 4; October, 1; November, 5; January, 2; February, 5; and March, 8—making a grand total of 153. For the League year, ended April, 1890, the Division had 109 members, the increase for this year being 44. While these figures are not as large as they ought to be, yet they are gratifying to the officers of the Division, who have been laboring under serious disadvantages. The Division organization has been somewhat demoralized, and this accounts for the poor showing through the smaller towns of the State. The membership by cities is as follows:

Louisville	68	Carlisle	1
Covington	24	Ghent	1
Richmond	14	Lexington	1
Maysville	7	Louisa	1
Frankfort	7	Ludlow	1
Harrodsburg	4	Paris	1
Nicholasville	3	Princeton	1
Newport	3	Corneville	1
Cynthiana	3	Somerset	1
Ashland	3	Danville	2
Greeney	2		—
Little Hickman	2	Total	153
Walton	2

Owing to the disorganization referred to, the task of compiling a new road book, provided for at the meeting in Richmond, July 12, had to abandoned, two members of the committee of three being away from Louisville permanently.

The receipts and expenditures of this Division were as follows:

In reference to the last item of expenditure, it is necessary to state that it was made by the Division officers after a correspondence with the National officers. The Division meet, it is confidently believed, will be a financial success, and this money will be returned. L. A. W. members in Louisville have subscribed $200 additional for this guarantee fund.

The renewal season is now open. Kentucky members know their duty, and will perform it without urging. Let every man send in his name and his dollar at once. G. E. JOUNSON,

New York.

Your attention is called to the recommendations of the Special Committee appointed at the semi-annual meeting of the Division Board of Officers.

Members losing wheels by theft should immediately notify the Chief Consul, giving full particulars. Yours fraternally, W. S. BULL,
Chief Consul.

Report of Special Committee.

To the Honorable Chief Consul and Board of Officers of the New York State Division, League of American Wheelmen:

Gentlemen—Your Committee, appointed at your last semi-annual meeting to formulate a plan to protect the members of our State Division against loss of bicycles or tricycles by theft, and to assist them in the recovery of stolen wheels, would respectfully report:—

First—That after due consideration your committee would recommend that a suitable sum, to be determined in each case by the Executive Committee, be offered as a reward for evidence leading to the conviction of the thief and for the recovery of each wheel stolen from any member of the New York State Division; that the announcement of such reward should be promptly published in the official League paper as soon as necessary information is placed in the hands of the Executive Committee, and that all prosecutions of persons charged with the theft of wheels be carried on under direction of the Attorney for the Division without expense to the member from whom the property shall have been stolen.

Second—Your committee would advise and recommend that at the next annual meeting of the Board of Officers steps be taken to authorize and equip a department within the Division for the insuring of bicycles and tricycles against theft; that said department be carried on under the direction of the Executive Committee. It is the belief of your committee that a fee of one dollar would be a sufficient charge for the insuring of a bicycle, and that the privilege of this insurance should be limited to such wheelmen as are members of the State Division. Your Committee would further recommend that a small metallic plate bearing a suitable inscription be attached to each wheel insured under the arrangement here suggested, and that a certificate or policy of insurance should be issued to each person whose wheel shall be insured. To fully protect the Division in the matter of this insurance, it is recommended that no wheel be insured for more than two-thirds of its actual market value at the time of insurance, and that all losses be payable sixty days after the receipt of satisfactory evidence of the theft of the wheel insured. Also, that upon the payment of every loss a bill of sale of the insured property shall be made and delivered to the State Division by the holder of the policy who may, however, in case of the recovery of the stolen wheel redeem the same by paying to the proper officers of the Division, the amount received by him in settlement of his loss. It is, of course, intended that each policy will expire within one year from the date of issue, and in all cases whenever the holders thereof shall cease to be members of the League of American Wheelmen.

Third—Your Committee would further advise and recommend that immediate steps be taken by the Executive Committee to carry out the provisions of the first recommendation of this report.

ARTHUR ALLEN DEAN,
Chief Consul.

New Hampshire Division.

I take pleasure in informing the members of the New Hampshire Division of the result of the contest for Vice Consul between the four cities named below. Under the proposition all names to be counted must appear in the Official Bulletin on or before the issue of March 27th, 1891. Members gained are as follows: Concord, 58; Manchester, 38; Nashua, 31; Portsmouth, 1. The Vice Consul will therefore be appointed from among the ranks of the Concord Wheelmen. As some may wish to know the total membership of the cities I will give them:

Concord, 88; Nashua, 56; Manchester, 55; Portsmouth, 17. We dislike to twit on facts, but the deadness of the Portsmouth members is enough to give one the nightmare.

It seems as though they ought to have one man with enough interest in the League to drum in new members.

Portsmouth has the only decent country roads in the State, and we shall look for a boom now that the riding season has opened. Let me take this time to call your attention to the fact that the Concord Wheelmen who have the June meet in hand are doing some tall hustling, and the arrangements are nearly all completed for the accommodation of the largest (and they say the most enjoyable) meet this Division has ever held. Be sure and go to Concord the 18th of June.

Yours fraternally, R. H. SCOTT, Sec.-Treas.

In compliance with the above figures I hereby appoint as Vice Consul Mr. Geo. L. Osgood of Concord. He will enter upon the discharge of his duties at once. Yours fraternally,
F. A. MCMASTER, Chief Consul.

Chief Consul McMaster has appointed the following as Local Consuls for their respective localities, viz: A. G. Bean, East Manchester; Wm. P. Frink, Greenland; Geo. K. Burliegh, Tilton; A. T. Rowell, Lancaster; W. H. Campbell, Reed's Ferry. Dr. F. H. Lunt, Rochester, and Chas. Bartlett Derry. Yours fraternally, R. H. SCOTT,
Secretary-Treasurer.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to date, and published in accordance with Article III. of the Constitution, which is as follows:

"Any amateur wheelman, in good standing, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the indorsement of two League members in good standing, or of three reputable citizens of the United States or Canada, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an intiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at 10 A. M. on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

CATFORDS! SUNBEAMS!!

Week before last we published a little ad. in this paper, with the heading "Funny, Aint It." We wish to explain to all our friends and patrons and would-be patrons, that we did not refer to the article in question when we wrote it, but to the subject under consideration, viz: what we dealers say about other dealers' wheels, etc., etc., ad libitum. We wish to make this explanation because we are receiving so many letters by mail and express, also so many telegrams, cablegrams, telephone messages, etc., from all over the world, even as far as Hull and Chelsea, and oral messages by the score, and people really seem to think it was funny and want us to publish it again. One man even went so far as to compare it to one of Brother Elliott's—we take our hat off to the gentleman. Now, if readers of this paper really think it was funny, and want to see it again, we are willing to inflict it on a patient public. And we hereby solemnly promise to publish it again if we receive one thousand requests during the next week, to do so. As we do not expect this we will say here, that if you want the lightest, easiest running, and fastest wheel on the Boston market

$1000.00 REWARD.

Three days before Noah left the Ark, about 14 o'clock in the morning, a balloon was cut loose from the top of Pike's Peak, containing two small children, twins, one a boy of 36 summers, and a girl of 40 winters.

The boy wore a long North Pole linen duster lined with tomato cans, and a cream colored plug hat, with the word "SLAVIR" spelt backwards.

The girl wore a Striped Pneumatic Suit, with a Bale of hay for a bustle, and carried a La Tosca sun-shade, made from cherry wood furnished by the boy who never told a lie.

Any one learning of their present abode, will confer a great favor on the bereaved parents by keeping still about it.

The ascension was made for the purpose of painting on the Moon, that the SWEETING CYCLE COMPANY is now ready with a full assortment of Safety Bicycles of High and Medium grade, for Men, Women and children, [boys and girls.] We even have them for Twins.

CHAPTER THE TWOTH.

The principal object of our paying out money to see this nonsense in print is not, as some have thought, to play the part of a by assisting a struggling but honest editor to make a living; but really to tell you that we have on hand somewhere about 900 of the latest improved "Coventry Rivals," and we are so desirous to get them into fresh sections of the country that we want to send a sample to each dealer who has not yet handled them. To this end we will allow an extra 5 per cent on sample machines until May 1st.

CHAPTER THE THREETH.

And last [for this week only] we want to remind you that we are fully equipped with boys' wheels, girls' wheels, and other wheels. We quote 24 inch Safeties, $25.00; 27-inch, $35.00; 30-inch, $45.00; subject to big discounts. We remark that we sell a wheel at $45, less one-third, making $30 net, when a certain other house lists at $60, and gives 40 per cent., making $36, or $6 more than ours. DEALERS.—Get net cash prices, and don't be fooled any longer by high list prices, [which you can't get] and big discounts (which you can't make.) We sell our wheels on quality, not price; and yet we guarantee our prices as low as any in the United States of America.

CHAPTER THE ONETH.

[Second Volume.] Do not think this is all we have to say. We have on hand the celebrated "Irwell," solid and pneumatic tires; the famous "R & P," the "Clipper," the Paragon, the "————," well, we have them. We want to do business with you, and we can make money for you.

CHAPTER VII.

The comfort of a wheelman is affected by many points in the construction of his wheel, but by none more than by its gearing, and there is no feature so imperfectly understood, and so controlled by fashion as this one is. High gears are now the fashion; so makers send them out, and riders are compelled to use them, no matter how unsuitable to many. The principles and effect of gearing are treated in this chapter, so that when once understood, one can select a gear that is suitable, and know the why and wherefore. There are also some tables, the last one showing how to find one's speed without a cyclometer.

It is a marvellous preparation for Strengthening the Muscular System. With Anti-Stiff there is no faith required; it goes straight for the muscles, and you can feel it at work. It has a peculiarly warming, comforting and stimulating effect on all weak or stiff muscles and sinews. Quick in action, cleanly and pleasant in use. Rub it into the muscles every night for a fortnight, and you will be pleased at its supporting and strengthening properties. There is not, nor has been, anything like it till now. STEERING.

"The man at the wheel" controls the ship. His steering machinery must be rightly constructed and in perfect order or the vessel may be wrecked.

The man on a wheel must also have the right facilities for steering, or his bicycle is in danger of similar misfortune.

The most skillful cyclist cannot control his wheel well if the steering is erratic. In fact, the more experienced the rider, the more does he appreciate this point. This brings us right to one reason why the majority of first-class riders choose the "Columbia." They learn that its steering is invariably true, easy, reliable. Socket-steering head, fitted with ball-bearings, is the principle, of course. This principle is not exclusive with the Columbia, but there is a great deal of exclusiveness in the way it is applied. Superiority in the matter of careful proportions, accurately fitted parts, and flawless steel place "Columbia" wheels in the lead in point of steering, as in other essential features.

Columbia Spring Joints relieve the frame and handle bars from vibration, and, while amply elastic, do not detract from the neat appearance of the fork, nor in the least affect the positive steering qualities.

OVERMAN WHEEL CO.

HAMMERED FACTS.

Since we commenced the manufacture of cycles, we have made them of forged steel, and are still hammering away. Other American makers were asleep while we made the pace. A few of them have since discarded their malleable iron castings and copied our work.

Three years ago we made the Victor Safety with a diamond frame, as usual leading America. The example is now being copied by many.

WE ALWAYS LEAD.

Some makers of bicycles handle facts like the crank who "didn't know it was loaded."

Others are like the boy with his first pair of boots who has to parade them before all. Boots, small boys, and diamond frames are nothing new.

There's another maker—one in America—that has the reputation of working and planning while others are boasting. You know who—the Overman wheel Co. Some people originate while others imitate.

Overman Wheel Co., - Chicopee Falls, Mass.

BOSTON. WASHINGTON. DENVER. SAN FRANCISCO.

AN ANTI-FICTION ADVERTISEMENT.

How often we hear some perplexed soul say that he wants to purchase a bicycle, but the more he looks around, and reads, and hears what the different makers have to say, the more he is in doubt as to which kind to buy.

The Ladies (God Bless 'em) don't have any of this trouble, for they usually entrust the matter to some member of the bifurcated sex, and he is the fellow we are talking about. Now why should anybody be perplexed to know which is the best machine?

Is it because the man who has it to sell doesn't tell the exact truth?

We don't intend to call anybody a hard name, for we believe that all mean to be fair and square. Of course there may be now and again a case (we had almost said a man) who will intentionally deceive a customer, but they are so rare and withal, so short-sighted as well as short-lived, that no serious notice need be taken of them.

Assuming then that all men mean to be fair, how can there be such diversity of opinion?

What member or attache of the Pope Man'fg Co. could you find who thinks anything else could equal a Columbia? (and we are willing to admit that they are using a pretty good driving chain.)

What Maker or seller is there who doesn't believe that his own goods are best? and he ought, else how could he do himself or his goods justice?

Why all this honest difference of belief? Why so many who seem to think their own machine made of "Western Union consolidated stock," while those of any other maker must, in the nature of things, contain something measly?

Is somebody mistaken? Well possibly, though we are inclined to take a more charitable view of it and say that much of the good that every maker claims for his own really does exist.

No machine has all the best points and probably never will have(unless it might possibly be the Hickory.) And any man who has intelligence enough to make even a very poor wheel, knows that absolute perfection exists only in the imagination of the misguided advertiser.

When a salesman tells you that his wheel is better "in every respect" than any other, look upon him as you would a tourist who had just returned from Europe for the first time.

All machines are best for something (impossible as that might seem.) The price, strength, weight, size and width of tire all count or should do so.

If you ask a man which is the best bicycle, and he tells you that it depends on who wants to use it, where it is to be used, and how much can be afforded in the way of price, you may calculate that you have struck a man who either has the agency for all kinds or who isn't in the business.

There are cases where we do not recommend the Hickory Wheels, as for instance, ———— well, you write us the particulars of your case, and if we think you ought not to have it, we will tell you so.

ELLIOTT HICKORY CYCLE CO,
Newton, Mass.

P. S. The man who is printer "by special appointment" to the H. C. Co, is working on that new catalogue, while we have quite a gang of "artists" working on the wheels (and frames.) This won't be much of a catalogue, and we are only getting it out because people seem to expect something of the sort, though we might just as well have saved our money, for the hickory wheels sells without the assistance of "art."

TRY AND BUY.

"A writer's ideas should stand out like rabbit's ears, so that the reader can get hold of them."—BEECHER.

JUST so, and a cycle's good points should stand out like porcupine quills so that a rider can both see and feel them. This is just what happens on the "SYLPH." The three-part frame stands out in three directions so boldly that even the casual observer may see that no vibration can reach the rider from either wheel. But when the rider goes over a brick and with nerves alert and muscles taut, awaits a shock that comes not, then does he fully feel that "of a truth this is what I have been seeking for." A trial will convince.

PRICE, $135.

Solid or Cushion Tires.

ONLY Wheel with Trigwell's Ball Head, giving the steadiest steering.

ONLY Wheel with Straight Front Fork.

ONLY Wheel with Rear Axle Band Brake.

NO OTHER WHEEL HAS IT! RUBBER TIRES ARE NOT INJURED!

Being on the Axle it cannot tear or injure the Rubber Tire. Does not spatter mud on the Driving Chain, which is always a care to keep clean, nor collect mud, as when the Brake Spoon is near the Rubber Tire. It is a brake of GRADUAL PRESSURE and is VERY POWERFUL. Specially advantageous when Cushion or Pneumatic Tires are used.

The editor of the C. T. C. Gazette sums up a lengthy article with the following details of an ideal mount: "Safety, with a Diamond Frame Ball-steering; Straight Front Forks; Band Brake on rear wheel, and Tangent Spokes."

From the Scottish Cyclist: "We still hold out for the Band Brake, applied to the Driving Wheel. A Band Brake fitted to Driving Wheel is theoretically correct, places the strain where the power emanates, and, so far as the present mechanics of cycle building stand, must be accepted as the ideal brake."

From Cyclist: "The introduction of Pneumatic and Cushion Tires will call for a modification of Brakes on Safeties. For all purposes we give preference to a REAR WHEEL BAND BRAKE. The rear wheel is unquestionably the place for the Brake, and we think no one will take issue with us that a Band Brake properly fitted is better than Brake acting directly upon the Tire. Such a Brake is more powerful, cleanly and less tiresome."

THE NEW MAIL ALONE HAS THESE FEATURES.

Brake cannot collect or spatter mud on chain as does a spoon brake on rear wheel. Our Cushion Tires are warranted, and the most practical and best cushion tires made. Handsomest and best High Grade Safety

TO GENERAL ADVERTISERS.

THIS is a sample of what we are constantly receiving from general advertisers. "It gives me great pleasure to state that I have received better results from advertisements in your paper than in many papers claiming a circulation of 100,000 weekly."

M. R. WARREN, Stationer,
336 Washington street,
Boston, Mass.

OF the appointment of Abbot Bassett to a place on the Racing Board, the writer begs to express a pronounced opinion at this present. For Mr. Bassett personally, he has only the highest regard, which is likewise combined with a sincere appreciation of his work as Secretary of the L. A. W., but (if X. C. C. knows himself) Mr. Bassett in time past made such a particularly bad job of looking after racing interests as chairman of the Board, that it was a matter for congratulation all around when he finally looked towards us and bowed himself out of the chair. As chairman, Mr. Bassett was honest and fearless in all that he did, but his work showed that he was entirely out of touch with those who were laboring with might and main for the good of racing, and there is no doubt but that the utter demoralization which attended the sport at the time of his retirement, might have been largely prevented had he shown such tact and judgment as were exhibited by Chairman Davol in a trying and somewhat similar position last year. With an unusual number of fast men on the track the tournaments of 1886 were farcical; those of 1890, while attended with the same complicated possibilities were extraordinarily brilliant. In each case the chairman of the Board made the most of his legitimate powers, according to his respective idea of what it was best to do under the circumstances.—X. C. C. in Cyclist.

We have carefully considered the "pronounced opinion" as above set forth, and we do not hesitate to pronounce it a very poor and ill considered one. We have too good an opinion of X. C. C. to believe for a moment that he seriously means what he says, and we do not believe he would have said it had he given the subject serious consideration. The writer disclaims a personal attack on Mr. Bassett, and therefore he can mean only that he disapproves of the thing done by that gentleman, or his manner of doing it.

WE are not a little surprised that a man who was active on the stage of affairs in 1886 will undertake to compare the work of the Racing Board of 1890 with that of the Board of 1886. As well compare a mole hill to a mountain. It may be worth our while to take a glance backward and discover the condition of things in 1886 that we may know just what our good friend X. C. C. condemns. Let us look at an evil that he regrets was done away with because for a time it led to the "utter demoralization" of the sport.

IN 1886 every large manufacturer of wheels kept its racing team. These men were not only paid their expenses, but they were given liberal salaries besides. They gave up all other business, were coached and trained by the best trainers that could be had, and rode to advertise the wheels of their employers. These men pretended to be amateurs, and desired to compete in amateur races. It was the most outrageous pretence ever perpetrated in the sporting world. Their friends, X. C. C. among the rest, saw only that these paid men could ride fast, and they were willing to enjoy the farce of salaried riders competing as amateurs, and resented the action of those who were not. Would such men be allowed in amateur races to-day? Would X. C. C. care to see such a spectacle? We trow not. And yet this is the evil that was broken up in 1886, and this is the condition of things the removal of which our friend laments. Winking at such an evil would be considered "tact and judgment" in the mind of X. C. C. if we can believe what he says above. The Racing Board of 1885 saw the growth of the evil and its paralyzing effect upon the sport. The Board of 1886 started in before the season commenced to crush the monster, and they succeeded after a long and hard fought fight. They saw a rival to the L. A. W. started, and they fought it till it was wiped out of existence. They worked against great odds, for many of the leading spirits of the League were lukewarm in their support till they saw the tide turning in favor of the Board, and the editor of the official organ not only failed to give support, but was among the earliest to join the rival organization. The Racing Board under Mr. Bassett made a grand fight, and they conquered. At the general meeting of the League held in Boston in 1886, every action of the Racing Board was approved, and they were given a vote of thanks for the valuable service they had rendered the cause of pure amateurism.

AND now comes X. C. C. to say that he would have had it otherwise. Why would he have had it otherwise? Because the war interfered with the particular race meeting in which he was interested. But if X. C. C. could bring himself to take a broad view of the matter he would say that it would be better to sacrifice every race meeting of the year than that such an evil should exist. X. C. C. says that the tournaments of 1886 were "farcical," while those of 1890 were brilliant. In 1886 tournaments were held in Hartford, Springfield, Roseville, Cleveland and Lynn, to say nothing of those held in the West. In that year Fred Wood and Robert James came over from England and Langdon came from New Zealand. At Hartford Fred Wood made the fastest time ever made in competition (2.33) and then beat his own record at Springfield (2.32 3-5). Very many records made in that year remain in the books to-day. Rowe knocked down a whole hat full of records, including twenty-two miles in the hour, and Whittaker rode 300 miles in twenty-four hours on the highway. What event in 1890 could compare in interest with the international championship when Rowe beat Wood, or with the races between Rowe and Hendee? Oh no! the farcical season, as X. C. C. calls it, is dotted all over with brilliant events which find no parallel in 1890.

DOES X. C. C. disapprove the methods employed by Mr. Bassett? The methods instituted and employed then are the methods that have been used ever since and are engrafted on the rules of to-day. If X. C. C. would look for the cause of the demoralization of the sport, let him look at the actions of the racing men and not at the men who made good laws and enforced them.

AND now let us look at the trouble of 1890. At the end of the season certain men were suspended for allowing their clubs to pay their legitimate expenses. Clubs paid expenses in 1886, and no notice was taken of it. It was deemed not to be a violation of any rule. If no greater evil had existed the racing men would never have been interfered with. The suspended men of 1890 were not prevented from entering a single race. They did not resist as did the men of 1886, and they have not been disqualified as were the men of the earlier date. Has there been a war at all? Ask the veterans who were with us when there was a pretty bit of fighting. Will the action of the Board of 1890 be sustained? After deliberately considering the question we cannot see how it can be. The men who fell under the displeasure of the Board were suspended "pending an investigation of their amateur status." We have not heard the evidence against the men from official sources, but we understand that the only charges that can be sustained are those to the effect that the expenses of the suspends were paid by their clubs. We ask any one to point out in the amateur rule of the League any clause or phrase that prevents a club paying the expenses of a member. We fail to find any such provision. If there is no such provision in the rule as it stands in the Constitution, no committee and no Racing Board can constitute such a rule. We are forced to believe that the Racing Board made a mistake and that the suspends will have to be released; and, moreover, that no restrictions can be made by the present Racing Board on the payment of expenses by clubs. We do not desire to discredit the Racing Board of 1890. For the good work that it did it has won the respect and the good-will of the League; but we shall sit right up in the saddle when any one undertakes to compare the little flurry of 1890 that begun after the racing season was over, and will end before the next one begins, with the hurricane that lasted throughout all the racing season of 1886.

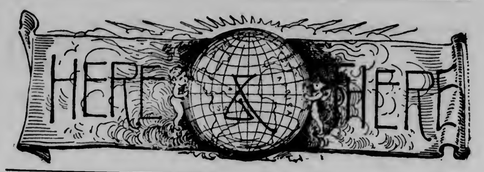
THE rule of the A. A. U. which took effect April 1st that members of clubs (cycle or athletic) which are outside the district in which the original club membership is held, cannot hold membership in A. A. U. clubs of other districts will do much towards correcting the indiscriminate grabbing of fast men. This rule not only applies to club membership, but also to residence. For instance if A resides in or is a member of a club in the Eastern District, he must join some A. A. U. club in the Eastern District, and cannot compete as a member of any A. A. U. Club in the Metropolitan or any other District. This is a sort of Home Protective scheme, and will do much towards adjusting the abuse of having men from all over the country belonging to one or two of the more prominent clubs.

MR. PRIAL goes for the men who criticise him for re-printing in the Wheel the alleged likeness and very flattering notice of him which appeared in English Cycling. It would have been at least a graceful acknowledgement to have mentioned the "cycling press men" who in fairly good taste refrained from "jumping on Prial." Don't you think so F. P.?



SOME two weeks ago we made some radical changes in the make-up of the WORLD. Among these changes was the use of nonpareil in place of brevier. It is pleasant to have received very many letters and words of commendation at the change. The two isolated cases of complaint come from those who do not like the nonpareil type. Our respected New York contemporary, in alluding to the change, has this to say in regard to this use of this type: "* * * Nonpareil is not good for the eyes, but the next larger type is so large that no cycling publisher can afford the requisite number of pages needed to properly record the news." * * * We wonder whether the great objectors ever read the daily press! If so, why do not they "write to the Editor" and protest against nonpareil and agate in the columns thereof? In the cases of the Wheel and the WORLD, the type is of the best quality and the printing the most careful, while in the daily press, the absence of every other letter in part or in whole is not an uncommon thing. Yet the objectors read the dailies assiduously, and never a kick, kick they!

AT the meeting of the clubs of New York and vicinity last week in the matter of forming a Road Racing Association the New York Sun reports that a ruling was made barring men from the proposed races who had ever entered or competed in races from an athletic club. This seems a pretty stringent ruling, and we doubt the authenticity of the report. The Association is to have another meeting on the 20th, and with a fuller representation from the cycle clubs of the metropolitan district, we doubt very much whether such a rule will be permanently adopted by the Association, and unless there is some good reason which is not now visible to our clouded vision we hope the Sun's report will prove to be groundless.

THE alliance between the A. A. U. and the L. A. W. has been effected. The good news reaches us as we go to press. The terms of agreement will be published in full shortly. The terms are slightly changed from those proposed by the A. A. U. and printed in our issue of March 20th, and are based on the agreement made at the meeting of the joint A. A. U. and L. A. W. Committee in New York, March 30th.

ALL ABOARD FOR MAMMOTH CAVE.

AN excursion to Mammoth Cave, in connection with the Meet of Kentucky Division L. A. W., June 26, 27, is now assured. The Louisville and Nashville Railroad has taken the matter in hand, and will push it to a successful end. A very low rate will be offered. The plan now is to run a special train, leaving Louisville about midnight Saturday; spend Sunday in nature's greatest wonder, and return Sunday night to Louisville. It is next to impossible to wheel to the Cave, roads in that portion of the State being almost unknown. Visitors who may want a tour in Kentucky will have a hundred interesting things to see in the Blue-grass country. The immense stock farms, the Shaker settlement, High Bridge, historic Perryville, Ashland (Henry Clay's home), Daniel Boone's tomb, Zachary Taylor's grave, the richest and most picturesque country under the sky—these and other attractions await the tourist in Kentucky.

MR. CLARENCE H. SMITH, who so successfully managed the last year's tour from Detroit to Niagara, will take charge of the tour to start from Niagara Falls July 9 at 10 A.M. to Detroit. The total distance is 261, and the time taken to cover same about 7 days. Distance per day averages about 40 miles. Total cost $16. Ladies are expressly invited to join the party which will be limited to 150. For particulars apply to Clarence H. Smith, 211 Putnam avenue, Detroit, Michigan.

MR. EUGENE MINOR, formerly of Indianapolis, Ind., has left that city for Detroit, in which place he will permanently reside hereafter. Mr. Minor has the reputation of being a good fellow, and a fast one withal—on the road and path.

TUESDAY evening all the members of the Columbus (Ohio) Safety Club were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Smith. It was a surprise party to the doctor. It was a strictly stag affair, and the fun continued fast and furious until 12 o'clock, when the company separated, vowing that it was the most agreeable entertainment that the club had ever received.

Do not imagine that bicycles and their appurtenances are the only things that can be successfully advertised in this paper; cyclists are human beings and know a good thing when they see it; with our weekly circulation of over 20,000 what better medium can you ask for men's goods?

"MAMMA, Mr. Wheeler asked me to marry him last night." "Did you accept him?" "Yes, mamma." "Has he any money?" "Ten dollars a week, mamma." "Well, that's no money. You must break off the engagement at once." "But he is going into the bicycle business." "That's a different thing. Why didn't you say so at first? He'll be rich in a few years. Insist on the ceremony taking place at once, before he changes his mind."

A QUESTION for our "Chesterfields and Professors in Deportment" to answer is that put by a Rochester, N. Y., correspondent. Is it proper for a gentleman to precede a lady when they are each riding a bicycle? If he does precede her he is able to pick the best path; but on the other hand, being naturally a faster rider he may make the pace too hot; also if any accident happens he cannot reach her so quickly as if he were behind. If however the lady takes the lead she can cut out the pace but she must also pick the road. Now then! which shall it be, ladies or gentlemen first?

THE Illinois Legislature has had a bill presented to it for action by Representative Paddock. It provides for a non-partisan State Board of Highway Commissioners to be composed of three members. The board is to prepare plans for improved highways upon existing roadbeds selected by the Boards of Supervisors of the several counties. The bill provides for public letting of contracts to build roads, requiring bonds to secure faithful execution. It gives the authority to county boards to employ competent civil engineers, and provides for a tax not to exceed 5-100 of the assessed value of the county and for the issue of bonds to the amount of the tax levied.

SAYS a valued correspondent: "The repairing branch of the bicycle business has kept pace with the marvelous growth of the sport, and is as different from what it used to be, as the machines of to-day are from their prototypes of a dozen years ago. I can well remember when to be a bicycle repairer was thought to demand on the part of the man filling the position no more experience than a coal heaver is expected to possess, when all the tools deemed necessary for him to work with was a hammer or two, a cold chisel, a spoke wrench, a spanner and a file. When one goes into even an ordinary repairer's department now, on every hand his eye is greeted with the evidences of the high grade of skill and equipment employed. Dealers have seen that the perfect mechanism of the modern wheel demands the employment of the highest grade of machinists to keep it in order and repair, and they have in most cases supplied themselves with workmen of skill and experience. Tools and methods, unknown a few years since, have been invented and put in use, so that a man no longer consigns his wheel to the repairer with a dread and trembling that it may be returned to him in a worse condition than when it left him. Repairing, like the construction of bicycles, has become a fine art. I know a dealer who declares he employes a lynx-eyed man to keep his gaze riveted on the chains of his safeties to prevent any of the links from getting out of order. Surely nothing could exceed this for business enterprise."

"ANOTHER Detroit wheelman," says Judge, "has been advanced half dozen rounds up the ladder of life. Mr. Wm. K. Bradish has been appointed secretary to Mr. Griffith, director of the Art Museum. This will put him in close contact with his friend and adviser, which, if Mr. Bradish improves, will be of great benefit to him. Will Bradish has been known to the wheeling world, in this vicinity especially, for the past six years, and known as one of the most daring and expert wheelmen in the State. I remember, 3 or 4 years ago, on a run to Mt. Clemens, some one sneered about the machine he was on, and he bet he could ride off a stage three feet high—not down a flight of steps but clean off—and he did, much to the surprise of the Mt. Clemens cyclers.

The shares of stock are to be placed at $100 each, payable at the rate of $1 weekly. The capital is to be invested in real estate only. The plan is most favorably received, and it is probable the association will begin with a charter membership of nearly 50.

Among the general articles are "Herring Fishing at Scarborough,"

"Whaling Among the Eskimo," the "Evolution of Yacht Building," an excellent cycle story, etc. Taking all in all the April number of Outing is, as we have said before, one of the best numbers we have ever seen.

HAWKSHAW'S COLUMN.

A FRIEND of mine had life made a burden to him by the borrowing proclivities of some of his club mates. He did not object to lending them an oil can, or a wrench, or any other little necessity, but he did object to the borrowers taking it for granted that he would so oblige them, and upon this surmise helping themselves to the contents of his tool-bag in his absence, and then too often forgetting to return what they had thus borrowed. Finally, forbearance ceased to be a virtue, and this fact was brought to his notice by the need of a wrench to fasten up a loose bolt with, when ten miles from the club-house; and when he found his own gone from the saddle-bag, he determined to put a stop to the practice. After he got back to the club, he wrote out a notice and posted it on the bulletin board, saying that the individual who had borrowed his wrench was known to him; and if same was not returned before the date of the club meeting, that he would lay the borrower's name before the club, and ask for his punishment. The following Sunday, when he came into the club to prepare for a ride, he was astonished to see in front of his locker no less than a dozen packages, each of which, when opened, contained a wrench; and with several of them were notes, asking him to overlook the forgetfulness of the borrowers. As he only lost one wrench, he is now in a quandary to know what to do with the remainder of the lot presented to him by his terrified club mates.

Wheelmen are all in danger of being mastered by appearances. We are continually confounding what seems with what is; we lose sight of substance in show. It is the superficial qualities of a wheel that imposes upon the multitude. Reputation is more than character. Style and nickel conquer where sturdy worth fails. Good looks carry more weight with the ordinary purchaser than good material and construction. It is hard to steer one's way through trade influences and impressions that stand between the purchaser and the securing of the best wheel for the least money.

If, under the sun, there is any subject upon which there exists unqualified unanimity, it seems to be that of the desirability of travelling, its delights as pure enjoyment, and its inestimable advantages for mental and physical improvement. If not in the primary stage of mewling and puking in our nurse's arms, surely in the immediately succeeding one of school-boy whining our minds are imbued with the idea that to go abroad is altogether excellent. While fully recognizing the advantage of European travel, both from the purely Eudæmonistic and the educational point of view—appreciating, too, the superior facilities afforded in many instances for scientific or artistic study—one may yet reasonably be brought to the conclusion that, under the circumstances under which ninety-five out of every hundred go abroad, neither is the effect so intellectually stimulating, nor, to the candid and analytical traveller, the pleasure so unadulterated, as popular laudation would lead one to expect. Far too multitudinous and complex for even mention are the motives which urge what is grandiloquently called "our annual hegira;" but we cannot fail to notice as chief among these, obedience to fashion, the innate relief that the unknown and unfamiliar is the magnificent, and the self-deception that going abroad is something positive. The average steamboat and railroad tourist is the laughing stock of his own, and every other country he may visit; he goes abroad as he would to a circus, attempting in one grand rush by steam to see the entire continent in six weeks. To accomplish this, he rushes from one attraction, city, or country, to another, until he becomes so satiated with ever recurring change and beauty that he can no longer assimilate in his memory or understanding the wonders he sees, and he becomes like what Lowell says of reading new books:—

"One can stand it at first, but by gradual steps he Is brought to death's door of a mental dyspepsy."

These facts, more than anything else, have served to make wheel tours of Europe so popular within the past few years. Such travellers are brought close to the customs and habits of the countries and people they journey among. They become, as it were, a part and parcel of them; they are behind the scenes, and from that coigne of vantage view things as they are, not as they seem to be to the ordinary railway-rusher. They must learn, and must study what they are brought in daily contact with; they wander in paths that are unbeaten by the romance destroying foot of the globe-trotter. Exercise gives to them the health necessary to enjoy and appreciate all that they witness, and the average wheelman in his trip through Europe sees more, learns more, and enjoys more than the before mentioned ninety-five out of a hundred ordinary tourists, and at the same time pays less for the privilege than does his unfortunate friend, the railroad rusher. I would rather, a thousand times, that my first impressions of the beauties, the wonders, and the grandeurs of the old world should come to me from a seat in the saddle than from the window of a railway carriage. To those who can from their daily lives snatch the few weeks and the few dollars such a trip will cost them, let them by all means not fail to do so, and they will find the return from the investment will surpass any other that it is possible for them to make, whether it is considered from an educational, health-giving, or pleasure-producing point of view.

Your position upon the desirability of the elimination of the term "boys," as applied to wheelmen, is too well taken for any one who stops and studies the question a moment to attempt to controvert. I have not seen a cycling paper in this country or in Europe, that has not applauded your stand in the matter. Cycling has too long labored upon the disadvantage of being considered child's play. It must in every way possible have eliminated from it all childish and boyish reputation. As I understand it, you in no wise cast any slur upon boys; why should you; most all the members of the L. A. W. and of cycling have been boys once, and many of us wish we were so again, but that is not the point, it can do a boy no harm to be called manly, while it may do a man much harm to be dubbed boyish. If any one thinks "boys" are the mainstay of cycling let them study the photograph of the National Assembly taken at Washington and count the "boys" in it. By all means let us have a cessation of the term. We do not merit it, and I for one, do not want to see it applied indiscriminately to wheelmen.

A WHEEL INTO THE INDIAN COUNTRY, NO. 3.

BY C. W. NORTHROP.

THE BEEF ISSUE.

THE inspector also suggests the wisdom of getting permission from the Agent to ride westward to Pine Ridge, as the law does not allow a white man, unconnected with the agency, to come on to the reservation. Accordingly, accompanied by our informant, we ride towards the agent's headquarters, and while on the way, are given a few facts regarding the "Beef Issue." We learn that during the fall and early winter, Uncle Sam issues to the Sioux at Rosebud some 6000 beef cattle in lots of 250 to 500. The "Issues" occur at intervals of thirteen days, and are regarded as general holidays by the Indians, who assemble to enjoy the best substitute they can now have for the grand buffalo hunts of an earlier time. Arriving at the office we are introduced to Col. Sherwin, the agent, who greets us cordially, and, after signing our name in a register, kept for visitors, we are given permission to ride to the Pine Ridge Agency. In return, we are asked to give an exhibition of our skill in riding, for the benefit of "his boys," as the colonel calls a fine looking body of Sioux dressed in a neat blue uniform, who form the police of the Agency. We find it a real pleasure to perform before so appreciative an audience as the Indians prove to be. The feats in themselves are simple enough, consisting of mounting from a stand-still, riding with "hands off," pedalling with one foot, and coasting with "legs over handles," yet the red men seem never to tire watching the evolutions of the glittering wheel which we had polished especially for the occasion. Several times, when ready to dismount, we are urged to ride a little longer or to repeat some act that has especially interested our audience. So we keep on until the agent himself, good-naturedly, puts a stop to the performance. From one of the police who speaks fairly good English, we get a bit of information curious enough to be worth relating here. He tells us many of his tribe regard our bicycle much as they do their own ponies; that is, they believe the motive power to be a part of the machine itself, and not furnished by the rider. This being the case, their admiration of a horse, which, as one of them coarsely expressed it, "No eat—no drink—no sleep—never get tired," is easily understood.

Leaving our guide at the agency, we ride away alone toward the plain where the issue is to come off. The road we take is filled with a moving caravan. There are Sioux on foot and on horseback; Indian boys mounted on their diminutive ponies; open and canvas-topped wagons filled with squaws and their papooses; and now and then an Indian girl, seated man-fashion on her horse, riding with a poise and grace not often seen in her civilized sister. As we wend our way slowly among the crowd, we are greeted everywhere by grunts and exclamations of mingled surprise and satisfaction. Curious faces smile on us from under canvas tops, and we often exchange the salutation "How," with braves riding by our side. several times we dismount to satisfy the curiosity of young bucks on foot, who generally proceed to pinch the rubber tires, twang the tightly drawn steel spokes, and in other ways examine into the mysteries of our bicycle. Possibly they are looking for the "motive power" of the new horse; if so, their puzzled faces show it is with small success. Remembering Stevens' amusing adventure with a Piute Indian further west, we try the same little game with some of these young fellows; but, although one of them goes so far as to put his foot on the step, we cannot induce him to mount to the saddle, and so have to postpone the spectacle of a Sioux taking a "header" until another time. But we have reached the scene of the day's sport, and have eyes for nothing now but the novel and interesting panorama spread out before us. The day is a perfect one for the issue—clear and cold, with hardly a breath of wind to stir the loose canvas on the wagon tops. To the north and east stretches the prairie, smooth as an inland lake, without a mound or depression to break the perfect level until it joins the azure vault on the far distant horizon. To the west a grim rocky mountain range breaks the monotony, and gives character to the landscape, while away towards the south, a few thin lines of smoke, rising almost perpendicularly into the crisp air, mark the broken country in which Rosebud lies. To the right of the road, and extending along it for half a mile, often three or four deep, are the teams and wagons belonging to Indians who are to take part in the issue. By noon many of these will be loaded with the slaughtered beeves and on their way to distant parts of the reservation.

To the left, and a few hundred feet from the wagon, stands the corral that holds the cattle. This seems the centre of interest, and hundreds of Indians are galloping backward and forward near the barred opening, as they wait impatiently for the issue to begin. Riding close to the enclosure we lean our machine against the stokade, and clambering up with feet on the saddle, look within upon a scene we shall never forget. Imagine 250 long horned cattle, wild as the buffaloes over whose grounds they have roamed, confined probably for the first time in an enclosure of an acre or two. They are fairly frantic now from the efforts of three or four cowboys to separate a few from the herd and drive them into a pen close by the gate. What success these dairing "cow punchers" have, we fail to learn, for hearing a commotion in the rear we slip down into the saddle to find we are fairly surrounded by a swarm of mounted Sioux. Evidently the "beef issue" is an old story to them, but here is something new and strange that is worth investigating. How many there are around us would be hard to state, but at the time it seemed as though all the neighborhood had come to stare at wheel and rider, and as we are naturally of a retiring disposition, it is unnecessary to say that we long for the proverbial hole in the ground in which to disappear. Finally, one of their number, a tall, fine looking fellow, dismounts, and coming forward offers his hand, at the same time speaking a few words in the Sioux dialect. It is by signs, however, we learn the wish of those assembled, to have an exhibition of riding before the real sport of the day begins. To ride here with less than a rod of open ground on any side seems nearly as difficult as to wheel down that canyon path the evening before, but with preparation for a flying dismount we start towards the centre of the group. For the second time to-day we notice with admiration the perfect training of the Indian horses. With apparently but a touch of the bridle-rein the two nearest us swerve a little to either side, crowding their companions more closely together, and almost in an instant a narrow lane is open before us. In riding through we are fairly under the noses of the obedient animals, and twice our handle bar grazes a pony's flank, yet not one of them shies or shows the least fear of the bicycle. At this point the prairie is worn smooth and hard by constant tramping of horses and cattle, and for a quarter mile we take a three minute gait to show the paces of our steed, and then turn and ride slowly back again.

AN IMPORTANT EVENT IN CYCLEDOM.

BY STERLING ELLIOTT.

ONE of the most interesting things in cycling circles (not circling cycles) is the recently discovered fact that Abbot Bassett has got a pair of gloves, and what is still more remarkable he is wearing them. This might seem to be a small matter, but that is because you don't know Bassett. When the Pope Manufacturing Co. made a picture of the Secretary mounted on a tandem and wearing gloves it was considered among wheelmen as a very good joke, until they observed that cuffs were also pictured, when it at once took on the appearance of something more than a joke. On seeing that his shoes were represented as being blacked his friends knew at once that the lithograph must have been made without Bassett's consent, for there is nothing hypocritical about the man who takes our dollar and puts his autograph on our ticket (with a rubber stamp). "And that reminds me." One day last summer, or the summer before, or possibly three years ago, we started out to take a train on which we were to meet "the Bassetts" and proceed with them to a "feed" which was being given to a number of hungry families by a philanthropic member of the wheeling contingent.

Mrs. E. discovered while we were walking to the depot that my shoes were decidedly *un*blacked, of course it was the fault of my valet, but not wishing to mar the harmony of the occasion I said "well, that's too bad; but never mind. I'll bet Bassett's shoes will be in the same condition," whereupon I was taken at my word and the "bet" was put in the tangible form of one dollar. At the investigation I claimed a foul on the ground that by appearances it was more than an even chance that the shoes had not been blacked.

W. W. Stall (of Odd Fellows' Hall) was chosen referee and he decided, after a careful examination that the toes had been blacked, but inasmuch as the heels hadn't he ruled that I should pay one-half to the complainant and the other half to the referee. The case is still undecided, and now that David has resigned it may remain so. I don't know just what Bassett's amateur status is in the League, but he certainly is not a professional bootblack.

While I was acting as recording angel for the League Meet at Niagara, I neglected to say that when we visited the rapids and were standing awed and as near silent as such a crowd can be, looking up at the massive height of rocks on either side, and feeling as small as such a sight could make us, Brother Bassett, who has read everything from the Koran to "hickelty, pickelty, my black hen," raised his eyes and also his hand. (He didn't bend his elbow, thus making such a raise still more noticeable). He straightened up, and trying hard to look like his photograph, said: "Gentlemen, thirty-five years ago the falls were right here." We smiled. We had smiled before at his expense, both literally and figuratively, but not so loud as this time. He assumed a painfully thoughtful expression for a minute, and then said: "It might have been thirty-five million years ago, for I am sure that it was thirty-five something.

The League has many things to be proud of, not the least of which is its Secretary. Moral—Now is the time to join the League.

P. S.—I nearly forgot to say that Bassett's new gloves were made to order by Mr. Updegraff of Hagerstown. I trust that he may see his way clear to make a shalar pair for me in exchange for this notice, even if I have to give one of them to the editor to get it printed.

DETROIT WHEELMEN.

A CLERGYMAN'S VIEWS ON THE USE OF THE CYCLE.

EDITOR BICYCLING WORLD: I must write in commendation of your article on clerical bicyclists last week. The safety is made for clergymen. They can double their efficiency by saving time, to say nothing of health and spirits. When I was at Watertown, Conn., I rode every possible Sunday afternoon, three miles and back to take a Mission Sunday School and service. I claim that I was more efficient for the fact of having ridden. Once I was joined by twelve young men on wheels. About eight of them came in to the service. The church must recognize and welcome the bicycle. I have serious thoughts of trying the experiment of a bicycle shed at the church, where those who ride can stow their wheels safely during the time of service. At the same time I deprecate the noisy starting of club runs just at church time, and wish wheelmen would so far ally themselves with the church as either (a) to go at least once in the day themselves, or if they will not all do this, (b) to respect the feelings of church goers.

H. N. CUNNINGHAM,
Rector of Christ Church, Waltham, Mass.

DON'T LEAN OVER YOUR HANDLE BAR.

EDITOR BICYCLING WORLD: We, who are ardent devotees to the "silent steed," cannot but feel interested in anything which affects the growth of cycling, and particularly in decrying any practice which gives the uninitiated an argument against it.

The habit of extreme leaning forward over the handle bars is anything but graceful, and gives an observer the impression that the wheelman is having to exert his utmost strength to propel his machine. As a rule, in ordinary city riding, this is entirely unnecessary, as the rider who sits erect in his saddle has, if anything, better control of his wheel, and is able to apply all the power that is needful.

To see a rider in such a position always reminds me of a fretwork design which I have seen, of an old woman who is holding the olfactory of her long-nosed spouse to a grindstone, hoping to improve his personal appearance.

This uncouth position is also the chief ground on which many physicians base their objections to cycling, as it tends to cramp the lungs and produce an abnormal shape of the spine. Should all physicians advocate cycling as a healthful exercise, many would ride who now appreciate the utility of the bicycle, but are deterred from its use by the fear that it will produce evil physical results.

No one likes to appear ridiculous, but, as I heard a gentleman say recently, to see a wheelman doubled up over the handles of his machine makes one think of a caterpillar which has been picked up on the end of a stick.

A little watchfulness and self-control on the part of the rider would soon produce a wonderful change for the better in this respect, and would dispose of that objection to bicycle riding. Why can it not be done?

THE CENTURY WHEELMEN'S DRAMATIC ENTERTAINMENT.

WHEN Century gave her last minstrel show to a delighted audience, it was the universal request that the talented performers favor the local cycling world with another of the same sort; and accordingly, on last Wednesday evening, the wheelroom of the Century clubhouse was filled with ladies and gentlemen representing the leading organizations of the city, who were gathered to enjoy the following programme, which is given in its entirety, in order that the versatility of the amateurs may be realized:

A farce in one act, translated and adapted from the German, entitled "A Woman's Wont." Mr. Harwood, Harford's father-in-law, Mr. W. J.

Immediately upon the conclusion of the entertainment the floor was cleared for dancing, and the party did not disperse until Thursday had been ushered into existence. "ARIEL."

THE MARYLAND MEET.

ARRANGEMENTS for the Meet of the Third Racing District, consisting of Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia, and District of Columbia, at Hagerstown, Md., July 2, 3, and 4, 1891, are rapidly progressing. Committees have been appointed and will soon be announced. The most important for the reading world is the Press Committee, and Mr. G. P. Wilson of Baltimore, Md., will care for the ambitious editors from the "rockbound coast of the Atlantic to the golden sands of the Pacific." Thirteen men in all are doing the "pen pushing," and it will not be their fault if any wheelman is not fully posted. The Third Racing District will be on hand almost as a unit, and already several clubs from New York and Brooklyn have signified their intention to be there in a body, and have made arrangements for special trains. A good attendance from Massachusetts and the New England States is promised, and accounts from as far west as Ohio and as far south as Louisiana that those people are also aroused. Maryland's entertainments of the League have always been in the true spirit of hospitality—no make-penny affair. Give Marylanders an opportunity to entertain you, and you confer a favor. The races will extend over the whole three days, and will include the Third Racing District championships to qualify for the National events. The entertainment will consist of unique features—novelties that will be enjoyed and remembered as something out of the common. The riding district in and about Hagerstown in the Shenandoah Valley is famous as beyond any other in the United States.

Hagerstown itself is a city of Telford roller-made roads instead of pavements, and from it radiate eight limestone pikes, like the spokes of a wheel, all as smooth as asphalt. To quote from the road-book: "From Reading westward, the delightful Lebanon Valley offers fair grades to Harrisburg, beyond which point the Cumberland Valley leads to Hagerstown, Md., and thence to the Shenandoah Valley—that wheelman's paradise—to Staunton, Va. No finer straightaway exists than that from Reading to the last named city, a distance of 264 miles." Think of 264 miles, straightaway, of asphalt, for that is what these limestone pikes in this valley really amount to. This pike is through an enormous valley, rich in nature's adornments and agriculture, with towering and majestic mountains on each side. The different pikes pass through some of the most famous battle-fields of the latest strife, including Gettysburg, Antietam, South Mountain, and Cedar Creek, and the entranced wheelman on his modern steed tracks the iron shod hoofs of Sheridan's horse on the hero's historical ride, with "Winchester twenty miles away." "Up from the meadows sweet with corn, in the cool September morn," sang Whittier of this country in his enraptured poem, and the wheelman can readily comprehend the inspiration of his muse as he wends his way through this enormous natural park. There, beside the road, is nature's table, formed of a smooth-topped stump, where General Lee held a council of war with his field-marshals when the swollen waters of the Potomac, three miles away, barred his retreat from Gettysburg. There is "Bloody Lane," which in imagination you may see piled high with the dead of those in hand-to-hand conflict, as it was; and just beyond, "Burnsides Bridge," where charge after charge and repulse after repulse tells its bloody tale to the peaceful and wondering wheelman who passes over it. It is an historical and educational tour all through this vicinity; and the wheelman has, added to the exhilaration of his ride, the awe inspiring scenes and memories of the greatest patriotic events of his own lifetime.

Hagerstown is a city of hotels and suburban summer resorts, with accommodations ample for all who may come and at reasonable rates; the League rate at the best hotel, equal to any in Baltimore, being two dollars per day. There is no rate higher than that in the city, but many less. The city is famous for its liberal treatment of wheelmen: indeed, the keys are metaphorically delivered over to cyclers, and their freedom is untrammelled. The mayor and many of the city officials are members of the Hagerstown Bicycle Club, and sympathize with their aims and innocent sports. This very freedom has always appealed to the honor of assemblages of wheelmen; and while there has been the utmost liberty in innocent enjoyments and sports, there has never, in any one instance, been criminal excesses except perhaps of noise. The wheelmen do exercise their lungs in that happy old burg, but the pure mountain air pumps in so much ozone that one can hardly help it. The pure mountain air is a semi-intoxicant, so, while there is no dearth of the awful liquid, it is less a requisite than at some other gatherings. Although this is the Meet of the Third Racing District, every wheelman in the world (including Italy) will be as welcome as the lily that blooms in the valley, the hardy mountain blossom or the rose of Sharon. The wheel will be the only necessary badge, and the countersign is good-fellowship. God bless you, every one; come and see us. It is suggested that wheelmen arrange for their summer vacation to take place in July. Arrive in Hagerstown not later than the morning of the 2d; stay until the night of the 4th, and then or thereafter, start on a tour up the Shenandoah Valley, stopping at Winchester and taking in the cross pikes before passing through; and by all means visiting Berryville, Charlestown, and Harper's Ferry; then proceed on up the valley to Staunton, Va., and back to Baltimore, Md. After exhausting Baltimore, if you wish to visit our pretty suburb—Washington—train over and give George Atwater a crack at you. After he gets through with you, you will be in proper trim to take the train for the Detroit Meet, where you will tumble into the arms of "Griff."

ALBERT MOTT.

PIKE COUNTY, MO., TOUR.

FROM all along the line "boom" is the word used in referring to the Pike County tour. The feature of the tour this year will be the heavy attendance from Illinois towns, and Roodhouse, Jerseyville, Jacksonville and Carrollton will send large delegations in addition to Quincy's 40 men who are expected to participate. At Louisiana everything is in readiness to properly receive and care for the tourists. The mayor will head the reception committee, and will be ably seconded by the genial Dr. Birkhead. The tour takes place on May 3, and the following programme has been provisionally adopted: 8 A. M., photograph on the "Pinnacles;" 8:30 A. M., ride around the city; 9 A. M., start for Clarksville. At the Dover toll gate the party will be met by the wheelmen of Clarksville, who will act as pace-makers around the famous Belt road and will not permit any scorching. At Hutts, as well as Dover, bountiful refreshments will be served, and on the tourists' arrival at Clarksville a light lunch will be served, and those who wish can remain here for dinner, which will be served at the Carroll House. The larger portion of the tourists will ride back to Louisiana for dinner, and the afternoon will be spent in touring to Bowling Green, where the wheelmen will be received by a reception committee consisting of local cyclists, and will be shown through the famous McCormick fancy stock farm. After supper has been dispatched a smoking concert will be inaugurated, and right here it might be well to remind all intending participants to bring their instruments with them. The St. Louis delegation will probably return to their homes on the 8 P. M. Sunday excursion train, as it will probably be running by that time. Should this not be the case the 4 A. M. Denver express will be taken and will land the cyclists in St. Louis at 7 A. M. Monday morning. A rate of one fare, $2.50, has been secured for the round trip, and the hotel offers accommodations for the entire time for $1.75, thus making the entire cost of the tour but $4.25. All cyclists who wish to participate are requested to leave their names on the lists hung in the agencies so that proper accomodations can be arranged in advance. "LINNEUS."

THE NEW HAVEN, CT., TOURNAMENT AND MEET, JUNE 8.

"COMING events cast their shadows before," and such was the case at last year's New Haven (Ct.) tournament, and many of the surprises shown in the "form" of the different cracks then were but the preliminary outlines of more and greater surprises which followed at later tournaments. A much more extensive list of prizes will be offered at the coming tournament June 8th next, than what were shown last year, to the value of fully $1000. These prizes are already being purchased, and a list will soon be ready. Many prominent racing men have already signified their intention of appearing for the first time in '91 at New Haven, and others will flock here direct from the Worcester tournament of May 30. The track will be in splendid condition, and a $250 silver cup is already in waiting for the rider who leaves a record. Separate scratch races will be held for solids and pneumatics, also handicaps where both may compete. The annual spring meet, Connecticut Division, L. A. W. will undoubtedly cause wheelmen to flock to New Haven from all parts of the State, and a grand good time is promised all.

See Supplement for Trade Notes, Fixtures, Etc.

PHILADELPHIA, March 23, 1891.

Gentlemen:

It affords me great pleasure to give you my experience as owner and rider of the most perfect wheel I have ever ridden.

In the spring of 1890 I decided to purchase a bicycle. Being a man of 39 years of age, and weighing 192 lbs, the embarrassing question to decide was,

WHAT WHEEL TO BUY.

I wanted the best, regardless of cost. I was advised by old riders to try several makes of high-grade machines, which I did, and after fair trials of them all, I decided the American Light Rambler to be my choice, for many reasons. I therefore purchased one of your firm, and am much pleased to say that I have not regretted my choice. I have used it almost daily and loaned it to three friends for the purpose of learning to ride, and it has been well tried and not found wanting. I have not expended one cent for repairs, nor had occasion to adjust a nut,—nothing except the adjustment of chain. I consider the spring-frame a model of perfection. It will compare with any wheel as a hill climber and cannot be equalled as a coaster.

The longer I use the Rambler the more I become attached to it, and the greater I become convinced of its perfect construction and workmanship, and therefore its durability.

Very respectfully,

JESSE GILBERT.

The Renewal Season.

The renewal season is now open, and we are ready to receive the annual dues of members.

We have opened the books for 1891-2, and applicants for membership may now send $2 and they will be put upon the roll for the year ending April 30, 1892.

All memberships expire April 30, and must be renewed before July 1st.

We publish a renewal blank which we hope will be universally used. A blank of this kind is more satisfactory for filing than a notice of renewal written in letter form. If a member has no blank and does not care to mutilate his paper, he will oblige us by sending renewal on paper the size of the blank and made out after the same form. The same applies when two or more names are sent.

Every League club has been supplied with sheets to send renewals on, and also a renewal of the club. Since many non-League clubs send in lists of names, a list of names is no indication that a League club renews its membership, and we must have the regular certificate of renewal as per blank furnished every club before we can issue our certificate of membership.

Club Secretaries will be supplied with renewal sheets for club lists on application.

Consuls, Agents, Club Officers, etc., who desire renewal or application blanks should procure them of the secretary-Treasurers of their respective Divisions. See addresses in BULLETIN.

L. A. W. Uniform Cloth.

A contract has been made with the Burlington Mills for a cloth, steel gray in color, which will be used for the regulation League uniform. This cloth will be kept in stock by the Secretary, and will be supplied to League members only at $2.10 per yard, cash with order. The Regulation League button will be supplied by the Secretary at 5 cents for the large and 3 cents for the small size. The cloth is 54 inches wide.

ABBOT BASSETT, Secretary.

League Uniform.

The following form of agreement is submitted by the Uniform Committee for the use of those Divisions that may desire to enter into a contract with a Division Tailor for the making of the League Uniform. It is recommended that this form be employed in all cases:

AGREEMENT.

This agreement, made this.....day of....., A. D. 1891, by and between the.....Division of The League of American Wheelmen, an association of which.....is Chief Consul in said Division, having an office at....., in the county of....., and State of....., party of the first part, and.....of....., in the county of....., and State of....., party of the second part.

WITNESSETH, That Whereas, party of the first part, is desirous of having certain articles of uniform made for the members of the said Division, and the party of the second part has made certain bids and proposals for the privilege of making and selling such uniforms, the parties thereto have agreed as follows, in consideration of the mutual undertakings between the several parties hereto.

First—The party of the first part gives and grants to the party of the second part, the right and privilege to make and sell the uniform of The League of American Wheelmen to the members of said League, and of the said Division, upon the terms and conditions and under the specifications hereinafter stated.

Second—The party of the second part hereby agrees to make and sell said uniforms to the party of the first part, and to any member of said Division of said League of American Wheelmen upon the terms and conditions and under the specifications as follows:

1. The fabric of which the coat, knee breeches, vest and cap are to be made, as per specifications below, is a cloth made by the Burlington Woollen mills, and known as "L. A. W. Cloth, No. ...," width 54 inches, weight 14 to 15 ounces, and must be purchased through their agents, Messrs. Sawyer, Manning & Co., 86 Franklin street, New York, N. Y., and which will cost $2 per yard less 9 per cent. off for cash, the party of the first part hereby agreeing that said cloth shall be furnished at said price.

2. Coat—The coat shall consist of a single-breasted sacque, square front, to button up close to the chin, with six L. A. W. buttons; falling collar, fitting closely around the neck; no inside lining; a facing of the same goods back to the arms and over the shoulders, double-stitched edges, and welted seams; four outside patch pockets; two small buttons on each sleeve at the underseam.

3. Breeches—The knee breeches shall button at the bottom on the outside, with three small L. A. W. buttons; reinforced seat; two hip pockets and one watch pocket; French fly; five loops for belt of same cloth on the waistband; the Y notch at the back to adjust with lace eyelets.

4. Vest—The vest shall be single-breasted, six L. A. W. buttons, no collar, four outside pockets.

5. Cap—L. A. W. cloth, flat top, soft crown, silk lined, falling visor, L. A. W. buttons, black silk veleurs band, and silk cord, four ventilators in top.

6. Hose—Ribbed woolen, of color to match suit.

7. Shirt—Gray flannel, to button in front, one breast pocket.

8. Trimmings, sewings, &c.—All seams must be sewed with best quality, letter B pure dye sewing silk. The pockets of the breeches and the lining at the waistband, and for the inner lining and facing of the coat, must be of all-wool ladies' cloth of about eight ounces weight per yard, and of a quality as fine as that in the sample suit that is now deposited in the office of the Secretary of the League of American Wheelmen, No. 12 Pearl street, Boston, Massachusetts.

9. In the sample garment above referred to, any features not noted in this specification are to be considered as specified and as a part thereof.

Third—The party of the second part agrees to forward the entire uniform, or any part thereof, at the contract price, at his expense, to any member of the said Division of the L. A. W. that shall have ordered said uniform, within two weeks after the receipt of any order therefor, and to any place within the said Division accessible by mail or express.

Fourth—The party of the second part agrees to furnish to each member of the said Division of the League of American Wheelmen an illustrated price list of the uniforms and parts thereof.

Fifth—The party of the second part hereby agrees that they will not sell or supply said cloth, or said uniform, or any part thereof, to any person except members of the League of American Wheelmen, and certified to be such, and whose name shall appear on the list thereof to be furnished them by the party of the first part, and to be by them revised from time to time.

It is hereby mutually agreed that if said party of the second part shall fail to comply with the conditions of this article by selling said League Cloth, or any imitation thereof, or any uniform, or part of a uniform made from said cloth to any person not a member of the League of American Wheelmen, that that act shall of itself constitute a revocation of this agreement.

Sixth—Each member of the Uniform Committee of the League of American Wheelmen, or any other person designated for that purpose by the Executive Committee of the League of American Wheelmen, or the Chief Consul of the State of ..... shall have access at any time to the factory of the contractor for the purpose of inspecting the work, and if it shall be found that the specifications of this contract are not being carried out, then said contract may, at the option of the party of the first part, be cancelled, thirty days' written notice of the fact having been given.

It is also understood and mutually agreed that any work not done in accordance with the specifications herein may be rejected.

Seventh—The party of the second part agrees to manufacture said uniforms in a good and workmanlike manner, and in strict conformity to the specifications herein, and to supply the uniforms or any part thereof to all members of the Division of the League of American Wheelmen applying therefor at prices as follows:

For the Coat,
For the Breeches,
For the Shirt,
For the Cap,
For the Stockings,
For the Coat and Breeches,
For the Uniform entire,

Eighth—In the event of the failure of the party of the second part to comply with any of the conditions hereinbefore set forth, unless said failure shall be caused by the failure of the said makers of the cloth, or their agents, to furnish the said cloth as required, this contract may, at the option of the party of the first part, be terminated, on thirty days' notice thereof in writing having first been given.

Ninth—It is hereby agreed by the party of the second part that branch offices where members of the ..... Division of the League of American Wheelmen can be measured for a uniform and can receive and examine the uniform shall be established in the following towns in the said State of .....

Tenth—The terms of this contract and the privilege hereby granted shall be from the date hereof to the first day of.....189 , unless sooner terminated, as hereinbefore provided.

In witness whereof the parties hereto have set their hands and seals the day and year first above written.

500—Missouri—500.

To Consuls and Members:

Cast your eye on the list of applications published in this issue of the paper, and see what a little hustling can do. Four of the applications were secured through the untiring efforts of Representative W. P. Laing, and I would very much like to see all other officers emulate his example. We must reach the 500 mark this month, if possible. We now have 480 members, and need but 20 more to get there. This can easily be done, provided each member will do his duty in aiding in the work of recruiting.

Fraternally yours,
ROBT. HOLM, C. C.

P. S. Have you renewed to date? If not, do so quickly before the matter slips from your mind.

Ohio Division.

To the Members:

Brethren, I appeal to you again and beseech you to earnestly endeavor to gather all the wheelmen of your acquaintance into the League.

We did well in increasing our membership last year forty per cent., but we can and should do much better this year. Our membership can and should exceed two thousand. Are you convinced of this? Are you skeptical? Have you tried and failed and are therefore indifferent? If so, get down your Bibles, turn to the thirteenth chapter of Matthew and read the parable of the Sower. You will see that whilst some of the seed fell by the wayside, in stony places, and amongst thorns, and consequently brought forth nothing, that the rest fell in good ground and brought forth "an hundred fold." Read this and be encouraged; continue your efforts and you will certainly come across a fertile spot that will abundantly reward your labor. Fraternally,

M. O. HIGH,
Chief Consul.

Tennessee.

To the Officers and Members of the Tennessee Division, L. A. W., Greeting:

Through the resignation of Joseph R. Wilson, Jr., of Clarksville, Tenn., who has so ably filled the office of Chief Consul for nearly 3 years, that duty now for a short time devolves upon me. It may hardly be necessary to draw your attention to the fact it is now time to renew your membership which expires on May 1st. I would more especially urge the Local Consuls to see each individual member, and impress upon them the necessity of attending to that. As new riders appear in your District, acquaint them with the manifold advantages of a League membership. My own experience has always been, it did not require anything above a simple explanation of those advantages to get the application of every wheelman.

Our Division has shown a steady, though not as rapid a growth as the increase of wheeling in Tennessee would suggest. Organized some five years ago with a membership of less than thirty, twenty of whom resided in Memphis (that membership then embraced every wheelman in this city). This very promptly created an interest in other cities of the State, notably Nashville, Knoxville, Murfreesboro, Clarksville, and Chattanooga, until we close the League year in 1891, with about 140 members, the highest membership so far attained. This would be a grand satisfaction but for a fact well known to your humble servant, that a membership of more than double this number will still leave much desirable material on the outside.

In some few cities there was a rapid increase the past year, while a few others show a smaller membership the past year than the preceding year. But I have the very best reason to believe that such will not be the case this coming year; with energetic officers in those cities I look for grand results. It will always not alone be a duty but a pleasure to answer any communication from the members, giving me information, advice, and assistance, as they can. A little later on, I shall try to get all the data possible, both through Wheelmen and County Officials of all the improved Roads and Highways in the State. Our legislature, at the session just closed, passed a good Road Law, and it now behooves us as Wheelmen to see it put into practical use.

CHARLES J. SCHERER,
Chief Consul.

Rhode Island.

THE STATE ELECTIONS AND HIGHWAY REFORM.

The following is the result of the late State elections, in which this Division took an active part:

All four of the Committee of the Legislature who reported in favor of the Highway Bills and were renominated, were re-elected. Of the sixteen nominated members who voted in favor of the Bills, twelve were re-elected and four defeated. Of the eighteen re-nominated members who voted against the Bills, eight were defeated and ten re-elected. Of the five renominated members who spoke against the bills, Cook, Lonsdale and Walker were defeated, and Von Gottschalk and Wilson were re-elected. The net results as to those voting or reporting upon the Bills is, fourteen in favor and ten against them; as compared with eighteen against and fourteen in favor of them in the previous Legislature—a gain of eight for highway improvement. There is reason to believe that both branches of the new Legislature are in favor of the reform.

Chicago, April 10, 1891.

Maine Division---Last Call.

A few weeks ago we sent an item to this department full of "ginger" and requests for information. Not one response received to date, which shows how much Maine members read the Official Department of the BULLETIN. At the same time the good work goes on. Will try again.

Will members kindly write on a postal card, recommending L. A. W. hotel or hotels in their immediate vicinity, or where there should be one, naming League rate if proprietor will make such; otherwise regular rate. Printer is waiting for copy, so please hustle.

BATES TORREY,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Nebraska.

Mr. N. T. Fisk, having removed his residence from the State, his resignation has been accepted and C. B. Nicodemus, of Fremont, has been appointed Sec.-Treas. for the unexpired term.

The following members have been appointed Local Consuls for their several districts:

A. R. Edmiston,—Lincoln.
H. H. Rhodes,—Omaha.
A. L. Mojonier,—Dannebrag.
Sam J. Bell,—David City.

Fraternally,
A. H. PERRIGO,
Chief Consul.

Omaha, Neb., April 9th, 1891.

New York.

To the members of the New York State Division:

I have appointed Mr. A. B. Barkman, 241 Broadway New York City, Chairman of the New York State Division Racing Board, vice Mr. W. H. DeGraff resigned.

W. S. BULL, Chief Consul.

Wisconsin Division, L. A. W.

Members of this Division are well aware of the growth which we have experienced during the year just closed.

From a membership of only 69 in 1889, we have advanced to a total of 231 up to the present date. The causes for this increase in membership are easily found in the perfected organization of our Division, as well as in the zeal of the individual members. We are now about to start on a new record. Let us one and all try to beat our old pace and set the wheel going with such speed that we will reach the 500 mark before the season closes.

Remember that if each member succeeds in enlisting only one more recruit our number will be doubled. This is easy, and with a little effort can be done.

Renewal blanks and applications can be had at any time from the Secretary. Fraternally,

FRANK J. MORAWETZ, Sec.-Treas.

Milwaukee, April 5, 1891.

New League Clubs.

The following clubs have qualified as League clubs and filed the certificate required in the office of the Secretary:

316—Mystic Wheel Club, Malden and Everett, Mass. Miss Mabel E. Beers, Sec.

317—Algona Cyclers, Algona, Ia. A. B. Edmonds, Secretary.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to date, and published in accordance with Article III. of the Constitution, which is as follows:

"Any amateur wheelman, in good standing, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the indorsement of two League members in good standing, or of three reputable citizens of the United States or Canada, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an intiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at 10 A. M. on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

FAMOUS REFEREE SAFETY

Is to the front. What do you think of this Testimonial from the well-known crack rider of Harvard College?

CAMBRIDGE, April 13, 1891.

MR. W. J. NEWMAN:

Dear Sir—I never expected to desert my ordinary, but your Referee Safety has converted me. I have owned nearly a dozen wheels, but never one on which riding was half so pleasant as on my present one, the Referee Safety.

Yours,

KENNETH BROWN.

Now, I say as one of the oldest safety riders in the country, and one of the hardest long-distance riders, that the REFEREE is a wonderful machine. The Ladies' is simply a beauty.

"A New 56-inch NEW MAIL LIGHT ROADSTER, $70."

IMITATION or FLATTERY, WHICH?

We cannot refrain from expressing our satisfaction that the reform we started, two years since, to inaugurate, by building bicycles of honest material and drop forgings, instead of iron castings, has proved a success, and all American builders are now following our example.

PNEUMATICS.

Delivery same day as order.

We have ready for instant delivery, in lots of one to one hundred, the celebrated

"Irwell Pneumatic Safety,"

PRICE, $150.

We shall not import any more owing to our arrangements with Mr. Featherstone. If you want any of these SPEAK QUICK.

By-the-way, did you know that away up in the northwest part of Illinois, in a city most favorably located for manufacturing, called Freeport, an enterprising firm has located there, The Stover Bicycle Mfg. Co., and they are building a bicycle that we are proud to represent. They call their wheel

"THE PARAGON,"

And it is rightly named. We visited the factory before we decided to represent the wheel, and we found that from first to last the PARAGON is an honest wheel.

In Material,
In Workmanship,
In Excellence of Design,
In Originality,
In Ease of Running

We believe that

"THE PARAGON"

Represents more true American manhood than any wheel yet put on the market. An essential point to be remembered is

"We Guarantee Every One."

The Trade in our section of the country is requested to write for Agencies.

The balance of our line includes many desirable wheels, in fact it is admittedly the most complete line in the United States. Please note,

DRIVING-GEAR.

The driving-gear is so important a part of the bicycle, that it demands the serious attention of every maker and rider alike.

Your critical examination of the Columbia gear is invited. The arrangement for regulating the slack of the chain is remarkably simple and reliable. The chain itself is our "Elliott Self-Oiling," and solves the problem of how to keep a chain well lubricated and clean at the same time. Each link contains an absorbent carrying sufficient oil for at least 500 miles running. No matter whether you use your wheel much or little, the chain is always in perfect running order.

The cranks are of the famous Knous pattern, which have been used on thousands of "Columbias," and given universal satisfaction.

Regular Columbia ball pedals are used, fitted with "double-grip" rubbers. No other pattern holds the feet so securely. The appearance of the pedal is improved by the cap covering the outer bearing, and whose use is to prevent the entrance of dust and grit, especially when the pedal comes in contact with the ground.

Ride a Columbia and you will appreciate its driving-gear. You can depend upon it every time for ease and evenness in running.

A SUMMER VACATION AWHEEL IN THE HARZ MOUNTAINS.

BY WM. HEYNY, JR.

AND NOW we start out to explore the Bode Valley the gem of the Harz! Turning up the valley, the hills on each side grow taller, the green slopes give room to barren rocks and palisades, higher and higher they rise. Before we can realize it, the scenery has changed entirely. Grotesquely shapen rocks, a fitting subject for the artist's canvas, abound, sometimes hanging over the path, frightful to behold; we pass by, eyeing a huge clump suspiciously, which seems balancing upon its edge and ready to tumble-down on, us any minute. Above the Hubertusbad an enormous block, resembling a chopper, standing on its hilt, commands our admiration. Further up is the Bulowshohe with an observation point. On the other side the Homburg rocks rise like a wall to a tremendous height, cut out on the summit like toppling chimneys of quaint old houses, representing the shapes of all sorts of arms, as spears, daggers, hari-karis and Turkish swords, or arched, similar to ruined old church windows.

The further we advance the more of the wild beauty of the valley presents itself. Rocks of every imaginable shape and color all around us, now partly covered with foliage, now bare, rising abrubtly, like ancient battlements, or resembling ruined walls of gigantic castles, and human or rather superhuman heads and figures standing up there like giants awaiting the signal to fall upon and crush the intruding stranger! Ah, poor language! Poor pencil! Neither words nor sketches can depict the beauty of the grand Bode Valley!

From the bridge to the "Waldkater" inn I can name you some of the picturesque rocks. There are the "Moench" (monk), with its hood, "Bodethor" (gate), "Briefbote" (letter carrier), "Bergkanzel" (pulpit), "Baer" (bear), "Wolf," and further on the "Alte Christoph" (old C.) "Napoleon" and others.

Perhaps you would try your lungs, or practice for a climb in the Alps; there is the "Hexentreppe" (witches' stairs), a rough, natural stairway of 1100 steps, leading from the valley up the steep wall through a wild forest to the "Hexentanzplatz" (witches' dancing place). We bicyclists of course go up there by the road. From the "Tanzplatz" plateau, some 700 feet above the Bode, where witches were believed to perform their nightly fire dances, we have a grand view of the opposite "Rosstrappe" (horsestep), which, rising perpendicular, protrudes into the valley, a great bastion. Seated in front of the "Tranzplatz Hotel," we enjoy a bountiful supper. The panorama of the plain from Thale, at our feet, to the distant line of horizon, the houses of towns and villages, are dotted about like little herds of sheep—a beautiful spectacle. The sun is setting, and as the shades grow deeper and deeper, the curious groups and figures of rock on the opposite wall begin to take life. Look yonder! As though he had just emerged from some hidden ravine, Giant Bodo, standing there, with folded arms, strongly relieved by the black-green background of the foliage. The enormous granite rocks were there before, but we did not notice them particularly; it is the light falling on them at a certain angle, and producing the shadows, which make this mystification perfect.

The "Tranzplatz Hotel" is a good place to stop. If the weather is fine, we shall witness a queer performance in the morning. Getting up at dawn, and out on to the plateau, we beheld an entirely new scene. White fog, filling the valleys below, envelopes everything but the highest peaks, and hides it from view. A moving, ever changing mass of vapor, getting more and more transparent as it lightens, and assuming all sorts of shape; spirits, with white sheets flying loose about them, a real ghost-dance. Now we may well understand how they came to give this place such a strange name. Through the mist one after the other, the mountains show their bald heads. Quicker the spirits hustle and dip, and, joining hands, try a last merry go-round; but there the sun sends the first golden rays over the scene, and the witches hush down, through the valley, to seek their silent nooks and hiding-places in the crevices of the mountains. And now look around. Everything has a bright, fresh aspect; the melancholy appearance is gone. The moist mountain-tops are glowing in reddish and golden tints; the air is so clear, that one might fancy to be able to see a person walking up the distant Brocken, with its hotel and tower sharply outlined against the cloudless sky. Thanks, father Brocken, it is not very often we are permitted to see thee, without thy nightcap of clouds!

WHEEL RACE AT DES MOINES.

A TEN-MILE road race will be run at Des Moines, Iowa, Saturday, May 16th, under the management of the Hodgson Cycle Exchange of that place. The course will be from East Third and Grand avenue, west to the corporation limits on Grand avenue, a distance of two and a half miles, to be run four times. Wheels of all kinds, solid, cushion, and pneumatic tires admitted—a free for all; and the race is open to all amateur wheelmen in the State of Iowa. Entry fee $1.00. All contemplating entering this race should forward entry fee to the Hodgson Cycle Exchange, 821 Walnut street, Des Moines, Iowa.

Valuable prizes, which will be announced later, will be offered by a number of manufacturers and by the Hodgson Cycle Exchange. All entry fees to be turned over to the Des Moines Cycling Club.

A PROTEST AGAINST THE PRESENT USE OF DECORATION DAY.

EDITOR BICYCLING WORLD: I desire to enter my protest against the practice, which seems to be growing, of making Memorial day a time for road races by wheelmen. It seems to me that Memorial Day, of all days, is not the time for anything of this kind. It was set apart as its name signifies, in memory of those who died in the civil war, and wheelmen, as patriotic young Americans, should not be guilty of holding such meetings as the Irvington-Milburn and Pullman road races or any other public affairs on this day, but rather should unite with the G. A. R. and other patriotic societies in paying reverence to the memory of the dead heroes who sacrificed their lives that our country might live.

Let us do away with it, and find some other occasion for our races and good times.

THE 48-HOUR RECORD---A CHALLENGE.

EDITOR BICYCLING WORLD: I wish you to correct the mistake made in announcing and advertising C. Ashinger's Detroit scene as record for 48-hour race. I hold the world's record 740 miles, 240 yards, Nov. 8 to 13th, Minneapolis, which was made when I defeated the field of seven starters. The Clipper Annual of '86-87 published the record, and I should have thought that private record book of yours had it. [It was an oversight.—ED.] Prince of all men knows it, and offered $100 extra in Omaha to the one who could beat it. Wilbur F. Knapp, who is now running the bicycle school in Frisco, and myself, are ready to compete against any two men in America in any race from 3 to 8 hours a day. Knapp also from 1-4 mile to 100. I'm out of the business, but don't like the "young ones" taking honors to themselves unearned and unwarranted. I remain yours,

W. J. ("Senator") MORGAN.

LEGAL.

AN injunction was granted April 8, by Judge John M. Hall, against the Pope Mfg. Co., on complaint of the Overman Wheel Co. and A. H. Overman, restraining the said Pope Mfg. Co. from selling to the Hartford Cycle Co. or other parties during the term of United States Hughes' patent No. 227,632 and adjustable ball bearings separate from machines, other than ball bearings contained in pedals, to said Hartford Cycle Co. and to any other persons except such as hold the licenses of both parties to contract of June 10, 1886. A bond of $2000 was required and furnished, and an attachment of $10,000 was placed on the Hartford real estate of the Pope Mfg. Co.

The contract referred to is that one made between the Overman Wheel Co. and Pope Mfg. Co. at Springfield in 1886, and known among the old timers as the "Treaty of Springfield." It will be noticed that this is not an injunction in a patent suit, but based on claimed violation of the aforesaid "Treaty." In reply to inquiry made to the Pope Mfg. Co. we learned that the injunction was a surprise to them as they had not received notice of the proposed action. A card from the Hartford Cycle Co. appears also in this issue on this same question. Both the Pope Mfg. Co. and Hartford Cycle Co. announce that they will not stop manufacturing or sale of wheels on account of this injunction, and the Pope Mfg. Co. express confidence in being able to show when the hearing comes that the "Treaty" of 1886, has in no wise been violated.

A CARD.

TO THE TRADE—The Overman Wheel Co., upon a one-sided statement presented by it to a Judge of the Superior Court of the State of Connecticut, recently obtained an injunction against the Pope Mfg. Co., restraining it from selling to us adjustable ball bearings separate from machines. This, is, however, merely a temporary injunction granted by the Court without receiving any affidavits or evidence on behalf of the Pope Mfg. Co., and without hearing any one on behalf of the Pope Mfg. Co., or having any knowledge of the facts which can be stated in opposition to the injunction. As it may be some time before a motion can be heard for the dissolution of this injunction, we think it proper to inform you that this injunction will in no manner inconvenience us, or prevent our manufacturing, selling, and delivering any of our well known styles of bicycles, because we are in no way dependent upon the Pope Mfg. Co. for the adjustable ball bearings, or any other parts of the machines. We have a well equipped factory for the manufacturing of our machines, and can make the adjustable ball bearings as perfectly as they can be made by either the Overman Wheel Co. or the Pope Mfg. Co. We are manufacturing them and will continue to do so without the slightest delay or inconvenience, and are prepared to furnish our customers and agents with our machines, notwithstanding the temporary injunction above mentioned.

THE HARTFORD CYCLE CO.,
Hartford, Conn., April 14, 1891. Geo. Pope, President.

A FEW TERSE SUGGESTIONS ON RACING MATTERS.

MR. W. J. CORCORAN is and has been well in touch with racing men; and, wishing to gather from him his ideas as to modifications of the present rules and formation of new ones, he, in answer to our queries, made the following suggestions:—

"First, that the races known as District and National Championships be reduced to three one-mile events, namely: One-mile, ordinary; one-mile, safety, and one-mile tandem, safety.

"Second, that the prizes for the National Championships be sterling silver cups valued at one hundred dollars ($100) each for ordinary and safety, and $50.00 each for tandem race.

"Third, that special gold medals be offered the men leading at the quarter, half, and three-quarter pole.

"Fourth, that races be established separately for ordinary and safety solid tires, and for ordinary and safety pneumatics.

"Fifth, the giving of bicycles as prizes at race meets be abolished.

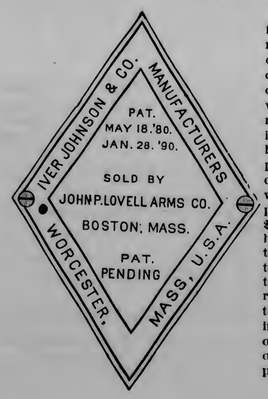
"Sixth, that lap races of all kinds be abolished."

PROPOSED INTER-CLUB ROAD RACING ASSOCIATION.

THE clubs in the vicinity of Boston have about decided to form an Inter-club Road Racing Association, open to club members within a radius of about twenty miles from the State Capitol. The matter is in embryo as yet, but will no doubt take form within a few weeks.

TRADE NOTES.

ROUSE, HAZARD & CO., Peoria, Ill. have moved into larger and more commodious quarters. They gave a grand opening on April 11th, which proved a great success. Their immense sales-floors, which are the finest in the West, were elegantly decorated with flowers, plants, lanterns, electric lights, flags, etc., while a fine orchestra rendered choice selections of music throughout the day and evening. It is remarkable how the business of this firm has grown in the past few years, which has been brought about by strict attention to business and by giving their customers full value for their money.



THE CUSHION KOH-I-NOOR.

Manufactured by the Premier Cycle Company.

WE show above one of the most popular of this Company's line of high grade safeties. It supplants the Premier Full Roadster of last season; has had a private test by the Company on American roads for over a year, and has been found superior to that machine in every particular. It has 30x28 inch wheels, open head Diamond frame of cold drawn seamless tubing, 1 1-4 cushion tires, guaranteed for one year's service, ball bearing socket steering head, and is supplied with either Lamplugh and Brown, Fish or Garford Saddles. It is fitted with mud guards to both wheels and guard over chain, and with saddle and pedals complete ready for the road, weighs but 46 pounds. The Premier Cycle Company claim that it is the lightest Full Roadster Safety on the market, and its handsome lines and exquisite finish certainly entitle it to the earnest consideration of those of our heavy weight or hard road riders who desire a first class mount. The price is $145.00.

NOTICE.

EDITOR BICYCLING WORLD: Please find enclosed a description of the name plate which we are placing on all our Diamond Safety Bicycles. We mail you the electrotype of same to-day, and wish you would please run it in your trade notes or some place in the reading notices in your paper. We have so many complaints from parties in different parts of the country, saying that our wheels were sold at more than $85. Some parties have paid even as high as $100, $115, and $125. This is done by the different dealers putting on their own name plate and selling the machines at whatever price they choose. Of course this is not right, and we take this means so that the public will not be deceived in future. We think this will be of great importance to the readers of your paper and to the general public. Yours very truly,

JOHN P. LOVELL ARMS CO.

STALL is nothing unless progressive. His latest is the opening of a cycle school in combination with Baron Nils Posse at the latter's ladies' gymnasium in the Harcourt building on Irvington street, opposite the South Army M. V. M. The riding school will be devoted exclusively to the use of ladies. The floor of the school contains 5200 square feet of space, and a competent corps of teachers is employed. The machines to be used in this school are the celebrated Elliott Hickory. Speaking of Hickory we are told that the new company that has taken charge of the factory at Newton with friend Elliott at the head, was formed for the pursose of giving a fresh man each day in the week to the tender mercies of the indefatigable Stall, who makes a pilgrimage to the factory each morning after breakfast for the purpose of accelerating the action of the remainder by immolating one unfortunate per day for the sins of the rest in keeping behind on Stall's orders for Hickories. The "Veteran" is making the wood wheel fly in a way that proves to the dear public that "Hickory is the best of wood." Stall reports his new branch house on Columbus avenue as a great success. It will be seen by our advertising pages that Stall has gotten a corner on Spoke Grips with the celebrated Chicago, and we note also that he has gotten a big "grip" on the Tool Bag market, and is selling some of our largest dealers and manufacturers.

MERWIN, HULBERT & Co. of New York have issued their catalogue for 1891. It is a book of 51 pages, and is covered in parchment paper and letters of scarlet. This firm handle the Swift Safeties, a full line of which they always keep on hand. The other machines they handle are the Ramblers. In the medium grade and price wheels they show the "Outing No. 1," $60 and $65, "Outing No. 2," $75 and $87.50; "Outing No. 3," $85 and $100; "Lightning," $35; "Rapid," $45; "Manhattan," $50; "Grayhound," $60; "Lone Star," $45. All the foregoing are ball bearing machines; the "Dandy," $25; "King of the Road," $35, and Pathfinder, $45, cone bearing wheels. The rest of the catalogue is devoted to sundries of whatever kind the cyclist may desire or imagine. They keep everything a cyclist can possibly want in the way of tools, parts, lamps, clothing, caps, etc., etc.

Aluminum Age is the name of a new monthly periodical of eight pages started at Newport, Ky. The first number, issued for February this year, and subsequent numbers, contain much interesting matter concerning the strange coming metal, which has all the desirable qualities of the now costly metals while it is destined to be cheaper than even iron. The publication will interest any one in any of the mechanical and allied callings. Price only 50 cents a year.

THE Standard Cycle Co. of Buffalo, N. Y., have now an agency on William street, and also on Broadway, New York.

THE New Mail Factory is now running a night force to keep up with orders. Wm. Read & Sons report a larger demand for these favorite wheels than ever before, which speaks for itself as to the worth of these Safeties. They are deluged with orders for the new $100 grade, while the $135 quality also is in great demanded

AN UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIAL.

This is only our third week in business, but we are learning, and hope in time to acquire instinct enough to "come in when it rains," and as soon as it "clears off" to get out again and sell wheels.

The following letter has just been received:

ELLIOTT HICKORY CYCLE CO.,

Newton, Mass.:

Dear Sirs—I have used almost constantly for over three years one of the Hickory Safeties made by your predecessor. During that time, and previously, I have ridden nearly, if not all of the different styles of safety machines, and I am most decidedly of the opinion that the Hickory has points ahead of them all. First it is easiest to learn to ride, this being true, and no one who knows has ever doubted it; then it follows without argument that it must be easiest to ride after one has learned. It has an elastic feeling which comes from the nature of the material and the absence of working joints. I will not attempt to go into all its details, but only say that for freedom from repairs, steady steering, easy going, absence of vibration, and general all round comfort, the Hickory is good enough for me. Yours, STERLING ELLIOTT.

P. S. You are at liberty to make any use of this letter that you may see fit.

It may be because we are new, but lately we have had a regular "grist" of letters from people who take something more than a passing interest in us. The tourist (with a small t.) who is about to ride somewhere, and who expects the farmers along his route to stop their cattle long enough to lean over the fence and ask him what kind of a "buysickle" he uses; then he pictures to us with varying degrees of ability the great boon it would be to us to have him announce that it was a "Hickory." The embryotic tourist, the fresh man, as it were, will sometimes offer to buy a machine, the special discount, which he hopes to receive, being considered sufficient as our tribute to his genius. When he begins to get ready for his second year's touring he wants us to present him with a machine; and when he gets to be a sunburned veteran he wants us to pay him something besides furnishing the machine.

Some of the more hardened ones fix up a stock letter, make "Hectograph" copies, and fill in at the top the name of each maker to whom they send it. We can stand this fairly well until they get to writing our name with a different shade of ink from that used in the balance of the letter.

One man tells us that another maker has offered to give him a machine if he will ride it, but he "prefers a Hickory," this was well calculated to soften our hearts until we looked at it with a glass and found that the word "Hickory" was written in, and the bal. was "Hectograph."

Another wanted (at least he said so), to ride down a certain dangerous place, and then advertise that it was done on a Hickory. We investigated this case seriously, thinking that at last we had found a scheme to which we would willingly contribute a machine for the general good, but while the place was dangerous, it wasn't dangerous enough. We knew that the machine would come out all right and feared the man might, so we refused.

The professional Tourist seems to have marked us for "his'n." He evidently don't know that we got "onto" him while we worked where we did before we came to the Anticipating a great demand for this tire, as it is the only practicable and successful Pneumatic Tire made, we warned the trade against infringement, and, at the same time, freely offered to the trade this tire at a reasonable and uniform price.

We are informed that some persons are still offering in the market, cycles provided with Pneumatic Tires, identically, or substantially the same as the Dunlop Tire, but without any authority from us. Being on the Axle it cannot tear or injure the Rubber Tire. Does not spatter mud on the Driving Chain, which is always a care to keep clean, nor collect mud, as when the Brake Spoon is near the Rubber Tire. It is a brake of GRADUAL PRESSURE and is VERY POWERFUL. Specially advantageous when Cushion or Pneumatic Tires are used.

The editor of the C. T. C. Gazette sums up a lengthy article with the following details of an ideal mount: "Safety, with a Diamond Frame Ball-steering; Straight Front Forks; Band Brake on rear wheel, and Tangent Spokes."

From the Scottish Cyclist: "We still hold out for the Band Brake, applied to the Driving Wheel. A Band Brake fitted to Driving Wheel is theoretically correct, places the strain where the power emanates, and, so far as the present mechanics of cycle building stand, must be accepted as the ideal brake."

From Cyclist: "The introduction of Pneumatic and Cushion Tires will call for a modification of Brakes on Safeties. For all purposes we give preference to a REAR WHEEL BAND BRAKE. The rear wheel is unquestionably the place for the Brake, and we think no one will take issue with us that a Band Brake properly fitted is better than Brake acting directly upon the Tire. Such a Brake is more powerful, cleanly and less tiresome."

THE NEW MAIL ALONE HAS THESE FEATURES.

Brake cannot collect or spatter mud on chain as does a spoon brake on rear wheel. Our Cushion Tires are warranted, and the most practical and best cushion tires made. Handsomest and best High Grade Safety

EDITORS:

C. W. FOURDRINIER. J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 24 APRIL, 1891.

WE congratulate "the Happy Sixteen." Action on the suspensions was a long while "suspended," but "all's well that ends well."

NOTWITHSTANDING we issue a supplement this week the official news so crowds us with its 5 1-4 pages that we have been compelled to leave out several interesting articles this issue.

WE print in the Official Department the full text of the alliance with the A. A. U., and one of the chief beauties is its simplicity and directness. As to its terms we think it will be hard to find any fault with it. It gives the League absolute control of all the cycle racing, the participants of which must be governed by the L. A. W. rules whether or not the races are held directly under League management. In cases of charges against an A. A. U. member, the member shall be tried by a committee of three, one L. A. W. and one A. A. U., who shall be named by the two bodies, and the third member to be chosen by these two appointees. The alliance also gives the L. A. W. the right to one representative on the Board of Governors of the A. A. U.

THE suspensions have been raised by the L. A. W., as will be seen by referring to the Official Department, and all but one of the men will be happy. That one has new charges brought against him for selling his prizes, and his name also appears in the Official Column. So at last we draw to the end of a very interesting bit of history in the racing annals of this country, and let us hope that the new era entered upon will prove one of peace and prosperity.

IN last week's issue we printed an article from a clergyman, which is worthy of special notice inasmuch as it touches on the question of Sunday riding, and treats of it in such a quiet, reasonable and Christian-like spirit that its very moderation should appeal to wheelmen and influence them for the better in being at least considerate for the feelings of those who believe in keeping the Sabbath in a way consistant with their conscientious belief.

IT will be observed that the reverend gentleman does not enter into a wordy tirade against wheelmen for using the day for out-door recreation, but he mildly "deprecates the noisy starting of club runs just at church time," and suggests in the same courteous manner that in case the wheelman does not care to go to church himself that he will, at least, "respect the feelings" of those who do.

THE cyclist who does not take to heart the suggestions of the Rev. Mr. Cunningham, and act more in consonance therewith, is a man who, by his selfish thoughtlessness, deserves to be reminded of his shortcomings in a manner more brusque and to the point. Consideration and respect for other people's feelings is one of the most decided "Hall marks" of the true man, and the persistent violation and outraging of another's feelings is a sure sign of the coarseness of the grain in the make-up of the offender.

IT is purely a matter of conscience with a man as to whether he sees any wrong in taking Sunday as a day for innocent recreation, but he must bear in mind that if his conscience acquits him of evil intent, that the acquittal will not be honored at "headquarters" if he fails to respect the rights of others, and by his boisterous or obnoxious conduct outrages the feelings of those whose duty, according to their judgment, is in attending services in the house of God.

TO the average New Englander the idea of holding races on Sunday is peculiarly distasteful, as is also the holding open of places of amusement, as is the custom in some of the Western and Southern cities, and yet how narrow it is for those who oppose Sunday racing to condemn those who really can see no harm in the indulgence thereof. Distasteful as this may be to us, we could not for a moment speak harshly of those who think differently. There can, however, be no possible harm in suggesting to wheelmen the thought as to whether it would not be a matter of good judgment and taste to discourage Sunday cycling contests of all kinds?

SOMEWHAT in line with the question of Sunday racing comes the custom of using Decoration Day as a date on which some of the most important road races of the year take place. The younger generation can scarcely be expected to appreciate the feelings of veterans who openly and secretly protest against the misuse of the day. To those who participated in or witnessed the trying horrors of those bloody years, the manner in which those who were not then born now "celebrate" the day is no doubt particularly distasteful.

IT is very difficult to make the man of twenty-five appreciate the sacrifices and horrors of those years of war. It needs personal experience to stamp these kind of matters on a man's mind, and no amount of reading or hearing experiences second hand can ever have the same effect as though they had seen and had the experience themselves. The veterans cannot be blamed for feeling hurt that Decoration Day should be used as a gala day. It grates on them, and seems a poor return to the memory of those who have died, and a lack of respect to those men who fought but who still live to tell the tale.

THE Easter manœuvres of the British Volunteer force were made particularly interesting this year by a still more satisfactory trial of the safety for scouting purposes and duty requiring quick and silent movements. The Cyclists' Corps is now a recognized feature in the English Volunteer army, and while the first experiments made some three years ago did not come quite up to the expectations of the projectors, subsequent trials and past experience have placed these lightly clad and armed, and swiftly moving cyclists in a position as to be considered indispensable for certain military duty. The work done by these men during the late Easter manœuvres would have used up any horse; and considering the fact that the work was done in spite of cold, snowy, and rainy weather, the results attained were more than satisfactory.

THE Cyclists' Corps did not always stick to the highways, but made short cuts across country, and in these cases the wheels had to be pushed over fields and lifted over hedges and fences. Notwithstanding the almost appalling difficulties encountered by these stout-limbed soldier cyclists, the service rendered was most efficient.

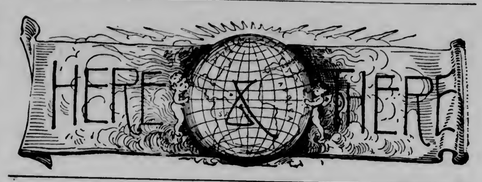
THE great advantage the cyclists had over a like number of horsemen was the silent manner in which they could make rapid movements. Not a sound announces their advance or retreat. It would be impossible for a cavalryman to ride at full speed without the beat of his horse's hoofs disclosing the fact of his approach, while a hundred cyclists could be moved nearly as rapidly, and with an almost absolute absence of noise. What the result in actual warfare would be is, of course, a problem; but in sham battles the Cycling Corps is a success.

SOME time ago we had occasion to call attention to certain dishonest practices of defacing the numbers of bicycles, so that identification of same was impossible. We now have our attention called to the dishonesty of certain dealers who have taken the name plate off a certain make of wheel and put in place thereof another name, and then selling them at prices different from the proper listed price of the machine itself. We call attention to the notice of the John P. Lovell Arms Company, which appears in another column, in regard to this matter.

SOMEBODY has started a scare story about a certain terrible insect "imported from Africa," which plays havoc with pneumatic tires, chews them up and otherwise demolishes the tire. "Compressed air" seems to be the favorite food of this wonderful little creature, and now that it is becoming generally known among these insects in Africa that the pneumatic tire is in use in this country and England, we fear that unless steps are taken by the Government to put a "prohibitive tariff" on the "importations" of the insect, or a restriction like unto which controls the immigration of the Chinese to this country, we shall be overrun by these compressed air devouring oviparous animals. In the mean time we hear that the demand for mosquito netting is universal among the owners of pneumatic wheels.

THE Bicycling News of England gloats over the fact that our combination of the cycling and social elements in clubs on this side of the water, so far as Boston is concerned, has proven a failure. Nothing gratifies our good-natured, sweet-tempered English contemporary more than to record the failure of anything American. It delights to say "I told you so," and when disaster overtakes any "Yankee project" the fact is heralded forth with ill-disguised satisfaction.

"BOYS?"



EDITOR BICYCLING WORLD: It is in the morning of life when the future is bright with the effulgence of hope that humanity appears to the best advantage. Then all are on an equality. Then generosity, frankness, sympathy, enthusiasm and chivalry have not yet been blunted and dimmed by the distrust and selfishness due to the subsequent bitter struggle for existence. The affections are warm, the friendships genuine and the spirits vivacious. It is to this artless period that the poet referred when he penned the lines of that once popular song: "I would I were a boy again." It is to that feeling of equality to which the soldier appeals on leading his command into the fray when he calls out: "Come on, boys!" It is to that period of trusting faith in our associates that is looked back to with regret by those whose experience has taught them to doubt their fellow men. No, Mr. Editor, do not call us men just yet, for though the youth who has just discovered the down on his upper lip, has just tried his first cigar, or has just begun to worship at the shrine of Bacchus, may delight in the appellation man; there are others who, having lived to see the hollowness, artificiality and insincerity of mankind, rather like to be called "boys."

"STAR."

THE PROPER "THROW" FOR LADIES CYCLES.

EDITOR BICYCLING WORLD: I quite agree with most of the remarks of the Philadelphia lady in your issue of the tenth except as to machines and cranks. Since it requires a given amount of force to propel a bicycle up a given hill or on a level, it makes no difference whether a man or a woman does the work. Her recommendation of the very shortest cranks is a tremendous mechanical mistake, for their use makes hard work and would surely result in the rider being disgusted because she would either have to walk the hills or else unduly fatigue herself to climb them. The crank should have a throw of six to six and a half inches, and the reach should be such that when the pedal is at the lowest point the foot should be parallel to the ground, while the knee was straight. This gives the rider power to claw the pedal over the dead centre by extending the toe and drawing it backwards. While the pedal is rising the heel should be falling, so that when the pedal is at its highest point the toe should be higher than the heel. This reduces to a minimum the rising of the knee with the pedal. This ankle motion is the secret of hill climbing (in my opinion), but it is fatiguing at first, for the work is thrown largely on the muscles of the calves, and they always are the last to develop in riding unless by special practice in the manner idicated above. With strong calf muscles the rider is able to alternate their use with those of the thigh, and thus obtain a rest while continuously ascending. Very truly yours. HAROLD R. LEWIS.

PRACTICALLY the first run of the season for St. Louis wheelmen was taken on April 5, when both clubs as well as the unattached riders turned out to participate in the St. Louis county tour. With a single exception the crowd that assembled at Ballwin on that occasion was the largest on record.

THE long talked of bicycle track at Eastern Park, Brooklyn, is at last decided upon. It will be built of the best material to be obtained, and endeavors will be made to have it the finest in the country. The Kings County Wheelmen, who have been instrumental in pushing this project through, will hold their annual meeting on the new track on June 27.

THE Haverhill (Mass.) Cycling Club, on account of increasing membership, are agitating the subject of new quarters for the organization.

THE tournament of the Burlington (N. J.) Wheelmen on April 15, was a great success, all the events being hotly contested.

ASPHALT paving in Detroit has received a hard blow. Last fall the Warren-Scharf Co. and a local firm, Robinson & Co., each had one-half of Jefferson avenue to pave. It goes without saying that the Warren-Scharf Co. did an excellent piece of work, but Robinson made an awful botch of his job. It is now full of holes and the greater part will have to be entirely relaid. Despite the fact that the first-named company did good work, enemies of asphalt pavement are using Robinson's job as an argument against this class of work, and with some effect. The Detroit Free Press, which formerly was in favor of this pavement, is now condemning it.

NEW YORK'S monster athletic clubs, the N. Y. A. C. and the M. A. C., will vie with each other this season, and the old-time rivalry which has existed between them will be more vigorously renewed than ever. At a recent meeting of the Board of Officers of the N. Y. A. C. it was voted to spend $25,000 on its athletes, and the advancement of the sport. Their team consists of Murphy Brothers, Cornell, L. L. Clarke, Van Wagoner and Zimmerman. (?) The M. A. C. have just added W. S. Campbell to their talent, and their team is composed of Anthony, Berlo (?) and Campbell.

THE Norumbega Wheel Club of Waltham, Mass., wheeled to Lexington via Arlington, April 19th, to see the old revolutionary relics that still remain, and enjoy one of the "Russell" dinners. The town was decorated with flags and bunting in commemoration of the Battle of Lexington, April 19, 1775.

THE Narragansett (R. I.) Wheelmen gave a dance at the Hotel Narragansett last Thursday evening.

SAYS Judge: "The Race Committee of the Detroit Wheelmen are working earnestly and intelligently, and the outcome may surprise some people. I have been admitted to several sessions; and while I cannot make known all their plans, I can say that the "race question" is being solved, and it is now a settled fact that the races in Detroit next July will be equal to any ever run in this country. We have some good men on the committee, and they should be let alone and given a chance to show what they can do."

Two members of the Bergen County (N. J.) Wheelmen recently took a short trip to Yonkers, and while en route were suddenly passed by four members of the New York Athletic Club in racing costume. The Bergen County men were not to be left so easily and started to overtake them, which was done after a brisk race. If the Palisade Wheelmen are to have a team race with Bergen County Wheelmen, they will have to put forward a very good team, or they will be beaten.

AND we call ourselves civilized! Hear this from a Cleveland paper: "A frame and iron oil still house on Kinsman street caught fire through a leaking pipe Sunday afternoon. Engine companies 9 and 16 responded to the alarm, turned in by the watchman, but neither company got their engines as far as the still house, both being stuck in a mud hole on Herald street."

THE "Veteran" Pitman is "doing" the West. He will visit Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit, Toledo, and Cleveland. While in Columbus, Ohio, he met ex-President Miller of the L. A. W., and he had a "fine time."

BOSTON is no longer without one live club at least. A new club called the Boston Rovers has blossomed into existence, and a very vigorous existence it seems to be, too. Mr. W. B. Handy is the Secretary, but the above gentleman in sending us the item fails to send in his address.

OUR St. Louis correspondent writes: "On the q. t. I am advised that a large number of Chicago wheelmen are much incensed over the action of a publication issued in that city, which is trying to kill the Detroit meet. For brazen audacity it stands unrivalled, and every wheelman in Detroit can rest assured that it will in no way affect the attendance from either this city or Chicago.

ROUTE wanted: "Will some one kindly let me know the best route from Portland, Me., to Boston, Mass., with the mileage, and oblige John H. Andrew, 490 Broadway, New York City."

THE Sporting Life has usually a well informed corps of cycling correspondents, therefore the reference made to Mr. Kennedy-Child in the last issue of our Philadelphia contemporary is the more noticeable, and suggests that "Aranza" is either poorly informed, and whose ignorance of trade matters exposes him to the jibes of others, or he is not particularly truthful.

"COME now, Capt. Abel," protests our Detroit correspondent, "commence talking up that road race to Grasse Pointe. All our fresh young fellows are itching to get at each other."

WILL some one who knows, inform Mr. H. A. Wright of Springfield, Mass., the kind of roads that are between Hartford and Newport via New Haven?

THE Englewood Cycling Club of Chicago, Ill., gave a highly successful minstrel entertainment on the evening of April 14.

A "TEMPEST in a Teapot" has been raised in Poughkeepsie, N. Y. President Browne of the Poughkeepsie Club wore evening dress at the ladies' reception given by that club. A hullabaloo was raised by those who thought that was wrong. Pres. Browne sends in his resignation. It was not accepted. Mr. Browne sends in the ultimatum, "accept my resignation, or post on the bulletin board the statement that I was right in wearing a dress suit."

THE New Jersey Division has made a proper move in the right direction, and by so doing probably scores to the Division nearly a dozen of its best League Clubs. They decided at a special meeting of the Board of Officers held at Elizabeth the 15th inst. to refund to all League Clubs one third of all renewal fees paid. The full amount to be paid to National body, and after being reported to Secretary-Treasurer of Division one-third of the amount will be returned. Previously they had decided to make a reduction of fifty per cent. of the initiation fee to all clubs of twenty or more members that would become League clubs, or to any League club that gains twenty new members the same reduction will apply.

THE prospect of a big meet at Louisville June 26 and 27 has given an impetus to wheeling in Kentucky. During the past three weeks clubs have been formed at Owensboro, Ludlow, Frankfort, Ashland, and Georgetown, and steps are on foot to form one at Danville, where nearly all of the riders are mutes, connected with the Deaf and Dumb Institute at that place. A club has also been formed at Jeffersonville, Ind., just across from Louisville, Herman Rave, one of the oldest riders in the West, a friend of Karl Kron, being the organizer.

C. C. BENDER and W. B. Craver of Spencer, Ia., passed through St. Louis last Wednesday on their to Houston, Tex. They will go to New Orleans by boat, and will tour home from Houston on their wheels. We shall hope to hear from the gentlemen details of their trip.

WHEN they go riding in Texas and become tired, they catch hold of cows' tails and are dragged along at the rate of about 15 miles an hour. Game is so plentiful and confiding in the Lone Star State that riders can easily kill same with a monkey wrench! If this all be true we wish we lived in Texas, where cows and game are so accommodating.

A LADY and escort were riding near Norristown, Pa., when they were attacked by a dog. The lady drew a revolver and made the farmer call the dog off. Then the farmer came out and threatened to lick the escort. Again the revolver appeared, and the farmer thought better of his determination.

IT is probable that the wheelmen's racing circuit will open this season with the State meet of the New York Division of the League of American Wheelmen, which will be held at Rochester on August 20 and 21. From there it is proposed to hold tournaments at Syracuse, Philadelphia, New York, Providence, Hartford and Peoria. The dates of the different meets will be arranged so as to make a circuit of continuous racing, with only two or three days' interval between each meeting.

THE wheelmen of Waltham, Mass., and vicinity are endeavoring to make arrangements for a tournament to be held on Decoration Day.

THE Brooklyn, N. Y., Ramblers held their first moonlight run of the season on the 17th inst., about 20 members participating.

ST. LOUIS wheelmen certainly cannot complain of a rarity of fixtures for the coming season, and the latest thing added is an illuminated parade to take place on the evening of Saturday, May 23, and it will be a fitting finale to the great Forest Park road race, which will also be held on that day. Local dealers have magnanimously decided to bear the entire expenses of lanterns, fixtures and music for the parade.

W. F. AND C. M. MURPHY, who now hold the 4 and 5 mile tandem record, will start in the 1 mile tandem race and continue riding 3 miles, to break the record for that distance now held by Iven and Gassler, at the meet of the K. C. W. at Eastern Park, Brooklyn, June 27.

The parts were all taken by members of the club, and so well taken were they that people were led to believe that a party of professionals had been rung in on them. An offer has been made to the club to appear in Bloomington, which they will probably accept.

THE President and Captain of the Rhode Island Wheelmen of Providence, have been appointed a committee to confer with those having charge of the erection of the new railroad depot. Their mission is to get included in the plans of construction a 8x8 nail room for the storage of wheels in transit. THE Chicago Cycling Club cleared $257 on their raffle for a pneumatic tired safety bicycle. The Oak Park Cycling Club cleared $600 on their amateur dramatic entertainment, and the Englewood Cycling Club had one thousand people at their amateur minstrel show. From the above we judge the cycling clubs in Chicago are well supported by the members and the public at large.

Hutchins, who were first in billiards and pool respectively; and silver chalk holders to Whitten and Hopkins, who took second places. Hickey received a minature cue for a booby prize in billiards, and a red beet was awarded "the unfortunate" in pool. For first place in whist, Kingborn received a whist set, and Titus, who was second, obtained a case of cards. W. D. Barton, who made the lowest score, was made happy with a bottle of mucilage bearing the advice, "Stick to it and you will get there."

The funeral took place on Friday, under the auspices of the Independent Order of Foresters, (of which order he was the presiding officer, chief ranger), Native Sons of the Golden West and Oak Leaf Wheelmen. Each of the three organizations named were represented by committees. Deceased was a young man of many noble traits of character, and was universally beloved by all who knew him. THERE is no grander place in the world for scenery than in the Yosemite valley, and the roads are first-class. His Excellency is not adverse to good roads, but he didn't think the State should construct the road.

THE Recorder of New York is evidently not a good and reliable authority on cycling matters. It is now in a snarl because it printed some false reports as to the condition of the Manhattan Bicycle Club. The same paper printed some startling news relative to the affairs of this paper. All of which was cut out of whole cloth.

THE fifty mile (Buffalo-Corfu, N. Y.) road race in connection with the June tournament will be a handicap race, and will be made an annual feature. "IN (WENDE)HOC(K) SIGNO VINCIT."

UNDER date of April 13th, Mr. Charles Wendehack, Secretary of the Harlem Wheelmen, called a meeting of that club in accordance with the by-laws of that organization, to consider the question of the Harlem Wheelmen withdrawing from the L. A. W. as a club, and, after due consideration of the subject, and the logic of such arguments as follows, on Monday, April 21st., he succeeded in securing a majority of six and carried his motion. I append a few extracts from Mr. Wendehack's fervent appeal to his club mates:

COPY OF MOTION.

"There is a matter which I have been revolving in my mind for several weeks past, and the more I have thought of it, the more I have been determined to bring the question before you for your careful consideration. As you well know, this club holds a membership in the L. A. W. What benefit do we derive from this membership? None. Do they ever give us an official notice? Never, except such items as are sent to them from one of us, and even then the chances are nine out of ten that the matter finds a resting place in the scrap basket. The managers hire a man here in New York City to write for the bulletin weekly. What does he write? Does he ever mingle with other wheelmen, among other clubs, and thus post himself as to what is really going on? I have never known him to do so, nor have I heard of any one else who has known him to do so. What we want is news—there is plenty of it if this gentleman would only stir himself a bit—but no, he prefers to remain obscure, out of sight and reach, writing from sheer imagination, for I have it on very good authority that he often writes up trips, incidents, etc., in which he never participated or ever heard of, drawing purely on his imagination. It may seem to you that I am going pretty far in my statement on this point, but as I said before, I have this from a personal and intimate acquaintance of Hawkshaw." * * *

"Taking all these things and many others into consideration, I claim that as a club we derive no benefit from the L. A. W. in any way, shape or form, simply giving the Treasurer an unnecessary amount of work.

Therefore, I move that the Harlem Wheelmen resign from the League as a club to take effect at once, but at the same time I would urge you to keep up your membership individually, for as individuals the benefits of the League are many, and the good cause in which the League is to-day engaged in (that of road improvements) is one of which too much cannot be said. Aside from this you of course understand the protection the League gives you on the road, park privileges and many other kindred matters.

I have known quite a number of instances where the compulsion to join the League has been the means of our losing a possible member, probably not because of the $2 expense, but mainly because they see no advantage in it, but, open the door, let the fly walk into our parlor and we can then take care of him. A bird in the hand is worth a dozen in the bush. Once a member of the club you can pretty safely gamble on his joining the League.

I notice that most of the clubs in this vicinity have withdrawn from the League as a body, for they fail to see any sense in it, for just such reasons as I have previously mentioned. In conclusion I would say, do not mistake my meaning and my object in view."

I submit the reading of the foregoing to the intelligent League members upon its many merits so far as it attacks the L. A. W. and the BICYCLING WORLD AND L. A. W. BULLETIN, not as to the twenty-five per cent. of the communication devoted to an attack upon the writer of this column. I ask the League members who read this to allow me to raise my feeble voice in my own defence against the onslaught Mr. Wendehack has felt called upon to make upon the writer.

Understand, the gentleman with the poetic name has not rushed into this affair without due deliberation, as he informs us that it was only after "revolving it in his mind for several weeks past" that he concluded to burst upon his suffering club-mates as a meteoric logician, and consequently his statements must be considered as the digested products of "weeks" of mental "revolving," and as such are open to discussion by those attacked. To take the letter then in sections, and so admit or deny the products of Mr. Wendehack's intense mental struggles will be the fairest way for all concerned.

"What benefit do we (the H. W.) derive from membership?" asks Mr. Wendehack In reply, I beg to refer him to the following passage in his own letter: "The benefits of the League are many, and the good cause in which the League is to-day engaged in (that of road improvements) is one of which too much cannot be said. Aside from this you, of course, understand the protection the League gives you on the road, park privileges and many other kindred matters."

"Do they (the League) ever give us an official notice?"

Ah! there you have me, Mr. Wendehack. I plead guilty to being the one reader of this paper who does not, upon opening, turn first to the official notices to see if there are any there about your club. But tell me, will you, please, what "official notice" has the Harlem Wheelmen been entitled to and had denied them? Had you, my learned sage of Harlem, first read this paper before blaming the writer of this column for the failure of your "official notice," you would have seen by the heading of this column that it is not devoted to the compilation of New York news items in general, and "official notices" of your sheet in particular. It might also, Mr. Wendehack, have dawned upon you that the writer is not employed by the officials of the L. A. W., and that association is not responsible for his failure to please the critical tastes of Mr. Wendehack, the burden of that responsibility belonging properly to the Wheelman Company, and not to the L. A. W. Really, a few more weeks of "revolving" might have put you right in this matter.

"What does he write?"—English, my dear Mr. Wendehack; surely, you did not think it was German, did you?

"Does he mingle with other wheelmen?" Oh, yes, indeed I do, Mr. Wendehack, I do really; and my greatest regret now is, that in my many minglings I have never had the exquisite pleasure of meeting you, a mental treat I should have much appreciated, I assure you. I regret that I do not mingle "among other clubs," as you so beautifully put it. As a mingler in this respect I am afraid I am a failure; as a club I mingle always by my lonesome, as it were. It is true I am not as brave as you are, my dear Mr. Wendehack. I do not court the baneful glare of publicity; I do prefer to "remain obscure, out of sight, and reach," but how do you know this? Did you ever hunt for me, or try to see or reach me, or did your "good authority" inform you of this modesty on my part? Do not allow any one to accuse you, my dear Mr. Wendehack, of "going pretty far" in any "statements" you may ever see fit to make. Nature has provided against you ever doing any such thing, as your letter above clearly demonstrates, and I am sure that your dearest friend would never bring such a charge against you, since he, or no one else, could ever prove it.

"The BULLETIN is an official organ, and we are entitled to a place in it."

So you are, my most learned and astute revolver—at the courtesy of the Wheelman Company, though not otherwise, except in such a way as the L. A. W. Secretary is forced to give you in the columns set apart for his use, and which, I am sure, has never been denied you. Had you "revolved" these facts in your thinkbox for a couple of weeks longer you might have seen this fact; but really, I am afraid "several weeks" of revolving is not quite sufficient for you to get your brain in thorough working order, and I would advise you to make it years next time instead of "weeks."

Now my dear Mr. Wendehack we come to the real "milk in the cocoanut," not in yours understand me, my dear sir, but simply as a figure of speech to show what all these weeks of "revolving" on your part really means. "Let the fly walk into our parlor and we can take care of him." Perhaps he will not "walk" now you have shown him the web you have ready for his unwary feet, but then if he does, my dear Mr. Wendehack, I am sure that he will at once seek you to learn how he can "pretty safely gamble," as that is really an accomplishment very few possess, and as a rule those who do are not fond of boasting of it or of teaching it to other.

In conclusion, my dear Mr. Wendehack, accept my heartiest congratulations upon the wonderful product of your "several weeks" of mental "revolving," and allow me to assure you of my most profound consideration and admiration. "As one star differeth from another star in glory, so one person differs from another person in imbecility. "HAWKSHAW."

A WHEEL INTO THE INDIAN COUNTRY, NO. 4.

THE "ISSUE"—INDIAN GIRLS—THE AGENCY.

BY C. W NORTHROP.

But it is time for the "Issue" to begin. So on the lookout for all possible information we climb to a seat in a wagon, beside a bright looking half-breed boy, and await the coming event. How still it seems after the shouting and galloping of a minute before. Close by the gate are gathered nearly all the red men. They have thrown aside their cloth coverings now, and stand revealed perfect specimnes of manhood. Of slender build, but well developed, they resemble bronze statues, as leaning a little forward they sit motionless in the saddle, one hand holding lightly the bridle rein, the other grasping a Winchester rifle. Suddenly, with a crash, the double gates swing open, and out rush five terror-stricken cattle. For a moment they pause, as if appreciating the fact that here at least is one chance for life and liberty, and then with an ungainly but rapid stride, gallop madly away toward the mountains. As they start, several names are rapidly called by a chief standing near the opening, and away go five mounted Sioux in rapid chase. The scene changes, but slowly: the calm of a moment before is a murmur now, while the Indians close by move uneasily in their saddles. Again the gates open, more beeves are driven out, and others of the red men join in the hunt. The cowboys are evidently getting the cattle under subjection, for each lot is issued more rapidly than the one before. As they are driven out, group after group, at intervals of but a few minutes, the excitement rapidly gains on actors and spectators. No longer are the red men content to sit motionless at the gate awaiting their turn, but instead, are charging hither and thither, adding their shouts to the shrill yells of their brethren scattered over the prairie. Hark! how clear and sharp the crack of that rifle sounds—like the snap of a whip—beginning and ending in the same instant. How plain, too, the thud of the stricken cattle as a well directed shot brings them down. Some topple forward on their knees, roll over and struggle; others go down with a crash that seems to jar the very earth, and shows the bullet has reached a heart. How quickly the scene widens now with the increased excitement. In every direction over the plain are scattered the wild, long-horned cattle, fleeing before their hardly less wild pursuers. Now and then a wagon rolls away from the group across the road to the scene of a recent struggle, and soon the occupants are busy skinning and cutting up a still warm carcass.

Suddenly, there is a yell from the vicinity of the gate, then the keen report of a rifle close at hand, followed by a hoarse shout from many throats as the mounted Indians scatter to right and left, and then wheel away around the enclosure. What has happened, is the morning's sport to end with a tragedy? Little need to ask the question, for quicker almost than thought it is answered: A number of cattle just issued, made frantic by the tumult at the gate, have turned and circled half way round the corral, and now, with the red men in hot chase, are charging straight toward the wagons that hold the women and children. How recklessly the bullets fly, as the beeves are shot down one after the other. Twice we dodge, thinking we hear the "whirr" of a passing bullet, and then smile rather faintly, it must be confessed, at our own folly, for it is the unheard bullet that kills a man. "Do accidents ever happen?" we ask our companion. "Sometimes," is the laconic reply; and the shrinking look that accompanies the word seems to tell a story of other issues he has witnessed, where misdirected bullets have stricken down victims they were not intended for, and feasting has given place to mourning. "Do any of the cattle ever get away?" is our next question; but receiving no answer, we naturally follow the direction toward which our companion is intently looking. Ah! that was a splendid shot—a mile to the north a tiny puff of smoke is followed in a few seconds by the sharp crack of a rifle; but before the report reaches us a massive steer, who has made a gallant fight for liberty, gives one lurch forward and drops dead as suddenly as though stricken by lightning. "My father—good shot," exclaims the boy at our side, and the pride in his face brightens it more than we would have thought possible after its grave, almost stern expression during the morning. So we say "good-bye," and jump down from the wagon, while our companion drives away to help in the work of butchery, for butchery it really seems, now that the "Issue" is over and the excitement is dying away. Many of the cattle have been shot down close by the corral, and the sight of so much quivering flesh, together with the odor of blood that ladens the still air, fairly sickens us, as we start to return to the Agency. All the way back we race with a score or more of Indian boys, who ride their ponies so recklessly that we are forced to keep ahead for fear of a collision.

Within sight of Rosebud we pass two pretty looking Indian girls, who furnish the only exception in our experience to the rule, that all Indian women are homely. These girls are as handsome, however, as a clear skin, carmine tinted cheeks, bright eyes and smooth braided hair can make them. They are becomingly clad in handsome blankets with brightly shaded borders. No head coverings are worn, but their feet are encased in neat moccasins worked with many colored beads. The Sioux are not at all expert in weaving or embroidery, but obtain most of their blankets and bead work in the way of trade from tribes who live further South. Many of the blankets are both beautiful and costly—one we saw being valued at more than one hundred dollars.

At the top of the incline leading to the agency we throw "legs over handles," and with a rush spin down the hill and part way up the opposite grade before our bicycle loses its momentum. We are first back at the agency and spend the half hour before dinner chatting with a good-natured half-breed. A few facts gathered here convince us that the reservation is the long sought for lazy man's paradise. Every thing required of him would be the taking of an Indian woman to wife, after which he would be regarded as a ward of the government and entitled to all the benefits the red men receive. In plain words these would be enough to eat and to wear, and if possessing a taste for agriculture, 320 acres of land, a few head of stock, a wagon, kept in repair free of cost, and some necessary farming implements. Whether Uncle Sam would also provide a house and barn we are not certain, but are led to believe if the lazy man was a good sort of fellow he might even be offered these as an extra inducement to settle and help in the civilization of the red men. Last but by no means least the fortunate fellow would have a wife accustomed to doing all the work, while her husband amused himself hunting, fishing or lilling away his time with a pipe for a companion.

"THE METAL OF THE FUTURE."

So much has been said in regard to aluminum and its possible uses in cycles that an idea of what aluminum comes from and the process of manufacture will be of interest to our readers. We take the following written by Mr. S. G. Dewsnap for the Post Intelligence of Seattle, Wash. The process described is that used by the Hartsfeld Smelting Co. of Newport, Ky. "They take common clay, such as they use for making bricks, an ore of copper and corrosive fluxes, and charge them with coke in a steel water-jacket blast furnace, with the result that a part of the aluminum in the clay is reduced and unites with the reduced copper, forming an aluminum bronze. The aluminum is extracted from the bronze by heating it to a certain temperature, at which aluminum is rendered semi-fluid, and by suddenly cooling the mass the aluminum is squeezed out by the contraction of the copper, which cools more readily than aluminum. This process is repeated until the amount of aluminum extracted is too small to pay. The metal is then refined and cast into bars.

From the fact of its affinity to iron and copper a great stride has been made in the iron industry. Indeed the residue from the reduction process is much more valuable than the aluminum from the fact that a combination between the combined aluminum and ordinary cast and wrought iron has been found, which can be cast in an ordinary cupola furnace, and then the resulting casting can be worked under the blacksmith's hammer, welded, tempered hard enough to cut glass or annealed soft enough to double on itself without breaking, and having nearly double the tensile strength of wrought steel.

Cast iron containing not more than 1-8 or 1-10 of 1 per cent. each of aluminum and copper will produce malleable castings direct from the blast furnace.

I saw a bar of iron cast of 'Schmiedbarenguss,' 3-4 inch by 3-8 and 8 inches long, drawn out under the hammer to a length of 30 inches and then bent point to heel and it sprung back almost straight. A piece of cast bar an inch square was drawn out into a button hook. A piece of the same metal shows for tensile strength 285,000 pounds to the square inch, and the bar was not broken. I also saw a number of bars with every possible article forged out of one end or welded on and yet they were not broken. A bar with one end burned off in a blacksmith's fire was cut into pieces, and to one of these a common nail was welded, to another a screw, another was tied in a knot, and so on.

The gain from the discovery of this new process of reduction is only secondary of the discovery of the combination of aluminum with iron, which is even greater than Bessemer's discovery of the process of smelting steel, and is destined ultimately to revolutionize the iron industry. The uses of this metal will increase as the people learn to know the metal, and how to use it, which is necessarily a matter of time." [The present price of aluminum is $1.75 per pound, but the Aluminum Age prophesies that it will sell for 50 cents per pound before December next.—ED.]

SOME POINTERS FOR "TRACK-BUILDING" CLUBS.

WHEELMEN at various places in the country are organizing Track Associations for the purpose of holding cycle race meetings; and before good money is thrown away it would be well to make arrangements to have the track a permanency on the fair grounds or some other public place, so that it will not be taken from them by an unreasonable landlord. The local association (St. Louis, Mo.,) have had such an experience; and as a consequence our track has gone "where the woodbine twineth." In organizing your association, don't for a minute think that you are going to pay all the expenses from a single "one-horse" meeting. The dear public is not so easily gulled now-a-days. Have regular monthly dues if you want a maintenance fund to keep your track in shape, and allow only members to train thereon. Don't build a dirt track, as it is the costliest of any, and in continued wet weather will give you more trouble than you bargained for. Under no conditions make any cuts to level your track, rather raise all the low portions. It will be money in your pocket.

A SPLENDID TRACK FOR LOUISVILLE.

THE new track of the Louisville (Ky.) wheelmen will be finished this week, and thrown open for inspection of the public and use of riders April 26. Mr. Green of Philadelphia, who was in Louisville last week, inspected the work, and he says the track will certainly be the finest track, less than a half mile in circumference, in the United States, if not in the world. It has cost every cent of $2000 for the track alone, and $500 more will be spent in beautifying the grounds with flower-beds, etc. This does not include grand stand, that being up already, with a seating capacity of 10,000. The track has a foundation of broken slate, a foot in depth. This is packed with sand and then rolled. Next a few inches of broken rock was put on, and this was also rolled. Then the top dressing of limestone screenings six inches deep was put on, and this was tamped and rolled down. Finally, the entire mass was thoroughly soaked with water, and a six-ton steam roller was run over it until it was packed as solid as asphalt and as smooth. The surface is perfectly white, and it resembles asphalt except that there is some spring to it, and it will not drag. Mr. Daniel Quilp, who has so generously spent his money on the track, is not a wheelman, but he is a sagacious business man, and he knows a good investment when he sees it. He is confident that his track will be the finest in the country, and he knows the best riders, men of world-wide reputation, will come to it. Then crowds will come to see these men. That's good business logic.

THE PIKE COUNTY, MO., TOUR.

REMEMBER the date of this tour May 3, and think of the good time you will miss if you don't go. Particulars have appeared in these columns as to the programme. Pike County hospitality is proverbial, and its reputation will receive another boost on completion of this tour. St. Louis Wheelmen will leave that city May 2d at 8 P. M. for Louisiana. Every wheelman of Missouri and within easy distance of Louisiana is urged to be present.

LATEST BY TELEGRAPH—A nine mile handicap road race is added to the programme. Prizes, costly gold medals. Entries close April 29th, with George Wilder, 1724 Olive street, St. Louis, Mo. Fee twenty-five cents.

THE OBSERVANCE OF DECORATION DAY.

EDITOR BICYCLING WORLD: I would heartily indorse the protest of Thos. S. Cooke in regard to making Decoration Day a day for races.

Had the young men of to-day seen the smallest part of the misery and suffering witnessed by me after our great battles, they would look on the day as one to be observed with reverence rather than one for sport.

NOTICE TO SOUTHERN DIVISIONS.

THE race meets at Louisville, Ky., the latter part of June, and Hagerstown, Md., early in July, should command the attention of every League member in the South, as they are both to take place on "our side of the fence."

The hospitality of Kentucky and Maryland is proverbial, so that there is no necessity to even hint that a good time is in store for those who will attend these meets, and the mere fact that Louisville and Hagerstown will do the entertaining, means everything that appertains to welcome, good cheer and hospitality.

The southern wheelmen can go to Louisville, visit Mammoth Cave, then on to the garden spot, Hagerstown, after which a tour of the beautiful Shenandoah Valley, Washington and Baltimore, and then be in time to attend the National meet at Detroit, Mich.

I am now securing special rates from New Orleans to Hagerstown via Louisville, and in order to secure low rates must know as soon as possible the probable number that will avail themselves of this opportunity to visit both places, and ask all those who will probably attend to communicate with me as soon as possible, when I will give them all the information as to dates, rates, etc.

THE HARTFORD TOURNAMENT.

SEPTEMBER 7th and 8th are the dates set for this annual event. In every respect the successes of former years will be repeated and augmented, as the motto of the Hartford Wheel Club is "Progression." The particulars will be published from time to time, and as fast as agreed upon.

BUFFALO THREE-DAY MEET.

AT the last meeting of the City League of A. A. U. clubs June 15-17 was settled on as the date for the three-day meet. The bicycle tournament being on the third day, so put June 17 on your fixtures for big tournaments. It was decided to make the fifty mile road race a handicap, and a committee of Messrs. Jenkins, Kelsey, Batchelder, Wilson and Israel were appointed to have full charge of the road race. It is their intention to give large prizes in this race, and probably a challenge cup to the first man, besides several time medals. The rental of the track for the day and getting it in shape will cost about three hundred dollars, and no pains will be spared to make the races as fast as possible. The races will last all day, and there will be twenty-three events on the programme.

THE PULLMAN-CHICAGO RACE.

AT a meeting of the Associated Cycling Clubs of Chicago, held last Tuesday evening, the Pullman Road Race was thoroughly discussed, and the great wheels fairly started which are to make this the greatest road race ever known.

The report of the Rules Committee occupied almost the entire evening. S. A. Miles, editor of the Referee, was again chosen to act as handicapper, a position which he filled to the entire satisfaction of all last season. Pneumatic tires were penalized four minutes. The course was changed materially. The riders will now cross by way of Midway Plaisance to Stony Island avenue, thence south, by this means avoiding the car tracks and poor roads of South Chicago avenue.

The limit was again placed at 12 minutes, and the limit men will start at 10.12 from the Leland Hotel. A committee was appointed to recommend a corps of officers for the race. Three time medals are provided for, one to go to the rider making the fastest time on a solid or cushion tire machine. The others open to any machine will naturally go to the riders of pneumatics.

The application of Peoria for the National championships was formally indorsed.

"WAYNE SCOTT."

ROAD RACE AT ST. LOUIS.

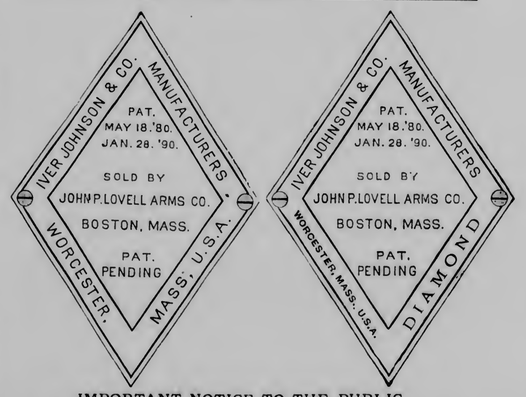
PARK COMMISSIONER KLEMM of St. Louis has officially consented to allow the road race to be run in Forest Park on May 23 at three P. M., and the course will be as follows: Start at Blair monument, thence west on Lindell boulevard to Union avenue; south on Union avenue to the Centra Drive, which will be followed up Nigger Hill to the Clayton road; thence east to Kings Highway, and north on the latter to the point of starting. The distance as measured by cyclometer is 3.56 miles, and the circuit will have to be made five times to complete the 17 1-2 miles. The various committees having the race in charge will be appointed at Tuesday's meeting at the Cycling Club.

"LINNEUS."

THE IRVINGTON-MILBURN RACE.

EDITOR BICYCLING WORLD: Again I beg to bring to your notice the approaching Irvington-Milburn road race, an annual event of National importance, in fact, the cycling event of the year, which will occur on Decoration Day, May 30th, 1891.

This race is run in the interests of the legitimate sport of cycling and pure amateurism and not in the interests of any wheel manufacturer, trade concern, club or clique, and it has the hearty support of our local clubs, representatives of which constitute a Committee of Arrangements to perfect and carry out its details.



Indications are that the entry list this year will be larger than ever, and I look to my friends in the trade to give me their hearty support and cooperation in making this affair an event worthy of its national reputation.

May I ask, therefore, that you kindly inform me what I may expect from you as your contribution to the prize list, which it is hoped will this year, be larger and more valuable than ever.

Soliciting the favor of an early and favorable reply, which will be much appreciated, I remain, Very truly yours,

A. B. BARKMAN,
April 15, 1891.

TRADE NOTES.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

Since we placed our Lovell Diamond Safety on the market it has become so popular and so well liked by every one, it being the only strictly high grade wheel at $85.00 having Bown Æolus ball bearings and made from steel tubing and drop forgings, with all parts interchangeable, we have, therefore, in order to protect ourselves and the public, adopted a name plate of the accompanying design, to be used on all genuine Lovell Diamond Safeties.

To insure its being a genuine Lovell Diamond Safety see that every wheel bears one or both of the above designs.

ters, and are to be congratulated on the elegant quarters they now occupy. Their new building has four floors, 52x165, all of which, with storage room outside, they occupy exclusively. Their offices on the first floor, 80x26, are models of convenience, light, and elegance. Besides the large general office are three private offices, a dictating room, stenographers' room, shipping clerk's office, fire proof vault, toilet rooms, etc. The offices are of oak, with plate glass, antique copper, marble and brass trimmings, with handsome rugs, carpets, or hard wood waxed floors. Every convenience for the quick and accurate transaction of a large business will here be found, and, large as they are, they are none too large for the 19 people regularly employed in the office department at this season of the year. The second floor, used as the cycle show room, is the wheelmen's paradise, however. Here are long rows of sample wheels—more than 300 cycles being shown at all times—including all the latest novelties and many curiosities. Pictures of interest to cyclers line the walls, and the great room is full of articles of interest to all wheelmen. Here, too, are the sundry and part department offices, connected by dummy elevator, speaking tubes, and freight and passenger elevator with all parts of the building. This room is lighted on all four sides, is elegantly fitted up and handsomely decorated, and is stated to be by those who have "travelled" to be by all odds the most elegant cycle show room in the United states, while Mr. Jeffery, who has visited all the leading cycleries of Europe, says it has no equal there. During the opening a pneumatic safety in motion, ridden by a full sized human skeleton, the Lallemont velocipede, the Stevens' around-the-world Expert, Bert Myers' racer, and other interesting wheels constantly had crowds around them. The third floor has a large, light, and airy riding school, and a large and well appointed repair shop, with enamelling room, etc., besides room for storage of about 1000 cycles, which room is fully occupied and more besides. Rouse, Hazard & Co. are certainly to be congratulated on not only their new place of business and the prosperity which has evidently not only made same necessary but possible, but also on the trade now extending all over the United States and Canada, which they have built up by fair and honorable treatment of customers.

THERE is no necessity to call attention to the advertisement of the Elliott Hickory Cycle Company (late Sterling Elliott.) Mr. Elliott always has something to say that is worth reading. When he indulges in fun it is of the good rollicking kind, and when he points his pen for a sarcastic dig the bullet is bound to reach the centre every time. There seems to be no end to his versatility, and while his sarcasms are cutting there is no trace of ill-nature in his effusions. It is very pleasant to be able to record that the period of probation for the Hickory cycles is past and gone, and they are day by day strengthening their reputation as being wheels of undoubted merit and excellence. How every one did scoff (alas we were one of the scoffers) at the idea of a bicycle wheel made out of wood!! But Elliott knew what he was about and he (or the Company) are now in a way to supply the fast growing demand for "Hickory Wheels." Mr. Elliott not only wields a facile and fascinating pen, but as a cycle constructor none more careful or thorough exist. Every thing must "be right" with Elliott, and an examination of his wheels and the details thereof will prove this to be a fact. We congratulate Mr. Elliott on his success and victory over the almost appalling opposition and ridicule. The Hickory enters upon a new era of success, and this success is certainly most deserved.

HOWARD A. SMITH & CO.'s new "Encyclopædia of Cyclers' Wants" comes to us as a model of ingenuity and completeness, that goes far to help the cycler in determining and selecting the necessary sundries needed. Any of our readers not having received a copy should secure one by simply sending a postal to Howard A. Smith & Co., Newark, N. J.

WARWICK'S WIN.—At the 12th Regiment games held in Brooklyn April 15th, the 2-mile safety race was won on a regular stock "Warwick," by a member of the Bedford Cycling Club; the third prize also going to a rider of this popular wheel. If spring indications go for anything the "Warwick Perfection" will be very much "in it" this season.

THE catalogue of the St. Louis Wheel Co. is out, and our readers who wish to secure a good thing in its way should send to them at 311 North Fourth street for a copy. They carry a full line of the Stover wheels. They also sell the "Rover" and the "Hickory." They also carry an excellent line of medium grade and priced wheels, ranging in price from $115 down to $35. In the sundry line there is nothing that can be called for that they cannot furnish. In fact, we notice many things in this catalogue that we never saw before, and we do not find anything missing from the list that we have seen. In repairs they are "way up." They show a picture of a wheel that had been danced on and kicked to pieces by a spurted equine; then they show a cut of the same wheel repaired. It is a first-class object lesson, and shows what the St. Louis Wheel Co. can do in the matter of repairs.

J. R. HAZELTON of Philadelphia has entered the employ of the Jno. Wilkinson Company, and will have charge of their riding school.

AMES & FROST purchased of the Chas. F. Stokes Mfg. Co. the rights to the name Imperial as applied to bicycles. The sum paid was $150.

H. A. MCGINNIS, for the last three years in the employ of Rouse, Hazard & Co., Peoria, Ill., has recently moved to Dayton and is now with A. W. Gump & Co. He rides a 54-inch Light Champion, being one of the noble few who scorn the lowly safety. May his headers be few.

TOE CLIPS have proven to be almost a necessary part of the cyclist's outfit, and those made by Rankin & Bruce of Providence have bravely stood the test of a year's trial. See their advertisement on page 721.

WE have before us a sample of the Cycle "Verticle" Oil Can Carrier, that we pronounce an ingenious and most convenient little device, and one that promises and deserves to become popular with wheelmen. It is made from light sheet metal, nickel plate highly polished, and proves an ornament to any wheel. Since cycling first began, the matter of carrying the oiler in a manner to prevent leakage, has always been a problem. This carrier holds the can in an upright position, always handy and ready for immediate use, and in a number of other ways possesses points of advantage and merit. Too much can scarcely be said in its favor, and we heartily recommend it to all wheelmen. On page 724 of this issue will be found an advertisement of the firm making them, from which full information may be had.

JOHN HARRIOTT of 3 Winter street, Boston, occupies the front rank in the manufacture of prize medals and club pins for cycling, as prominent clubs all over the country are constantly testifying.

MR. A. M. SCHEFFEY, travelling for R. L. Coleman & Co., representing the Western Wheel Works, was in Atlanta, Ga., last week, en route to Vicksburg.

WE are pleased to call attention to the advertisement of Mr. F. H Parker on page 717, showing his "Handy Safety Support." Every wheelman is annoyed at not having something handy to lean his safety against. Here we have the very thing. It is not only efficient, but it is neat, quickly attached both in use and out of use, and best of all it is "dog cheap."

A. W. GUMP & Co. of Dayton, Ohio, report trade good, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather. Their crop of "scalps" is increasing.

To say that business is booming with Wright & Ditson is to put it very mild. The first instalment on the stock order of Humbers arrived last Saturday, and the wheels were so satisfactory that Mr. Coswell cabled to London duplicating the entire order. One glance at these wheels is enough to show the most casual observer that the reputation of the Humber is deserved. The wheels strip to 35 pounds, yet are warranted to carry any weight man who can ride them. The Humber wheels hold 4-5 of all the English championship for 1890. Minton Worden is daily sending in large orders for Featherstones, Pneumatics, and Humbers. He has already sold ninety thousand dollars worth of wheels. The Pneumatics will be delivered in quantities within the next week. Their trade on cheap wheels has far exceeded expectations.

The Renewal Season.

The renewal season is now open, and we are ready to receive the annual dues of members.

We have opened the books for 1891-2, and applicants for membership may now send $2 and they will be put upon the roll for the year ending April 30, 1892.

All memberships expire April 30, and must be renewed before July 1st.

We publish a renewal blank which we hope will be universally used. A blank of this kind is more satisfactory for filing than a notice of renewal written in letter form. If a member has no blank and does not care to mutilate his paper, he will oblige us by sending renewal on paper the size of the blank and made out after the same form. The same applies when two or more names are sent.

Every League club has been supplied with sheets to send renewals on, and also a renewal of the club. Since many non-League clubs send in lists of names, a list of names is no indication that a League club renews its membership, and we must have the regular certificate of renewal as per blank furnished every club before we can issue our certificate of membership.

Club Secretaries will be supplied with renewal sheets for club lists on application.

Consuls, Agents, Club Officers, etc., who desire renewal or application blanks should procure them of the Secretary-Treasurers of their respective Divisions. See addresses in BULLETIN.

L. A. W. Uniform Cloth.

A contract has been made with the Burlington Mills for a cloth, steel gray in color, which will be used for the regulation League uniform. This cloth will be kept in stock by the Secretary, and will be supplied to League members only at $2.10 per yard, cash with order. The Regulation League button will be supplied by the Secretary at 5 cents for the large and 3 cents for the small size. The cloth is 54 inches wide.

ABBOT BASSETT, Secretary.

A Warning.

The Bay State Tailoring Company advertises to send samples of the League Uniform Cloth. This is to notify members that the company cannot obtain the cloth for such a purpose in a legitimate way, and we doubt if they can get it at all. The regularly appointed League tailors will furnish samples of the cloth, and members will save time, trouble and expense if they go to these alone.

ABBOT BASSETT, Sec.

Massachusetts Division, L. A. W.

Messrs. John F. Morrill & Co., of 12 Bromfield street, Boston, have been appointed Division Tailors for the State of Massachusetts.

League uniforms as per specifications published in the BULLETIN of April will be made to order for League members at the following prices:

Coat, $5.75.
Breeches, $3.75.
Cap, $ .85.
Shirt, flannel, $2.50.
Shirt, Cheviot, $1.00 and upwards.
Stockings, $.50 to $1.25.
Shoes (best quality), $3.25 to $3.75.

An illustrated catalogue with rules for self measurement will be sent to every league member; and in ordering suits members must show their league ticket or give their league number.

Fraternally, ARTHUR W. ROBINSON.

Massachusetts.

A meeting of the Board of Officers of this Division will be held at the Clarendon Hotel on April 25th at 8 P. M. for the purpose of taking special action upon the draft of By-laws presented at the last meeting, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly be considered.

Fraternally yours, ARTHUR W. ROBINSON, Chief Consul.

Alliance with A. A. U.

At a conference of the Executive Committee and the Racing Board of the L. A. W., held on March 30th, 1891, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Resolved, That it is desirable to effect an alliance between the L. A. W. and the A. A. U. for the purpose of maintaining the purity of amateur sports.

The plan of alliance as proposed by the A. A. U. was amended and adopted as follows:

1. All cycling events in the championship or other meeting of the A. A. U., or of its associations or clubs, shall be given under the rules of the L. A. W.

2. Every cyclist shall be subject to test as to his amateur standing exclusively by the provisions of the Constitution of the L. A. W., defining an amateur.

3. Charges against any cyclist shall be tried by the L. A. W. except that a member of an A. A. U. club shall be tried by a committee of three, one of whom shall be named by the A. A. U., one by the L. A. W., and the third member by the two so chosen, pooviding the accused shall within twenty days after the receipt of a copy of such charges submit to the Racing Board proof of his A. A. U. membership, and claim trial by such committee.

4. The League of American Wheelmen shall annually, or at such time and for such periods as it may deem advisable, elect a delegate, who shall act with and constitute one of the board of governors of the A. A. U., and shall have a vote upon all questions coming before said board, and a right to sit upon committees and take part in all the actions thereof, as fully as members of said board elected from the several associations of the A. A. U., and to the same extent and in like manner as the delegates from the North American Turnerbund.

5. These articles of alliance shall be terminable by either party upon thirty days' written notice to the other.

In case of disagreement between the L. A. W. and the A. A. U. upon any point covered by these articles, the same shall be submitted to the board of governors of the A. A. U., including the member of the board appointed by the L. A. W., Turnerbund and any other associations in alliance with the A. A. U., and having a delegate upon the said board.

G. CARLETON BROWN,
Secretary Executive Committee.

Suspensions Removed.

The Racing Board has decided that the acceptance of expenses while in training from athletic and cycling clubs is not a violation of any part of Section 9, Art. II. of the Constitution. The suspensions of the following men are therefore removed: P. J. Berlo, E. C. Anthony, F. F. Ives, W. Van Wagoner, A. B. Rich, W. S. Campbell, W. D. Banker, W. F. Gassler, J. W. F. Murphy, C. M. Murphy, F. N. Tuttle, W. Class, C. E. Kluge, Hoyland Smith, L. D. Clark, W. W. Windle, A. A. Zimmerman.

CHAS. E. RANDALL,
Chairman of Racing Board.

Suspension of Berlo.

P. J. Berlo of South Boston is hereby suspended from the race track pending an investigation of charges of violating Clause c of the Amateur rule, which forbids a man to sell a prize won in a race.

CHAS. E. RANDALL,
Chairman Racing Board.

Ohio Membership.

Thirty-one members in two weeks is doing well, but if we wish to reach two thousand this year we must do much better. We must not only get as many new members as possible, but we must see that all the old ones renew. Some localities have done nobly, and now have many times the membership they had last year. Other localities, however, have either stood still or decreased in membership. If they will only wake up and get to work we will have no trouble to get the membership we desire. What is needed is "a long pull, a strong pull and a pull together." Fraternally,

M. A. HIGH, Chief Consul.

Important.

To L. A. W. Clubs, New York State Division:

As the season for holding Race Meetings approaches, it is probable that the clubs anticipating holding tournaments this season may be more interested in the scheme for a Division Racing Circuit, proposed last fall. This scheme was thoroughly discussed at the semi-annual meeting of the Board of Officers, and it was decided to go on with it, notwithstanding the Division Racing Board reported that, "through the apathy of those most directly interested (the L. A. W. Clubs throughout the State) it seems liable to fall through." "By means of circular letters the assistance of every individual member of the Division has been asked and the co-operation of League Clubs has been invited."

Mr. W. H. DeGraaf, who has in the past proven such an efficient Chairman of the Division Racing Board, having found it necessary to resign, I desire to congratulate the Division that Mr. A. B. Barkman has consented to accept the office.

Unless the L. A. W. Clubs of the Division interest themselves immediately in this Racing Circuit, it is useless for the Division to spend time and money in the development of the scheme.

All communications in regard to the Racing Circuit, Division Championships, or the District Championships, should be addressed to the Chairman of the Division Racing Board, Mr. A. B. Barkman, No. 241 Broadway, New York City.

Respectfully,

W. S. BULL,
Buffalo, April 14th, 1891. Chief Consul.

D. H. Lewis Reinstated.

By unanimous vote of the Racing Board, Mr. D. H. Lewis, of Buffalo, N. Y., has been reinstated as an amateur.

CHARLES E. RANDALL,
Chicago, April 15, '91. Chairman.

Minnesota Consul.

Mr. J. H. Crawford is hereby appointed Local Consul at Duluth.

T. M. SLOSSON,
Minneapolis, April 17, 1891. Chief Consul.

Kentucky Consuls.

The following members of Kentucky Division have just been appointed Local Consuls for the cities named:

Ashland—L. B. Ferguson.
Covington—Charles M. Croninger.
Carlisle—H. S. Kellar.
Cynthiana—H. Redman.
Danville—Frank Christman.
Frankfort—Howard Gaines.
Ghent—Vernon Driskell.
Greenup—Elwood Kinner.
Harrodsburg—Benj. F. Spillman.
Lexington—T. H. Parr.
Little Hickman—John H. Overstreet.
Louisville—G. E. Johnson, Secretary-Treasurer.
Ludlow—R. C. Good.
Maysville—H. C. McDougle.
Newport—B. W. Garrison.
Nicholasville—Fred. L. Sears.
Paris—A. J. Winters.
Richmond—R. E. Turley.
Tonieville—J. W. Goodin.
Somerset—Ellis L. Ogden.
Walton—H. G. Blanton.

These Local Consuls are respectfully requested to see that all members in their territory send in their renewals promptly. If blanks are needed write the Division Secretary, Room 19, Courier-Journal Building, Louisville, and they will be mailed without delay.

The indications are that this will be a grand year in the League. Kentucky wants every name now on her books to go back, and she also wants to add at least 150 new ones. A good start has been made—let us keep it up. With co-operation there is no reason why we should not have 500 members. We have the riders; let us pull together and get them into the League.

Fraternally,

G. E. JOHNSON,
Sec.-Treas.

New Jersey.

In compliance with Article VII., Section 1, the Chief Consul has called the Annual Meeting of the Division for Saturday, May 30th (Decoration Day), at 9 A. M., in the club house of the Elizabeth Wheelmen, 1203 East Broad Street, Elizabeth, N. J. He also urges the attendance of every member.

A Special Meeting of the Board of Officers will be held Friday, May 29th, at 5 P. M. Also a meeting of the Local Consuls of State will be held at the same hour, in the club house of the Elizabeth Wheelmen.

GEO. C. PENNELL,
Sec.-Treas.

G. CARLETON BROWN,

New League Clubs.

The following clubs have qualified as League clubs and filed the certificate required in the office of the Secretary:

319—Westerly League Wheelmen, Westerly, R. I. Lewis S. Coon, Secretary.

Missouri's got 500.

To Local Consuls and Members:

Local Consul C. F. Johnson of Aurora carries off the honors this week in the local consul's competition for the gold League pin with seven members. The race is a pretty one, and as the figures are comparatively small to date every local consul in the State stands a chance of winning the prize, provided prompt work is done. This week we enter the charmed circle of 500, which we have so long been striving for. Now let us make it 600 by the time of the Carthage meet. It can be done easily, provided every member assists in the work of recruiting. "Perseverance and pluck, better than riches and luck." Remember the above proverb.

Fraternally yours, ROBT. HOLM, C. C.

A Missouri Soliloquy.

"Here is an organization that especially commends itself to me. Its character is high, it is fully abreast of the times, and being the national representative of that widespread out-door sport, bicycling, it must embrace in its membership a most active, progressive people. It has numerous good qualities which impress themselves on me. My membership with them expires on April 30. I must renew it at once, as no other investment has ever yielded such a large return." All members of this Division are urged to give this matter immediate attention. Renewals can be left with D. Snitjer, 1118 Olive st., Wilder & Laing, 1724 Olive st., and with Representative M. J. Gilbert, 209 W. 4 st., who will receipt for same. Remember "He who renews early will avoid the rush in getting his '91 ticket."

Fraternally yours,

ROB'T HOLM,
St. Louis, April 17, '91. Chief Consul.

New Jersey Division.

Eighth Annual Meet, Elizabeth, Friday and Saturday, May 29 and 30, 1891.

The management of the Eighth Annual Meet of the New Jersey Division has been awarded to the Elizabeth Wheelmen of Elizabeth, N. J., a staunch League Club, and one of the oldest in the State and League.

With their well-known reputation for hospitality, I have no fear but that the two days' festivities will be most enjoyable.

Their programme is about as follows: Friday, May 29th, commencing 9 A.M., runs will be started hourly until 2 P.M.; 5 P.M., Board of Officers' and Local Consuls' meeting; 8 P.M., Theatre Party. Saturday, May 30th, Decoration Day: 9 A.M., Division meeting; 10 A. M., parade; 11.30, photograph; 12 noon, lunch; 1 P.M., runs over the Union County roads; 5 P.M., banquet.

The meeting of the Local Consuls is a feature which was introduced last year, and is of great benefit to them and the Division, as the Consuls meet each other and the Chief Consul, and can consult as to their work. The meeting was well attended last year, and will undoubtedly be better so, this year. The Elizabeth Wheelmen have secured a fine attraction for the Theatre Party, and the prices will be low. The Business Meeting will be at 9 A. M. Saturday, May 30th, in the Elizabeth Wheelmen's pretty club house on East Broad street, and should be well attended.

The annual Parade will be started immediately after the business meeting, and will go over a short route with good streets. It is expected that the Parade will be the largest in years. Before disbanding a photograph will be taken, and a lunch tendered by the club to the visitors will be served. After a short siesta runs will be started out under the officers of the Elizabeth Wheelmen to various points of interest. These runs will go over the famous new Macadam roads of Union County, just completed under the New Jersey Highway Improvement Act.

Of the pretty country and elegant riding I will say nothing. "Only just come and see." A fine banquet at 5 P. M. Saturday will wind up the festivities, and every one will have ample time to reach home before Sunday morning.

"NEW JERSEY."

Stop Thief!!!

To the Members of the New York State Division:

Your attention is again called to the recommendation of the special committee appointed at the semi-annual meeting of the Division Board of Officers as follows:

"First—That after due consideration your committee would recommend that a suitable sum, to be determined in each case by the Executive Committee, be offered as a reward for evidence leading to the conviction of the thief and for the recovery of each wheel stolen from any member of the New York State Division; that the announcement of such reward should be promptly published in the official League paper as soon as necessary information is placed in the hands of the Executive Committee, and that all prosecutions of persons charged with the theft of wheels be carried on under direction of the Attorney for the Division without expense to the member from whom the property shall have been stolen."

It being a fact that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," members are urged to spread abroad by every means in their power the statement that this Division will prosecute all persons stealing wheels, the property of members of this Division.

As a further preventive measure agents and dealers in bicycles are requested to post in their respective places of business a conspicuous notice to the effect that the New York State Division, L. A. W., composed of over 3000 members residing in all sections of the state, will prosecute all persons charged with the theft of cycles, the property of members of the Division. Agents and dealers are also requested to post conspicuously all announcements of stolen wheels that may appear in the BULLETIN.

Members losing wheels by theft should immediately report the fact to the Chief Consul, giving particulars in full. An announcement of the theft, together with the reward offered for the conviction of the thief and the recovery of the stolen wheel, will be published in the BULLETIN. All members are requested to scan the official columns each week for such announcements, to make a note of same, and to keep a careful lookout for the missing machines. Upon discovery of machines answering the description of these lost communicate at once with the Chief Consul and the Attorney for the Division, Mr. Walter S. Jenkins, No. 14 East Eagle street, Buffalo, N. Y.

When it becomes generally known (and it is for the interest of every wheelman to assist by every means in his power to make it known) that we have in this State a mutual protective association composed of over 3000 members, well organized with ample funds, and with every member ever on the alert to discover and aid in the prosecution of the thief, cycle stealing will cease to be as prevalent as heretofore.

W. S. BULL, Chief Consul.

Buffalo, April 18, 1891.

New York.

Minutes of the semi-annual meeting of the Board of Officers of the New York State Division of the L. A. W., held at the Hotel Kennimore, Albany, N. Y., Feb. 9th, 1891.

Meeting called to order at 3.45 P. M. by Chief Consul W. S. Bull. In the absence of Secretary Nisbett, Dr. E. M. Santee was appointed Secretary pro tem.

On motion of Mr. Jenkins the reading of the minutes was postponed till later in the session.

Roll call—members present:

W. S. Bull, Chief Consul; Chas. W. Wood, Vice Consul; W. H. DeGraaf, W. S. Jenkins, Robert Thomson, F. H. Bettys, Thomas A. Raisbeck, A. I. Fuller, Henry Gallien, H. S. Simmons, Albany Bicycle Club; Dr. E. M. Santee, Cortland Wheel Club. By proxy—Geo. M. Nisbett, E. S. Terry, W. E. Findley.

Vice-Consul Chas. W. Wood was called to the chair and Chief Consul Bull read his report which, on motion of Mr. Jenkins, was received and placed on file.

To the Board of Officers of the New York State Division, L. A. W.:

In compliance with the By-Laws of this Division, I have to report to you at this meeting, in brief, the work done since the September meeting of the Board. It is with great pleasure that I call your attention to the phenomenal growth of the Division during the past year. Believing that more interest would be taken in the League if more attention was given to racing, in the early part of October I proposed a plan for the formation of a racing circuit in this Division. Mr. W. H. DeGraaf, chairman of the Racing Board of this Division, will report more fully regarding the present status of this plan.

The compilation of the Road Book, for which an appropriation was made at the September meeting, has been in the hands of Mr. A. B. Barkman, chairman of the Road Book Committee. Over 8000 circular letters, covering route slips, were sent out to League and non-League members in this State, requesting their co-operation in making this the most perfect Road Book ever issued. It has been the intention to issue this book in time to be used during the present riding season, but so important a work cannot be hurried if it is done well, and it may be that the date of issue may be delayed. However, the Division may rest assured that the book will be issued at the earliest possible moment.

Owing to the revision of the League Constitution at Niagara Falls, it becomes necessary for us to make certain changes in our By-Laws. These changes will be found embodied in the report of Mr. E. J. Shriver, chairman of the Rules and Regulations Committee. Mr. I. B. Potter, chairman of the Division Committee on improvement in the highways, has, during the past year, devoted an immense amount of time and labor to the work of his committee. In connection with the Connecticut Division, he has offered in the name of this Division, a series of prizes for bad-road photograhs. It is hoped that the officers and the members of this Division will aid this committee as much as possible in this branch of their work. Since my last report the recruiting work of the Division has been earnestly pushed. Circular letters and application blanks are being constantly sent out from the Chief Consul's office.

In view of the amount of work accomplished by the application hanger, which I issued early last season, I have gotten out a calendar and application card designed to accomplish the same purposes. Calendars are always in demand, especially so in the early months of the year. They form a more practical means of advertising than an ordinary card. As I desired not only to increase the membership, but also to call attention to the road improvement work of the League by the use of these calendars, I asked and received the generous assistance of Mr. R. W. Rummell, who made and donated the beautiful drawings to the Division. The thanks of the Division are due to Mr. Rummell for his artistic and generous contribution to the cause.

In my February report of last year, I stated that our membership as reported in the "BULLETIN" of January 1, 1890, was 2143. It is with great pleasure that I am able to report that our present membership, as reported in the "BULLETIN," January 30, 1891, is 3080, an increase of 937 members. Our total membership for the League year ending April 30, 1890, was 2169. We are now 911 members ahead of that mark, with three months yet in which to recruit members. I earnestly bespeak the aid of all officers and members in this work of recruiting. If it is deemed advisable by this body to adopt the racing circuit plan, proposed, I would recommend that a suitable appropriation be made the racing board of the Division to defray the expenses for clerk hire, printing, stationery, etc.

In accordance with Section 3, Article 5, of the Division by-laws, it becomes necessary at this meeting for the Board to appoint a nominating committee of three, and also to elect from the Division membership a third member of the Executive and Finance Committee. By-laws Section 7, Article 6, also provide that at this meeting a retainer may be voted to the Division attorney of not less than $50, nor more than $200 per annum.

I desire to call your attention to the report of the Secretary-Treasurer, which shows just how the financial part of the Division business has been conducted, and the available resources at our command.

I have to report that on February 5th, 1891, Messrs. George R. Bidwell and I. B. Potter, delegates to the National Assembly, elected by this Board in September last, tendered to me their resignations, and by virtue of the authority vested in me under the constitution and by-laws, I duly appointed Mr. Howard E. Raymond, of Brooklyn, and Mr. T. A. Raisbeck, of New York, to the vacancies so caused. I desire to tender my thanks to the officers and Consuls of the Division, and also to the many members who have so cheerfully aided in the work of the Division. Believing as I do, that an infusion of fresh blood is beneficial to the life of every organization I desire to say now, that at the expiration of this term of office I shall retire, to be placed on the shelf with the other back numbers. I have endeavored to serve this Division to the best of my ability, as a member of the State and National Board since the spring of 1885, as Vice Consul from June, 1886, to March, 1889, and as Chief Consul since the latter date, and I now feel that I have devoted as great a share of my time and energy to the welfare of the Division as I can afford to spare. All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. S. BULL, Chief Consul.

Chief Consul Bull read the report of the Secretary-Treasurer, which on motion of Mr. Potter was received and placed on file.

GEO. M. NISBETT, Sec.-Treas.

E. & O. E., New York, Feb. 5, 1891.

Chief Consul Bull read the report of the Executive and Finance Committee, which on motion of Mr. Bettys was received and placed on file.

Chairman Jenkins, of the Committee of the Rights and Privileges, made a very satisfactory verbal report, and requested that he be permitted to file his report with the Secretary. Later, "Granted."

Chief Consul Bull read the report of the Committee of the Rules and Regulations which, on motion of Mr. Potter, was received and placed on on file.

Chairman Potter, of the Committee of Improvements of the Highways, read his report which, on motion of Mr. Jenkins, was received and placed on file.

Chief Consul Bull, for the Committee on Road Book, reported progress.

Chairman De Graaf read the report of the racing board which, on motion of Mr. Fuller, was received and placed on file.

To the Board of Officers, New York State Division, L. A. W.:

Your Racing Board have to report that no business of importance has required our attention, since the annual meeting, beyond the consideration and development of the scheme of a circuit of race meets to be held in this Division as proposed by Chief Consul Bull.

The subject has been discussed at some length in the columns of the Cycling Press, and is doubtless, in a general way, at least, familiar to you all. By means of circular letters the assistance of every individual member of the Division has been asked, and the co-operation of League Clubs has been invited. We are firmly convinced that the plan is a feasable one and, if properly supported, would serve to greatly increase the interest in bicycle races and in wheeling generally; but seems liable, through the apathy of those most directly interested, the L. A. W. clubs throughout the State, to fall through. The only clubs that have evinced an interest in the plan are the Albany Wheelmen; the Cortland Wheel Club; the Onondaga Cycling Club, of Syracuse; the Rome Cyclers; the Syracuse Cycling Club; the Utica Cycling Club, and the Harlem Wheelmen.

Of course, unless the clubs of the State will interest themselves in this matter, it is useless, for the Division to spend time and money in the development of the scheme.

The Pennsylvania Division have under consideration a similar scheme for their State, and through the chairman of their Racing Board, Mr. H. Crowther has suggested the plan of uniting with our Division and arranging a joint circuit that would attract the racing men of both Divisions. Such a plan might be advantageous, but unless our clubs will take more interest in it than they have as yet manifested, it will of course be out of the question.

Under all the circumstances we have concluded, before proceeding further in the matter, to lay it before this Board for their consideration and ask for an expression of their views upon the subject.

Respectfully submitted,
New York State Division Racing Board.
W. H. DeGraaf, Chairman.

NEW BUSINESS.

Chief Consul Bull read the changes in the Division By-laws recommended by the Committee of Rules and Regulations to make it to conform with that of the amended League Constitution, and moved their adoption. Carried. On motion of Mr. Potter the minutes of the last meeting were taken up and amended to read that the appropriation for the officers of the Chief Consul and the Secretary-Treasurer was only to cover the time to September 1st, 1891.

On motion of Mr. Bettys the allowance of the Chief Consul and Secretary-Treasurer was continued from September 1, '91, to December 1st, 1891, at the same rate.

On motion of Mr. H. S. Simons a vote of thanks was extended to Mr. R. W. Rummell for his generous donation of the design for the Division calendars.

The subject of a State racing circuit was then taken up and discussed by Messrs. Bull, Potter, Sauter, Fuller and Jenkins. On motion of Mr. Jenkins, Chief Consul Bull's scheme was adopted, and the details left to him and the Racing Board with power to act. On motion of Chief Consul Bull an appropriation of $300 was made for the use of the Racing Board.

On motion of Mr. Bettys, the present Nominating Committee, consisting of W. H. DeGraaf, Howard E. Raymond and George Dakin was elected to serve during the ensuing year.

On motion of Mr. Potter $100 was appropriated for a retainer fee for the Division Attorney.

On motion of Mr. Potter, Dr. Geo. E. Blackham was elected third member of the Executive Committee.

Mr. Bettys presented the question of stolen wheels, and urged that the Division take action toward insuring its members against thieving; discussed by Messrs. Bull, Potter, Jenkins and Gillin. On motion of Chief Consul Bull, a committee composed of Messrs. Bettys, Potter and Jenkins was appointed to investigate the insurance scheme, also the matter of the Division becoming incorporated and to report at the next meeting of the Board of Officers.

The Secretary read a communication from Messrs. Jas. H. Brown and Robert Thompson, delegates of the Rochester Wheelmen's League, inviting the Division to hold its next annual meet at Rochester.

On motion of Mr. Potter the invitation was accepted and dates referred to the Executive Committee.

On motion of Mr. Potter, an appropriation was made to cover travelling expenses to and from, and one days' hotel bill, as Delegates to, the National Convention.

Adjourned.

DR. E. M. SANTEE, Sec'y. pro tem.

IMITATION or FLATTERY, WHICH?

We cannot refrain from expressing our satisfaction that the reform we started, two years since, to inaugurate, by building bicycles of honest material and drop forgings, instead of iron castings, has proved a success, and all American builders are now following our example.

PNEUMATICS.

Delivery same day as order.

We have ready for instant delivery, in lots of one to one hundred, the celebrated

"Irwell Pneumatic Safety,"

PRICE, $150.

We shall not import any more owing to our arrangements with Mr. Featherstone. If you want any of these SPEAK QUICK.

By-the-way, did you know that away up in the northwest part of Illinois, in a city most favorably located for manufacturing, called Freeport, an enterprising firm has located there, The Stover Bicycle Mfg. Co., and they are building a bicycle that we are proud to represent. They call their wheel

"THE PARAGON,"

And it is rightly named. We visited the factory before we decided to represent the wheel, and we found that from first to last the PARAGON is an honest wheel.

In Material,
In Workmanship,
In Excellence of Design,
In Originality,
In Ease of Running

We believe that

"THE PARAGON"

Represents more true American manhood than any wheel yet put on the market. An essential point to be remembered is

"We Guarantee Every One."

The Trade in our section of the country is requested to write for Agencies.

The balance of our line includes many desirable wheels, in fact it is admittedly the most complete line in the United States. Please note,

ANTI-STIFF

To Strengthen the Muscles.

To Strengthen the Muscles.

It is a marvellous preparation for Strengthening the Muscular System. With Anti-Stiff there is no faith required; it goes straight to the muscles, and you can feel it at work. It has a peculiarly warming, comforting and stimulating effect on all weak or stiff muscles and sinews. Quick in action, cleanly and pleasant in use. Rub it in to the muscles every night for a fortnight, and you will be pleased at its supporting and strengthening properties. There is not, nor has been, anything like it till now. It differs from all Oils, Embrocations, and Liniments, both in substance and effect. Some athletes are so fond of it that they rub it all over them. Has a large and increasing sale throughout Great Britain

DROP FORGINGS

Have not always been used EXCLUSIVELY, though our LIGHT ROADSTER (high wheel) was always made with forgings only. The same was true of the Volunteer and of the Expert after 1887.

FORGINGS

Have ALWAYS been used for the more essential parts in the make up of Columbias for a DOZEN YEARS, though some parts where no particular wear or strain came were not forged.

(Instance—The Dust Cap over the Adjusting Bolt on the Steering Head of the Expert was a casting.)

IN COLUMBIA SAFETIES

Castings have been used to a limited extent up to 1891, though the most important parts were of drop forged steel.

We advertise in our Catalogue that no Castings whatever are used in our 1891 Safeties. The proof can be seen at our Stores and our principal Agencies.

JOHN CALVIN SEEMED TO THINK

That the pleasantest perfumery in heaven would be the aroma arising from roasting sinners as it steamed up from the cookery in the basement. We can readily understand how a sinner (or anything else) could be burned as long as there was any carbon left in him, but how he could be broiled after that is a question for the cremationists to settle. It certainly comes outside the limitations of the uninspired.

There can be no doubt that there was such a plan, else why the expression, "well done, good and faithful servant?" Surely those who were not well done would be rare, judging from some of Moody and Sankey's reports as to the duration of it.

Probably few people at the present time believe in an endless burning Hell, though we have at times had reason to think that such an institution might be a desirable thing, especially if it had a department devoted to those advertisers in all branches of trade who misrepresent their goods.

But on the whole it is better to wish for such humanizing influences as will, in time, "make the whole world kin." The I-told-you-so tendency is strong in mankind, and it is liable to break out at any time.

When things happen and a man says, "I told you so," look up the records and see, perhaps he told you something quite different. When Hickory wheels are admitted by all recognized authorities to be superior to steel ones, (and if your health is good and your first centennial is not already upon you, you will live to see that day), then it would be natural for use to "point with pride" to the fact that we told you so.

The matter which filled the remainder of this space was objected to by the Editor, on very unique grounds. He said it was too true, and on second though we quite agree with him.

We will try and not let it occur again.

Yours,

Elliott Hickory Cycle Co.,

Newton, Mass.

P. S. Hickory is the stuff.

BUY ONLY THE BEST.

LET IT BE AN ORMONDE (HIGHEST GRADE.)

With either Solid, Cushion or Pneumatic Tires.

Lighest, Strongest, Easiest Running, Most Durable and Most Graceful Safety Made.

By an improved method of lapping and brazing the joints, the Ormonde is made much lighter than the actual scale weight of the great majority of high grade safeties and yet are stronger and more rigid. Although the Ormondes are light, they are specially constructed to stand rough and hilly American roads. Have you seen the 1890 list of records made on these machines? If not, send for our large illustrated catalogue, free, giving full particulars of the entire Ormonde line. We have some good territory not yet taken. Live Agents Wanted.

SYLPH CYCLES SMOOTH THE ROAD,

SMOOTH ROADS ARE EASY RIDING,

Therefore, Sylph Cycles make Easy Riding.

If you doubt this, try a Sylph. "But," a man lately asked, "how does a spring frame smooth the road?" We told him "by allowing the wheels to rise and fall over the obstructions without lifting the rider." E. G.—Suppose an obstruction one inch high. To cross it on a stiff frame, it is necessary to lift the weight of rider and machine—over two hundred pounds—one inch vertically. This destroys the momentum and requires more muscle to get up the speed again. On a spring frame the wheels and part of the frame only are lifted. The springs allow them to rise and fall without any perceptible lifting of the rider; or in other words, only a small portion of the momentum is destroyed by an inch obstacle on a spring frame, instead of a large amount on a stiff frame. The destruction of momentum is in proportion to the jolt. Try it.

THE ELWELL EUROPEAN TOURS.

THE season for touring abroad is near at hand, and to all who have a European tour in contemplation, the Elwell tours cannot be too strongly recommended The first party leaves New York June 6th, on the famous French line of steamers. This party is rapidly filling up, and application for membership should be made at once. The second party leaves New York July 8th, by the magnificent steamer "City of New York." These tours are first-class throughout. The managers are pioneers in the business; are personally familiar with the ground to be covered, and their arrangements are the result of long experience. Their tours are invariably successful in every way. Write them at once for particulars. Address in our advertising columns.

TRADE NOTES.

THE LADIES' ROVER.

WE present this week a cut of the Ladies' Rover, the most essential feature of which is that the space between the saddle and handle bar is sufficient to allow of an easy mount and dismount, while the handles are brought back to the most desirable point, and the wheels four inches nearer together than on many other similar machines. A lady in placing the foot upon the pedal, preparatory to mounting the Rover, is not obliged to step high enough to mount a kitchen table. It is very graceful in lines, and at once commends itself to purchaser.

The Ladies' Rover frame is constructed from the finest steel tubing that can be produced. Weight all on 38 pounds with solid tires, and they guarantee the machine to carry a person weighing 160 pounds under all ordinary circumstances.

Specifications: Rear driver 26-inch, front wheel 28-inch, cranks, Starley's patent adjustable 5 to 6 inch throw, ball bearings to the head both wheels, crank shaft and pedals, Garford patent saddle, wine colored leather, adjustable from 46 to 54 inch, ordinary reach, tubular steel handle bar, adjustable, tangent spokes, nickeled at centre, hollow rims, all necessary guards to protect the dress from mud, or contact with rear wheel or chain, adjustable plunger brake, forged steel chain, most improved form, hollow steel handle bar, large horn handles, new and practical adjusting device for taking up any slack in chain, lantern bracket, foot rests, tool bag, wrench and C. & D. oil can.

Elegantly finished in wine colored enamel, with fine hair line and nickel trimmings. Price, fitted with first quality 5-8x3-4 inch solid rubber tires, $135; price, fitted with first quality 1 1-4x1 inch cushion tires, $140.

THE M. V. LIVINGSTON CYCLE CO.

THIS concern has made arrangements which we trust will pull it through the embarrasrment which has clogged its advance during the past five months. A deed of trust has been executed conveying all the real estate of the M. V. Livington Cycle Co. to F. W. Forbes of Westboro and C. Marr of Boston. The sum of $30,000 has been raised for the purpose of finishing the 1500 wheels for this season's business. The concern is pushing the factory's capacity for all it is worth to get out the aforesaid 1500 machines and realize on same.

THE Knight Cycle Co., of St. Louis, Mo., report that they have the agency of the New Mail, Union, Sylph, Hartford, Broncho, Joliet, and a full line of medium grades. They sell on time payments, and take old wheels in exchange. Have large line of second-hand bicycles, prices low. Catalogue and lists sent on application.

SOME bicycle manufacturers warn the public against any concern which changes the pattern of its machines from one year to another. The idea is absurd. Should a maker claim a perfect bicycle, it would indeed be humiliating to abandon it and adopt something new. The most intelligent and honest makers, however, are always on the lookout for improvement. For instance, the Pope Mfg Co. made a Columbia safety which was just what they claimed—the best machine they had yet produced, and it had an immense sale. Their experts, however, worked out a new design which was an advance even on their own former pattern. This fact was sufficient for them; the new design was adopted, and is their leading machine for 1891.

WE show herewith an illustration of the Patent Combination Bell, manufactured by Joseph Lucas & Son, and sold exclusively in this country by the Premier Cycle Co., New York. This Alarm is one of the finest for city traffic that we have ever inspected. The gong is of the best cast bell metal, emitting a loud, clear peal, and it is fitted with a lever striker for occasional taps with the finger, and a clapper which rings continuously, as long as the vertical plunger shown in top of bell is raised. This may be instantly depressed and the bell silenced. The alarm is fitted with Lucas's patented handle bar clip, which has a greater latitude of adjustment than any other, and which holds the bell firmly without marring the nickel of the bar. The construction and finish of this alarm has the characteristic perfection of all of Messrs. Lucas's output, and riders and dealers who are in need of a bell that will give absolute satisfaction both in sound and wearing qualities will do well to obtain samples. The price is $2.50.

THE new Ladies' Rambler has caught the feminine fancy, and is likely to prove one of the most popular ladies' wheel ever turned out.

WE had the pleasure of inspecting and making a short trial of the "Tourist," a bicycle which, though a new comer, has points that are bound to commend it to the purchaser. The frame is a very graceful diamond, very strong and light. The brief test we gave it over the stone setts of the city and up such slight grades as were handy showed the machine to possess decidedly easy running qualities which no doubt would be still further evident on a more extended trial. Messrs. Sidwell & Saben are the Boston agents, and the machines can be seen at their store.

HUMBERS!! Messrs. Wright & Ditson call attention to the fact that they have received the first instalment of the celebrated Humber wheels of which they are the New England agents. Those who have been waiting for these wheels will be pleased to hear that they can now be supplied.

THERE is a bouncing advertisement of the New Mail this week on page 15, and clearly shows the good construction of a part of this wheel. This $100 grade is having a great year, and is heard from on all sides. The makers seem to have spared nothing to get all good points in it and at this popular price. Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., Chicago, are the Northwest agents, and are doing a big business in New Mails. Also Tryon & Co. of Philadelphia and H. C. Squires, 178 Broadway, N. Y., are selling many. Wheelmen should see this popular wheel.

THE Eagle Bicycle Mfg. Co. have been granted by the United States Patent Office a trade mark of the word "Eagle" as applied to bicycles. Van Wagoner will ride in the Irvington-Milburn race a solid tire Eagle, 5-8 inch large wheel and 1-2 inch small wheel. He will ride from scratch with the pneumatics.

THE Spooner Peterson Co. Annex. Such is the name of a necessary addition to the store of this Chicago concern. Early in the season they announced their determination to carry on a general storage and repairing business. Both grew so rapidly as to force them to open an addition at 5 and 7 Madison street, next store but one to their present location at 15 and 17 Madison. In the new quarters every convenience will be provided for wheelmen riding to work. Lockers will be provided that they may change their bicycle clothing to business clothing, toilet purposes provided, and a competent attendant in charge to clean and adjust the wheels. J. Hoyle will have charge of their repair shop at the annex.

BOSTON has a "Bicycle Inn" at which place bicycles can be stored by wheelmen riding into the city. The "Inn" is at 194-196 Columbus avenue, and E. E. Brown is landlord. See advertisement on page 20.

THE Ariel Cycle Mfg. Co. of Goshen, Indiana, is soon to be in the field with a new wheel. The best material will be used, and the most skilful workmen will be employed only. Announcements will follow shortly more in detail.

MR. STEPHEN GOLDER has been doing splendid work for Humber & Co. since his arrival in this country a couple of months ago. He is now in the South, and has appointed A. Baldwin & Co. Ltd, of New Orleans, exclusive agents for Louisiana, Texas, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Arkansas, and Indian Territory. Mr. Golder will return to Chicago in a short time and will then look after the unoccupied territory west of that point. Messrs. Humber & Co. ought to, and no doubt are, well satisfied with the outcome of Mr. Golder's trip to "the States."

A FORT WAYNE, Ind., paper records the fact that Elmer Pratt, one of the Gormully & Jeffery Co.'s travellers, while in that city recently, rode his Rambler not only down the court house steps but afterwards rode from the street up the curb and then half way up a short flight of stairs. And Mr. Pratt isn't a trick rider, either.

THE Chas. F. Stokes Mfg Co. at Chicago will keep their retail store open three nights each week this season. Geo. R. Bidwell & Co. have been doing so at their Chicago branch for some time.

JUST as fast as the goods can be got through the custom house in Boston, Messrs. Singer & Co. ship the cycles to expectant and perhaps impatient customers. Never has the trade been so good for this sterling English house as at the present time The goods are wanted in large quantities, and the goods will be forthcoming. The Singer Co. will do a smashing trade during the year 1891.

THE Stamford Wheel Club has recently been organized with a membership of 23, out of which 21 ride Eagles.

C. W. FOURDRINIER. J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 1 MAY, 1891.

ALAS! the attempt to revive the Massachusetts Bicycle Club of Boston has proven practically futile. An earnest effort was made by a few of the workers of the club, but it came to naught. Strange enough the proposition to have an out of town club house seemed to be the most popular idea among those who were approached, so that had the Massachusetts Club of Boston been revived, it would probably have had quarters out of town in some suburb outside the city limits. Thus it would have been a Boston club without headquarters in Boston.

A GOOD deal appeared in the papers as to the probable action of the Racing Board in rejecting the terms of alliance with the A. A. U. Here was another case of ignorance as to the powers and functions of the Racing Board. The alliance was made through the Executive Committee, and the Racing Board had no power to reject or accept same. Of course the Executive Committee and the Racing Board would naturally be in accord, and they were most decidedly in harmony. The unfounded report that the Racing Board would not accept the terms of alliance no doubt arose from the fact that Mr. Randall refused to divulge the action in regard to the suspensions until the same had officially appeared in this paper.

SOMETIMES the end attained justifies the means, and while we cannot accept this as a safe axiom, the result of the suspensions, wrong as they have proven to be, has been the means of bringing about a most satisfactory arrangement between the leading amateur associations of the United States. Cetainly the most exacting League member will not fail to appreciate the fact that the alliance is one that cannot fail to strengthen the L. A. W. in its control of racing matters, and thus further will appreciate the splendid work done by President Dunn and his co-laborers in the Executive Committee. It is not plain where adverse criticism can come in, but we don't doubt that it will be forthcoming in "large, round and elegant" quantities.

NOW that the suspensions are removed from all, and only clapped on again in the case of Berlo, who is charged with selling prizes, the majority of the sixteen will begin training hard for the coming racing campaign, and the season promises to be one of the most successful for racing ever seen in the country. It does not do any harm to have a little discussion once in a while, especially if things take a happy turn as they have in the case of the late L.A. W.-A. A. U. affair. Matters will now settle down to a most satisfactory basis. The new rule of the A. A. U. which, we hear, has been adopted, and which prohibits the clubs of that association from taking men outside their district, will do much toward distributing the racing talent more evenly over the country: and now that the talent of New England cannot race under the colors of the clubs of the Metropolitan district, we hope to see the Boston Athletic Association's cycling contingent strengthened by the New England contingent of flyers. With Windle, H. Smith, Anthony, Van Wagoner, and a few others, the representation would be one not to be sneezed at.

THE dates of the L. A. W. championships have been changed, so that these events can be run at Detroit next July, and we hope that the Detroiters will not fail to at once accept the management of same. The proper place and date for the National Championships is at the place and on the date of the National Meet, and therefore it is much to be desired that the Championships be run at Detroit, as they no doubt will be. [Since the above was written we learn that the Championships will be run at Detroit.]

THE Division Championships can be run at any time up to July 15, and the events as also in the National Championships, will be quarter, half, one and two miles for both ordinaries and safeties, in which events pneumatic tires will not be handicapped. In Championship events it would not be possible to make any distinction as to the use of tires, though we would like to see in other events machines classified.

WHAT shall we do when doctors disagree? The Custom House authorities are at sea as to what duty shall be imposed on cold drawn steel tubing. The appraisers in Boston pass it at 2 1-2 cents per pound, as also does the Custom House in Chicago. The New York appraisers, however, put the duty at 45 per cent. on the basis of it being "manufactured steel." In the McKinley bill there is special provision for iron and steel tubing, and the duty imposed is 2 1-2 cents per pound. This would seem simple enough, but that there is a difference of opinion is a very evident fact. Since writing the above we have seen a decision rendered by the National Board of Appraisers in New York on April 9, placing the duty at 2 1-2 cents per pound. While as a rule the decisions of the National Board are final, there is, if the New York Custom House choose a chance to appeal to the United States Circuit Court, and in this particular case there seems to be a bare possibility that such an appeal will be made.

A WRITER in an exchange suggests that the League take some action to prevent the clashing of dates of race meetings. Last season a good deal of discussion and hard feeling was evoked because the dates selected by certain managers had already been taken by other clubs. If courtesy is not a sufficiently strong motive to prevent clubs from choosing a date already selected by another one, then perhaps it would be well for the League to adopt a similar plan to that which we understand is used by the A. A. U., and which makes it necessary for clubs holding meetings to secure permission and dates from the parent organization.

The four Roamers were Longnecker, Stocker, Kinne and Kinne.

W. WINDLE has forsworn the race track, and in reply to a newspaper reporter said: "Yes, I have heard that the lot who were suspended have been reinstated, and I expected we would be. But it makes no difference to me. I shall not race, anyhow. I want to attend to business now. My father wants me to. He may become excited and want me to go on to the track again, but I don't think he will. I am tired of it. It grows monotonous when you feel that you have to do it. I shall stay here on my track till fall and then try to break one or two safety and ordinary records. I shall not, however, ride under the colors of any club but Milbury this year. * * *."

WE are sorry to hear that Mr. "Hal" W. Greenwood, the noted St. Louis hill climber, is struggling in the toils of a divorce suit brought by his wife. She charges desertion and personal abuse.

LAST Sunday Captain Alward and private Wilson of the Press Cycling Club of Buffalo made the run down from Erie in good time. Klipfel of the Ramblers has been rather unfortunate in attempting this run, having had to give it up twice on account of the roads, but he got through all right Sunday in twelve hours.

THE Rome (N.Y.) Cyclers' club room was visited by fire on the night of April 22. The damage done, we are sorry to hear, was considerable.

NELSON BRADT, the latest transcontinental tourist, reached Chicago April 20. He made the distance from New York City, 800 miles, in 10 days, 5 hours. He found the roads fairly good. He left Chicago on the 24th for Kansas City.

THE Queens County (N.Y.) Wheelmen enjoyed a moonlight run of 24 miles last week Tuesday. The Club started at 8.30 and returned before midnight, having in the meantime put away some splendid stew "etc.." at the expense and invitation of the worthy President. The Queens County Wheelmen will have a "few racing men to show on the road and path the coming season.

Last season a good deal of discussion and hard feeling was evoked because the dates selected by certain managers had already been taken by other clubs. If courtesy is not a sufficiently strong motive to prevent clubs from choosing a date already selected by another one, then perhaps it would be well for the League to adopt a similar plan to that which we understand is used by the A. A. U., and which makes it necessary for clubs holding meetings to secure permission and dates from the parent organization.

THERE is a certain rider in Dorchester, Mass., who claims he can ride from Boston to Worcester in 2 1-2 hours (distance 46 miles.) There are four persons who are willing to present the ambitious gentleman with a fine medal if he does it. The rate he would have to travel would be 18 miles an hour. We would like to chip in on that medal, and will do so if he covers the distance on his cycle in 2 1-2 hours!

The club also considered the arrangements made by the Berkeley Oval people, whereby a large number of members of the New York Bicycle Club, on paying a nominal sum, will have all the privileges of the oval, including track, restaurant, and club house.

"L'HOMME propose: Dieu dispose." Taxis and Zimmerman had proposed riding tandem this season, and thought they would at least be able to act as pacemakers for some of the various tandem teams in this season's races, but Zimmerman's uniting with the New York Athletic Club knocks that programme in the head, as the New Yorkers naturally object to one of their best men pairing off with another club man.

The return trip was accomplished in 10 1-2 hours' actual riding time, which they claim to be record.

CHAIRMAN RANDALL of the L. A. W. Racing Board does not object to being called a senator or congressman by his fellow boarders owing to the volume of mail that is delivered at his house, but when a government officer calls on him and asks if he is not a Louisiana lottery agent or if he is using the Post office for some "fake" scheme he thinks it is time to draw the line and kick "with both feet."—Exchange.

How different the action of these Christian people from the narrow-minded action of certain Wilmington (Del.) church people. Rev. Mr. Healey was recently called to a church in Austin, Ill. The laws of the town forbid the use of the sidewalks to cyclists, except to doctors and others whose business compelled them to travel much. Several of Mr. Healey's congregation took the matter up, and the result of these efforts was to get a permit for their pastor to use the sidewalks.

THE Sun of New York thus describes the new cycle track of the Manhattan Athletic Club. "The 'pole' is 18 inches inside of the line on which the half-mile, 2,640 feet, is measured. The stretches are each 600 feet long, leaving the radius of curve on the measured half-mile 229.15 feet, and on the 'pole' 227.65 feet. The track is 60 feet wide, and the elevation of the outside curve is in the ratio of three-quarters of an inch to each foot of width, 45 inches. The top of the track is hard clay mixed with small portions of sand and black loam. It will be slippery in wet weather, but beautifully smooth and hard in dry weather. It is drained by tiling inside the pole, and will soon recover from the effects of a wetting."

MR. C. A. UNDERWOOD of Jamaica Plain has outdone himself in issuing the fifth edition of the Road Book of Boston and vicinity. Not only is the book enlarged, corrected, and replete with information, but it has a most excellent map of Boston and vicinity, and a table of road distances from Boston to principal points. This table, however, is in such small type that it will need a glass to decipher the figures, a fault which militates against its otherwise excellent qualities. The book, however, is valuable and fully worth the price asked, twenty-five cents.

A FIVE-MILE handicap road race will be given by the Lake View Cycling Club of Chicago over an excellent course, May 16th.

THE Week's Sport has made its bow in Syracuse. It is a newsy sheet, and devotes several pages to cycling.

AN unexpected boom struck cycling in Detroit last week. On Monday the street car employees on all lines in the city, except one, went out on a strike and the result was that everybody who ever rode a wheel, and could buy, borrow, or beg one, was astride of it, to the envy of many sore-footed pedestrians. The demand for second-hand wheels was something immense, and many who did not intend riding this season will now be "with us."

"IF the novice works hard during the day at his business, and feels like keeping quiet when he arrives home, it would be a mistake to force upon himself a jaunt through the country, for his energy has been spent in other ways. If, however, he has simply a feeling of lassitude and not a genuine fatigue, a bicycle ride in fine weather cannot fail to act as a tonic to his muscular and nervous systems."—Exchange.

PRESIDENT JAMES R. DUNN was in Boston last Monday.

WILL some one "who knows" write to A. W. Graham, of 28 Burling Slip, New York, and give him the best routes from Newark, N. J., to Washington, D. C., and from Newark, N. J., to Boston, Mass. He wishes to know the ones with the best roads, scenery, etc., but not necessarily the shortest or quickest trips.

THOSE who attend the New Jersey State meet at Elizabeth this year will have an opportunity to see for themselves tangible results of road legislation in the Union County boulevards. They are without doubt the best in New Jersey, and the legislation that led to the construction of them is traceable directly to the Union County Cycling Clubs.

THE Syracuse Cycle Club is in every manner possible promoting the interest in racing. In meeting April 23 it decided to hold a handicap road race on May 7th, for club members only, seven and a half miles and return; four prizes are offered. To unite with the Syracuse Amateur Athletic Club in holding joint membership games and races to be held at Kirkwood Park, May 27th; to offer prizes to club members as follows: To the novice making the fastest mile on a safety during the season; the same on an ordinary, and also to the member competing in the greatest number of races. A committee was also appointed, with power to confer with the various cycling organizations of this city to promote the construction of a bicycle race track. In addition to these the club offer about fifteen other prizes toward the promotion of racing.

WHEELMEN who live on the Western outskirts of Chicago report a number of wagons stuck so deep in the mud on West Madison street as to be not recoverable until dry weather comes and the road bed hardens. What a chance for those prizes of Isaac Potter's for stuck in the mud views!

THE first club race of the Detroit Wheelmen will be run on the Pointe road Decoration Day morning, and from the way some of the men are training, and the little interest manifested in regard to the value of the prizes, it will evidently be a race "for blood."

AN excellent athletic entertainment was given by the Oak Park (Ill.) Cycling Club last Saturday evening. Excellent sparring talent served to pass away a very lively evening.

ROY KEATOR of the Lincoln Cycling Club, Chicago, rode a unicycle on the clubs regular run, April 19th. Returning he made the wonderful time of forty-five minutes for twelve miles and over none too good roads at that. During this scorch he passed all but six of thirty of his club mates.

H. C. PEASE, the manager of the Comet Cycle Company, will soon leave Buffalo for Toronto. He will be much missed, as in his year's stay there he has made a host of friends. In the Ramblers he was most popular, and coming in so handy for character sketches, was known as the "club comedian."

THE club house of the East Orange Cyclers will be formally opened next week. They will entertain the New York Casino Club soon afterward.

WE notice that a good many papers speak of the "amalgamation" of the A. A. U. and L. A. W. This is wrong. There is no amalgamation, it is an alliance.

THE Fraternity Wheel Club of Buffalo, N. Y., is a Masonic organization. The first wheel club we believe in this country made up entirely of Masons.

W. WINDLE has forsworn the race track, and in reply to a newspaper reporter said: "Yes, I have heard that the lot who were suspended have been reinstated, and I expected we would be. But it makes no difference to me. I shall not race, anyhow. I want to attend to business now. My father wants me to. He may become excited and want me to go on to the track again, but I don't think he will. I am tired of it. It grows monotonous when you feel that you have to do it. I shall stay here on my track till fall and then try to break one or two safety and ordinary records. I shall not, however, ride under the colors of any club but Milbury this year. * * *."

WE are sorry to hear that Mr. "Hal" W. Greenwood, the noted St. Louis hill climber, is struggling in the toils of a divorce suit brought by his wife. She charges desertion and personal abuse.

LAST Sunday Captain Alward and private Wilson of the Press Cycling Club of Buffalo made the run down from Erie in good time. HAWKSHAW'S COLUMN.

HISTORY repeats itself often in unexpected ways. Centuries ago Ponce De Leon journeyed from far off Spain to the flowery everglades of Florida, in a search for a fabled spring, a draught from whose waters was thought to give health and life. To-day another of the name seeks, perhaps, for the same thing as her ancestor did in days of yore, but, wiser than he, looks for it in cycling, a far more likely place to find it too, I think. Such at least were the thoughts that came to me recently, when I saw the name of Ponce De Leon in the list of applications for L. A. W. membership.

Was it not Emerson who said: "Give me the man who whistles at his work?" I think it was, but then he probably never met one of those wheelmen who go tearing down a road with a whistle in his mouth making more noise than a steam calliope.

What confusing things figures are sometimes, and how impossible it seems to make them agree with what we know to be facts! Take the paradox which we have inherited from the Greeks—that of Achilles and the tortoise—as an example, and modernize it so as to make it applicable to the wheel, then see how strange it looks. One wheelman gives another a handicap of a hundred yards, and rides ten yards, while his opponent does five. Now, when the scratch man has run a hundred yards the limit man has run fifty yards, and is still therefore that distance ahead. When the scratch man has ridden these fifty yards, the limit one has completed twenty-five. When he has ridden the twenty-five, the limit rider has completed twelve yards and one half. Thus it is only necessary to continue the same process of reasoning to prove that the scratch man can never overtake the limit one. Of course the fact is that he does do so, notwithstanding this apparently logical reasoning to the contrary. A like system of reasoning can be made to demonstrate that the motion of a bicycle wheel is impossible, if we recall the famous paradox of Zeno, by which he sought to prove that all motion is impossible. He argued as follows: "A body must move either in a place where it is or in a place where it is not. Now, a body in the place where it is is stationary and cannot be in motion, nor obviously can it be in motion where it is not. Therefore it cannot move at all." Everything in creation is either motion or matter, and we know this too well to admit of any logic to the contrary convincing us, but it is somewhat bewildering at that, when we get mixed up in the whole thing.

I saw in the studio of an artist friend the other day a sketch which I tried, unsuccessfully, to get from him for the purpose of having it reproduced and printed. The drawing showed a wheelman asleep amid a tropical background of palms and such like, while an inquisitive monkey was taking advantage of the owner's sleep to purloin a link from the chain of the machine. Irony, or artistic license, I do not know which, had induced the artist to make the appearance of the monkey and the sleeping wheelman, who was clad in tights, strikingly alike; which fact, and the damaged chain, gave a double interpretation to the title of the sketch, which was "The Missing Link."

Among the many exploded theories on training is the one in which the cold bath, usually a shower one, was the prime factor. To many, the shock of a cold shower or plunge is particularly injurious; and because it may be beneficial to Tom, Dick, or Harry, it does not as a matter of course prove that it is good for all. Bathing, prompt and thorough, is an absolute essential for those who wish to get the full and entire benefit of their exercise upon the wheel; but as to the means of performing these ablutions, care should be taken by the bather to know fully his own requirements in that direction, and having once learned them he should not allow any one to tempt him into indulging in any trifling or experimenting with himself in this direction. Dr. Richardson of London, himself a well-known wheelman, speaking of this cold bath idea says: "A strong man in the prime of life may bear the cold bath for some years, but even he is easily chilled by it when his nervous system is depressed, and he is never wise in holding rigidly to the practice. From May to September the cold bath may be permissable, but soon as the wasting period begins the temperature of the bath water should be raised." In the light of the foregoing and of the warnings of many other equally well informed writers, it calls for but the slightest thought on the part of riders to devoting care to the baths they need, and most often enjoy after their rides, so that they may prove to the takers of them a thing of a benefit, not an injury to them.

"HAWKSHAW."

THE SOCIAL SIDE OF CYCLING.

OFF and on, pro and con, the discussion has been waged for years—and latterly with increasing virulence, particularly among some of our English cousins, who fear that the soft enticements of the dance, the card party, and the musicale, may have their effect upon their embryo Joneses, Holbeins, Taxises, and Windles—as to whether or no the purely social phases of a cycling club kill the active element. Some of those interested take one side of the argument, some the other; and singularly enough, both reason from data supported by facts. As a matter of fact both parties are right, it being a question of locality; for the conditions which exist in London differ so radically from those in Boston—the latter, again, having nothing in common with life in Quakerdom—that what will apply to the one has so little value in its bearings on the other as to be utterly valueless as a criterion.

Away back in the seventies, when cycling was in its embryotic stage, the few who braved the ridicule and laughter of not only public but private opinion—for did not our own families entertain serious doubts of our sanity when, in those early days, we took up the sport?—were fain to wander by byways many and devious for the practice of the exercise; and when one of these adventurous spirits met a fellow lunatic, they straightway struck up an acquaintance which, in numberless instances, resulted in friendships like unto that of David and Jonathan. It was something, I assure you, my late graduates in the art, to have moral support (and perchance the physical assistance) if of but one man, and when one rider passed another, whether on city street or country highway, salutations were exchanged with a sincerity unknown in these days. Out of the very necessity for mutual support and assistance in withstanding that popular prejudice which so curiously opposed the introduction of the bicycle arose, among these early wheelmen, the associations which speedily took form as cycling clubs, the first of these being, of course, in the large cities. In its early stages the cycling club was purely and simply a club for cycling, flourishing and growing during the riding season, and hibernating throughout the winter months, when the members would occasionally meet around the cheerful fire in the club room to talk over past tours and races and lay plans for the coming season's enjoyments and triumphs. But as the recreation grew and spread apace, there dawned upon the minds of the more experienced the necessity of providing some means of sustaining the interest throughout the non-riding season, and gradually the social side developed; developed too much for the good of some of the clubs, who found themselves going to pieces under the vicious practices of members who cared for nothing but their own indulgences. For if one fact has been proven over and over again, it is that gambling and liquor will cause the downfall of any organization, cycling or otherwise.

Cliques have caused many a club of fair promise to come to an untimely end; arrogance and the rule-or-ruin policy of one or two members has broken up others; but all causes combined fail to equal the two referred to.

It has been claimed by many that the policy of uniting active cycling and purely social interests could not be successfully carried out; but Philadelphia's clubs disprove this. Here, where club organization runs riot—there being some thirty-five clubs in the city—one of the potent factors in the successes of the organizations is the social season. Regularly scheduled throughout the winter will be found the dancing sociable, the progressive euchre and drive whist tournament, and the delightful musicale or dramatic entertainment; or, fot the masculine element alone, the inter-club billiard and pool tournament, or the athletic entertainment and smoker, at which the best local talent competes with gloves and foils, or wrestling; with an occasional banquet, theatre-party, or full-dress reception and ball, to lend "tone" to the mediocrity of the informal events. All of these attract and hold membership.

The ladies—bless 'em!—are especial admirers of this new order of things; for whereas the changes were formerly regularly rung by the feminine portion of a man's household and at the selfishness of cycling clubs, we now hear nothing but praise and satisfaction. The Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and one or two others, now have special evenings set apart each week as "Ladies' Nights," to the joy and delectation of the feminine heart.

But one fact must not be lost sight of. Although provision is made in the Philadelphia Bicycle Club, the Pennsylvania Bicycle Club, Century Wheelman of Philadelphia and others, for an associate membership which shares in the social and gymnastic advantages of the club houses—none of said associates have any voice in the management of the club house, that power being vested in and retained by the active members entirely. So that, be the associate membership in the majority or not, it is incapable of affecting the club's activity as a riding body; and, as a matter of fact, does not. Even during the cold and stormy winter nights, when active rider and associate member alike seek the cosy parlors of the club house, it will be found that the main topic of the hour—strayed from occasionally, but alway reverting thereto—is the wheel; and with the dawning of springtime, and the settled conditions of the roads, the short excursion and jaunt, the lengthy club tour, or the more imposing race meet, usurp the wheelmen's attention to the utter exclusion of social life in the club house.

The social side of cycling can be, and is made, a great success, but it must be properly and understandingly managed, both on a business and a moral basis. Otherwise it is but a question of time when the entire structure will fall to the ground in utter collapse.

"ARIEL."

RACING BY ELECTRIC LIGHT.

I WAS greatly pleased to see that you had not put into the W. B. my notes objecting to the discouragement of racing by electric lights, but had sent them to "Hawkshaw." I was more than ever satisfied by seeing that he is not so really bad after all, for he even gives us a little encouragement, by saying "the country will be benefitted by our success." Of course we here in Louisville are going to race by night, by electric light; but that doesn't prove that every one can do the same. We have a track within an enclosure especially designed for night exhibitions, with a plant already erected of sufficient capacity to make twice the size track light as day; in addition the proprietor of the grounds employs the best of talent to manage the plant.

"Hawkshaw" takes the stand that if we succeed here in making racing by electricity possible and a paying venture, that all the tracks in the country will be able to do the same. On this point I think he will find his error after having read the above, for, while we are enabled to use all the material and current of an already established electric plant, without any cost to the wheelmen, or promoters of the meet, any other race meeting, without exception, would be put to an enormous expense getting to the point we have already reached—also the men and talent which we are now in position to command cannot be had just when wanted without great expense, while we can and have been able to put them to work in five hours' warning, with nothing to pay for.

Of course you will ask "How?" The answer is that the proprietor and manager of the grounds in which our track is located, is fully as interested in the success of the meet as we wheelmen; and as he has the "coin of the realm," and is now spending it prodigally for the good of our cause, you will readily see that we can and will make it something that all the wheelmen in the country should and ought to witness.

Our programme for these events, June 26, 27, is now in the printers' hands, and when issued will be worth reading, at least; and if you can possibly come and help us have a glorious time, send for a programme and see what we can and will offer. Address P. E. Allison, No. 448 West Main, Louisville, Ky.

IT is a pity that some drivers of horses who show their spite toward wheelmen whenever they meet on the road do not realize that the use of the bicycle is surely bringing about better roads of which they are going to reap the benefit even more than the wheelmen. It would seem that a driver should feel especially kindly when he meets a "Columbia" on the road, for the President of the company which makes the same has rendered very active service in the interest of improved highways.

Roxbury, April 24, 1891.

To Singer & Co.,

Dear Sirs:—I have used your 1891 pattern wheel, with the one inch wired tire, and have no hesitation in stating that it gives more satisfaction than any cushion tire that I have ever tried, and as for hill climbing, it is unsurpassed.

Yours truly,
JAMES KELTIE,

THE HOME OF THE MISSOURI BICYCLE CLUB.

THE head of this article will show the readers of the WORLD on what a solid basis cycling is established in St. Louis. A few words only are needed to give the reader an accurate idea of the Missouri Bicycle Club's home. The front is of the best red stock brick laid in red mortar with Lake Superior red stone window sills and ornamented with brick work. In the doors and large arch handsome stained glass is placed in appropriate designs. On the first floor are the large reception room and parlor, which is finished in natural wood, stained cherry and polished. A handsome carved wood mantel is in the parlor; elsewhere in the house the mantels are polished hard wood. The woodwork throughout the house is stained wood except in the lavatory, wheel room and back hall, where it is appropriately painted. The wheel room, which is of ample size, is provided with facilities for washing and cleaning wheels. The lavatory has two bath tubs, and shower baths with hot and cold water, two closets, and two wash basins, all of the best patterns and materials. On the second floor is the dressing room, wherein are over one hundred lockers, wash basin and fixtures. A stairway in the gymnasium leads to the second floor, as well as a handsome stairway in the reception room. The card room, smoking room, reading room and billiard rooms are all of ample size. The billiard rooms have two pool and one billiard table, all of the finest Brunswick and Balke make, and as it is, as well as all the other rooms are, furnished in the handsome and artistic manner designed by the club, the Missouri Bicycle Club is as handsomely and cosily furnished as any wheel or semi-athletic club in America. The novel part of this club house remains to be spoken of—the gymnasium. The room is forty feet square, two stories high, and has a trussed roof which supports the oiled wood ceiling. Having alleys on both sides, it is splendidly lighted. The walls are of the best red brick laid in red mortar, and all the woodwork and finish is of excellent character, and presents a very artistic appearance. The gymnasium is provided with every conceivable gymnastic apparatus, and its size and height make it ample for two hundred and fifty members. The scheme for a bowling alley has not yet been completed, but it is under consideration. In addition the club has a large tennis ground. It has long had the reputation of being the finest cinder court in the city. Messrs. Gibson and Pope, who need no introduction to the devotees of gymnastics and tennis, have been appointed directors of these features.

There has been great need in the West End of some such gymnasium and other accommodations which the club boasts for some years, and many gentlemen are applying for membership. They comprise the very best of the younger business men, and the high character of the membership of the Missouri Club is the best evidence that those wishing to join will find agreeable company. The present dues are: Active, $24 per annum; associate, $12 per annum. As soon as the active membership reaches 100, the active dues will be reduced to $18 per year; and to aid in rapidly reaching this figure extraordinary special inducements are offered which no St. Louis wheelman can afford to let slip by. Secretary J. W. Bowman will be pleased to furnish particulars on application. The total membership is now 170.

AFFAIRS CYCULAR IN THE METROPOLITAN DISTRICTS.

IT is evidently the intention of the wheel clubs of the metropolitan districts to debar athletic club men from purely club races this season. The result of the meeting of the clubs arranging for the formation of a team road racing association on Monday evening in Brooklyn, developed the fact that a stringent rule was to be embodied in the by-laws of the new organization prohibiting athletic club men from competing in their races. Now while such a movement is, no doubt, actuated by the secessions of strong racing men from the bicycle clubs, wheel clubs are not in a position to antagonize their athletic brethren. Athletic clubs can, if they desire, and particularly in this section of the country, make it very unpleasant for the bicycle club men if the gauntlet is thrown down. The acceptance of this rule prohibited the Riverside Wheelmen from joining the association, as their crack racers are all members of the Manhattan Athletic Club. Now is it to be supposed that the Riverside men, at present a purely cycling club, will be at all friendly to the "Wheelmen's Racing League" and to its promoters? It is matters of this character which eventually tend to embitter bicycle clubs against their own class.

It is not unlikely that the clubs of New York will, in a short time, sever their connection as clubs with the League of American Wheelmen. Now the impression conveyed by these secessions from the League is that the clubs are awakening to the uselessness of the L. A. W. But this is really not so. These clubs which are leaving the League do so only as clubs. The Brooklyn clubs left the League some years ago, but over three-quarters of the membership retain individual membership in the organization, and the Harlem Wheelmen will also do so. They withdrew from the L. A. W. last week. A rule making it compulsory for every club member to be a member of the L. A. W. is, I think, wrong. Let every man work his strongest to secure members for the parent body of wheeling, which it should be the aim of all wheelmen to have as strong an organization as possible, but it is absurd to let the opinion prevail that the L. A. W. is becoming weakened by these withdrawals. [Considering the fact that the increase during the past 12 months in the L. A. W. is 5009, we don't think we need to be alarmed.—ED.] Division officers, etc., cannot please every one, and there is sure to be some puerile dissatisfaction from all quarters.

The trade is announcing that this season will be the greatest in the history of cycling, but other facts are demonstrating this. Look at the renewed interest taken in road racing, the combined efforts of the Brooklyn and New York clubs to push inter-club road races. All this speaks for itself. Combined efforts will work much. But do not let the work stop at road racing. What is to prevent the New York and Brooklyn clubs joining forces and running a monster race meeting in New York this spring, and one in Brooklyn in the fall? The success of such a movement is promising. Look to where our racing men and enthusiasts travel to witness a race meet. The Kings County Wheelmen run a successful tournament every year. Now what is to prevent the formation of an organization of New York and Brooklyn clubs for this purpose? It could easily be made a success. The prestige cycling is receiving this year should be encouraged to the very utmost. The daily press has taken up cycling, and features of this character would receive great encouragement. The only thing required is the initiative move by some one club for the consummation of such a plan. Why should not the Brooklyn club again put itself on record and move for the formation of this association as they did for the inter-club races? The other clubs will, rest assured, fall right in line.

PALMAM QUI MERUIT FERAT.

EDITOR BICYCLING WORLD: Replying to "Hawkshaw's" attack on me, in these columns under date of April 24th, 1891, I would say that it grieves me to think that I have innocently been the cause of rousing Brother "Hawkshaw's" ire to such an extent, that he should forget himself so far as to intimate that I am a fool, imbecile, and all the rest of it.

It strikes me that this is pretty far fetched. However, it seems to be his favorite way of expressing himself on anything that does not please him, and so it matters little to me, for, like many others, he fails to first cast out the beam of his own eye, so as to see clearly to cast out the mote of his brother's eyes.

I fear that our dear old New York correspondent has been a trifle hasty, and perhaps a little "revolving" on his part might have opened his eyes a little more. I am quite sure that in my motion nothing was said which could be construed as a personal attack. I merely mentioned that he did not give New York news, and I leave it to the readers whether I am right or not.

As to my (poetic) name, kindly bear in mind that I did not make, or form it, but one thing rest assured on; it is honest, and without a stain; therefore, I pray you, do not allow it to worry you. And now, Brother "Hawkshaw," rest assured that I love you just as much as if you had never tried to drown me in ink, for have you not given me many dollars' worth of free advertising? and I do fully appreciate your efforts in my behalf.

Let us hope that as you grow riper in years you will become a little more charitable toward your fellow-men, for no man is perfect, "not even you."

So far as I am concerned this ends the discussion; and though you man your quill and drive it with a double-back-action force, I shall not raise a finger, but will sit still, and quietly take in the circus at your expense. I have gained more than my point, whether by only one vote, or one hundred, makes no difference. Therefore I say Palmam qui meruit ferat.

CHAS. WENDEHACK.

[Having given both gentlemen a chance to speak we must now call a halt. We have one other letter from a gentleman defending Mr. Wendehack; but as Mr. Wendehack speaks for himself we will not print the same. —ED.]

CONCERNING "FOL-DE-ROL."

EDITOR BICYCLING WORLD: I do not find the word in the dictionary, but presume it means something like playfulness. If that is its meaning no reasonable man will object to small boys indulging in fol-de-rol in connection with bicycling, provided they do not seriously and unnecessarily interfere with the business and enjoyment of other people.

Neither is it unbecoming for full-grown men to occasionally throw off their stiff hats, collars and cuffs, and thoroughly enjoy the genuine sport of cycling in a suit best adapted to the sport.

But bicycle riding is fast becoming equally as practical as buggy or horseback ridding, and the only reason it may not be more so is the bad condition of the roads.

Now the conduct of many wheelmen undoubtedly gives the world at large the impression that "bugle blowing, flag carrying, frills, gold lace, and general fol-de-rol" is all there is in it. So much so that one does not add to his reputation as a man of sense by riding a wheel. A member of our city council recently said to me when I mentioned something to him which I desired to bring before the council for the benefit of wheelmen, "the most of the members of the council will probably consider the matter as simply boys' foolishness, and pay no attention to it."

Until we impress upon the public the fact that bicycling is something more than boys' foolishness, we will not receive the favorable attention from city and State governments which we badly need. "Enthusiastic 46-year-old wheelman" need not fear lest a little less bugle blowing and gold lace will keep the boys from riding. Neither do we need to cater to the idea that a man needs to be a crank, or make a monkey of himself in order to be a valuable member of the L. A. W.

When some of the frills have been trimmed off, and some of the "fol-de-rol" has been dropped, and the public comes to know that it is not inconsistent for a man of brains to ride a wheel, then "We" may expect to recruit his new members for the L. A. W. from among solid business men, any one of whom will weigh more in our efforts to influence Legislatures than a hundred boys who see nothing but fol-de-rol in wheeling.

Yours truly,
A. B. CHOATE.

WHY NOT PROMATEURS?

YES, why not a middle class in cycle racing? Give us a promateur class, with the good points of both amateur and professional racing, and then with money prizes and time limits we cannot but have good races.

What does the average spectator who witnesses cycle races care about how the racers are paid? Ask an average sportsman who witnesses a cycle tourney whether the men competing get more than the medals or trivial prizes offered. Ask the riders confidentially, and what will they tell you on their word of honor. I don't wish to cast any reflection, and I have no particular racer in mind. We cannot have the best time and best work of individuals for mere prizes of nominal values, though the parties racing may be willing to compete for the pleasure and glory only, as most of them do; they cannot travel for nothing, nor live on air, and the lucre that is filthy must come from some source.

Sporting Life said, nearly three years ago: "Wheelmen are beginning to see that there can be very little of the genuine amateur racing. Speedy racing costs money and time, and few men can spare either for the sake of glory. If a man spends money, he naturally wants to get some of it back." There is much truth in that.

Now let us see; have our records been made by individuals looking for glory only? History says George Hendee and William A. Rowe were poor boys, and poor boys do not spend months training, sparing neither expense or time. You cannot draw blood from a stone any more than you can break records with poor boys without money, and hence the necessary training. I don't blame the "subsidized amateurs" for getting all the money they can and laying it aside, too. I blame rather the racing rules, which are dead laws.

Let us keep amateurism pure, and put the subsidized amateurs where they belong, in a middle class, a promateur class, where they can be paid openly and honestly. Pure amateurs cannot race all over the country, and when they do compete with the amateurs subsidized by the athletic clubs (which is just as bad as though wheel-makers were backing them), they stand very little show, though being as good men and even better in some cases, but training always tells; and the pure amateurs cannot spend time or money to thoroughly train, nor can they fit themselves out with proper racing wheels without great personal expense.

This is not justice, neither is it an amateur condition. Some will say that receiving money as prizes will make the promateurs professionals. Not so by any means. The League can control the promateurs as well as the amateurs, and make them abide by proper racing rules. We might say that amateurs receive cash prizes, for they receive gold and silver medals which can be easily melted up and changed into money, while the best amateur racers are paid expenses, with so much allowed for a trainer, while the large athletic clubs have what they call a "training table," where their athletes are boarded free, while at their club house they use rooms and all the privileges of the club free. Such things as these go on throughout the season and nothing is said about it; in fact the rank and file of wheelmen know nothing about it; and when these athletes appear in contests, they wonder at their speed, and think it is all in the individual, never guessing how much training has to do with it. There are some funny things in "amateurism."

THE NEW TRACK AT LOUISVILLE.

SUNDAY, April 26, the new bicycle track at Louisville was formally opened. There were no races, of couse, as the Kentuckian wheelmen are not heathen, but some of the speedy riders took a few turns, just to see how it would go. In the afternoon the visitors began to arrive, and by 3 o'clock at least 500 people were on the grounds, many of them ladies interested in cycling. All expressed themselves as highly pleased with the track and the artistic decorations in the way of flowers, etc.

The track is six laps to the mile, the curves being 135 feet, and the stretches about 260 feet. In width it is 21 feet all the way round, the turns being banked 51 inches. [We described the manner of building the track last week.—ED.]

The track cost actually $2500. The owner, Mr. Daniel Quilp, spared no expense in building it. He owns and manages the auditorium, a theatre with seating capacity of 7000.

The bicycle track is only a mile and a half from the centre of the city, and is reached by four street-car lines. It is on Fourth avenue, the most fashionable boulevard in the city. This avenue is paved with asphalt. Wheelmen can reach the track from the club-houses in ten minutes.

Already there is talk of some local races, to test the electric light plant, and to see what changes may be needed, if any, before the Division L. A. W. Meet, June 26 and 27.

WHAT SHALL BE DONE WITH ALL OF THE RIGID WHEELS IN POSSESSION OF THOSE WHO HAVE PURCHASED WITHOUT GIVING THE MATTER OF VIBRATION DUE CONSIDERATION?

This is the question propounded by Dr. R. S. True, an eminent physician of Syracuse, N. Y., through one of the daily newspapers of his city. The Doctor, like many another, had passed his novitiate on a rigid machine, but as he says—"fortunately corrected the error before receiving permanent injury." He is now endeavoring to open the eyes of the cycling and prospective cycling public, present and prospective, to the greatest evil and mischief maker which confronts them—vibration.

In the course of his very inteiligent article on the subject, he says:
